After an entertaining intermission, the Catamounts wasted no time in moving to their first score. Kehoe ran the kick-off back to the 44. Then after a series of power plays, Ballard plunged for a first down on the 2. Farrell scored on the next play and the score was 7-0 as Ursprung made the conversion good. A few minutes later, a bad kick by Norwich gave the Catamounts another chance to score, as the ball was on the Cadet's 37. Again Ballard gained most of the yardage moving toward the goal line and he plunged over from the 3. Ursprung converted again and the score was 14-0.

St. Gelais thrilled the crowd with the longest run of the afternoon as he neatly faked the defensive halfbacks out of the way and ran 47 yards over the goal line. However, Vermont was off side and the play was called back. Later, on that same play, Saint went 25 yards and U.V.M. had the ball on the Norwich 4 but failed to score.

Early in the last quarter, Tavares, Ballard and St. Gelais clicked on running plays to put the ball on the Norwich 2. Collier carried it over on a quarterback sneak. A moment later the crowd was stilled as Stan Ursprung missed the conversion for the extra point. Stan had previously split the uprights for thirteen in a row to earn himself the title of "Mr. Automatic."

With the score 20-0, and likely to grow to embarrassing proportions, Fuzzy decided to play his sophomores. Hobie Cook looked surprised and saddened when a substitute came in for him and he

Cross Country Team Scores 15-50 Win Over Champlain

Russ Mahoney, leading half and quarter miler of last year's track team, led the University of Vermont to a 15-50 victory over Champlain College's varsity cross-country squad last Saturday at Plattsburg. It was the second straight win for the hill and dalers of Coach Archie Post. All nine of the harriers who took part in the meet crossed the finish line ahead of the first Bluejay thin-clad. Only the first five men counted in the scoring, however.

Mahoney's time of twenty minutes and fifty-three seconds broke the course record.

U.V.M.'s freshman cross-country aggregation also came out on top as they took the season's opener from St. Johnsbury Academy and Paul Smith's over the local course.

This Friday the varsity will meet Bowdoin and Bates in a three-way contest here at Burlington. The Kittens try for their second win against Burlington High the next day.

Summary:

1. Mahoney (V) 20:53; 2. Bellows (V) 21:12; 3. Porter (V) 21:14; 4. Caswell (V) 21:20; 5. Wolcott (V) 21:24; 6. Coughlin (V) 21:32; 7. E. Randall (V) 21:36; 8. Rowell (V) 22:04; 9. Buchanan (V) 22:18; 10. Burns (C) 22:31; 11. Whitman (C) 23:40; 12. Leggett (C) 23:47; 13. Prinic (C) 23:59; 14. Wood (C) 24:11; 15. Zsiday (C) 24:24; 16. Curran (C) 24:46; 17. Limeran (C) 27:08.

NOTICE

There will be a meeting of all seniors in the College of Arts and Sciences Wednesday, Oct. 19 in 239 Waterman at 7:00 p.m. The topic of discussion will be "Registration with the Placement Office."

Football—October, 1900

October 10, the Vermont team brought in a victory over Montpelier seminary of 17-0 and another two days later of 32-0 over Brigham Academy. A deadlock with Dartmouth brought hopes to a high level for the coming schedule. Middlebury took home a 31-6 defeat and the Amherst Aggies gave us a 10-5 game, first loss of the fall.

Ogdensburg, Watertown, and Cornell all defeated UVM. The scores read: 20-0, 35-0, and 42-0. Ogdensburg had been undefeated and the Cornell game was a hard battle. Rensselaer Polytechnic was scored upon in the second half when UVM settled down after a poorly played first half on the part of both teams.

Baseball and Tennis

In the spring of 1900 the University baseball team opened on May 4 with a 15-2 win over Norwich. They lost to Tufts in a series of two: 15-2, 11-2. Two games played with Union resulted in wins. Union lost 14-3, a game in which every Vermont man had one of the eighteen hits collected. The other game was won 9-7.

Earlier in the season the team played Fordham and was defeated 21-3; Pennsylvania was driven under by a score of 17-0. They came back after playing these big teams to close out Manhattan, 6-4 and down Union, 18-12. Hamilton of Clinton, N. Y., was tied 13-13 and the schedule, after May 21, was cancelled to bring the season to a close.

The spring tournament was played with Dartmouth and the result was a 10-10 tie. The opposition was strong so one may see that the hopes of the Vermont team were well grounded.

We Predict . . .

It was not a very successful week for the prognosticators of the sport staff. Only one of the group managed to predict six out of eight games correctly, while two members were right in five gridiron contests. Yours truly, completed the tabulation with a .500 average and thus the experts concluded from the results that they must do better this week or the editor of the paper would seek this column removal.

One particular item must be mentioned before confronting this week's games. While waiting for a history lecture to commence the other day, a fellow student asked the writer, "How in the heck did you predict Army's victory over Michigan?" Well—it was just one of those things," was the reply.

Winn Fingerit indicated the following:

Vermont 0, New Hampshire 14
Penn 14, Navy 7
Southern Methodist 13, Kentucky 0
Minnesota 7, Michigan 21
Dartmouth 28, Harvard 7
Michigan S. 14, Penn. S. 7
Vanderbilt 21, Arkansas 14
Middlebury 13, Trinity 21

Vic Murdock came to the following conclusions:

Vermont 14, New Hampshire 9
Penn. 25, Navy 27
Southern Methodist 0, Kentucky 13
Minnesota 16, Michigan 7
Dartmouth 21, Harvard 0
Michigan S. 26, Penn. S. 13
Vanderbilt 20, Arkansas 21
Middlebury 7, Trinity 14

Jerry Agel ventured the following predictions:

Vermont 21, New Hampshire 20
Penn. 20, Navy 21
Southern Methodist 21, Kentucky 21
Minnesota 14, Michigan 21
Dartmouth 34, Harvard 20
Michigan S. 21, Penn. S. 14
Vanderbilt 20, Arkansas 20
Middlebury 7, Trinity 33

Mort Kaufman hopes that . . .

Vermont 7, New Hampshire 6
Penn. 20, Navy 26
Southern Methodist 14, Kentucky 26
Minnesota 13, Michigan 21
Dartmouth 7, Harvard 13
Michigan S. 20, Penn. S. 7
Vanderbilt 7, Arkansas 14
Middlebury 6, Trinity 21

UVM and UNH Meet In 1st Yankee Conf. Game For Vermont

This Saturday will mark the twenty-seventh time the Catamounts of U.V.M. will face the Wildcats of New Hampshire. The New Hampshire squad holds an advantage in the series, which dates back to 1899, by a margin of one slim game.

The records show that U.V.M. has won 12, lost 13, and tied 1. In the twenty-six games that have been played to this date, UNH has scored 418 points to U.V.M.'s 313.

Last year the Catamounts upset the highly praised Wildcats by a score of 14 to 0. Missing from last year's victorious Catamount squad are Bob French, Jack Hurley, Jack Hudson and Bob Neuburg.

N.H.U. Squad Inexperienced

Inexperience will bog down New Hampshire's football team which includes 19 sophomores, 15 juniors, and 11 seniors. Only 14 letterman are returning to greet Clarence "Chief" Boston as he takes over the reins of the U.N.H. Wildcats.

Bruce Mather heads the list of returning veterans. Mather, a senior, who is on the draft list of the New York Bulldogs, will run the team from his quarterback slot.

Chief Boston will have a difficult time trying to find replacements for Carmen Ragonese, Bob Mikszenas, Jim Pritchard, Maurice Ross and Ted Piciorak. Ragonese signed by the Baltimore Colts, scored 48 points last year.

Bob Mikszenas was on the receiving end of Mather's passes to the tune of 42 points. These men were vital cogs in a powerful football aggregation on the U.N.H. campus last year.

Passing Prowess Promising

Bright spot on this year's club will be its passing prowess featuring Mather, Tom Gorman and Don Miosky. Mickey Gage who ran well in spring practice, Irving Gould, and Ed Fraser should make U.N.H.'s running game presentable.

U.V.M. In Good Form

U.V.M. is in great mid season form for this game. Ralph Kehoe, the Rutland Rifle, is passing with adeptness of old, the Vermont line is charging with the ferocity of a Catamount and Art Collier is more superb than ever in his defensive play.

How They Stand

Inter-frat and Dorm Football

Only four teams remain undefeated as the third week of inter-fraternity football draws to a close; Sigma Phi and Kappa Sig in League A, and Phi Sig and Sig Nu in League B.

Sigma Phi pulled out close wins over the Owls and the Phi Delts, edging the former 7-6 and the latter 6-2. Defending champions, Kappa Sig, had to go all out in their only game to date, inching by ATO 32-31.

Phi Sigs Powerful

In League B, according to present statistics, Phi Sig seems to be the big grid power. In their opener, they rolled over Chi Sig 43-19 and then nosed out TEP 27-22. Sig Nu edged out Chi Sig 7-0 and SAE 32-35.

In the revamped dorm league, the third and fourth floors of Chittenden and Buckham and the first and second floors of Wills are all sporting undefeated records.

Here are the league records up to and including Oct. 13:

League A

Bulwarks of Vermont's Forward Wall

HOBIE COOK
Vermont

Standing 6 feet 2 inches tall, weighing 200 pounds, Hobart Cook, or Hobie as he is better known, is one of the better linemen ever to wear the green and gold of Vermont. Hobie has been playing varsity football at tackle for the Catamounts for four years.

Hobie was born in Auburn, Me. He began his football career by competing for the Lewiston High School last season, in his junior year, he was elected captain of the team.

He is what they call in football a "hustler." He's a sixty-minute man when necessary, and he is always ready for what comes his way. In last week's game against Norwich, Hobie played three complete quarters and one minute of the last quarter before Coach Evans pulled him out for a rest. By that time U.V.M. had piled up a 14-0 lead and were on their way to their third touchdown.

Of all Hobie's performances, one game in particular stands out in the minds of those who have been following his play. It was 1947 and Vermont was playing a power-laden Massachusetts eleven. Massachusetts was a heavy favorite to triumph over us. Vermont drew first blood when Ursprung made a circus catch of a pass, to put U.V.M. in the lead 7-0. Then Massachusetts battled back to tie the score at 7-7 before the end of the half.

ED COMOLLI
Vermont

That isn't a mountain in the UVM football line, that's Ed Comolli. Opposing teams have found that the 220 pound, six foot four inch left tackle is no push-over.

Ed hails from Barre, Vt., where he began his gridiron career in a starring role with Spaulding High's Crimson Tide making the all-state team twice.

At UVM, Ed has played varsity ball for four years and has also been selected for the all-state college eleven by Vermont sportswriters.

The grid ace is majoring in business, but he isn't sure of his career after graduation.

Ed may make coaching his career. Two weeks ago he played a very impressive game against Union.

Ed along with his brother Ray, who is also a senior, is a member of Phi Delta Theta.

Comolli has played several games of sixty-minute ball for the Cats.

All through the second half Massachusetts dominated the play; but it was Hobie Cook making tackle after tackle, and breaking up play after play that held the game to a 7-7 tie.

Sports Slants

By Vic Murdoch

Over the week-end the University of Vermont was the only Green Mountain college to register a gridiron victory. Middlebury was upset by Tufts 19 to 0 and St. Mike's fell before Rider College to the tune of 39 to 7.

Low Gear and High Spirit

The bands had paraded, the cadet corps finished its drilling, and the fans sat back to witness what was supposed to be a one-sided football game. Norwich had the ball from the start of the opening whistle and held it almost the entire first half. Only in the waning minutes did the Cats begin to look like themselves and then it was not until the second half before they could really get moving. A team that had been defeated 54-6, 54-0, and 71-0 on consecutive week-ends completely forgot the past and threw a scare into a heavily favored Catamount eleven. Norwich did the seemingly impossible by holding Vermont scoreless in the first thirty minutes and nearly putting a few points on the scoreboard for itself. The lads from Northfield had tremendous spirit in the first two periods (all through the game for that matter); the Cats just could not get out of low gear.

From the beginning of the second half to the end of the game a new team was on the field for U.V.M. The line began hitting harder, blockers found their marks, and as a result the ball carriers started to eat up the yardage. The running of Johnny Ballard and Bob "The Saint" St. Gelais was something to watch after the Cats shifted into high. I wonder what "Fuzzy" Evans said to the boys during the halftime intermission.

Across The Border

U.V.M. meets the University of New Hampshire at Durham, N. H., this Saturday in an interstate, Yankee Conference clash, the first of the year for the Cats, U.N.H. has already met two conference foes. They got by Rhode Island in the first one, but a strong Maine team handed them a defeat. Last week they upset a powerful, and previous undefeated, Springfield squad by 21 to 0. Their great running back, Carmen Ragonese, is

UVM LEADERS —

Originally from Rutland, he is now living at Fort Ethan Allen with his wife and thirteen months old boy.

After graduating in 1938 from Mt. St. Joseph's Academy, Ed became a salesman, working until '42, when he joined the Navy for four years, during which he was secretary to an admiral.

Lineups:

Vermont—Ie, C. Smith; It, Comolli; Ig, Banta; c, Dempsey; rg, Schofield; rt, Cook; re, Ursprung; qb, Collier lhb, G. MacDonald; rlb, Haddigan; fb, Tavares.

Norwich—Ie, Burd; It, Crannell; Ig, Swift; c, R. Smith; rg, Lait; rt, Finigan; re, Holden; qb, Damon; lhb, Givens; rlb, DiSalvo; fb, Psalidas.

Organized Young Republicans

Since entering U.V.M. in '47, Ed has participated in various campus activities such as the Kake Walk decorations committee, Newman Club, and the Debating Club. During the second half of his freshman year, he organized the Young Republicans' Club, which is now an active group on campus.

Last year he was elected by the students to the important position of president of Student Government. "And," he added with a smile, "I also made the Dean's List, once!"

Strictly A Family Man

Asked what his interests were outside of his family, Ed said, "Oh, I'm strictly a family man," but continued to say that he is vice-president of the Vermont Forums and, being interested in state politics, he managed Governor Gibson's campaign here last year.

When broached with the question of what he considers the most important thing or things that he has helped so, accomplish while here at U.V.M., Ed said that he has endeavored to carry out the proposals of his election platform and to extend a democratic concept of Student Government throughout the school.

NOTICE

Attention all women students.

The Student Union test will be given Wednesday Oct. 19 at 7.15 p.m. Room assignments will be posted on the Women Student Government Bulletin Board in Waterman building. Be sure to check for room assignments.

Band Uniforms Bought

Also, he pointed out that the new band uniforms, which almost everyone has seen at the football games, were purchased with funds from the Student Government budget. The word 'budget' leads to recognition of the fact that last spring the new budget system was set up and published; something which has not been done previously.

And last, but not least, the abundant school spirit, so much more in evidence than in former years, has been due largely to the development of better class organization, primarily stimulated by Student Government.

If, within the next few years, anyone needs a lawyer, keep Ed Costello in mind, for now majoring in political science, he hopes to continue his education at an as yet undecided law school.

Aiken to Speak

In Vermont, he fought the conservative branch of the party, and won the confidence of the small farmer, laborer, and businessman to such an extent that he is now regarded as the most powerful leader of the party in Vermont, as well as in the nation.

In private life, the Senator operates a nursery in Putney, his home town, and is the author of several books on flowers, and on Political Science. In 1937 he was awarded an Honorary Degree of Doctor of Laws by the University of Vermont.

Other Notables to Appear

Other prominent Republican leaders due to appear in the near future include United States Senator Ralph E. Flanders, Gov. Ernest W. Gibson, Lieut. Gov. Harold J. Arthur, and Rep. Charles E. Plumley.

The U.V.M. Young Republican Club will be conducting a membership campaign within the next week, and hopes to have one of its best seasons this year.

Proposed Student Government Constitution

Last week the president of U.V.M. students received a petition signed by fifty U.V.M. students asking for amendment to the present Constitution of U.V.M. Students. This step was one of many in the machinery which has been moving since last spring to completely revise the constitution under which Student Government is now operating.

A committee of four who were appointed by Ed Costello from the Executive Council has been working day and night to meet its self-imposed deadline of October 14. The group studied the recommendations of last year's committee, and went over the present constitution in much detail, revising it with the three-fold aim of clarifying relationships within the U.V.M. students' organization and between it and the rest of the University, of arranging the constitution clearly and logically and of incorporating into the revision many ideas gleaned from the National Student Association Conference held at the University of Illinois this past summer and from other schools' constitutions and from students and faculty on this campus. The over-all goal throughout has been to achieve a verbal framework through which the students at the University can contribute to the general community educational experience.

Those of you who have questions about these proposals, ideas which you feel should be included in the Constitution or By-Laws, or objections to any of their contents should come to the open hearings scheduled for October 25, 27, and 28, to voice your comments. Counter-proposals should be in writing. The Constitutional Revision Committee will be there to hear you and discuss whatever ideas and problems you raise. This is your opportunity to clarify your ideas and put them into action.

After these hearings and Executive Council discussion, a Constitutional Convention will be held, at which the student body will go over the proposals article by article, putting the Constitution and By-Laws into final form for ratification by the students and the University Council and the Board of Trustees. Voting will take place the Monday and Tuesday after the Constitutional Convention, in 36 Waterman. According to present plans, the Constitution and By-Laws will go into effect when ratified by a two-thirds vote of those voting in the last general election of officers, and approved by the University Council and the Board of Trustees. Be sure that your interests are fairly protected.

Present Constitution

CONSTITUTION OF U. V. M. STUDENTS

PREAMBLE

In order to bring about a systematic administration of student affairs on this campus, to codify existing customs and traditions of the University of Vermont, and to provide for an organized student control of campus activities, we, the students of U. V. M., adopt this constitution.

ARTICLE I—NAME

This organization shall be known as the U. V. M. Students.

ARTICLE II—MEMBERSHIP

All students shall be voting members of this organization on payment of the Student Activity Fee. The amount of the fee shall be determined by the Executive Council, after consultation with the president of the University or the responsible officer designated by him.

ARTICLE III—MEETINGS

Meetings may be called by the president of the University, by its president, five or more members of the Executive Council, or by the petition of fifty or more members presented to the Executive Council at least five days prior to the proposed date of the meeting. The notice of the time, place, and purpose of meetings shall be posted on the official boards of this organization, and printed in the Cynic at least one week in advance. These meetings shall be conducted according to Robert's Rules of Order.

ARTICLE IV—QUORUM

A quorum for the transaction of business in the meetings of this organization shall consist of at least five hundred members. (See Amendment I.)

ARTICLE V—ORGANIZATION

Section I—Officers

The regular officers of the U. V. M. Student Government shall be a president, a vice-president, a secretary who shall be a sophomore at the time of election, and a treasurer.

Section II—Council

There shall be a council consisting of the officers of the U. V. M. Students and councilmen who shall represent, at the time of election, the three lower classes, and who shall hold office for a term of one year. Vacancies shall be filled by special elections. The retiring President of the U. V. M. Students shall attend the meetings of the Council for six weeks after his successor has taken office.

Clause A—Duties of the Executive Council

It shall be the duty of the Executive Council:

1. To bring to the attention of the student body all matters pertaining to the welfare of the U. V. M. Student Government.
2. To discuss matters of common concern with the administration.
3. To act as apportioning committee for the Student Activities Fund. This apportionment shall be submitted to the President of the University for approval by May 1 of each year.
4. To elect, to advise, and to direct the sub-committees.
5. To elect a student court.
6. To make all rules and regulations necessary for the execution of the duties herein mentioned.

Clause B—Meetings

1. Meetings shall be held at least once a week during the college year.
2. Attendance at Executive Council meetings is required of all members. Excuses shall be granted only by a majority vote of the council members present. The vote on the absence shall be by secret ballot. Membership on the committee shall be forfeited by two unexcused absences.
3. An excuse stating the reason for absence of any member shall be presented not later than the next regularly scheduled meeting.
4. Minutes of all meetings shall be printed in the next issue of the Cynic.

Section III—U. V. M. Student Court

Clause A—Organization

Each undergraduate college or school shall have two representatives plus one additional representative for each three hundred students over the first three hundred. The Court shall elect its own presiding officer.

Clause B—Duties

It shall be the duty of the U. V. M. Student Court to try such cases within its jurisdiction as shall be designated to it by the Executive Council or the University Council.

Clause C—Jurisdiction

The U. V. M. Student Court shall have original jurisdiction as follows:

1. Personal dishonesty.
  2. Academic dishonesty.
  3. Violations of regulations pertaining to conduct.
  4. Such other cases as shall be designated to it by the proper authorities.
5. The Student Court shall have sole jurisdiction in all cases concerning the interpretation of the Constitution of U. V. M. Students.

Appellate Jurisdiction

1. In the event of an appeal from a student judicial body that had original jurisdiction in its respective sphere, the case shall be heard by a joint court consisting of four members of the University Council appointed by the President of the University, four members of the Student Court elected by the Court, and the President of the University as Chairman.
2. The term "student judicial body" employed in the last section above shall be construed as covering the Student Union, Pan-Hellenic Council, Student Court, Interfraternity Council, any existing dormitory council, and all other similar bodies which may be organized in the future.

Clause D—By-Laws and Procedure

The U. V. M. Student Court shall set up its own rules of administration and procedure subject to the approval of the Universal Council. These shall be published in the Cynic at the beginning of the fall and winter semesters.

Section IV—Sub-committees

Clause A—Membership

Sub-committees shall be chosen by, and shall include one member of the Executive Council. Terms shall be for one year. Sub-committees shall choose their own chairman.

Clause B—Names and Functions

1. Finance Committee—to cooperate with the treasurer in handling of the finances of the U. V. M. Student Government.
2. Social Committee—to draw up a social calendar and to arrange social functions in which all students may participate.
3. Publications Board—to advise and approve the election of the staffs of student publications. It shall consist of the editor of the Ariel and his immediate predecessor, the editor of the Cynic and three faculty advisors (members).
4. Athletic Board of Control—(joint Student-Faculty-Alumni) to arrange an athletic program which will meet the needs of all.
5. Pep Committee—to conduct pep rallies and other functions so as to build school spirit.
6. Religious Life Committee—to arrange a religious program suited to the needs of the students.
7. Freshman Orientation Committee to arrange a program for the orientation of freshmen at the University.

Section V—Duties and Powers of Officers

Clause A—Duties of the President

It shall be the duty of the president:

1. To act as the executive of the U. V. M. Student Government.

2. To act as the chairman of the Executive Council.
3. To preside over meetings of the U. V. M. Student Government.

4. To present to the Executive Council and the student body matters pertaining to the welfare of the U. V. M. Student Government and not provided for in this constitution.

Clause B—Duties of the Vice-president

It shall be the duty of the vice-president to act as executive and preside over meetings in absence of the president.

Clause C—Duties of the Secretary

It shall be the duty of the secretary:

1. To keep a record of all minutes and documents of the U. V. M. Student Government and of the Executive Council.
2. To handle all correspondence.
3. To see that the minutes of all meetings are printed in the next possible issue of the Cynic.

Clause D—Duties of the Treasurer

It shall be the duty of the treasurer:

1. To supervise all financial operations of the U. V. M. Student Government and to act as administrator of all financial operations of the Executive Council and as financial supervisor of its sub-committees.
2. To make monthly reports to the Executive Council.
3. To approve the requisitions of all student organizations and to forward them to the Accounting Office.

ARTICLE VI—ELECTIONS

Section I—Time and place of elections

Election of Student Government officers and members of the Council shall take place during the second week in January at a time and place to be fixed by the Council.

Section II—System of nominations

Clause A—Officers

Officers shall be nominated by a Nominating Committee composed of the dean of women, the three deans of the undergraduate colleges, three members of Mortar Board, and three members of the Student Body. Members from the honorary societies shall be chosen by their respective organizations. Additional nominations for officers may be made by a petition of one hundred and fifty members at the U. V. M. Student Government to the Nominating Committee.

Clause B—Councilmen

Nominations for councilmen shall be made by petition to the Nominating Committee, such petitions to be signed by one hundred members of the class to be represented. The number of nominees is otherwise unlimited. No name may appear on the ballot without the approval of the Nominating Committee.

Section III—System of Elections

Clause A—Basis of representation

Each class shall have one Councilman to every one hundred fifty members of that class, with an additional Councilman for any remainder in excess of 100.

Clause B—Ballots

Uniform ballots will be provided by the Council.

Clause C—Supervision

The general election will be supervised by the Boulder Society and by Mortar Board and by the Head of the Political Science Department.

Clause D—Tally of Votes

Votes will be counted by the Council under the direction of the President and the results will be announced through the Cynic. A plurality is required for election in all cases.

Clause E—Newly elected officers and Councilmen will take office at the first regular meeting of the Council following the election.

ARTICLE VII—RECALL

An officer or councilman may be recalled by a three-fourths vote in a meeting of the U. V. M. Student Government. A meeting for this purpose may be called by a majority of the Executive Council and must be called by the Executive Council when petitioned by fifty students.

ARTICLE VIII—REFERENDUM

Matters considered of sufficient importance by the Executive Council may be submitted to the U. V. M. Student Government for approval or rejection.

ARTICLE IX—INITIATIVE

Proposals which have been rejected by the Executive Council or have not received their consideration may be brought before the U. V. M. Student Government for consideration upon submission to the chairman of the Executive Council of a petition signed by fifty members. At such meetings the vote of the U. V. M. Student Government shall be final.

ARTICLE X—AMENDMENTS

Section I—Proposal

Amendments may be proposed by a petition signed by fifty members and presented to the chairman of the Executive Council, who shall call a meeting of the U. V. M. Student Government to consider such amendments.

Section II—Publication

The proposed amendments must be printed in the Cynic at least one week before said meeting.

Section III—Adoption

A two-thirds vote of the members present at such meeting shall be necessary for the adoption of the amendment.

AMENDMENT I—Article IV shall be amended thus:

1. A quorum for the transaction of business in the meetings of this organization shall consist of those present.
2. A two-thirds vote of those students present will constitute a majority of the student body if those present do not represent 50 percent of the student body; otherwise a majority vote of those students present will constitute a majority of the student body.

Proposed Constitution

CONSTITUTION OF THE U. V. M. STUDENT ASSOCIATION

As proposed by the Constitutional Revision Committee of the Executive Council of the U. V. M. Students

PREAMBLE

With the conviction that the community at the University of Vermont must in all possible instances be responsible to itself for those codes which govern its members, because of a desire to experiment with and to crystallize our ever-expanding ideas for self-government, in an endeavor to establish a progressively more suitable framework in which to live and work with our fellow men, and in the belief that we, through exercising our responsibilities as a group, may attain a greater degree of individual maturity and a higher sense of values, we, the students at the University of Vermont, do hereby establish this constitution.

The members of this organization shall have the rights of petition, initiative, referendum, and recall, the manner of the use of which shall be as prescribed in the By-Laws.

ARTICLE X—PRECEDENCE

This constitution shall take precedence over any other instrument governing the student body of the University of Vermont, subject only to the statutory regulations of the University Council and the Board of Trustees.

ARTICLE XI—AMENDMENTS

Section 1. This Constitution may be amended by a two-third vote of those voting in the last regular election of officers of the U. V. M. Student Association, provided that that vote is taken a minimum of thirty days discounting University holidays after the amendment was proposed.

Sec. 2. Amendments may be proposed by initiative, or by a three-fourths vote of the Student Association Council.

ARTICLE XII—ADOPTION

Section 1. This Constitution and By-Laws shall be considered in effect at the University of Vermont when ratified by a two-thirds vote of those voting in the last general election of U. V. M. Student Association officers and approved by the University Council and Board of Trustees.

Sec. 2. The existing officers, councilmen, and committeemen of the U. V. M. Students shall continue in office until their successors take office according to this Constitution.

BY-LAWS OF THE U. V. M. STUDENT ASSOCIATION

As proposed by the Constitutional Revision Committee of the Executive Council of the U. V. M. Students

ARTICLE I—MEMBERSHIP

Section 1. All members of the U. V. M. Student Association shall pay an Activity Fee.

Sec. 2. Students at the University other than undergraduate students may become members of the U. V. M. Student Association by payment of the Activity Fee.

Sec. 3. All members of the U. V. M. Student Association shall be eligible to vote in U. V. M. Student Association referendums and elections.

ARTICLE II—OFFICERS

Section 1. Duties of the U. V. M. Student Association officers shall be as follows:

- a. President:
  1. To act as the executive officer of this organization.
  2. To act as chairman of the Student Association Council.
  3. To preside over meetings of the U. V. M. Student Association.
  4. To present to the Student Association Council matters pertaining to the general welfare of the U. V. M. Student Association and its members.
  5. To appoint a parliamentarian from among the councilmen from the Junior class, whose duty it shall be to familiarize himself with the Constitution and By-Laws of the U. V. M. Student Association and existing acts and traditions of previous Student Association Councils, and to keep the current council informed of these as occasions may require.
  6. To appoint a public relations director for the U. V. M. Student Association subject to the approval of the Student Association Council.
- b. Vice-president:
  1. To assist the president in the execution of his duties.
  2. To assume the duties of the president in the president's absence.
  3. To act as ex-officio member of all committees of this organization in order to coordinate activities and bring about a greater efficiency among them and other organizations on campus, and to give monthly reports to the Student Association Council.
- c. Secretary:
  1. To keep a record of all minutes and documents of the U. V. M. Student Association and the Student Association Council.
  2. To handle all correspondence of the same.
  3. To post the minutes of each meeting of the U. V. M. Student Association and Student Association Council on the bulletin board following that meeting.
  4. To post the agenda for each meeting on the bulletin board the day before that meeting.
  5. To keep a history of the U. V. M. Student Association.
  6. To select and direct the secretariat.
- d. Sub-secretary:
  1. To be of general assistance to the secretary; to carry out such functions as are delegated to him by the secretary in the pursuance of his duties.
- e. Treasurer:
  1. To supervise all financial operations of the U. V. M. Student Association and to act as administrator of all financial operations for the Student Association Council.
  2. To cooperate with the assistant to the president in supervising the Activity Fee disbursements and accounting procedures.
  3. To submit to the Student Association Council annually and prior to May 1 a proposed budget for the ensuing academic year.
  4. To report to the Student Association Council the Finance Committee's recommendations concerning any proposed changes in excess of fifty dollars to the budgets of any organization receiving U. V. M. Student Association funds.
  5. To submit to the all financial appropriations.
  6. To notify organizations of their allocations.
  7. To have the entire budget published in the Cynic, when it has been approved by the Student Association Council and the University president.
  8. To make monthly reports on Activity Fee funds to the Student Association Council, which reports shall be included in the minutes of the meeting.
  9. To act as chairman of the Finance Committee.
- f. Sub-treasurer:
  1. To be of general assistance to the treasurer; to carry out such functions as are delegated to him by the treasurer in the pursuance of his duties.

Sec. 2. Selection of officers.

a. Any member of the U. V. M. Student Association shall be eligible to become a candidate for office in the U. V. M. Student Association, provided that he has not attained senior standing at the time of the annual election, and that he is not at this time on disciplinary or scholastic probation and was not on probation during the previous semester.

b. Nominations for officers shall be made by petition to the Elections Committee; each such petition shall bear the signatures of at least 150 members of the U. V. M. Student Association. Every member may sign one petition for each office. No name may appear on the ballot until it has been certified by the Elections Committee to have met all requirements for eligibility.

c. Petitions shall be submitted and ballots cast for three offices—namely, those of president, secretary, and treasurer, whose elections shall be conducted by the alternative vote system of majority preferential voting. After the president is selected, the same ballots shall be counted to determine the next majority choice, who shall be designated the vice-president. The same procedure shall be followed to determine the next majority choice, who shall be designated sub-secretary, and treasurer, who shall become sub-treasurer.

d. Officers shall be chosen from among the candidates by the Hare system of proportional representation. The ballots shall be marked according to preference, and the result shall be determined by the system of majority, preferential voting with the single transferable vote.

e. Election of officers shall take place after the termination of the Thanksgiving recess and before the beginning of the Christmas holidays. Election of officers shall precede election of councilmen by at least seven days.

f. Officers shall assume the responsibilities of their offices at the first meeting of the Student Association Council in the second semester, at which time each shall take the oath of office. (See Article III, Sec. 1, e.)

Sec. 3. Vacancies.

a. Any duly filled office may be declared vacant only upon the resignation or recall of the incumbent, his failure to maintain membership standing as specified in Article III of the Constitution, or his being placed on disciplinary or scholastic probation by the University.

b. In the case of a vacancy occurring in the office of president, secretary, or treasurer, the vice-president, sub-secretary, or sub-treasurer, respectively, shall assume office.

c. Vacancies in offices other than those of president, secretary, and treasurer shall be filled by a successor chosen by a recount of the ballots of the vacating office-holder combined with whatever exhausted ballots may have accumulated at the election which filled the vacated office. In the tabulation of these ballots, the name of the vacating office-holder shall be disregarded and the next subsequent choice considered.

d. If the lack of other candidates makes the choosing of a successor by this recount of the ballots impossible, or if for some other reason, such as the presence of an undue number of exhausted ballots, a successor cannot be chosen satisfactorily by this method, the Student Association Council, if less than two months remain before the next regular election for that office, shall appoint the successor. If more than two months remain before the next regular election, a special election shall be held to fill the office for the period of the unexpired term.

ARTICLE III—STUDENT ASSOCIATION COUNCIL

Section 1. Selection of councilmen.

a. Any member of the U. V. M. Student Association shall be eligible to become a candidate for councilman, provided that he is not on disciplinary or scholastic probation at the time of the annual election and that he is a member of that class which he seeks to represent on the Student Association Council.

b. Nominations for councilmen shall be made by petition to the Elections Committee; each such petition shall bear the signatures of at least 100 U. V. M. Student Association members of the class to be represented. Each such person may sign as many petitions as there are positions to be filled. No name may appear on the ballot until it has been certified by the Elections Committee to have met all requirements for eligibility.

c. Councilmen shall be chosen from among the class' candidates by the Hare System of Proportional Representation. The Hare System of Proportional Representation shall be understood to denote the use of the preferential ballot, the single transferable vote, and the Droop method of determining the electoral quota, applied on a class basis. Members shall vote only for councilmen to represent their own class.

d. Elections shall take place after the termination of the Thanksgiving recess and before the beginning of the Christmas holidays, and at least seven days after the election of officers.

e. New councilmen shall take office at the first Student Association Council meeting of the second semester, at which time each outgoing president shall render to each the following oath of office:

“(name).... before my fellow students, agree to fulfill the obligations and to assume the responsibilities of my office (or position) as ..... to the best of my ability, with the true interests of the whole University community at heart, and in accordance with the U. V. M. Student Association Constitution and By-Laws in letter and in spirit.”

f. There shall be three faculty advisors to the Student Association Council as follows: the Dean of Administration, a member of the Student Advisory Committee of the University Senate, and one selected by the Student Association Council.

Sec. 2. Vacancies.

a. The office of councilman may be declared vacant upon the resignation or recall of the incumbent, his failure to maintain membership standing as specified in Article III of the Constitution, his being placed on disciplinary or scholastic probation by the University, or his missing more than two regular meetings of the Student Association Council for unauthorized reasons.

b. Authorized reasons for absence shall include personal illness, absence from the city, and hour tests scheduled for the time of the meeting.

Sec. 3. Meetings.

a. Meetings of the U. V. M. Student Association Council shall be held at least once a week during the time college is in session.

b. Every member of the Student Association Council shall have one vote.

c. Two-thirds of the members shall constitute a quorum.

d. Each Student Association Council shall adopt its own rules of procedure within six weeks after taking office.

e. The newly-elected members of the Student Association Council shall be under the same attendance regulations as the outgoing council from the first meeting after their election, although they will not take office immediately.

Sec. 4. Purposes and duties of the Student Association Council shall be as follows:

1. To act as the executive body of the U. V. M. Student Association.
2. To enact legislation to accomplish the purposes of the U. V. M. Student Association, legislation to be binding on all Student Association members.
3. To approve the budget apportioning the Activity Fee, and to approve changes in the budget exceeding fifty dollars. No allocations shall be approved by the Student Association Council prior to their consideration by the Finance Committee.
4. To make all rules and regulations necessary for the execution of the duties herein mentioned.
5. To provide a meeting ground for the discussion of any situations concerning the University community.
6. The Student Association Council shall have all such powers as are not specifically delegated to other campus groups which rest with the students at the University of Vermont.

ARTICLE IV—COMMITTEES

Section 1. Formation of Standing Committees.

a. The Student Association Council shall elect one of its members to each standing committee at the second regular meeting of its term of office. The representative to the Finance Committee must be the treasurer.

b. That Student Association Council member together with one member from the previous year's committee shall be responsible for recommending applicants for committee members to the Student Association Council. Recommendations shall be decided upon according to the procedure outlined below:

1. A notice shall be posted on the Student Association bulletin board stating the purposes of the committee, qualifications for membership, and the approximate number of members desired, and requesting that students interested sign their names on an attached list and fill out an application blank, which shall be left in a designated place.

2. The blank shall request the following information: name and address of the student, previous experience in college and high school, that might pertain to the committee's work, their own activities and course at college, and their reasons for wanting to serve on the committee.

3. Following receipt of these applications, the two persons shall interview each applicant personally.

4. On the basis of the personal interview, and in consideration of interest, time available, ability and value of the experience to the individual, the two persons shall recommend to the Student Association Council those persons whom they feel would be desirable members of their committee.

c. The Student Association Council shall elect from those recommendations the number of persons required for the work of the committee.

d. Members of the standing committees must be chosen within six weeks from the time the Student Association Council selected its own members of the committees.

e. The council member of the former committee shall be the first member of the new committee within one week after its election.

f. Each committee shall choose its own chairman, unless otherwise stated, and its own faculty advisor, and each shall adopt its own by-laws and rules of procedure, which shall be filed in the Student Association office.

Sec. 2. Responsibility.

Each standing committee shall be responsible directly to the Student Association Council for discharging those duties as may be assigned to it by these By-Laws or by the Student Association Council and shall report in writing to the council all findings and all actions taken. The incoming chairman of each committee shall be responsible for obtaining and familiarizing himself and his committee with all past records of the committee. Each committee shall keep records of all committee proceedings, which shall be deposited with the U. V. M. Student Association secretary at the end of the school year, to be made part of the minutes of the Student Association Council.

Sec. 3. Other committees shall have the same responsibilities as the standing committees except that they shall not be required to draw up by-laws.

Sec. 4. The standing committees of the U. V. M. Student Association shall be maintained to serve these minimum purposes:

a. Cultural Committee.

1. To arrange, sponsor, and encourage programs of a cultural nature on campus.
2. To keep the campus informed of cultural programs in the vicinity.

b. Elections Committee

1. To set up the rules and procedures by which Student Court, class, and all U. V. M. Student Association elections and referendums shall be conducted, subject to the approval of the Student Association Council and in accordance with this Constitution and By-Laws.

2. To be responsible for their observance.

c. Finance Committee

1. To approve budgets for and supervise the financial activities of all organizations receiving U. V. M. Student Association funds.

2. To cooperate with the treasurer of the U. V. M. Student Association in handling its finances.

3. To investigate and act upon the regular and extra budgets submitted to it by the recognized campus organizations receiving Student Association funds, in the process of drawing up the annual U. V. M. Student Association budget to be submitted to the S. A. Council and the treasurer.

d. Orientation Committee

1. To be responsible, in cooperation with the administration, for planning an adequate, well-coordinated orientation program for all new students at the University of Vermont.

e. Pep Committee

1. To foster a sound and healthy school spirit through conducting pep rallies, sings, skits and other functions.

2. To supervise the U. V. M. cheerleaders.

f. Religious Life Committee

1. To help the individual to develop strong and sound personal convictions.
2. To coordinate the activities of all religious groups represented on campus whenever possible, and to act in an advisory capacity to them when feasible.
3. To promote concrete inter-faith programs for the campus in an endeavor to eliminate unwarranted prejudice and to increase understanding between religious groups.

g. Social Committee

1. To be responsible for a program on campus which will adequately fulfill the social needs of the students.

2. To arrange the activities calendar for the year; to coordinate and schedule both social and extra-curricular events sponsored by campus organizations, toward the realization of a better campus community.

ARTICLE V—STUDENT COURT

Section 1. Organization.

Each undergraduate college or school shall have two representatives plus one additional representative for each three hundred students over the first three hundred. The Court shall elect its own presiding officer.

Sec. 2. Duties.

It shall be the duty of the U. V. M. Student Court to interpret all cases within its jurisdiction.

Sec. 3. Jurisdiction.

The U. V. M. Student Court shall have original jurisdiction as follows:

1. Personal dishonesty.
2. Academic dishonesty.
3. Violations of University regulations pertaining to conduct.
4. Such other cases as shall be designated to it by the proper authorities.

5. The Student Court shall have sole jurisdiction in all cases concerning the interpretation of the Constitution of U. V. M. Students.

Appellate Jurisdiction

1. In the event of an appeal from a student judicial body that has original jurisdiction in its respective sphere, the case shall be heard by a joint court consisting of four members of the University Council appointed by the President of the University, four members of the Student Court elected by the Court, and the President of the University as Chairman.

2. The term "student judicial body" employed in the last section above shall be construed as covering the Student Union, Pan-Hellenic Council, Student Court, Interfraternity Council, any existing dormitory council, and all other similar bodies which may be organized in the future.

Sec. 3. By-Laws and Procedure.

The U. V. M. Student Court shall set up its own rules of administration and procedure subject to the approval of the University Council. These shall be published in the Cynic at the beginning of the fall and winter semesters.

ARTICLE VI. ORGANIZATIONS

Section 1. Class Organizations shall remain under the jurisdiction of the Student Association Council. Each class organization shall draw up by-laws during the first semester of its existence, which by-laws shall be subject to the approval of the Student Association Council.

Sec. 2. Formation of New Clubs: Students wishing to form new recognized organizations shall comply with the existing regulations of the Student Association Council and the University, and shall submit the organization's by-laws to the Student Association Council for approval.

Sec. 3. Organizations, to maintain recognized status, shall comply with regulations of the Student Association Council and the University.

ARTICLE VII. PETITION, REFERENDUM, INITIATIVE, RECALL

Section 1. Petition: A formal petition, when it has been endorsed by at least five per cent of the Student Association members and submitted to the Student Association Council shall be considered a duly seconded motion on the floor of the Student Association Council.

Sec. 2. Referendum: The Student Association Council shall be empowered to submit questions to the vote of the Student Association whenever it so desires.

Sec. 3. Initiative: A formal petition, when it has been endorsed by at least ten per cent of the Student Association and submitted to the Student Association Council at least one week prior to its meeting, shall require the Council to act upon the endorsed proposal. If the action of the Council is negative, by as many members of the Council as signed by as many members of the U. V. M. Student Association, of whom a majority of the voters shall decide the issue.

Sec. 4. Recall. a. A formal petition, when it has been endorsed by at least ten per cent of the Student Association members and submitted to the Student Association Council, shall recall from office the named Student Association officer. A formal petition, when it has been endorsed by at least fifteen per cent of one class and submitted to the Student Association Council, shall recall from office the named representative of that class to the Council.

b. The recalled representative shall be returned to office if within ten days from the date of official notification a formal petition is filed with the Student Association Council, which endorses the return of the recalled representative and which is signed by as many members of the Student Association as constitute the quota that elected the recalled representative.

ARTICLE VIII. PRECEDENCE

Section 1. These By-Laws shall take precedence over any other instrument for the government of the student body except the U. V. M. Student Association Constitution, which nothing in these By-Laws is to be construed as superseding.

Sec. 2. The constitutions and by-laws of all student organizations must in no way conflict with this constitution and by-laws.

ARTICLE IX. RULES OF ORDER

The rules contained in Robert's Rules of Order shall govern the Student Association and the Student Association Council in all cases to which they are applicable and not inconsistent with this Constitution and By-Laws.

ARTICLE X. AMENDMENTS

These By-Laws may be amended by a majority vote at the meeting of the U. V. M. Student Association, as defined in Article IX of the Constitution.

NOTICE

U. V. M. and Burlington will have an opportunity to hear a national Negro leader this afternoon, Oct. 19, at 4 p.m.

William F. Trent, Jr., Executive Director of the United Negro College Fund, Inc., will speak in the President's Dining Room, 3rd floor of Waterman building.

The United Negro College Fund is one item in the Campus Chest Drive later in the month, and Mr. Trent's address will present facts as to the training of leaders in the more than 30 private Negro Colleges of the South to which a one-tenth share in the Campus Chest will go.

Dr. John Dewey And Wife To Be Present At Banquet October 26

Congratulations on the occasion of his 90th birthday were telegraphed Thursday, October 20, to Dr. John Dewey, philosopher and educator, from the campus of his Alma Mater, the University of Vermont.

A wire from Pres. Elias Lyman read as follows: "The University of Vermont offers you most heartfelt congratulations on your ninetieth birthday which is being celebrated with affection and respect by all America. May I urge our own peculiar pride, affection and respect to one of our own. We are grateful for the opportunity of saying this more personally next week."

Dewey Club Lecture Sponsor

The John Dewey Club, undergraduate organization of students interested in the problems of philosophy and psychology, also wired best wishes to the great philosopher, who graduated from the University in 1879. This was done at a special meeting of the club, held in honor of the birthday. The speaker for the special meeting was Prof. George Dykhuizen, chairman of the philosophy department at U.V.M., who chose as his subject "An Early Chapter in the Life of John Dewey."

The John Dewey Club and the U.V.M. chapter of Kappa Phi Kappa, national honorary education society, are sponsoring the lecture on Wednesday evening, October 26, by Prof. Herbert W. Schneider, head of the department of philosophy at Columbia, and former student and colleague of Doctor Dewey. The lecture, which will be at 8 p.m. in the Ira Allen Chapel, will follow the banquet in Waterman in honor of the birthday, at which Doctor Dewey and his wife will both be present. Other guests will include representatives of the University administration, faculty, students and alumni, as well as a few specially invited guests from other colleges of the state.

Fleming Museum Exhibits

Many items of interest in connection with Doctor Dewey's early life in Burlington are included in the exhibit which will be on display throughout the week in the Marble Court of the Fleming Museum. Outstanding among them are the portrait of the philosopher which usually hangs in the Billings Library; photographs of his birthplace, the house now occupied by Dr. and Mrs. Hiram E. Upton at 186 South Willard St., and of the house where he lived when attending college. The latter, at 178 South Prospect St., was for many years the home of Chief Justice and Mrs. Sherman R. Moulton. Also included are many of Doctor Dewey's more important books, early photographs of himself and his family, and copies of the Burlington Free Press of that era.

Miss Frank, Speech Dept., To Organize Radio Workshop

A new Radio Workshop at the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College will hold its organization meeting at 4 p.m. on Wednesday, October 27, in Room 239, Waterman Building. The workshop will be directed by Miss Lydia A. Frank, newly appointed to the faculty of the Speech Department, and is open to all students interested in the subject.

Those enrolled in the program will receive training in all phases of radio technique, and it is hoped that eventually regular radio courses may be set up, and that regular University programs may be

New Dairy Building Dedicated By Pres. Lyman, October 19

The new dairy building of the U.V.M. Department of Agriculture was formally dedicated October 19. Concerning this addition to the college's facilities, U.V.M. acting president, Elias Lyman said:

"With the opening of this new building come new hopes and new life. It shatters old barriers and removes restrictions under which this institution has worked for many years. We can now look forward to a future of unhampered achievement."

Several hundred persons gathered for the ceremonies which were held at the structure's west entrance. Besides special guests, faculty members and students, there were delegates to the 28th annual convention of the Vermont Dairy Plant Operators' and Managers' Association who met earlier in the Fleming Museum.

Ellenberger Honored

Special honor was accorded to Dr. H. B. Ellenberger, U.V.M. professor emeritus of animal and dairy husbandry, in the form of a bronze plaque presented by the Vermont Dairy Plant Operators' and Managers' Association. It was inscribed: "A tribute in appreciation of his long and distinguished service to the dairy industry of the state and nation."

The plaque was unveiled following a presentation speech by L. A. Cooley of Bradford, president of the Association, in which he lauded the achievements of Doctor Ellenberger, head of the Department of Animal and Dairy Husbandry at U.V.M. from 1918 to 1948.

Other speakers on the program, introduced by Dr. W. H. Riddell, professor of animal and dairy husbandry, included Dean Emeritus Joseph L. Hills, who traced the history of dairying education at the University from the time of his coming in 1888; Acting Dean Paul R. Miller, who invited public interest in the new building by saying "We will hold open house here today and also throughout the days to come."

Stanley G. Judd, Vermont Commissioner of Agriculture, represented Governor Gibson. Also heard were former Gov. Mortimer R. Proctor; Clarence Carlton, chairman of the U.V.M. Agricultural Advisory Committee; Doctor Ellenberger; George Ricker, president of the Vermont Dairymen's Association; Gordon Farr, president of the student body of the College of Agriculture; A. Bradfield, associate professor of dairy manufacturing, and Alfred T. Granger, architect for the $240,000 building.

Campus Chest Offers Opportunity To Aid All Worthy Charities In One Donation

"The clocks are ticking; tomorrow is almost here." The single great drive for funds on the U.V.M. campus is about to begin.

Organized by Student Government and the Religious Life Committee, the Campus Chest Drive is scheduled for the week of Oct. 29 through Nov. 5. The drive will include contributions to the World Student Service Fund, the United Negro College Fund, a U.V.M. Emergency Loan Fund and the U.V.M. Scholarship Fund.

Rubinstein Directs Program Toward Musician & Layman

A program whose appeal is directed to musician and layman alike, will be presented at the Memorial Auditorium in Burlington, Friday evening, October 28, by the distinguished pianist Artur Rubinstein.

The musician whom critics and audiences acknowledge as one of the greatest pianists of all time is a Polish-born citizen of this country and a particularly sympathetic exponent of the art of his compatriot Frederic Chopin. He has selected a Nocturne, a Mazurka, and a Polonaise to represent Chopin.

The final number on the program will afford an opportunity to hear the brilliant technique and tonal and rhythmic vitality with which Mr. Rubinstein is said to leave "his audiences cheering and his pianos limp."

The recital is sponsored by the Department of Music of the University of Vermont. Tickets are still available. The complete program follows:

Sonata in F minor, Op. 57
("Appassionata") .....Beethoven
Allegro assai
Andante con moto
Allegro ma non troppo
Nocturne in F sharp, Op. 15
Mazurka .....Chopin
Polonaise in A flat, Op. 53

Cook, Comolli, Cote Lead Way to Victory

For the how crazy can you get department: the University of Vermont football men of distinction, bubbling over with four victories in five forays this campaign, have been thumped by their opponents in each of the major statistical departments although a look at the final tallies would lead you to believe otherwise.

To wit: the Catamounts have been out first-downed, 72-58; out-rushed, 915 yards to 691; out-passed, 455 yards to 364; out-total offense, 1,371 yards to 1,055. But here's the catch—and this is where headlines are made and coaches find that fountain of youth—the U.V.M. pigskinners have measured St. Michael's; St. Lawrence, Norwich and New Hampshire for victories. For a team which entered three of its games as a decided "under dog," the Green and Gold has leased its kennel to its present occupants, Norwich, Middlebury and St. Mike's.

A stout-hearted line—anchored by Captain Stan (The Man, of course) and Art Pruneau or Chas. Smith—has meant the difference, in the main, for the sparkling 4-1 mark the Cats already have posted. Bill Robinson, a converted fullback, Frank Farrell, also a converted fullback, have been brought in to fill the defensive breaches. Both have been outstanding. Across the line—the guts of the Cats' '46, '47 and '48 teams—a potent array has been holding forth.

INTERMITTENT SHOWERS: "Remember Vermont, 14-0, last year" signs polka-dotted the U.N.H. field house last week, a mute reminder of last year's score. The Catamount's 13-6 triumph Saturday at Durham was a carbon copy of the 1948 triumph. . . . New Hampshire, according to Bill Stearns, its sports PR

Eleven Co-Eds Vie For Queen's Crown At Harvest Ball

Autumn's here! And U.V.M. students will harvest a queen from an abundant crop of beauties for the Aggie Club's coming Harvest Ball.

Each sorority and girl's dormitory on campus will run a candidate, and the successful girl will be crowned during the dance to be held at the gym on Saturday, October 29, from 8.30 p.m. to 12.

Committees working on the dance are: General chairman, Bill Farrar; publicity and advertising, Gordon Farr; dance arrangements, Walter Rockwood, and Ed Peterson; queen campaign, Horace Strong; refreshments, Joe Metz; tickets, Aubrey Pulling; decorations, Henry Roubia; restorations, Chadwick Arms.

One lucky girl on the campus will be crowned queen of the event and will reign over the dance. Contestants for this honor are: Rusty Shangraw Griffin '50, St. Albans, Phi Beta Phi; Pat Tucker '50, El Ed, Waitsfield, Tri Delta; Lucille Metcalf '51, El Ed, East Corinth, Sanders Hall; Suzanne Loizeaux '51, Sec Ed, Plainfield, N. ## Architect To Draft Plans For New Lab, Home Ec. Buildings Construction on two big state building projects in Burlington has been given the green light by the State Building Council.

The Council appointed Freeman, French & Freeman, Burlington architects, to draw up plans for the $350,000 public health laboratory, and at the same time cleared the way for construction on the new University of Vermont home economics building, for which $500,000 has been appropriated.

The Council also cleared the way for construction of various smaller jobs including completion of the agricultural engineering building at U.V.M., as well as two small projects at the State Hospital in Waterbury.

Inquiring Reporter

This year we are trying out a new plan on campus to combine the many drives that have previously been held on campus into one big drive. The Campus Chest will commence on October 29 and last through November 5. Since this is the first year that this plan has been put into effect, we thought that it would be an appropriate time to ask the question: "Would you rather contribute once to a single drive or give separately to the individual agencies?"

1. Marilyn Murdock, Barre, Vt.

"I think it's a lot better as you get more spirit by having one big drive. More strength will be put into the campaign, and I think that the results will be better. That is, they'll have more money in the end."

2. Walter J. Fimian, Jr., Brattleboro, Vt.

"The Campus Chest is comparable to the Community Chest held here in Burlington which always seems to work pretty well. It saves a lot of time, and fewer committees are needed."

Each student will feel he is only going to be approached once each year, and he would know what the story is."

3. Bill Demonite, Cranford, N. J.

"I prefer giving to one Campus Chest because what I give is the same whether it is for one drive or several. With one drive, though, I'd have it over with rather than several times a year."

4. Jeanne Farr, Westminster, Vt.

"I believe the idea of one drive is better, but I think it should be up to the students to give what they feel they want to give, and not set one goal. With one drive you have it over with in a short

Doctor Lohman Speaks At Elks' Banquet On Value of Free Press

Dr. Philip H. Lohman, chairman of the Department of Commerce and Economics at the University of Vermont, told the Burlington Lodge of Elks and their guests from local newspapers that a free press and the free-price, free-enterprise system which is the basis of American economy are inseparable. "Without a free press, the system would quickly break down," Doctor Lohman declared.

Doctor Lohman was the guest speaker at a banquet held in the Elks Club rooms. The event was a feature of National Newspaper Week was arranged following recommendations by the Grand Lodge. Toastmaster for the activities was Daniel J. Casey.

Special honors were paid to the newspapers in this area when Exalted Ruler Frederick J. Fayette presented scrolls to Charles G. Weaver, editor of The Burlington Daily News; Milo C. Reynolds, editor of the Essex Junction Suburban List; Edward S. Merry, editor of The St. Albans Messenger, and Edward F. Crane, editor of the Burlington Free Press.

These awards were in recognition of the services of their newspapers. Each recipient gave a brief response following the presentations.

Doctor Lohman, in his address, pointed out that there are forces at work today which, if left uncurbed, will destroy our free-price system.

The prominent economist suggested that the press "tell its readers at least once a day to demand of their government that it treat them as adults; keep the public psychologically conditioned for the future; show the people that every time they want something from the government it costs them something in tax money and/or freedom, and perhaps what is asked isn't worth it."

Concluding, Doctor Lohman said, "Above all, let us not be ashamed of the ideals we stand for. Let us work toward our goal, no matter what may come, in the confidence that in the end truth must triumph. Let the press, however help us to temper our idealism with realism that a world divided into half free and half slave cannot continue so forever."

time, and you don't feel that in two months someone else will approach you again."

5. Shirley Hakewessell, Caldwell, N. J.

"I think it's a good idea. Peggy Fisher's speech at the Women's Mass Meeting clinched the deal. It doesn't seem like so much money when you give it all at once. I think the slogans are good. The clever publicity ought to help promote the drive."

6. Achilles Sconsas, Nashua, N. H.

"I think it would be much more effective and powerful if a single drive is conducted. In this way money would be asked only once rather than several times. On the other hand, I think they are asking a bit too much for a donation."

Prof. Evans Says That Communist Party Is Declining In France

"The Communist Party's chances in France have been reduced remarkably during the past three years," said Professor Evans at the first IRC Luncheon of the school year.

He went on to say that the Communist Party is definitely on the decline, but that he felt it would never disappear completely from France. Largely due to the efforts of the ERP in France has the spread of Communism been checked in this country.

More than forty people were in attendance at the luncheon on Tuesday, October 18 held in the Faculty Dining Room to hear Professor Evans compare conditions in Europe before and after the war. Professor Evans based his remarks on his numerous trips to the continent during the past several years.

Speaking briefly about the four nations visited by him during the past summer as a faculty member with the U.V.M. Foreign Study Program, he commented on conditions in Great Britain, The Netherlands, Belgium, and France.

The general health of British children, he feels, is better today than in past years, although he feels that his observations was somewhat superficial. He expressed his belief that the English people cannot continue to remain key-up under an austerity program and feels that the apparent lack of drive of the British people is more a result of nervous exhaustion than of physical exhaustion.

Dutch Eating Better

Regarding the Dutch people, he believes that they were not living as well now as before the war, but that they were eating better than the British people.

UVM Fraternities Aid Uno Teemant, DP, To Enter Aggie

Do you know Uno? His whole name is Uno Teemant, and he is U.V.M.'s long-awaited displaced person.

Here at Vermont it all began last spring when the thought that the University might do something for a displaced person entered several heads. The WSSF displaced persons bureau was contacted and things began to happen. The University Council waived tuition. The Vermont Church Council agreed to underwrite the entire venture. The Interfraternity Council agreed to help. The Religious Life Committee agreed to help and there were loud sounds of encouragement from several other campus organizations. And then they waited.

Lived in Estonia

For Uno it all began twenty-four years ago when he was born on a small farm in Estonia. His father was a school teacher, and life moved quite placidly for him until the war struck. Since then he has been constantly on the move trying to stay alive, to keep ahead of the German army.

At the close of the war he found himself cutting wood in a displaced persons camp in Germany. Because he knew the value of education he entered Baltic University in Pinneburg, Germany, and studied Agriculture for three years.

He had no family, nor future in Europe, so Uno turned his eyes to the United States, and applied for study here. When the University of Vermont opened its doors, he quickly accepted and set out to make his home in the new world. He wants to study agriculture.

Last week after a great deal of red tape, Uno arrived at Vermont. He speaks very little English, and he is happiest when he finds someone who can speak German and can explain to him some of the idiosyncrasies of college life. He has been issued an invitation to live at the Chi Sigma Zeta house, and the fraternity boys on the hill are taking turns giving him his meals. Some of the fraternity boys are also giving him clothes and he is justly proud of his first corduroy jacket.

His reactions to America? Just what one would expect. He is a little overwhelmed at the whole procedure, a little lonely because of the language barrier, but glad to be here.

Five Students Attend Associated Collegiate Press Convention In Detroit, Michigan

Three schedule-packed days marked the annual Associated Collegiate Press Convention held in Detroit, Michigan, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Oct. 13, 14 and 15. Five Vermont students representing the two major U.V.M. publications, the CYNIC and the Ariel, were chosen to attend the convention.

The Vermont delegation which included Joan Ediff, Emerson Melaven, Paul Barash representing CYNIC, and Shirley Dennis and Art Meyer, representing Ariel, left Wednesday Oct. 12 and returned Sunday, Oct. 16.

Varied Program Held

The program at the convention included special discussions for newspaper editors, newspaper business managers, yearbook editors, yearbook business managers, and for other people in responsible positions on college publications.

The purpose of the program was essentially to enable students from colleges all over the United States to get together and exchange ideas for the mutual benefit of all concerned.

As a result of the convention it is hoped that both the CYNIC and the Ariel may profit from the new ideas picked up by the delegates. All phases of newspaper and yearbook work were covered through special discussion groups at the convention.

Five U.V.M. Students Make Trip

Joan Ediff is a senior in the College of Arts and Sciences. She has been active on the CYNIC during her entire college career and at present is Feature Editor. Her home town is Pittsfield, Mass.

Shirley Dennis '51, hails from St. Albans, Vt., and is enrolled in the College of Arts and Science. She is editor-in-chief of the 1951 Ariel.

Emerson Melaven is a senior in the College of Arts and Science and comes from Milton, Vt. He has been on the CYNIC staff for his four years of college and is at present Make-up Editor.

Art Meyer, a junior from Jamaica, L. I., N. Y., is enrolled in the College of Technology as a business major. He is business manager for the 1951 Ariel.

Paul Barash '52, is a chemistry major from Brooklyn, N. Y., enrolled in the College of Technology. He was active during his freshman year on the CYNIC as a news reporter and at present is a news editor.

The bulk of the expenses of the five delegates was taken care of by Student Government funds. It was thus through the cooperation of Student Government that this opportunity was open to the five delegates to represent the University of Vermont at the Associated Collegiate Press Convention in 1949.

NOTICE

Having received a petition signed by fifty (50) students in good standing at the University of Vermont asking for a Special Mass Meeting of all students of the University for the purpose of revising the present Constitution of U.V.M. Students, I do hereby call such meeting under the authority vested in me by Article X, Section 2, Clause A of the Constitution, and notify the students of the university that such meeting will take place in the Ira Allen Chapel on the Ninth day of November, Wednesday, from 4.00 to 6.00 p.m.

Hayes And Levin Attend Convention At St. Johnsbury

A team of two students from the Debating Club at the University of Vermont, Thomas L. Hayes '50, Bellows Falls, and Morris J. Levin '50, Burlington, were the St. Johnsbury on Friday, Oct. 14, to take part in the State Convention on Crime of the Vermont Federation of Women's Clubs.

Taking the discussion topic "Less Crime in Vermont—How?" Hayes and Levin's part in the day's events took the form of rounding out the discussions in terms of what kind of programs clubs can carry out for the reduction of crime in Vermont.

Both members of the U. V. M. team have won distinction in debate and discussion work and both were members of the team which won the New England championship last year. Hayes was also a member of the team which placed third in the Nationals at West Point, while Levin was on the team which placed third in the National Tau Kappa Alpha tournament at Purdue.

Dramatic Club Will Hold Poetry Reading Festival October 30

Plans for the Dramatic Club's first poetry reading festival have been disclosed by the co-chairmen, Pam Crandall and Leonard Tomat. The first poetry festival will be in the form of an informal poetry reading hour to be held Sunday, Oct. 30, at 7.00 p.m. in Southwick Auditorium.

All who are interested in reading poetry are invited to participate. In order to allow the greatest number of people to take part in the program, it is requested that participants limit their reading time to approximately 4 to 6 minutes.

Preliminary Meetings Scheduled

Application blanks can be obtained through the English and Speech Departments or in the book store. They should be filled out and deposited in the designated box in the book store before Oct. 25. Preliminary readings will be scheduled between Oct. 25-30 at 23 Middle College.

That should be premeditated murder. . . . Vermont contemplated dropping the Wildcats from its schedule last fall.

Vermont's two touchdowns, racked up with less than two minutes remaining in the second half, were set up by two "Believe It or Not by Ripley" plays. . . . Broad Ed Comolli stopped a punt with his chest, and hugged it as it ricocheted off before it hit the ground in the most spell-binding clutch since Anthony and Cleopatra. . . . TD No. 2 came AFTER the second half had ended as quarterback Ralph Kehoe, a pitcher, fired a 20-yard strike through the heart of the plate to "catcher" Bob St. Gelais, a converted shortstop, who was standing by his lonesome in the end zone. The winning play was set up by tackle Hobie Cook, who intercepted a pass with 15 seconds remaining in the period. It was the first of two interceptions for the 1948 Cat captain, something for somebody's record book.

The U.N.H. Wildcats, who only the week before had larrupped Springfield College, about the best small college team in New England, assaulted the battered U.V.M. forward wall with a crackling ground attack which netted 294 yards and with a Mather aerial barrage which the Cats finally checked in the clutch moments of the second half. Giant defensive work broke all but one U.N.H. thrust—an eight-yard end around scoring scamper by half-back Ed Fraser in the first period.

For the folks who like figures (sic!): John Ballard, with 210 net yards gained on 47 carries, and Robert St. Gelais, with 140 net yards gained on 45 carries, are U.V.M.'s individual rushing leaders. Kehoe, with 338 yards gained on 21 passes completed out of 51 attempts, is the team's individual forward passing leader. Kehoe, with 335 yards, and Ballard, with 210 yards, are the team's individual total offense leaders.

Ursprung and St. Gelais, with 118 yards gained, are the team's individual pass-receiving leaders. Stan has grabbed six passes for one score, Robert has caught seven passes for two scores. Dom Cote, the runner, had an eye-popping field day at U.N.H. and boosted his individual punting average to 40.3 yards per, 767 total yards on 19 punts. Kehoe's average is 37.6, 678 yards on 18 boots.

St. Gelais has scored three TDs, Ursprung has scored one TD and booted eight out of ten attempted placements.

Art Collier, with five returns for 55 yards, is the pass-interception return leader; George MacDonald has returned 11 punts for 118 yards, and St. Gelais has returned two kick-offs for 48 yards. . . . U.V.M. thus far is by far a second half team. . . . It has 35 second half first downs against 23 first half first downs, has 441 second half yards gained rushing against 250, but has 164 yards gained passing against 200 first half yards gained passing. The Cats have had to punt only five times in their aggregate second halves against 23 first half boots.

Varsity and Frosh Harriers Win Again

The University of Vermont cross-country team won its third straight victory and its second consecutive shutout this season, by rolling over the Bates College harriers 15-50, on the local four-mile course.

Highlighting the meet for Coach Post's crew of 12 distance runners, was Russ Mahoney the New England Intercollegiate half-mile and mile champion. Mahoney toured the Burlington Country Club harrier course in 21 minutes, 22 seconds, approximately a half minute off the record as he breezed into first place, 29 seconds ahead of Johnny Bellows, with Jim Porter third.

The Vermont harriers took 11 of the first 13 places which was almost a team sweep. Following the first three in the near sweep were Elwin Wolcott, Bob

Mass. Here Saturday, Cats Seek Second Yankee Conf. Win

By Glenn M. Fay

This Saturday will find Vermont's copious Catamounts clashing with the Redmen of Mass. St.—from the land of the bean and cod. This tussel will be the second Yankee Conference skirmish for each school, the Redmen having readily reduced to residue the rowdy Rams of Rhode Island St. on a previous afternoon, while the descendants of old Ira Allen clobbered New Hampshire's wildcats last Saturday. (I knew they could do it!)

Whether Massachusetts can stop the Green and Gold remains to be seen though they are rated as a power in small college circles, with a 4-1 record, mostly on the merits of two terrific linemen named Nichols and Driscoll. How they stack up against those two beacons in the darkness, Messrs. Comolli and Cook, will be interesting to note.

The starting lineup for the Cats will be about the same as in the game at U.N.H.—however last minute changes in super-strategy by Coach Evans may be necessary to down the Bay Staters. The game shapes up as a dilly with flying entrails the order of the day from the starting whistle.

Little Jack Keefer, who many fans consider too good to be true, may be ready to start in this one. Keefer, although on the injured list since the opening game with St. Mike's, is one of the brightest prospects seen here in many a moon. See you at Centennial!

Caswell, Owen Coughlin, George Rowell, Earl Randall, and Cedric Pierce, with Murray Lyon and Francis Moran in 12th the 13th place.

For Bates it was Dom Casavant of Lewiston in 10th and Eugene Harley in 11th place.

PLAY FOR PLEASURE . . . . . Will McBride

We Predict . . . by Mort Kaufmann

The half-way mark in the football season has been reached and thus it is a propos to give the averages of the football forecasters. After hours of mathematical deducing, which included addition and subtraction, the figures humbly indicated the following: Winn Fingerit was the expert of the staff with a modest 72 percent and it will be well to notice Winn's predictions more closely in the future. Jerry Agel, who spends most of his time at the athletic office, predicted 67 percent correct. Vic Murdock and Mort Kaufman completed the group with the same percentage—66. But everyone is anxious to better himself and there's no telling what will happen during the remainder of the season!

And now optimistically to this week's games . . . .

JERRY AGEL concludes:

The Seven Pillars of Marble

It was a big home game for New Hampshire last Saturday. Dad's day was being celebrated, the team had upset powerful Springfield the week before, 21-0, Sunday was Founder's Day, and there was the constant reminder of last year's 14-0 loss to the scrappy Catamounts. All week long students had posted signs around the campus reading, "U.V.M. 14 U.N.H. 0, 1948" to get the team in mad, fighting mood. Over 6,000 New Hampshire fans cheered their team as they came onto the field and nearly tore the place down when the Wildcats made the first score. Then it happened. Ed Comolli, battling bulwark of the Vermont line, broke through to block Bruce Mather's kick late in the second period to set up Al Tavares' line leaping touchdown. Capt. Stan Ursprung snapped the tie with his all important placement. Before the U.N.H. fans could get over that first blow, Hobie Cook jumped from the line of scrimmage to intercept a Mather pass and put the Cats in position for another TD. Both Comolli and Cook nearly got away to score, but were pulled down from behind each time. Twenty wild, cheering U.V.M. fans sang "Fight For Vermont" (as best they could) while Kathleen Smith, Gloria Peck and Joan Kopp led the backers from Burlington. It was mentioned after the game by several Vermont players that those handful of U. V. M. rooters made more noise throughout the game than the whole home crowd did a few weeks before at the Norwich game. The entire Vermont forward wall played an outstanding game, they were like seven pillars of marble. The boys in the backfield started to move several times, but pass interceptions and fumbles thwarted their attempts. It was the kicking of Dom Cote and the charging Vermont line that spelled victory. When the 6,000 spectators left the Durham stadium there were only twenty that did not wear a dejected frown.

Last Home Game for Eight Lettermen

This Saturday Vermont meets its second Conference foe in as many week-ends. Eight seniors will be playing their last home game for U.V.M., Capt. Stan Ursprung, Hobie Cook, Ed Comolli, Bill Dempsey, Bob St. Gelais, Art Collier, Charlie Traverse and Bill Carpenter. If the Cats win this one they have a chance to claim second place in the Yankee Conference championships. Maine has already played three games and has come out on top each time. The Statesmen have a near perfect record so far this season with wins over Bates, Norwich, Worcester Tech., and Rhode Island State. They lost to Rochester last week 27-20. The Cats will be out to avenge the 33 to 0 defeat the Bay Staters handed them last year; if the Green and Gold plays like it did against U.N.H. last week they may do just that.

Glances Here and There

Buckham, Wills and Chittenden dorms recently made a contribution to the Field House Fund. The Lettermen's Field House Committee thanks them for their generous contributions. It is a fine example of cooperation and the committee is most grateful . . . there are several men on campus who are trying to organize a swimming team. To all those who are interested a sign-up sheet will be posted on the bulletin boards in the gym and Waterman Building. Let's hope they have the same success that the Sailing team has had . . . U.V.M. has scored 68 points to the opposition's 38 thus far this season . . . Howie Haddigan, defensive halfback, has played about the most steady game for the Green and Gold this year. He has a good many tackles to his credit and several enemy pass plays have been broken up by the 150-pound, Elmond, L. I. N. Y., lad . . . Vermont's Sailing team lost their meet to Rhode Island State this past week-end. It is reported that the tide nearly took the three teams out to sea. The score was R.I.S. 20, Wesleyan 19, and Vermont 15.

HARRIERS WIN AGAIN

On November 1 the U.V.M. harriers travel to Amherst to compete in the Connecticut Valley Championship.

Wrisley breezed over the finish line in 14:18 and was closely followed by Saurwein, Brock, Carroll, and Allen, all U.V.M. frosh harriers, to give the undefeated Vermont freshman cross-country team a 15-48 win over Burlington High school Saturday afternoon. Saurwein's time was 14:31 and Bore's 14:34.

Norwich Rolls Over Vermont Frosh, 33-7

Bill Bonney staged a devastating one-man attack on the Kittens Friday afternoon as he scored two touchdowns, passed for another, scored one extra point, passed for another, besides quarterbacking the game, to lead the Norwich frosh to a lopsided 33-7 victory.

Vermont led at the half 7-6, but couldn't hold the powerful second half offensive attack of the Horsemen. The Kittens picked up their lone touchdown in the second period with a Norwich fumble on their own 35-yard line and a Vermont recovery providing the opportunity. Bob Hughes ate up 20 yards to the 15 and then Bob Brown scooted around end to hit pay dirt. Brewster booted the ball through the uprights for the conversion.

The Junior Cadets came back in the same period with Bonney, a former Fairfield Prep (Conn.) star, tossing a pass to Karl Proctor to rack up 43 yards and set up the following touchdown. Gil Braun skirted the end to score.

After the half, Norwich opened up with a 70-yard sustained march that ended with Bonney crossing the goal line. He then chucked one to end Harry White for the point.

White recovered a costly U.V.M. fumble on the 7-yard line after the kick-off and scored seconds after on another aerial to him from Bonney to make the score 19-7.

In the fourth quarter, the Horsemen unleashed another drive, this time for 40 yards with Bonney again scoring. Bonney then plunged over for the extra point on a quarterback sneak.

The Norwich frosh crossed the big stripe once more with their final TD as Bonney again pierced the Kitten pass defense with a long heave into the waiting arms of Dick Young. The triple threat quarterback ended the scoring with a dive over for the point after.

Norwich (33)—White, Mills, 1c; Tourigny, Hertzberg, 1t; Hill, Reid, Williams, 1g; Stiffler, Auer, c; Proietti, Ashworth, Munsell, rg; Moore, rt; Proctor, Young, re; Bonney, O'Connell, qb; Brantley, Monoxelos, Otto, Emerson, 1hb; Jaeger, Worcester, Heckman, Crouch, rhb; Braun, Horn, fb.

Sports Parade Of Yesteryears . . .

By RICHARD LAWRENCE

"Baseball 1901"

There had been a decline in the records of the baseball teams since the sport was organized at Vermont and the team of 1901 was out to equal the record of the 1890 team which had been the best in New England. A reaction was looked for and the team did its best but it wasn't good enough.

Two games were played in a new York State trip. Playing on her home grounds, Syracuse lost the first game played with Vermont at home. It was a close, well-played contest which ended 4-3 in favor of Vermont. The second New York game was a 15-9 win for Union. West Point romped over Vermont 16-0 and in the New England trip Middlebury gained a 11-7 score, Amherst Aggies closed out Vermont 10-9, and Holy Cross sent us home with a 10-8 defeat at Worcester.

Syracuse came to Burlington for our first home game, which we lost, 15-5. Running through May, Vermont lost to Clarkson 4-3, to Tufts 22-6; another game with Tufts 13-3, and took on Harvard's second team with a 6-5 score resulting. Amherst Aggies and the Alumni came out with 7-6 and 10-2 scores.

Fielding average for the team was .910 and errors amounted to 74. Amherst and Syracuse were the only wins against a loss of twelve. Union's win was their first over Vermont in 15 years. Holy Cross played slow ball because they were sure of victory but U.V.M. fought hard and are to be commended for the close score.

"Football 1901"

Few men were present from the old squad and the coach had left early in the season when football began. Morse took over the coaching and the results of his work were immediately apparent. Vermont faced Montpelier Seminary 43-0 and Norwich 56-0. The guards' play was important in taking this one.

An outstanding aspect was their "guards back" formation. McMahon came to coach on October 10 and built speed and aggressiveness into the team. One score was made; Vermont was within six inches of another to make it 6-5 over Tufts.

Middlebury won by a score of 12-0 in the first game. Middlebury outplayed us and could regain the ball at will just as

A new record in speedboat racing was set in Italy this summer by the brother of John Bogie. John's family who are all speedboat enthusiasts, including John who did some racing up in Canada this summer, were invited over by the Italian Racing Club. John went down to New York this week-end to welcome them home. Last week six new brothers were welcomed into the fraternity, the new initiates include, Duffy Dodge, Roger Greenlet, John Bogie, Jack Viets, Bernie Hurley, Bob Fagen. These new arrivals are just in time to participate in the sudden surge of activity that has pervaded the stately manor house on Summit street in the form of an improvement program. Under the watchful eye of Bob Vachon, a cleaning detail has gone over the house from top to bottom with a fine tooth comb. Various individual members have taken it upon themselves to paint their rooms and rumor has it that a new refrigerator should arrive any day now.

The Traynor Trophy should return any day now to occupy its proper place on the mantelpiece, constituting win number seven for the Delts. In the past two weeks some prominent Delt alumni have been showing up in the New York papers. The Times ran an article on the life of John Dewey "The American Philosopher" and the following week Thomas R. Powell wrote an article for the same journal entitled "The Split in the Supreme Court." After a brilliant beginning with a 12-6 win over the TEPS, the Delts suffered two straight losses at the hands of the SAEs and Sigma Phi.

KAPPA ALPHA THETA

Initiation was held during the past week for two girls, Abbie Marsh '50 of Rahway, N. J., and Marilyn White '50 of Hamden, Conn.

This year Thetas are glad to welcome back Mary Babbitt '51 and to welcome Breezy Hurt, a transfer from the Theta Chapter at Tulane.

Congratulations are in order for Becky Caldwell who announced her engagement to Bill Brown. Congratulations also go to Anita Swasey who is pinned to Bob Vachon, and to Breezy Hurt who is pinned to George Tucker of ATO.

The meals in the Theta House will be far from monotonous this year, as everyone in the house will have her turn. Lack of experience, whacky ideas, a dash of salt, and a handful of pepper go to keep the girls all spicy.

Homecoming week-end will bring back many alums. Among these will be Ciel Wetherby, Nancy Hafely Campbell, Bunky Henderson and Charlotte Plumb.

Here's hoping that Gerry Goeltz who is now in the hospital will be back at the house soon.

PI BETA PHI

The Pi Phis celebrated Homecoming Week-end with an Open House welcoming alumni and elaborating on the U.V.M. victory over Norwich. Joyce Wright, Joyce Viventi and Joan Vollmers were back for the week-end, joining in the festivities. The sophomores under Janet Beardslee did a beautiful job on the poster, which received many compliments.

Pat Greenup has been elected House President at the Pi Phi House. She also was recently pinned to Art Hill. To celebrate the event the Sigma Nu's serenaded and the Pi Phis got a special treat in hearing their quartet.

Peter Mason also had a special treat that night in the form of a few songs from the Delta Psis. It was her birthday and what with three cakes, we think she did well!

On October 17, Mary Ellen Lewkowicz and Jo Golliday were initiated into Pi Beta Phi. After the ceremony, supper was served at the house. Mary Ellen received as a belated shower present a pair of exquisite cut glass candelabra.

Each week the Pi Phis have been exchanging dinners with the different sororities. In the past two weeks the Tri Delts and Alpha Chis have been guests at the house. Members of the faculty have also been a very welcome addition at the dinners. Professor and Mrs. Schultz and Miss Wing have consented to join us at dinner.

CLASSICAL CLUB

Goodrich Classical Club will hold an open meeting in the north lounge of Southwick Memorial on Tuesday, November 1, at 7:30 p.m. at which they will read the Greek tragedy, Agamemnon by Aeschylus.

The hero of the play returns home after fighting ten years in the Trojan War to find marital troubles awaiting him. The thought that Agamemnon has sacrificed their daughter in order to insure a safe journey festers in Clytemnestra's mind, and she plans revenge on her husband.

Everyone interested is cordially invited to attend.

fund is also to be included in the drive. The fund provides for a series of scholarships awarded by Student Government to needy worthy students. Student Government has appropriated some money from its budget for the scholarships, but it was felt that some of the students would like to help their less fortunate fellows by contributing through Campus Chest.

The Student Government Scholarship fund will receive 5 per cent of the Campus Chest collection.

The World Student Service Fund was organized at the beginning of World War II as a part of World Student Relief. It has as its purpose the aid of students in war torn countries who but for this help would be forced to discontinue their education. It is operated strictly on a need basis; those people who need the help the most get it first. It is supported solely by students all over the world for the help of their fellow students. The United States is but one of 19 countries from which help is given. The aid is distributed from the central office in the form of medical equipment, educational supplies, rest centers, aid to refugees and displaced persons, emergency food, and emergency clothing. It is important to remember that in spite of the length of time since the end of the war, education still needs help. Tuberculosis is running rampant among the young people of our generation. Students are physically weak and mentally and emotionally exhausted, and yet they must continue to fight against lack of equipment, supplies and funds that would stop even the most courageous of us in this country.

The World Student Service Fund will receive seventy per cent of the Campus Chest Collection. This will mean a total of $3,500 if the goal is reached.

Joanne Hammerman, To Speak At Tea For Campus Chest

Speaking at the tea for the Campus Chest October 27 at 4 p.m., will be Joanne Hammerman, traveling secretary for the World Student Service Fund.

Miss Hammerman has long been interested in international affairs. She majored in political science in college concentrating on international relations. Her international relations concerns have taken her to many intercollegiate conferences including Connecticut College mock UN Commission on Human Rights, and the Mademoiselle Forum held in New York last spring. She worked with the National Student Association and participated in the Campus Chest Drive for several years serving in her senior year as WSSF representative on the Mount Holyoke campus.

In the summer of 1948, Miss Hammerman visited England, France and Switzerland with the International Student Service study tour and participated in the annual ISS Conference in Combloux, France (ISS is the national branch of World Student Relief in many countries in Europe as WSSF is in this country).

First WSGA Meeting of Year Hears Dean Simpson Speak

Women's Student Government Association held its first mass meeting Oct. 12 in Ira Allen Chapel. Rae MacTiernan, president called the meeting to order and the Vermont Pledge was repeated.

The secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and accepted.

Women's student government rules and regulations tests were announced for Oct. 19 and required for all freshman, junior, transfers, and house presidents.

President MacTiernan requested that girls remember to call House Mothers if some difficulty arises so that the student cannot return to her house at the time expected.

Jean Smith, treasurer, resigned from the Council and petitions for the office may be obtained from the Information booth in Waterman. The announcement that rushees may have 9.00 permissions was made.

Peggy Fisher gave an interesting and thought-provoking talk urging U.V.M. women to "Inflate their Campus Chest." Miss Mary Jean Simpson, Dean of Women, spoke to the women and cleared up several questions.

Among these were: a new rule concerning room care, fraternities on campus which women may visit, conduct and permission for women attending downtown clubs, and the possibility of students receiving Wilbur Fund, Student Aid, or loans.

Dean Simpson said she had received an offer from Mademoiselle which might interest design or merchandising students. The Dean's Tea has had to be postponed.

Women's social conduct was discussed and the group was urged to remember that the University prestige, as well as their own, is at stake.

The installation of house presidents and house committees followed, and after the meeting the signing of the constitution was completed.

A cablegram was read from Dean Joseph E. Carrigan, now on leave in Ireland with the U. S. Economic Cooperation Administration. Dean Carrigan extended his felicitations and said "My heart will be there with you all."

A general inspection of the building and its equipment followed the dedication program. White-clad members of the dairy classes were guides and home economics students served refreshments. Hundreds of spectators joined with officials and guests in taking advantage of the opportunity to be shown through the structure.

Ground for the dairy building was broken August 1, 1948. The new plant is now partly occupied, housing such processes as pasteurization and bottling of milk, cheese making and manufacture of ice cream. It will be in full operation in the near future.

Students Speak For Chest Drive

The following statements were made in behalf of the Campus Chest Drive by two outstanding students on campus. The first is by Rae MacTiernan, who is the present president of Student Union. The other is by graduate student Harry Miele '49, who is ex-president of Student Government.

Rae MacTiernan says:

"Since I know personally how much it means to be able to obtain financial aid for college, I consider the Campus Chest Drive one of the foremost and worthwhile projects at U.V.M. this year.

"When you donate your money, place yourself in the other student's position for a moment. It's a great feeling to know that you can go to or continue on in college, isn't it?"

Harry Miele says:

"When a contribution is solicited outright and the individual is not given bona fide proof that his contribution will be used for a good purpose, he is not only taken back by the sudden request, but he also sets up an unfavorable resistance for which he may be justified.

"But, there are many requests for contributions, the purpose of which is very well known such as that of the Campus Chest Drive. Only those persons in real need should forego the privilege of taking part in it.

"No one should assume the attitude that his contribution will be too small to be of any help when he stops to realize that everything that you and I are privileged to enjoy is the result of many little contributions from many people who did not stop to think how little their contribution was but how much it would help when added to that of others."

Poultry Club Plans Bar-B-Q To Pay Delegates' Expenses

If you are interested in eating a half of a chicken roasted over charcoal, the place to be on November 5 is the Poultry Club's BAR-B-Q which will be held then in the men's gym at five o'clock.

Started last year, the Poultry Club was an immediate success and with the help of a few members' wives they put on the first BAR-B-Q at U.V.M. only three weeks after the club had been founded. This affair met with immediate approval of all who attended and the club realized a profit of about fifty dollars which was used for a judging trip by the members.

This year the University has recognized the club and granted enough money for the trip and the boys expect to pay their expenses through the profit from this year's BAR-B-Q. This year, also, the club wishes to send a man to the National Collegiate Judging Meet.

The members will cook the chicken in a portable pit over charcoal right in the gym. If anyone is hungry after the feed his money will be cheerfully refunded.

All tickets must be bought in advance and can be purchased at the University Store, or from any club member. Also, any students who wish to join the club contact Elwood Hemstead, president.

Inflate Your Campus Chest . . .

Prof. Evans

Belgium, he said, is quite a contrast now to what it was in pre-war days. It used to be a paradise for cheap living, but today, due to inflationary conditions, prices are exceedingly high.

Conditions in France were more familiar to Mr. Evans, for during the past years he has spent a considerable amount of time in this country. A great deal of inflation exists in France today, he explained. Prices are exceedingly high. People are much more poorly dressed now than in pre-war years.

He attributes the deplorable conditions in France today to two main causes: (1) the heavy taxation and (2) the fact that the average worker is more interested in getting more wealth himself rather than improving the general welfare and wealth of the country.

The heavy taxation also hinders progress and the taxes are collected in a most inefficient manner. Reconstruction is progressing slowly in many fields, especially in the housing field but the railroads, for instance, are back to normal even though they are operating at a deficit.

French Peasant Prosperous

Professor Evans went on to say that the French peasant today was on the whole much more prosperous than before the war, but that he has abandoned his age-old tradition of saving his money and was spending it much more freely, feeling that his savings were amounting to nothing due to the depreciation of the French franc.

Concluding the two-hour luncheon, a question period was conducted during which many interesting points concerning the economic conditions of western Europe were brought forth.

Sports Parade

they regained yardage. U.V.M. lost the ball on the 15 after a swift drive and were on their way to a sure goal when time was called.

St. Lawrence was easily subdued 16-5. Morse made a 45-yard run to score and with 15 seconds to go, Hazen, one of the St. Lawrence men, scored from scrimmage with a long run. Playing into November, the Union game was a defeat of 22-0 and the Dartmouth game stood out. Played on November 9, Dartmouth continued their series of wins with a 22-0 defeat of Vermont who made the mistake of clinging to their "guards back" formation.

Middlebury took home a 20-0 defeat in its second game, but Syracuse handed Vermont a 38-0 collapse. A tie with Wesleyan on October 26 at Middletown, Conn., was a standstill during the first half. Vermont worked the ball within 6 inches of a score before losing it and lost it again on the 15 in the second frame.

Hardly should we mention it but Cornell took us 67-0 at Ithaca to end the season.

Vermont met Wesleyan for the first time this season. In their second Middlebury game Vermont played straight football with center tackle plays and end bucks. At times they showed teamwork and at all times they showed aggressive spirit. Their games with Dartmouth, Tufts and Wesleyan established a claim for a bright season the next fall.

Mortar Board Ball

A "Silver Anniversary Ball" will be the theme of the bi-annual Mortar Board dance this fall, and it will usher in the 25th Anniversary Week-end of November 4, 5, and 6. Mortar Board at the University of Vermont can claim a Silver Anniversary only once in a lifetime, and 1949 is the year which will witness this occasion.

Southwick Memorial will again be the setting for this girl-invite-boy semi-formal on Friday evening, November 4, and it will last from 9.00 until 1.00. Music will be given by the Catamounts, with vocals by "Jackie."

A one-thirty permission and free social evening are promised to all the girls for this gala occasion. Tickets will be on sale in front of the Book Store from 9.00 until 3.00 every day, October 30 to November 3.

On Saturday, November 5, Mortar Board is having an alumnae luncheon in Waterman.

Vermont's 20-12 Defeat of Mass. Gives Cats 5th Win and Best Season Since '23

St. Gelais Scores 2, Ballard 1; 2nd Yank. Conference Victory

Applying the crusher to Mass. State at Centennial Field this past Saturday, the 1949 edition of the U.V.M. Catamounts made sure of a place in the records. Not since 1923, under the coaching of J. Thomas Keady, has a Vermont eleven won five games in one season. This past Saturday Vermont topped a razzle-dazzle Mass. State club by a score of 20-12.

Collier's opening kick sailed into the end zone and it was first and ten for Mass. on their own 20. A running play brought the ball to the Mass 31 where a penalty, fumble and a running play netted the Bay Stater's a 9 yard loss. The attempt to kick was stopped by the Vermont line and U.V.M. took over on the 20. Six plays brought it to the 2, however Tavares was stopped on fourth down and Mass. took over. Sisson kicked out of bounds on the 37. With Kehoe and St. Gelais sparking the drive the ball was brought to the 2 again, this time Ballard rammed through for the tally. Ursprung's kick made it 7-0. Carpenter recovered a Mass. State fumble on the kickoff on Mass State's 15. U.V.M. stalled and Mass kicked once again, this time to the Vermont 47.

Reading Festival at Southwick Will Be Held Through Year

A warm fireside and comfortable couches, a congenial air and the aroma of fresh coffee toned the atmosphere at Southwick last Sunday at seven p.m. The informal gathering of the Reading Festival, held at Southwick Ballroom, offered an evening of entertainment for those who enjoy listening to good reading.

The reading festival was created by the U.V.M. Dramatic Club under the co-chairmanship of Pam Crandall and Leonard Tomat. The purpose of Sunday's gathering was to give pleasure to all who enjoy poetry and reading by having a group of college men and women read before an informal gathering of people.

The reading started at seven-thirty. Before the evening was over ten readers had stood at the hearth and entertained over forty-five people by reading a large variety of poems such as Home Burial, The Highwayman, The Face Upon the Floor, The Congo, and three children's poems. After the entertainment coffee and cake were served to all who stayed.

Being something new only one festival was held last year. It was thought a good idea to continue the same sort of gathering this year, so four or five more are anticipated for the coming school year. All meetings will be free of charge.

Rusty Shangraw Griffin Reigns As Queen of Aggie's Harvest Ball

UVM'S Favorite Alumni John Dewey Feted By Students, Faculty

Many U.V.M. students were unable to see John Dewey last Wednesday, much less talk with him. One of those more fortunate was David Newhall, class of '51, a major in philosophy, and a member of Delta Psi, who herewith presents his own account of his talk with Doctor Dewey.

By David Newhall

At 4.00 Wednesday, Stan Burns, Frank Peabody, Ken Lawson, and I were ushered into the presence of Vermont's most distinguished alumnus. John Dewey was seated in a chair by a window which looked out on the garden of the beautiful home at 196 South Prospect Street. Doctor Dewey arose to greet us, and we then gathered some chairs together and sat down, prepared only for a brief talk. We thought that it would be brief but it was 5.00 p.m. before we took our leave. In appearance John Dewey reminds one of Dean Emeritus Joseph L. Hills. He is not a large man but his only readily apparent infirmity is a slight deafness. He retains his flat Vermont accent. His wit and intelligence have not diminished through the years—we found this out immediately.

A Member of Delta Psi

When John Dewey was at Vermont he was a brother in Delta Psi Fraternity. This was our reason for visiting him. What ensued was really a question and answer session; we were asking the questions. Naturally most of the questions centered about the fraternity and life at Vermont in the late 1870s. Doctor Dewey recalled events of seventy years past with little difficulty, and we learned many interesting and amusing things. For example, there was a burglary of some of the possessions of the fraternity with the suspicion falling on the "Owls." Possibly the reason for the escapade was found in an aspersation cast by a Delt upon the name of Lambda Iota. P. Lorrelei, the Owls' biggest alumnus and benefactor, was head of the P. Lorrelei Co. (Old Golds, etc.). He inferred that the Owls had to pledge themselves to smoke one pack of Lorrelei's product per week. The Deltas also inferred that Lambda Iota stood for Lorrelei Institute.

Picking a queen from that gathering of pulchritude was a hard job, but voting of the student body made the choice. After Dr. William Adams placed the crown upon her head, she ascended to her throne on the bandstand. Like a Goddess of Beauty, her red hair fell beautifully over her chic grey dress.

The dance itself was a great success. The gym, gaily decorated with streamers and balloons colored to represent Fall, gave the dance the right atmosphere. The music was furnished by Dick Wanne-macher and his Arabian Knights, and everybody lauded Dicks' rendition of "Thing Called Joe." The boy played a fine trombone.

Ariel, Cynic Staff Members Travel To Detroit Convention

Five representatives of U.V.M.'s two main student publications made the long trip to Detroit, Mich., last week, to attend the Associated Collegiate Press' national convention, meeting there. Under the auspices of Student Government, Shirley Dennis and Arthur Meyer went representing the Ariel, and Joan Ediff, Emerson Melaven and Paul Barash, the CYNIC.

The convention took the form of lectures by leaders in various branches of the newspaper, yearbook, and magazine fields, in addition to student-led discussions. Despite the value of the more formal aspects of the convention, the U.V.M. delegates all concurred in the opinion that it was the informal exchange of ideas between students which proved of the greatest worth. Many valuable suggestions and new ideas were brought back in the notebooks and minds of the group which they hope to put into practice during the year.

Among the varied impressions received at the convention was the notable freedom which the staff of the CYNIC enjoys. In most other schools of comparable size and larger, it was found that dogmatic faculty advisors, restrictive student governments, and sensitive administrations all acted in a censoring capacity which all but stifled the elements of a free press.

With the success of this year's expedition to the national convention, it is expected that the practice of sending delegates each year will be continued.

Vermont Forum Meets

"Do we want more government provided security" is the topic to be discussed Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the City Hall Auditorium when the Vermont Forums members meet for the second discussion of this year.

The meeting will feature two speakers taking opposite sides of this question. Representing the negative will be Dr. Thomas H. D. Mahoney, author, lecturer and book reviewer and at present history professor at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Speaking for the affirmative will be Dr. Raymond Walsh, radio commentator and now director of the National Bureau of Economic Research.

Harold Slocum also announced that last year's members who have not renewed and those who have never joined can do so Wednesday night

Rubinstein Applauded?

By John Moore

Artur Rubinstein, who is considered by many to be the greatest pianist in the United States at this time, came to Burlington on October 28 and took the Memorial Auditorium by storm. His whole program, including works by Beethoven, Chopin, Debussy, Granados, De Falla, and Liszt, drew tremendous applause; he had complete control of his piano and his audience throughout the performance. Technically, he was the complete virtuoso; he did everything to the piano but make it sit up and beg.

However, it may be impertinent to suggest this, but this person believes that there is more to the playing of an instrument than technical and dynamic excellence. I am asking the performer not only to play a work as it is written, but also to bring out the feelings and insights that the composer put into it. I am asking the performer to rise above virtuosity and become an artist in his own right.

Rubinstein's playing of the Beethoven Sonata in F minor (the "Appassionata"), the greatest work on the program, was almost perfect in execution, but it became evident that something was missing. Rubinstein lacked the necessary rapport between composer and performer which is necessary to make the work stand out as truly great. He treated it as a virtuoso composition, stressing only the strength and brilliance that are found in it. The soft, deeply introspective passages upon which the composition rests were merely declaimed as a contrast to the thunder and lightning that follow. He forgot the logical continuity and growth of the work.

The rest of the program was lighter in character, and Rubinstein did much better with it. Chopin, in particular was given a superb rendition. The Nocturne in F sharp was the outstanding performance of the evening. Its soft, ethereal quality was painted exquisitely. In the pieces that followed, however, the accent was on the sound and fury, not the significance. In this, I think Shakespeare was right. My question is this: is it asking too much of the great virtuoso that he also be a great artist?

John Dewey, Philosopher And Educator

A Day in the Life of John Dewey

The man whose thinking, according to Life Magazine, "has influenced American education more than any other individual of his time" finally got around last week to pay a visit to his Alma Mater and let the folks get a look at him. For John Dewey, UVM '79, it had been a week of pleasant surprises in celebration of his 90th birthday. First, he had been the guest of honor at New York's Hotel Commodore where he had received the heartfelt praise of some 1,500 scholarly banqueters. He had received messages from President Truman, Prime Minister Attlee, and Historian Arnold Toynbee. Even India's Prime Minister Pandit Nehru had unexpectedly dropped in at the banquet to pay his compliments.

Dewey's Day

Doctor Dewey's welcome at the University of Vermont, to be sure, was not as elaborate, but none could accuse it of being less sincere. Arriving in Burlington at 6.02 in the morning last Wednesday on the train from New York, with Mrs. Dewey and Dr. Benjamin Fine, education editor of the New York Times, Doctor Dewey went to the home of Prof. George Dykhuizen where he had breakfast. That morning he visited many of the once-familiar scenes of his youth, such as the house where he was born on George Street. That noon, he received the cheers of approximately 1,500 U.V.M. students as he walked with President Lyman up the steps of the Waterman. He took a ride about the city in the afternoon and visited his fraternity, Delta Psi, on Summit Street.

"Concerted Absence"

That evening Doctor Dewey was feted at a banquet attended by members of the faculty and at which Acting President Lyman conferred on Mrs. Dewey the title of "Honorary Vermonter." Professor Dykhuizen spoke on Doctor Dewey's early life at college. He seemed no different from any other young college boy. At one time, probably when he was a sophomore, Dewey received twelve demerits from the faculty for creating a disturbance; later he was among a group of twenty-one, each of whom received five demerits for "concerted absence from roll call at drill." While a talk was being given in the Chapel by Prof. Herbert W. Schneider, head of the philosophy department of Columbia University, and one-time student and colleague of Doctor Dewey, John Dewey decided that he ought to return to New York, and thus he departed that evening.

Early Life

John Dewey had come a long way from the days of his youth in Burlington and at the University. He was born in Burlington ("a bustling town of 15,000," said Time Magazine), the son of the proprietor of a grocery store on Church Street who was renowned for his witty ads. Sample: "Ham & cigars: smoked and unsmoked." There were other gems on exhibition at the Fleming Museum last week which included the following on a batch of oysters, appearing in the Burlington Free Press of January 26, 1859:

"Buy 'em, try 'em, stew 'em or fry 'em, 'And you will own there's nothing comes nigh 'em."

Another was entitled "Seedy." It said: "To secede or sow seed, that's the question. Those who would sow seed as to succeed, and not reseed, will see seeds at Dewey's."

Enters University

As a youth Dewey delivered papers in Burlington. At the age of 15 he was ready to enter the University of Vermont. While at the University he was deeply influenced by two men in particular: Doctor Marsh and Prof. H. A. P. Torrey. Of Torrey, Dewey once wrote in a volume on Contemporary American Philosophy (also reprinted in the October 22 issue of The Saturday Review of Literature) as follows: "... Mr. H. A. P. Torrey was a man of genuinely sensitive and cultivated mind ... which in a more congenial atmosphere than that of Northern New England in those days would have achieved something significant. ... His interest in philosophy ... was genuine ...; he was an excellent teacher, and I owe to him a double debt, that of turning my thoughts definitely to the study of philosophy as a life pursuit, and of a generous gift of time to me during a year devoted privately ... to the reading of classics in the history of philosophy and learning to read philosophic German." In 1879, John Dewey was graduated from U.V.M. with his older brother Davis Rich, later a famed economist, with an A.B. degree. He received his Ph.D. in 1884 from Johns Hopkins University, and later received LL.D. from Vermont, the University of Wisconsin, Peking National University, and the University of Paris.

Flapping Socks

As a philosopher, John Dewey began the climb up the teaching ladder, first at the Universities of Michigan and of Minnesota, then at the University of Chicago where he was director of the school of education, and finally to Colum-

PROF. H. V. SCHNEIDER DELIVERS LECTURE

The character of John Dewey, not his system of philosophy or his theories on art or education, was the theme of a lecture given Wednesday evening to climax the Dewey Day celebration. The speaker, Prof. Herbert W. Schneider, head of the philosophy department of Columbia University, was a student and colleague of Dewey, and is today an exponent of Dewey's theories. Some of his views: Dewey is a personal symbol of what we cherish. He is an example of how to live and also to fight well. Dewey thrives on restlessness; he is one-half work; one-half conflict. But Dewey, unlike existentialists, takes no comfort in anxiety. Dewey must face basic issues squarely; he faces these issues with scientific precision.

Education, to Dewey, is not preparation for life but rather experience in life. "Dewey, to be sure, was graduated from the University of Vermont, but he never left school and he does not know how to retire. His whole life is an inquiry and all his ideas are intended to start something."

In an informal talk after the lecture, the speaker gave even further insight to Dewey the Man. He said a manuscript for a new book, on which Dewey worked for five years, had been lost in Canada. Instead of the more expected reaction, Doctor Dewey said he was quite glad because he could do a better job the second time. At the age of 90, Doctor Dewey is rewriting the introduction to another of his books. Explained Schneider, "He (Doctor Dewey) says that in his old introduction he used the word 'experience,' whereas what he meant was 'culture'." The point was also made that it is comparatively difficult to get Doctor Dewey to reminisce to any great length; "his whole life is an inquiry."

The lecture was sponsored by Kappa Phi Kappa and the John Dewey Club, and was introduced by Professor Dykhuizen.

bia University where he remained as a professor after 1904. As a teacher, Time Magazine has this to say of him: "He might appear in class with his socks flapping about his ankles. ... He lectured in a distracted manner, crumpling his notes into a ball and gazing into space. Students sometimes wondered whether he was lecturing or simply thinking out loud. 'I think this is a little clearer to me now,' he might say, after talking for three hours. ..."

Changing Truth vs. Absolute

As a philosopher, however, Dewey raised more controversy. His philosophy was basically a pragmatic (practical) one, inherited largely from William James. But James said that ideas were true only inasmuch as they are profitable in men's lives, whereas Dewey based his truth on science. The proof of his theories was to test them by action; the true value of a theory lay in its relation to its consequences. Since absolute truth, to Dewey, is impossible of attainment, these 'truths' are ever-changing, and are only milestones along the way to an unapproachable but necessary goal. Dewey's philosophy is diametrically opposed to that of the University of Chicago's Chancellor Robert Hutchins, to whom certain truths (for example, moral truths) are absolute and deny questioning.

Doctor Dewey has been a member of various societies including the National Academy of Sciences, the American Psychological Association, and the American Philosophical Association, the latter two of which he has been president. In his 90 years he has been the author of numerous books and pamphlets (which are not all noted for their lucidity); at 87, his thirty-fifth book was published. His themes are those of a true American social-educator philosopher; one finds such titles as "Liberalism and Social Action," "Democracy and Education," as well as such titles as "Experience and Nature," and "Art as Experience."

Doctor Dewey was accompanied on this trip by his second wife, whom he married three years ago. His first wife (nee Alice Chipman, whom he met when she was a co-ed at Michigan) died in 1927 after 41 years of marriage. By his first marriage, Doctor Dewey had seven children (one of whom was adopted); last year he adopted two more, John 7, and Adrienne 9.

Prolific Citizenry

When asked about the size of Burlington in those days, Doctor Dewey said that he could remember the figures well because of an incident which occurred in the census of 1880. In 1870 the population was 7,000 and some hundreds and in 1880 it was listed as 14,000. The citizens' pride was shortlived when it was found that many of the names were fraudulent; the census takers were paid according to the number of names listed! The true figures were in doubt anyway because, as Doctor Dewey put it, "the French in the north part of town were quite prolific."

The University at that time was comprised of about 200 souls. In Dewey's freshman year there were about 40 in the class but by time of graduation there remained but 16 men and 2 women. The "Old Mill" was the center of campus life and its roof was adorned by a large metal dome which shone brightly and was visible for miles. There were three fraternities—the "Owls," the "Sigs," and the "Delts" (although a fourth was added in his senior year).

During the summertime Dewey and a couple of friends would take off for some rowing—and I do mean rowing! Once they traveled to Lake George and another time to the St. Lawrence River. They did use a small sail to help them ease their backs. At night they would obtain lodging with a farmer or else use his barn.

In speaking of his boyhood, Doctor Dewey recalled that his father ran a grocery on Church Street and later a brick yard at Malletts Bay. The elder Dewey was fond of humor and used humorous advertisements, a novelty in that day.

"Horseshedding"

Doctor Dewey was very much interested in current campus and fraternity affairs. When we mentioned "rushing" he said that it was called "horseshedding" in his day. The term apparently had reference to the socializing which went on Sunday mornings in the church horseshed after services.

Belied 90 Years of Age

While we were chatting, Mr. Killick of WCAX arrived downstairs with a wire recorder for an interview for the radio so we all arose to go downstairs. We younger fellows stood aside to let Doctor Dewey go first but he insisted that we go ahead of him. One thing which struck me was the way that Dewey walked downstairs. He took them with no aid and with a vigor which belied his 90 years.

A wire-recorded interview was interesting as a demonstration of Dewey's powers as a speaker. With no notes of any kind he expressed himself better than most of us could with three weeks' preparation!

Mrs. Dewey was very charming and hospitable. As you may imagine we were a bit nervous at the outset but she put us at ease right away. We extended an invitation to the Deweys to attend the 100th anniversary of the founding of Delta Psi which will be celebrated next June.

It was 5.00 p.m. and about an hour since the commencement of our "10-

Noontime Reception For John Dewey

How was Dr. John Dewey, the country's greatest philosopher, going to take the reception planned by Student Government for his homecoming? The Burlington Free Press had caustically (at least, caustically for the Free Press) compared the welcome planned to the "razzle-dazzle greeting of the type usually reserved for the star halfback. ... One wag had suggested that we probably would have met Plato with a tom-tom if we'd had the chance, and now most students were beginning to wonder if perhaps the whole affair was not a little farcical. Students shuddered as they read the notices announcing the program: cheerleaders, the band, everything. They watched warily as Student Government slapped up its hastily-constructed "Welcome John" posters. At noon, they all crowded onto the Waterman steps fearing the worst.

As the band finished "Campus on Parade," the cheerleaders went into action and everyone was yelling an incongruous "Fight, team, fight." Then there was silence and, suddenly, a great cheer. "Rah, John, Rah, Dewey, Rah-rah, John Dewey," as the bent, white-haired philosopher with the scraggly mustache stepped out of a car and started up the Waterman walk. But there was no embarrassment. "What's going on here?" asked Doctor Dewey simply of Acting President Lyman as they walked towards the steps together. Obviously "deeply touched," as he put it later, Doctor Dewey looked at the students before him and said: "My heart and mind are both very full of memories. It is good to come back to the town where I was born and brought up, where my parents lived, and even find some old friends of my childhood. I spent four happy years on this campus. I'm sure that the institution holds many happy years for you." There was no more cause for worry; Doctor Dewey had liked it.

Letter To Editor

October 25, 1949.

To the Editor of the CYNIC:

It is normal practice on behalf of a student body to greet its returning towns with a few cheers. Such practice shows not only good spirit but a warm welcome to fellow students returning to campus.

However, when such an outstanding alumnus such as John Dewey, who is one of the greatest contemporary philosophers and thinkers, was greeted with: "Fight Team Fight" and "Rah Rah John Dewey" it was not only an insult to Dewey but it defeated the purpose of welcoming him.

I'm sure a number played by the ROTC Band and a hand of applause by the students would have been much more appropriate. BERNIE HIGUERA.

minute" interview, when we regretfully took our leave.

This interview with John Dewey will remain always in our memories as a great moment. I for one, will not soon forget the picture of a great man as he sat by the window and talked to some young men of things that happened long ago.

Ariel's Advertising To Feature Campus Co-eds As Models

Plans for U.V.M.'s yearbook were discussed at a recent Ariel meeting.

Several staff members brought back many ideas from the Associated Collegiate Press Convention held this summer in Detroit. Some of these plans, such as pictorial advertising, will undoubtedly be of interest to U.V.M.'s beautiful young co-eds who might like to model Burlington's finest fashions. Or, if beauty does not happen to be one of their added attractions, there is an opportunity for ambitious frosh and sophs to learn the workings of U.V.M.'s yearbook, the Ariel, and take over higher staff positions when the junior and senior members graduate.

Later on in the school year, the Ariel will hold a banquet and dance to present to its member keys and certificates in recognition of their abilities and achievements.

The Ariel has reorganized completely to produce a staff which will represent the whole school and produce a yearbook which will "top them all."

Dean Simpson Fund, Mortar Board Offers Tutoring Services

Tutoring services are available again this year at U.V.M. for both veterans and non-veterans. Veterans may be tutored in one or more subjects free of charge, and the bill will be paid by the Mary Jean Simpson Fund which was originally established in 1943 by Mortar Board to provide scholarship grants for veterans.

Mortar Board, through Student Government allocations, will secure for non-veterans, both men and women this year, approved tutors and will pay for one-half of the tutoring bill. Certain forms must be filled out by all students wishing tutoring bills paid by Mortar Board.

These students must register with the Placement Office, Room 104 Waterman, which is acting as agent for Mortar Board this year. All bills after October 10 will be paid for, but tutoring services before this date must be paid for by the student.

Anyone wishing to tutor may also register at the Placement Office after approval by a faculty member.

All bills will be turned in on the thirtieth of every month to the Placement Office until further notice. Tutoring rates follow: 80 cents an hour, individual tutoring; $1.30 an hour, tutoring two at a time; $1.50 an hour, tutoring three at a time; $1.75 an hour tutoring four at a time; $2.00 an hour, tutoring five or more at a time.

Radio Workshop To Offer Opportunities In Directing, Acting

Sixty U.V.M. students attended the first meeting of the newly organized Radio Workshop, October 26. Under the capable leadership of Miss Lydia Frank, the workshop set up plans for the future.

It was decided by the group to hold three meetings a week, and thus include all three of the various fields that the members wish to participate in. The meetings are as follows: Monday at 4.00 those interested in radio writing, Wednesday at 4.00 for those interested in sound effects, and Thursday at 4.00 for announcing, directing and acting. All meetings will be held in 23 Middle College.

The group, as yet, has not been recognized by Student Government, but plans are being made to form a club with the aim of producing skits on the local radio networks. With this incentive much interest is being shown by the students, and Miss Frank expects the club to be formed in less than a month. No elections have been held and plans call for an election after the required recognition by Student Government.

Miss Frank, a graduate of Adelphi College, Garden City, N. Y., has had much experience in radio work and has directed her own half-hour program with the workshop at Bates College. A dynamic personality, Miss Frank holds the interest of all who know her and with her guiding hand the workshop promises to be a big success. Since the first meeting many students have inquired about the organization, showing wide interest already incited.

All students are welcome to join the group and may enter any section they wish. With the many fields that the group covers, membership promises to increase rapidly. All those interested are advised to contact Miss Frank in her office at 1 Middle College.

Vermont Freshman Wears Size 15EEE

Brother, if you think you've got big feet, put them along side those of University of Vermont freshman footballer Michael Newton and see how they measure.

When Newton, South Windham native, asked frosh coach Norm Strassburg for a pair of cleats this fall, he listed his shoe size as —15 EEE.

To say the least, the University of Vermont athletic department spent the good part of a month trying to locate a pair of cleats to fit Newton's feet.

P. S.—He got the shoes.

Knowledge of A Foreign Language Seen As Definite Market Value in Many Fields

Knowledge of a foreign language has a definite market value in both clerical and non-clerical fields, according to Miss Irene Zimmerman, assistant professor of Spanish at Bucknell University.

In a recently completed study, Miss Zimmerman found that women hold the advantage for securing top secretarial positions in the domestic market, while men have almost a monopoly on stenographic jobs in foreign service.

A thorough checking of "want ads" for a period of two years reflected that the demand is greatest for Spanish students, with French listed second. Agency listings also revealed that a "surprisingly trivial knowledge of a language" may be enough to warrant salary differential.

There is some demand for Spanish-language secretaries, she continued, but literature warns against overplaying the possibilities of foreign travel for women.

Although the demand in clerical occupations for men with a knowledge of language is less than for women, male workers have two important advantages:

"The possibilities for advancement to executive positions are vastly greater," she reported, "particularly if the job is in the export field, and there are far more opportunities for travel, principally to South America."

"Language students," she concluded, "should recognize that knowledge of a language must usually be supplemented by additional skills or professional training to have a definite market value."

"Retaliation" To Be VIP's Dance Theme On Saturday, Nov. 5

"Retaliation" is to be the theme of the VIP dance this Saturday, November 5. Following immediately after the Mortar Board formal, the idea is to have the boys turn the tables on the girls who turned them the night before.

An informal record dance, the gathering will be held in the Soda Fountain and will be open to all for a small charge. It is hoped that the lucky boys invited for the night before will take advantage of the opportunity presented to them to repay their dates, but it is not to be considered prerequisite for admittance.

Second Quarter

On the second play of the period Kehoe air-mailed a jump pass into the waiting arms of St. Gelais who lugged it from his own 47 to the Mass State 14. One play later it was Kehoe and the Saint again, on the same play, to make it 13-0. Ursprung's kick made it 14-0.

The Redmen recovered a Cole fumble on Vermont's 15 and Johnny Benoit skirted his right end for the tally. The half closed with Vermont leading 14-6.

Third Quarter

In the early part of the period John McManus, of the losing visitors, electrified the crowd of 4,500 with a 60 yard return of a Kehoe punt. Mass. State bogged down and Vermont's Cole kicked to the 40. An intercepted pass by Art Collier set up Vermont's final score. Kehoe rifled to Pruneau who was tackled on the 19 with 19 yards to go for pay dirt. St. Gelais, with Hobie Cook clearing away the would be tacklers, racked up his fifth T.D. in the season. Ursprung's kick was wide and the score was 20-6.

Fourth Quarter

The Mass. State boys dug down deep into their bag of tricks and filled the air with passes during the last quarter. In the final minute of play a Benoit to Looney pass resulted in a T.D.. Final score Vermont 20—Mass 12.

W. A. A. Notes

Fourteen girls from the University of Vermont took part in a hockey sports day at Middlebury, Saturday. Five colleges, Russell Sage, Skidmore, St. Lawrence, U.V.M., and the host, Middlebury College, competed. Vermont won one game, lost one.

Making the trip with Coach Jeanne Euler were: Club Manager Mary Ellen Murray '50, Betty Cole '52, Sally Beattie '53, Bea Butterfield '53, Mary Jo Cochinto '53, Jocelyn Gobeille '53, Gwyneth Hall '53, Marjorie Kirkland '53, Tna Foti '53, Lois Hayn '53, Carol Reed '53, Shirley Whaley '53 and Barbara Willis '53. Also along to cheer were Stella Ostrowski '52, Barbara Goss '53, and Nancy Mann '53.

Miss Eleanor Cummings, director of the Women's Physical Education Department, yesterday announced a new program unit for freshmen, beginning today. Body posture and body mechanics will be stressed, and the girls will practice exercises to correct poor body posture. Square dancing will also be on the agenda for this unit.

Baseball, 1902

Baseball had developed slowly and ardently up to 1902 when it was re-established on a firmer basis at U.V.M. A declining organization had made a comeback with winning scores and now had developed into a real ball club. Of twenty-two games U.V.M. won ten and of their thirteen home games nine were victories for the Vermonters. A strong game was played all year. However, the batting department was weak.

Opening the season on April 28 was the Union game which ended 8-4 in favor of Union due to costly errors and poor hitting on the part of the varsity. Second on the schedule on the New York trip was Syracuse, a 4-3 win for Vermont. Next came West Point, a fast team, which was held to a score of 6-4. Vermont only committed two errors. Seton Hall defeated the 1902 team 5-1. A tired club arrived at Fordham and was defeated 19-3. Manhattan gave Vermont a one-sided contest at New York, the score reading 9-0 after some fine pitching by Vermont.

Winding up its trip, Vermont returned to home games. The first was with Syracuse, 4-3 at Burlington. Batting won this snappy near shutout, Vermont took Bates 12-2 and had eight runs in one inning. Playing Bates the next day, close decisions and a pitchers' battle highlighted a 7-5 comeback for Bates. Fifteen men struck out. It was Davis' work in the first Tufts game which ended 7-2 in favor of Vermont. In the second game, Tufts won 12-2, and following this, the Union game showed no comparison of pitchers, for it was Vermont's day, 14-2.

A close score, the next day crowned a hard battle for the lead. Five runs came across for Vermont in the fifth. Tobin came up in the last of the ninth with two out and a man on third. He took the chance and put one just inside the foul line for two tallies, ending the game 14-13.

Two Middlebury games ended in close scores, 2-1, Middlebury, and 4-3, Vermont.

Double plays and steals made a fast game on a hot day when Holy Cross took the Cats into camp, 3-0. St. Lawrence, Middlebury, and Rensselaer were all defeated—3-0, 6-3, and 6-1. Sixteen outs and only two hits were allowed by Clancy in the game with Middlebury.

In the New England trip Vermont played Holy Cross at Worcester, Tufts at Boston, and Tufts again at Boston.

9-4, 6-0, and 7-2 were the scores posted over Vermont.

Tennis, 1902

May 15, Dartmouth and Vermont began a three-day tournament which resulted in an 11-7 victory for Vermont. Bowdoin came the 20th and Vermont failed to remain in the win column. Final score—Bowdoin 15, Vermont 5. The autumn tournament of 1902 was won by Wallace and the champion of the spring tournament was A. T. Hutchinson.

Football, 1902

The Faculty Football Cup was won by the sophomores who had won it as freshmen the preceding year.

Brown, Dartmouth, Williams, and Wesleyan were played in the fall schedule. Brown, one of the Big Four, was met for the first time by Vermont. A spirit which had been building for many years broke into open flame this season. The team started work ahead of time. This enabled them to meet Brown and Dartmouth. Cloudman worked with them as a whole. The do-or-die attitude was one indication that the game of football was making good.

Playing two of the foremost college teams in New England, Vermont had only 11 points scored upon her after a 625-mile trip that took in Brown, a scoreless tie, and Dartmouth, 11-0. These were two of the fastest teams in New England.

Opening the season against Montpelier Seminary, Vermont rolled over its opponents, 54-0, October 1. Going into New Haven, Vermont was downed 32-0 by Yale. St. Lawrence and Union were met during the schedule and scores were 16-0 and 19-0, Vermont. Williams and Brown were the tied games, with Williams a 5-5 tie. Wesleyan was a perfect game for Vermont offensively and defensively. The general feeling was that by reason of comparative playing should not have lost as they did, 5-0.

Holy Cross was held to an 11-5 score, and Rensselaer, a home game November 1, ended with Vermont the victor by an 11-6 count. Finishing the season, which had been a fall's steady improvement for Vermont, it was felt that the clean playing and the final tabulation proved Vermont a good competitor.

Number of games and points won, considering the opposition, was quite acceptable. Of ten games there were four defeats and two ties. Opponents scored 65 points to Vermont's 126.

You Predict . . .

by Mort Kaufmann

The weather the last few days has been more conducive to baseball than football, but the classic of Fall is being played just the same and besides the sport staff would much rather pick football games except maybe if Washington, St. Louis Brown or Cubs were playing baseball. But we are getting a little off the subject or would you like to?

The prognosticators of the sport staff have decided to take a vacation due to a number of causes too technical to mention so the writer thought that you the reader would like to predict the games this week. Here are the games for the week . . . with information that might help you.

Vermont vs. Rochester

The Catamounts journey to Eastman Kodak's hometown. Remember Rochester beat Mass. by a touchdown.

Notre Dame vs. Michigan State

This contest promises to be interesting. The Spartans have lost only to Michigan and Notre Dame—they ain't lost since 1946.

Rice vs. Arkansas

The Southwest Conference may cause you error as it has the staff, the football is wide open and both these clubs are good. Rice has a 6 ounce advantage in the line.

UVM After 6th Win At Rochester Sat.

On Saturday afternoon, the Rochester Yellowjackets will play host to the Catamounts of Vermont. Both teams are equal in strength and the game should be close all the way. On the basis of comparative scores, neither team can be picked as a favorite. Union College beat Rochester, 27-7, and the following week trounced Vermont, 26-7.

The Rivermen sported a 3-2 record going into last Saturday's game with R.P.I. at Troy. They opened the season with a victory over Clarkson and then lost two games to Union and Williams. Getting back into the win column, they whipped Brockport Teachers and then pulled the upset of the season as they outscored the highly favored team from Mass. State.

The game Saturday will be the fifth in a series dating back to 1916. The record for Vermont stands at 1 won, 2 lost, and 1 tied. The tie was last year's contest at Centennial Field when the final score was 14-14. At Rochester they are saying that their team has come a long way since the start of the season and should be at its peak for the Vermont game. However, the Catamounts, enjoying their best season in many years will be out to even the series record.

Rutland, Vt.'s, Ralph Kehoe, a south-paw stylist, is the University of Vermont football team's total offensive leader with 472 net yards gained on 83 plays.

Vermont, enjoying its best grid season since 1923 with a nifty 5-1 record, meets Rochester at Rochester Saturday.

Kehoe, the quarterback, has connected on 29 of his 69 passes for 472 yards and four touchdowns. His 14 ground carries have netted 32 yards gained; but he also has lost exactly 32 yards.

Kehoe is the team's number one passer. John Ballard, Milton, Vt., with 278 net yards gained on 66 carries, is Vermont's leading rusher. Bob St. Gelais, Burlington, Vt., a halfback, has carried 56 times for 169 net yards and five touchdowns.

Capt. Stan Ursprung, New London, Conn., who has been Vermont's starting right end in its last 29 games over a four-year span, has booted ten of 13 placement attempts.

Dom Cote, Rochester, N. H., has moved up in the race for the nation's top small college punting honors. The Vermont punter, booting three times for a 52.3 average in Vermont's snappy 20-12 Yankee Conference win over Massachusetts last week, has now kicked 22 times for 924 yards and an exact 42.0 average.

Undeclared Fr. Hill And Dalers Win 3rd

Before the football team had trounced the University of Massachusetts 20-12, on Saturday, the freshman x-country team had racked up their third victory against no defeats. This time Waterbury and Danville High Schools were the vanquished squads. This meet was scored as three individual meets and Vermont defeated Waterbury 19-44, and Danville 16-47. Between the two high schools, Danville was victorious 26-31.

Highlighting the meet was Mel Wrisley's record breaking time for a freshman of 14:01, for the two and a quarter mile course. The previous record holder was Bob Caswell, now on the varsity, who had set it last year.

Following Mel, came Lowe of Waterbury H. S. in the time of 14:20. Following closely on Lowe's heels came Dick Brock of Vermont in third. Fourth was captured for the Catamounts by Saurwein, and behind him came Carroll for U.V.M. The first man to place to Danville H. S. was Bill Beattie, in sixth.

Trying to get an insight on how this year's freshman team compares with last year's squad, I asked likeable Joe Levin, the team manager, what he thought. He said this year's squad was about equal to last year's team, and a few of this year's freshman harriers will be ready for the varsity next season.

While many of you Vermont fans are still scratching your respective heads and mumbling something incoherently resembling—"yeah, but what about the statistics?"—we'd like to place a crown of laurel leaves upon the unbowed head of a gentleman named Dom Cote. What for? Because Mr. Cote, unaided by any scientific means other than his size nine Adlers, has set the opponents of the not-so-Green but Gold Catamounts back on their fanics for a total of 924 yards in a measly 22 tries this year. After due consideration Professor Clay informed us that this would come close to a 42 yard average, which means "the Germ" ranks about eighth in the country among small college punters.

Take, for example, last Saturday's game with Mass. State when Dom kicked three times. The first two boots were nothing to be ashamed of as they sailed 46 and 49 yards respectively—but the third was a spiraling beauty which nearly broke the Redman's back. "The Germ" took the ball from center and without batting an eyelash propelled the oval way over the safety's head for a 62 yard boot from the line of scrimmage. Whereupon Shorty (25 hours of sunshine) Cote ran onto the field with a hot patch and a tire pump. Dom's average for that afternoon was a healthy 52.3 yards—good in any conference, but terrific in this one.

Cote, who is 23 years old, hails from Rochester, N. H., which is on the left-hand side of the road. He has been playing football for 86 years, at least he has been playing since he came to U.V.M. and it seems like 86 years to him.

But Dom's talents on the football field are not limited to punting. In the St. Lawrence game he carried the mail on several sparkling running plays. And last Saturday, Dom Cote the passer was seen in action. His triple threat possibilities seem great indeed when one considers the fact that the fellow had no previous athletic experience before coming to Vermont.

Being a Junior this year, Cote is looking forward to another good season next year as much as the enthusiasts of the manly art of head bashing may look to "the germ" to fill the shoes of the eight lettermen who will graduate. And I, for one, think he can do it.

Varsity Club Meets

The first meeting of the University of Vermont Varsity Club was held at the Fleming Museum, October 13. Pres. John Hoskowitz read the by-laws of the Club for the benefit of new members and expressed the need for closer examination of the by-laws.

The need for a publicity director was expressed and the president was given the power to choose a director who would publicize the club in the CYNIC and Alumni News.

On October 27, the meeting of the Varsity Club was held at the Phi Delta house. Refreshments were served and movies were shown after discussion took place.

Membership in the Varsity Club is open to any member of the University who has attained a varsity letter. Meetings of the Club take place every two weeks and matters concerning all University athletics are discussed.

The next meeting will be held at Phi Sig House.

Sports Slants

By Vic Murdock

For the second straight Saturday in a row a supposedly underdog U.V.M. eleven turned the tables to post a Yankee Conference victory. Again it was the passing of Ralph Kehoe, Dom Cote's sky rocketing punts, and the defensive play of the seven pillars of marble that put the Cats in the win column. Vermont's ground game showed signs of improving with Johnny Ballard leading the way. Saturday's win gave the Cats a five won and one loss record for the season; it is the first time since 1923 that a Green and Gold football team has won more than four games in one season. John McManus, left half back of the Redmen, made the prettiest run we have watched on Centennial this year when he returned a punt in the third period for 65 yards. Vermont now has won four games as against six losses in a series that dates back to 1912; U.V.M. won the first encounter with the Redmen 9 to 7. In Yankee Conference competition the Catamounts have a perfect record and have clinched the second place spot in the league. Too bad there cannot be a playoff game between Maine, two wins and one tie and U.V.M. to decide the Championship.

Dom Cote, punter extra-ordinary, has increased his kicking average to 42 yards after Saturday's fine exhibition. Last year North Carolina's Charlie "Choo Choo" Justice was about tops for the nation with a 44 yard average. One of Dom's kick's went 62 yards in the Mass. game.

Surprising Upsets

Many experts were fooled last week as underdog teams came through to upset their opponents. Probably one of the most exciting games of last Saturday was Pitt's 22 to 21 victory over Penn. It was a blocked punt in the last forty-five seconds that knocked the Quakers out of the unbeaten ranks. A lineman was responsible for the upset as he charged in to send the ball bounding back out of the end zone, scoring a safety. Tennessee not only tripped up the Tarheels of North Carolina, but they added to Carl Snaveley's misery by rolling up a score of 35 to 6. This game of football is as shifty as the autumn breezes and that is one reason for its popularity. Purdue's bumbling Boilermakers also did the seemingly impossible when they handed Bernie Bierman's Golden Gophers its second defeat of the year with a 13 to 7 setback. Their running and passing attack has had a cramp all season, but the return of Harry Saulborski cured the offensive ailments. Alabama turned back Georgia 14 to 7 for another major upset.

Glances Here and There

The Cats met one of the lightest teams of the season when they faced Mass. last Saturday as the Redmen had a forward wall which averaged only 179 pounds; what the Mass. team lacked in weight they made up for in speed, however. Larry Killick's fine passing play in the exhibition game between the Bullets and Celtics should assure him a starting berth with the Baltimore Club. Middlebury had a rough time defeating the Norwich Cadets; it took him four quarters to score six points and that was on a 47 yard punt return by Jack Mulcahy (?). What is the reason that Middlebury and St. Mike's do not engage each other on the gridiron has been a puzzling question for the past few years. Is Middlebury afraid of the Purple Knights or is it the other way round? What seems more logical is the schedule of the two schools. The Panthers have several teams they have been meeting for years and undoubtedly they want to maintain those relations. St. Mike's does not have an adequate home football field and they have to work their schedule around U.V.M.'s. There are five Phi Deltas, one Kappa Sig and one SAE in the Vermont first string forward wall. In Vermont conference competition U.V.M. has two wins, and no losses; Middlebury has a 1-0 record; St. Mike's 0-1 and Norwich 0-2.

Guardians of The Green and Gold

Dave Banta

Dave Banta is 5 feet, ten inches tall, and weighs 200 pounds. His home town is Riverside, Conn. Dave has been playing football for the Catamounts at left guard for two years.

This year he is a key operator with the varsity eleven, on offense Dave is known for opening those big holes in the opposition line. On defense he is a rugged player, and ready for what comes his way.

Dave is now 21, and in his junior year. He is a member of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

George Schofield

George Schofield hails from South Orange, N. J. He's six feet tall, and weighs 180 pounds. He began his football career in the Columbia High School of South Orange.

Although his 180 pounds is light as far as guards go he's the right guard on this year's eleven. He's the running guard, and it is he that pulls out from his guard position and leads the interference on an end run.

George is enrolled in the School of Technology, and he's in his junior year. He's also a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

Best Season In 25 Years

The University of Vermont, with five victories in six games including two consecutive Yankee Conference triumphs, is enjoying its best football season in 25 years.

Not since 1923 when a Vermont eleven coached by J. Thomas Keedy won six games and lost only to Dartmouth, Holy Cross and Marquette and battled Boston College to a scoreless tie has a Green and Gold array racked up more than four victories in any one season.

The present Catamount edition, coached by John C. "Fuzzy" Evans, erstwhile University of Illinois backfield ace, has already won five of its six games of an eight-game schedule. Vermont has lost only to undefeated Union College while turning back St. Michael's, 7-6, St. Lawrence, 21-0, Norwich, 20-0, New Hampshire, 13-6, and Massachusetts, 20-12. The Union defeat was a 26-7 beating.

Vermont meets Rochester at Rochester this Saturday and wraps up its campaign at Middlebury Nov. 12 at which time the state championship will be at stake. Vermont is the state's winningest team with 15 titles. Middlebury has won the state title 13 times.

Vt. Frosh Opens Scoring But Purple Squires Finally Win With Devastating Attacks, 47-7

St. Michael's Squires provided the Kittens with a rough afternoon of entertainment Friday as the Purple Frosh rolled to a 47-7 win.

Vermont battled the Squires on more than even terms for a period and a half, but from that point on Barry Brannon's charges held the whip hand.

St. Mike's fumbled in the opening minutes with the Kittens recovering on SM's 44. Bob Brown racked up 14 yards to the 30 and then Phil Mann took a shovel pass around right end behind perfect blocking to cross the goal line without an opposing player laying a hand on him. A neat place kick by Gerald Brewster put U.V.M. in the lead 7-0.

It looked for a minute if the Kittens would romp for another touchdown when Phil Mann pulled a peat trick. St. Mike's completed a pass on their first play after the kickoff, but Mann stole the ball out of the receiver's hands and picked up five yards. Vermont's joy was shortlived though as they fumbled on their first play with the Squires recovering.

Three minutes later Don LaBossiere jaunted thirty yards for the home team's first TD. The Kittens broke through to smother the kick for the point.

LaBossiere intercepted a U.V.M. pass shortly after the kickoff and ran it back to Vermont's 29. Two plays later, end Dick Stokes gathered in a pass from Ken Casperson to score. Casperson kicked the extra point, but it was annulled by a 15 yard holding penalty on the Squires, and the ball was placed on the 17 yard line. Casperson then tried again and made it again.

The rest of the game proceeded like a nightmare for the Kittens. A Vermont fumble after the kickoff set up another S.M. touchdown before the half. Casperson made the six pointer plunging over from the one and also converting.

Leading 20-7 at the half, the Squires poured it on with four more touchdowns. Left end Mike Carr took two passes from LaBossiere and then weaved through two Vermont point men to score both times on gains of 35 and 41 yards respectively. Dick McCarthy plunged over from the three and Johnny Amarel romped nine yards around end for the final TD's. Casperson kicked three more extra points in this half to give the varsity club a potential kicker for next year.

1925 --- Mortar Board --- 1950

This year marks the Silver Anniversary of the Akraia Chapter of Mortar Board on this campus, and in honor of this event a Silver Anniversary Ball is being given Friday evening. This semi-annual girl-invite-boy dance has been traditionally given by Mortar Board, the senior women's national honorary society.

This week-end will be observed by the 1950 members of Mortar Board as marking the 25th year of its existence at the University of Vermont.

Saturday, a luncheon for Mortar Board alumnae will be given at Southwick, followed by discussion circles in the afternoon. Sunday afternoon, Mortar Board of 1950 will receive members of the faculty, deans of the colleges, and members of all the organizations on campus in a Coffee Hour at Southwick.

Method of Election

As declared in the preamble of the Constitution, the object of Mortar Board is service, scholarship, and leadership. On the eighty-one campuses which have a chapter of Mortar Board, the members work in many capacities toward promoting their objectives and to stimulate a finer type of college woman.

Friendship and democracy on the campus are essential. Mortar Board does activities in college, to cooperate with the Dean of Women, and to unite more closely the women of the University.

Functions on Campus

The scope of Mortar Board's activities is very wide. It has always acted to further the best interests of the University, especially for the women.

The tutoring service has always been a function of Mortar Board on this campus. It has brought together the students who need tutoring and those who wish to tutor, by way of the Registrar's office and recommendations from the proper professors.

Mrs. Roosevelt Visits

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt was entertained at the University of Vermont by Mortar Board in the spring of 1941. This visit from the First Lady to Redstone Campus is undoubtedly one of the greatest honors that any chapter can receive.

During the war, Mortar Board extended the range of its activities to working with the USO in Burlington, both acting as hostesses and keeping a Date

New members are elected in the spring from the undergraduates who will have completed their junior year at the opening of the fall term by the unanimous vote of the outgoing chapter. No chapter is permitted less than five or more than twenty members. A faculty committee works with each chapter in an advisory capacity.

At the University of Vermont, the freshman, sophomore, and junior girls themselves indicate their choices for members of next year's Mortar Board by a vote at a mass meeting in the spring. Lists containing the names of all the junior girls are given out, and the names checked are counted. They are used as a basis for the active Mortar Board girls to evaluate the merits of the girls as shown by their activities during their first three years in college.

A scholarship standard must be met by each candidate, and each must be approved not only by the University Council, but also by the National Convention. About nine hundred girls are elected to Mortar Board each year, and alumnae number about 17,000.

Formation in 1924

It was on October 18, 1924, that the local senior women's honorary society, Akraia, became the Akraia chapter of Mortar Board. The national president then came to Vermont and installed thirty-three women, including active members of Akraia, alumnae in and near Burlington, and honorary members.

These girls were "charter members" of Mortar Board, and other former Akraia members were installed during the winter. Akraia had been in existence since 1913. It was founded to further the interests of the women's ac-

Bureau. The Date Bureau was maintained on the campus with the return of veterans, until last year.

The women's dressing rooms in East Hall, Science Hall, and Waterman were furnished or redecorated by different groups of Mortar Board girls after 1940. Earlier groups had worked on Southwick, contributing to its furnishings and giving toward a kitchen which is most useful. Each group contributed toward a Southwick Improvement Fund.

This year's group has undertaken a project which is bigger than any previous one, that of furnishing and decorating the basement of Coolidge Hall as a recreation room for all girls in Coolidge.

The Big Sister movement was initiated and is still sponsored by Mortar Board on this campus for the benefit of freshman girls, and members of Mortar Board assist at the Freshman Orientation program for women.

In recognition of scholarship, a Smarty Party is given by Mortar Board every spring to bring together all the women students having Dean's List averages or higher and the other women's honoraries.

The girls have undertaken and successfully accomplished many other projects which were of value to the University.

Ideal of Mortar Board

The Vermont Creed, which Dean Wasson composed, is still used by the members of Mortar Board. The Creed follows:

"Vision to see the right our world demands.
Enthusiasm not content with dreams.
Reserve to guard foundations with firm hands.
Mentality to judge between extremes.
Opportunity for those who do not shirk.
Mentality to guide real honest work.
Tradition—all you mean to us—Vermont."

UVM Campus Leaders

By Nancy Gill Reynolds

One may readily term Scott Mahoney as a "man with a past" not, of course, to be taken in our modern interpretation of the phrase. Scott's past has been a most unique and educational one, for he has had experiences from planning Dorothy Thompson's wedding to having lunch at the American Embassy in Paris.

Born in Barre, Vt., Scott graduated from Spaulding High School, where he led "a very social" life centered about dramatics. With the profession of interior decorator in mind, he attended two art schools in Boston where he became interested in social work. Scott did work for Better Homes for America, a national organization, but found he was doing more social work than art work.

Manages Vermont Hotel

After getting married in 1936, he and his wife, Eleanor, went to Woodstock, where Scott became manager of the White Cupboard Inn. The Mahoneys' seven years at the Inn were most fascinating, for their life consisted of meeting and taking care of interesting artists, writers, and famous people. It was there that Scott planned Dorothy Thompson's wedding and entertained Otis Skinner, a frequent guest at the Inn.

However, in 1944 Scott joined the Army, where he was assigned to the 20th Armored Division as interpreter and historian. Later he wrote a history of his battalion, which included amusing and interesting incidents, places where they stayed, and objects of interest which they saw.

Because of the nature of his job, Scott gained wide traveling experience. In France he acted as interpreter between the military authorities and the local government. Through letters of introduction from people in America he widened his experiences even more; an example of this shown by his having lunch at the American Embassy in Paris.

Scott had planned to go to Cornell and manage another hotel of his own after getting out of the service, but, as he said, the experience had sharpened his wits considerably, causing him to realize that he would be coming back to a relatively shallow existence. He arrived at the conclusion that the world would never be any better if everyone just slid along.

Decides to Be Teacher

Consequently, Scott and his wife, who left U.V.M. in her sophomore year to get married, decided to enter U.V.M. to become teachers for they both felt that the teaching field had the biggest needs. Scott, majoring in political science, became interested in SCA, and last year he was elected president. He is also president of Kappa Phi Kappa and was elected last year to represent the senior class in Student Government.

Speaking of Student Government, Scott said that student democracy has a dynamic quality which can be successful, for students have learned to open their minds and listen to each other's arguments. He doesn't think student government is perfect, but neither is the national government.

Student Government Conference

In order to find out how others have solved their problems, Scott formulated the idea of having a student government conference, held here at U.V.M. two weeks ago, consisting of delegates from various schools in New England. "In order to have a more dynamic society, we must share our problems and find solutions together, thus having a town meeting idea on the campus level," said Scott, believing that if one starts meeting responsibility at an early age, the emphasis will gradually be put on "What my responsibilities are," and not "What my rights are." Thus the conference was just the beginning of a move to find out how other people are regulating their student organizations.

Scott, feels that the most important thing he has accomplished at U.V.M. is the organization of the round table discussion group, which is the only faculty-student club on campus.

Middlebury College Sponsors Martha Graham

Chartered Bus To Take UVM Students To Graham Recital

The next Vermont appearance of Martha Graham (shown above), American dance artist and choreographer will be in Middlebury, Monday evening, November 7, for her first extensive road tour since the outbreak of World War II.

Miss Graham's special appearance in the Middlebury High School Auditorium is being sponsored by the Middlebury College Women's Physical Education Department. Miss Graham, with a full company of ranking dancers, will present a program of works selected from her Broadway successes of recent years. In addition, the troupe will premiere two works, including a dramatic dance interpretation of "King Lear."

A seven-piece chamber orchestra accompanying the troupe will be led by Irwin Hoffman, young composer-conductor and founder of the Bronx Symphony Orchestra. The new works, which will be seen by Middlebury audiences in advance of Broadway production, will feature a combination of instrumental and dance effects, with the music composed for-and-with the choreography.

Miss Ethel Hoffman of the U.V.M. Women's Physical Education Department said yesterday a bus will be chartered to take anyone interested to the Martha Graham dance recital in Middlebury, Monday evening, November 7. Tickets are on sale in the Waterman Building for the concert and for the bus, which will leave here at 6.30. Tickets for the bus will be sold only on Wednesday, November 2. Reservations should be made early, or Miss Ethel Hoffman should be contacted.

Inquiring Reporter . . .

Since we are always open for suggestions on how to improve the paper so that it would be better all around, we thought it might be a good idea to ask people "How can the CYNIC be improved?"

1. Madaleen Ellis '50, Brookfield:

"I'd like to see a better coverage of news stories. Too often something is left out altogether, or is incompletely covered. An example is the story last week on the Variety Show. Improvement is on the way, though, I think, with the new scrub system started this fall. Another suggestion is that the paper come out at a better time. Because of the time it now comes out, important stories aren't covered."

2. "M. E." Parris '50, Bellows Falls:

"The CYNIC might as well leave out notices that are out-of-date altogether, rather than have them in late. A WAA column on the sports page would be a good idea as it would attract the attention of many of the girls who don't even look at the sports page. The editorials could be more pertinent. Those that appeared in the past issues have had no point to them."

3. Miss Betty Bandel, English Department:

"The CYNIC has improved itself immensely already. I've noticed that it has started covering all aspects of life here at U.V.M. That is, students, faculty, clubs, etc. Proofreading has also improved. Headlines could be made better. There have been a few cases where they haven't fit the story. The features about individual students add to the paper. A policy of giving a fresh aspect to old news and different things that we take for granted would also add

4. Prof. Leon W. Dean, English Department:

"The CYNIC can be improved by a better news style in news stories. This would help the paper. As for the leads and general phraseology, they aren't always newspaper type. Coming events should get more coverage, and stories in general could be more accurate. On the whole the CYNIC is a good paper."

Student Gov't. Conference

U.V.M. Student Government may feel well satisfied with the outcome of the first Student Government Conference which was held October 21 and 22.

One hundred participants including student delegates, faculty advisors, P.T.A. members, members of administration and interested citizens took part in the two-day sessions to consider the idea and possibility of Student Government at the college and secondary school levels.

Co-sponsors of the conference were other Vermont colleges which included Trinity, St. Michael's; Lyndon Teachers, Johnson Teachers, Green Mountain Junior College, Bennington and Goddard.

The Conference began at nine o'clock with registration and a coffee hour in the Student Lounge.

At a luncheon held in the Waterman Building, Dr. A. John Holden, commissioner of education, in the keynote address of the convention stressed the fact that the experiences gained in student government organizations will be of definite help to undergraduates in meeting the problems they will encounter after completion of their formal education. Doctor Holden pointed out that high school and college students are not in a position to do much about such national problems as those of the U.N., stream pollution, and the wide range of vital public questions. However, he said, by the things they learn through student government operation and the solution of intra-school matters, they can prepare themselves to know how to approach those which will come in later life. Others who were present and spoke briefly were: President Lyman, Mrs. Helen Pitkin of Goddard, Don Elbertson, Vermont Farm Bureau director of education, Dr. Bennett Douglass, Dean Haugen, Ed Costello, and Scott Mahoney, chairman of the conference.

The sessions began at Southwick Auditorium with all participants attending a case study demonstration of how a discussion group should be conducted. Afterward the conference broke up into several panel groups and round table discussions.

Delegates and students enjoyed a rare treat Saturday evening—a free dance sponsored by the social and cultural committee at U.V.M. The dance with a "Rags to Riches" theme was held in the gym from 8.30-12.

The fine music of the U.V.M. Catamounts emanated from the north side of the gym surrounded by pumpkins of assorted sizes and, perched up over the orchestra a lighted jack-o-lantern added to the autumn atmosphere.

Forestry Students' Outing Features Sawing Contests

Scene of much hard labor and enthusiasm Saturday, October 24, was the University of Vermont Forestry Department's Research Forest in Jericho where pre-forestry students held their annual outing.

About 20 forestry students and their guests participated in horseshoe pitching, volleyball and log sawing contests with time trials.

Host at the party was the sophomore class. Guests included Dr. William R. Adams, head of the U.V.M. Department of Forestry; Dean of Administration Rolf Haugen; Raymond Foulds, extension forester; R. B. Shannon, research assistant in forestry at U.V.M.; and Robert Carlson, Chittenden County Agricultural Agent.

Winners of the log-sawing contests were Raymond E. Leonard '52, Pittsford and Clark Bothfield '52, Cabot, on the cross-cut, and Arthur French '53, Orleans, on the buck saw.

The entertainment was followed by a real woodmen's feed of home-baked beans prepared by Doctor Adams, Robert C. Hayes '52, Pittsford, and Roy A. Whitmore, Jr. '52, Flushing, N. Y.

UVM Band Presents First In Series Of Concerts On WCAX

The University of Vermont Band began a broadcast series of band concerts Sunday from 5 to 5.30 p.m. in the Ira Allen Chapel. Pres. Elias Lyman also spoke briefly to the radio and chapel audience.

The initial concert over WCAX stressed the theme of what the University of Vermont does for the people of Vermont and for the state. The monthly concerts are directed by the public relations department and produced by the radio section of the speech department.

James Jennings, public relations head, said the general public and students are invited to attend the broadcasts, but must be in their seats by 4.55 p.m., and must conduct themselves like any radio audience.

The theme song of the new Sunday afternoon program will be "Vermont Victorious."

SCA Plans "Muscular Christianity" To Aid Vermont Families

Students at the University of Vermont are going in for Christianity in a big way, but this is a different type; it's muscular Christianity.

Through the Student Action Commission of the Student Christian Association, students at U.V.M. each week-end will participate in helping farmers and householders in this area to overcome problems.

The first week deputation project was this week-end. Fifteen students began painting a house, inside and out, that belongs to a Vermont family in need of assistance.

During the summer, the house was burned to the ground. Now it has been rebuilt, but was still in need of a paint job. So the Vermont students assisted in the painting, allowing the family to move in before snow flies.

The next project which the students will tackle is that of trimming a border hedge for the owner of a small farm who is now too old to do the work.

Under the direction of Carlisle Graves of Springdale, Conn., and Polly Buttrick of Burlington, the Student Action Commission arranges for volunteers for the projects. Prof. R. A. Hall, head of the Religious Life Committee, contacts ministers in this area for names of persons or families who need physical assistance. Then the students don their work clothes and are off.

Professor Hall said he hopes the "muscular Christians" will be kept busy each week-end until next June. He expressed the hope that fraternities, sororities and other groups would send delegations to work on week-ends.

University Club Meeting Will Be Held November 5

Members and prospective members of The University Club will meet on Saturday, November 5, in the University Club Rooms, third floor, Waterman Building. This is the first dinner meeting scheduled by the organization this year. The dinner will be held in the Faculty Dining Room at 6:45 p.m. A twelve pound turkey, donated by Prof. Faye Crabbe of the Department of Nursing Education, will be raffled off as the featured event of the dinner.

Following the dinner, the members and prospective members will hear an address by Mr. David W. Howe, publisher of the Burlington Free Press, who will discuss the press and newspaper publishing. Prof. Muriel J. Hughes, president of the University Club, announced today that members and prospective members who do not attend the dinner, may, if they wish, attend Mr. Howe's address.

You Predict

Southern California vs. Stanford

Southern California has lost to California and tied Ohio State. Leland Stanford, the railroad Magnate founded Stanford.

Texas vs. Baylor

The Baylor Bear has been the surprise of the cow country this year. Top of the round is selling in Omaha at 10 cents a pound.

Union vs. Middlebury

Union is undefeated and one of the better small college teams in the East. Middlebury has been beaten twice . . .

Brown vs. Yale

This should prove difficult. Neither team has shown greatness. Brown is coached by "Rip" Engel, Yale by Herman Hickman.

Duke vs. Wake Forest

Duke has a new president and a terrific back named Coxs. Wake Forest has a big line.

It might be added that additional information upon these teams can be procured by reading good newspapers and magazines. Incidentally, anyone that gets a perfect score is invited to join the sport staff immediately.

Leave your predictions in the CYNIC Office.

President Lyman Opens Chest Drive

Lt. McDonald, USNR Announces Openings In Enlistment Ratings

Lt. John McDonald, Executive Officer of the Surface Division 1-44 of the Naval Reserve, has announced that openings exist in the local unit in all pay grades. With enlistments limited to a total of 200 enlisted personnel a few rates are now vacant Lieutenant McDonald stated, and these vacancies are expected to be filled in the near future.

Inaugurating the Campus Chest Drive at the University of Vermont, an "all-eggs-in-one-basket" campaign for funds for all campus activities, is Pres. Elias Lyman, Jr., shown above.

Heading the drive, which starts October 29, are Ruth Goldberg, Peggy Fisher, and Mary Ellen Fuller.

Anyone desiring additional information should call 6149 or talk with Lieutenant McDonald or Lieutenant Commander O'Neill at the Naval Reserve Training Center.

Or better yet see Bill Baldwin at the Sigma Nu house.

VIP Opens New Drive For Members, Group Is Coed

New members will be the object of the drive which the Vermont Independents are initiating this week. Having waited until the fraternity and sorority rushing campaigns were well underway, VIP selected this time for its expansion program in order to present the independent side of the social problem at U.V.M., as well as the fraternal, with which the freshmen are just becoming acquainted.

VIP was founded in 1947 to give the independent students on campus a chance to compete on equal grounds in all school activities as well as to give them a social group with which they could become affiliated without the necessity of joining a "Greek."

Since that time, VIP has grown in stature and in membership, so that at present, while it does not attempt to represent all of the independent students on campus, it does provide a common meeting ground for those interested.

The membership drive, under the chairmanship of Clint Hull, is being conducted for this week only, although one of the basic tenets of VIP remains that one may join at any time and is equally free to leave the organization whenever he should so desire.

Membership is not restricted in any way, there being no qualifications as to religion, race, financial status, or size of the group. It is the first co-educational group of this type to be attempted on this campus, and is one of the few of this nature now existing in the country, al-

Choir, Orchestra To Present Secular Concert Thursday

The University Choir, Howard Bennett, directing, and the University Orchestra, Ippocrates Pappoutsakis conducting, will give a secular concert in the Allen Chapel, Thursday evening, November 3 at 8:15.

The dominating work on the program will be The Rio Grande, a concert-fantasy by Constant Lambert. Featured in the performance of this piece will be Elsa Kremers Bennett, solo pianist; Mary Bremer, second pianist; with Shirley Lancot and Paul Williams singing the vocal solos.

In addition the choir will present three gypsy dances by Brahms and Autumn by Gretchaninoff. The orchestra will present excerpts from the ballet Swan Lake and the Nutcracker Suite by Tchaikovsky and parts of Gayane and the Masquerade by Khachaturian.

The concert is free and is open to the public.

though the independent movement is quite widespread.

While freshman girls may join the group, as may anyone else, merely by payment of the dollar yearly dues, they will not be allowed to attend meetings until after Thanksgiving, at which time they will be permitted to be at VIP meetings until 9 o'clock.

Cats Seek State Title and 7-1 Record At Midd

Pep Rally Fri. Night To Be Biggest In UVM History

Friday evening beside the gym, the biggest and best Pep Rally in the history of this University will be held for all students and faculty of the University of Vermont. It will highlight a very successful football season and show our Saturday rivals that we are making the trip to Middlebury for only one reason—so that we may come back with another victory tucked neatly under our belts.

We are holding up our end with three cords of wood, five prominent speakers, band, cheerleaders, songs, cheers, bonfire, snake dance, and a dance at the gym.

At seven o'clock, things will start perk'kin'. The Band will be knockin' out Cotton Babes, the cheerleaders will be strainin' their sacroiliacs with "Boogie Woogie Conga—U.V.M. is stronger" (can't you just see Virginia Smith, Sherry Gelheart, Zoe Kenniston, Joan Copp, and Nancy Leming doin' a conga? Wow!!!).

For the benefit of those who burn gas, we will have a very distinguished speaker who, from experience, really knows how to get things really hot. None other than our illustrious president, Mr. Elias Lyman. He has cancelled his important meeting with the Anthracite and Bituminous Stokers Convention in order to be with us for this gigantic affair. Of course it wouldn't be complete if we didn't have an appearance from Nero's downfall, the Burlington Fire Chief. He too is a very "extinguish" person. Naturally, when outstanding people are mentioned, we think of Mayor Moran. And I'll be darned if he won't be there too. He said that he would give a short forty-five minute speech on "The fundamental concepts of a Nationalized Skunk Project." Sounds zizzling!!! Then, yesterday afternoon, the Police Chief called us up and wanted to know why he hadn't been asked to speak. What could I do but tell him to come? Nothing. So he and his henchmen will probably be playing Sam Spade around the camp fire. Oh yes, the man who carries all our laundry cases full of dirty socks will be there also. None other than the Burlington Postmaster. He is stamped as one of our most prominent citizens. He has just returned from a Postmasters' Convention at Chicago, where he was "enveloped" in a heated discussion on the subject "Should 'Dear John' letters Be Banned From The Males."

Then, with all the personnel, the entire student body, faculty and what-have-you will proceed with the traditional snake-dance. It will be the greatest, the biggest, the most terrific, the most stupendous, gigantic, titanic assembling of our University since 1791. Even Ira said he'd rattle his bones to help make a little noise. "Everyone's tryin' to get in the act" and everyone will be in this snake dance to top all snake dances. But it won't end there—no siree, cuz right after the snake dance there will be a dance at the gym. Everyone is invited and it will cost you next to nothing. Only twenty-five cents per couple for three hours of dancing, from eight to eleven. What more could you want for an evening's fun?

Now that we've told you what to expect Friday night here's a little news for those of you who are going to the game Saturday. Naturally that applies to the whole student body. You can buy, for only $2.25, a round trip ticket to the Middlebury game, and a reserved seat in the cheering section. The Pep Committee has done all in their power to give you a fair deal on this, our last game, by arranging for chartered busses and reserved seats. The price stated, $2.25, will just cover the cost and so we are able to bring this to you at a price we feel you can afford to pay. Tickets are on sale at Waterman in the corridors, or in the Book Store.

So my fellow students these are the facts. It's up to you now. Let's show Middlebury, let's show the team and Fuzzy, let's show the town, and most important of all let's show ourselves that we can and will make this a night not soon to be forgotten.

Student Soliciting For Campus Chest Reaches $600 Point

The students in charge of personal soliciting for the Campus Chest drive reported $400 in cash and pledges received up to last Thursday, Nov. 3. The many "special activities" put on for the Chest raised the total to $600 of the $5,000 quota.

On Thursday evening the captains of the soliciting teams met in the president's dining room to report their progress to Mary Fuller, drive chairman. Each said that student response was favorable, but that only a small percentage of calls had been made. It was expected that this week would see the peak of canvassing and would bring a better indication of the success of the '49 Campus Chest.

University Concert Features Lambert's Fantasy 'Rio Grande'

By John Moore

The University Choir, under the direction of Howard Bennett, and the University Orchestra, directed by Ippocrates Pappoutsakis, gave their annual Secular Concert on November 3. It was a highly competent job, with especial credit going to Jean MacLaughlin, Shirley Lancot, and Elsa Kremers Bennett.

The main work on the program was the Rio Grande, labelled a "jazz concert fantasy" by its composer, Constant Lambert. In this the choir was assisted by Mrs. Bennett as solo pianist; Mary Bremer, second piano; Shirley Lancot, alto; and Paul Williams, baritone. It was a good job, but the choir was hampered by the quality of the music itself.

It is the opinion of this writer that Lambert and Sacheverell Sitwell, who wrote the words, did not make an honest effort in this composition. The effect is that of a good song writer capitalizing on the medium of his age, rather than that of serious music.

On the rest of the program the choir offered a miscellaneous group of selections including "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," with Jean MacLaughlin as soloist and gave its best performance in Gretchaninoff's "Autumn."

The orchestra did very well in its own group, which consisted of compositions for the ballet by Tchaikovsky and Khachaturian.

New Appointments To UVM Faculty Are Announced By Pres.

A number of ratified appointments to the faculty of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College have been announced by Pres. Elias Lyman as follows:

William S. Kimball as associate professor of mathematics. Professor Kimball took his A.B. at Amherst, with Phi Beta Kappa honors and his M.A. and Ph.D. at the University of Chicago. He has held teaching posts in the physics department at the University of Michigan, the mathematics department at Michigan State, as head of mathematics at Roberts College, Istanbul, Turkey and at the U. S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, where he taught marine engineering.

Charles W. Hoilman as associate professor of electrical engineering. Professor Hoilman took both his B.S. and M.S. in electrical engineering at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, and was for a number of years on the V.I.P. faculty. From 1942 to 1948 he was a member of the navy, as lieutenant and lieutenant-commander. He is the author of articles in a number of technical magazines.

Jules A. Larrivee, re-appointed as assistant professor of mathematics. Professor Larrivee first came to Vermont in 1946, remaining until 1948 when he resigned. He received his B.S. from Massachusetts Institute of Technology, his M.A. from George Washington University and his Ph.D. from the Catholic University of America. He has held posts as astronomer with the U. S. Naval Observatory in Washington, as mathematician at Johns Hopkins University's Applied Physics Laboratory and as physicist at the Naval Ordnance Laboratory in Washington. He has also been lecturer in mathematics at the Catholic University of America.

Donald H. Harwood, M.D., as instructor in pharmacology at the College of Medicine. Dr. Harwood attended Burr and Burton Seminary and Amherst Col-

Maxwell Anderson's "Winterset" To Be Dramatic Club Play

The play "Winterset" by Maxwell Anderson will be presented by the U.V.M. Dramatic Club. Mr. Humphrey of the Speech Department will direct the play which is to be presented at Southwick on Dec. 8 and 9.

Those responsible for various parts in the presentation are: Leonard Tomat, business manager; Tom Kent, stage manager; Audrey Kerner, tickets; Bob Taisey, publicity; Howard Delano; stage crew; Bob Sutherland, lights; Mike Wiedman, costumes; Caroline Foster, make-up; Mrs. Betty McMahon, properties; Alma Warrell, ushers; and Nancy Lering, house and programs.

All seats will be reserved, and tickets will be on sale in Waterman, Dec. 1. The price will be fifty and seventy-five cents.

This production will be the second of four which the Dramatic Club has scheduled. The "Varieties" and "Winterset" are the two fall productions. During Junior Week the spring play will be given, and towards the end of May the club will put on an operetta.

Fifty people tried out for the 23 parts in "Winterset." This was a large turnout and offered a great deal of talent with which to fill the parts. Mr. Humphrey expressed his hope that there will be an equally large turnout in the spring.

Hebsch and Kehoe Score In 14-0 Win Over Yellowjackets

By Jerome Agel

Those lucky old sons—alias the eye-catching, vivacious UVM football debs—will have their final coming-out party of the 1949 season Saturday afternoon.

At that time, chaperone J. C. "F." (for "Fuzzy" and "Fearless") Evans will lead Vermont's most attractive, awesome beauties in a quarter of a century onto center stage, Porter Field, Middlebury, where they will promptly curl their lower lip, shed their dignity and become the brutal, violent and savage monsters of the gridiron who have grinded out this season the school's most attractive winning record since the days of Clara Bow, Will Harding and silent Cal Coolidge.

For at 1.45, Saturday afternoon, another chapter in the thrill- and memory-soaked UVM football record tablet will be written. Any way you slice it, Saturday's melee at Middlebury against the powerful Panthers will be a dog-eat-dog affair and will have more at stake than at any other time since 1897 when a UVM football mob first stepped out and yelled "boo!" across the 50-yard stripe at such institutions as Rutland Institute (0-0), Middlebury College (14-0, yea!), Vermont Methodist Seminary (10-10), Rutland Institute again (12-0, yea again) and Norwich University (62-4, yea again).

Here's the situation which prevails: in other words, by manufacturing in the past its own breaks with an overdose of hustle—a six-letter, sixty-minute word—and its own touchdowns, 15 in number, the Vermont football team will have the following on the battle lines Saturday: To wit—a victory will wrap up the team's eight-game, 1949 campaign with a splendid seven-won, one-lost record, the best since '97; also, a victory will give the Green and Gold its sixteenth state title since '97 and a three-game edge in the conference championship column over the number two and coming-fast Midd Panthers.

All Out

The works will be shot on both land and in the air by the Catamounts Saturday. The incentive to win is tremendous. Evans, who has tutored and brought along his present crop of battlers the last one, two and three years, is faced with the piece de resistance of the season. Fuzzy will be plugged all week to get 'em up there physically and have his array ship-shape for the Middlebury game which will make or break the season.

Mentally, the pep committee of the University is pulling no punches in an attempt to tell their football cohorts they're in back of them all the way. A giant pep rally and a mammoth street parade through the heart of downtown Burlington will polka-dot Friday night's pregame activities. Five busses have been

Calm That Spirit

Sports rivalry between colleges has existed now for years—in fact, almost as long as colleges have existed. Intercollegiate vandalism has existed almost as long. Students of rival colleges have only too often awakened to see their campus daubed with paint or to see some malicious damage. This horse-play used to be condoned and fostered as evidence of "school spirit." This situation no longer exists. The modern college student looks at this perverted form of amusement only as the work of immature minds.

But, the traces of vandalism are not dead yet. U.V.M. has been implicated twice this year in painting campuses of rival schools. Green paint was found both at St. Michael's and at Norwich. There's doubt as to whether U.V.M. students did it, but the evidence was there.

This week we play our last game against Middlebury and ordinarily the situation would seem ripe for another raid. But this is not an ordinary situation. Steps to secure the cooperation of Middlebury and Vermont have been taken. We owe thanks to those who initiated these steps—the Vermont Interfraternity Council. In addition to a letter seeking the aid of the Midd IFC, the Vermont Council has enlisted the aid of all fraternities at U.V.M. to smother any planned uprisings. More, the Vermont Men's Honorary societies, Boulder, Key and Serpent and Gold Key, have cooperated by contacting all dorm men. The situation is not perfect for there is no absolute control over all possible wrongdoers, but all possible in this situation has been done.

There were no assurances from Middlebury and similarly there can be no out-and-out promises from the Vermont administration. It is first of all a student affair. Responsible students have taken the lead. Let's keep our noses clean.

Item Of The Times

Found tucked away under the heading "Public Notices" of a recent issue of the New York Herald-Tribune: "Warren Austin for President of U.V.M."

Inquiring Reporter

One thing that makes a school tops with both its students and faculty is its school spirit! Here on the U.V.M. campus the Pep Committee has been trying very hard to bolster our enthusiasm at school activities such as football games and the like. This year, more than ever before, we have shown that we have what it takes to make U.V.M. the best school there is. We all agree that school spirit is necessary, but the question is: how necessary?

You guessed it! Our question for this week is, "How necessary do you think school spirit is?"

1. Bill Riddell, Burlington, Vermont:

"I think it is an essential part of the school. I think it helps to bring the school together more than anything else. People with different ideas and different interests can be brought together in this way, and they can share their ideas."

2. Peggy Fisher, Moodus, Connecticut:

"School spirit forced school spirit is worse than none at all. When school spirit comes from a feeling, it's fine. The emphasis should be on the feeling, rather than the spirit alone!"

3. Ruth Coburn, West Fairlee, Vermont:

"School spirit is important not only on the playing field, but on the campus itself. If you have pride in your spirit, and your team, there is a resulting carry-over into the whole atmosphere of the campus. It creates a much more friendly atmosphere on the campus."

4. Tom Hayes, Bellows Falls, Vermont:

"There can never be good school spirit on any campus unless, among many of

Students To Vote On Proposed Constitutional Changes Nov. 14, 15

U.V.M. Student Government is holding a Constitutional Convention in Ira Allen Chapel yesterday, at 4 to go over the constitution and by-laws. The committee hopes to put the constitution in its final form, with the aid of the students, so that it can be voted upon. Voting will take place Nov. 14, and 15 in Waterman, from 8.30 a.m. to 5.00 p.m.

At the meeting, Wednesday, rules of procedure for voting were passed out to the students. All motions for changes, amendments, and additions also were made by the student body, and submitted in writing. Professor Huber was the presiding officer. Each article was read and if there were no objections, the next article was taken up. If there were any objections, the article was laid aside, until all the articles had been read. At the end, the articles objected to were discussed and changes made accordingly.

Last January the new Constitutional Revision Committee began its work. Some ideas were developed at the National Student Association Conference, held at the University of Illinois this summer, and attended by U.V.M. students Jean Ritchie, Bill Dingerson, Scott Mahoney, and Al Streeter. The Student Advisory Committee has also gone over the constitution and their recommendations will be incorporated.

The Committee urges every student to vote, since a two-thirds vote of those voting in the last general election of officers is required for ratification.

Among the proposed amendments, is a change in the system of elections. Previously all elections were determined by a plurality vote. Under the new system, the Hair System of Proportional Representation, which is published in the Book-store, politics will be eliminated. Minority representation and majority rule will be assured, and elections will take place in December instead of in January as before.

The new constitution has been divided into a constitution (structure) and by-laws (mechanics and procedures), and the wording has been clarified. The committee is trying to emphasize an attitude of co-operation between students, faculty and administration, in campus activities for the mutual benefit of all concerned. They also hope for a well-run Student Government with students having more direct control.

Dr. Walsh Calls for Gov't Supplement To Free Enterprise

Maintaining that this country has passed the stage where free enterprise can do it all, Dr. J. Raymond Walsh, director of the National Bureau of Economic Research, told Vermont Forum members gathered last Wednesday evening in City Hall Auditorium, that public assumption of responsibility is now necessary to supplement the efforts of free enterprise.

Opposing him and upholding the negative side of the question "Do we want more government provided security?" was Dr. Thomas H. D. Mahoney, professor of history at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

In resting his faith on individual effort, Dr. Mahoney cited the cooperative movement as a fine example of what a group of individuals can do toward bettering their own way of living.

He added, however, that there exists an alarming indifference on the part of the average American toward government. As a result of this, he claimed that any plan for government provided security will be passed by an interested minority over the opposition or the absence of the majority.

Referring to the current nation wide steel strikes, Dr. Walsh told the forum that here was an example of two great private powers coming to a decision affecting the welfare of everyone, yet based its students and teachers, there is an interest in learning for its own sake as well as the practical application of that learning. As long as the libraries are used only for aid in completion of assignments, and not as a means to answer an intellectual curiosity, U.V.M. will be lacking in what I term school spirit!"

Cynic Critic Lauds Mrs. Sadah Start

By John Moore

It is incredible to believe that Sadah Shuchari Start is a member of the faculty, for her concert last Sunday proved that she is a concert violinist of the highest caliber. A description of the whole concert would entail exhausting the normal supply of superlatives and then trying to resurrect some that Hollywood has dragged through the dirt. Technically she was as good as any violinist I have heard.

The program was excellent throughout, but a few of the works deserve particular attention. The Bach G minor Fugue for violin alone, about as difficult a work as I have heard, was carried out admirably, with the exception of some trouble with the D string over which Mrs. Start had no control. The Nocturne by Szymanowski has an exotic beauty which can't be forgotten. Finally, in Wieniawski's "Carnaval Russe" she went completely through the virtuoso's bag of tricks, including complicated harmonics passages, double stop trills, and a few things that I still don't understand. However, I can not hope to criticize Mrs. Start. All I can do is sit back and admire her.

merely on their own conception of the public good.

In this and a number of other cases, he added, such as health, housing, education, medicine, and the combating of depression, government is the only feasible organ to step in and determine what is the public good.

Dr. Mahoney envisioned such plans as leading only to bankruptcy and nationalization, with also the possibility of a labor government. He felt, however, that all three of these can be avoided by individual effort.

College Instructor Advises Men To Choose A Mate With Higher IQ

"Marry a woman who knows more than you do" is the advice given to college students by Warren Bruner, management consultant who is conducting an experimental course in career determination at Marietta College, Ohio.

"A man's personality and mental stature tend to increase as he progresses in his occupational field," he told his class recently. "On the other hand, a woman starts going backward as soon as she enters a career as a homemaker—unless she realizes the danger and fights hard against it."

"Educate her less than the man, or start them even, and you provide one of several causes for the case of a man in middle life divorcing the partner of his early struggles to seek a more compatible mate."

Marriage as a career is one of many fields considered by Bruner in his course. The course is intended, he said, to "lead to a wise choice of specific careers by exposing students to comparable information about a number of career fields.

"As far as is known," Bruner continued, "Marietta College is one of the few liberal arts colleges in which life planning is considered as important as delving into literature, history, art, or other subjects carried in most curricula. At least, it's the only one that offers courses in career determination which students may elect for credit."

These courses are the heart of a program of life planning, Bruner said. But he believes a college's obligations to students and society are not fully discharged until the courses are supplemented by individual career counseling and an effective placement service.

"A number of other colleges," he said, "are watching the experiment here with considerable interest. Many people think the time is not far distant when all colleges will be compelled by popular demand to offer instruction of this type."

Seniors May Apply For Scholarships To Foreign Colleges

Announcement has recently been made by the Department of State and the President's Board of Foreign Scholarships of the opening of competitions for U. S. Government awards for graduate study in the United Kingdom, Belgium, Burma, Netherlands, Philippines, Greece, New Zealand, France, Italy, Iran and Norway for the academic year 1950-51.

The scholarships offered to American graduate students are made available as a result of Public Law 584, 79th Congress (the Fulbright Act). This is the second year in which American graduate students will have the opportunity of competing for these awards which provide travel tuition and maintenance for study abroad for one academic year.

The number of opportunities in the various participating countries are listed as follows:

United Kingdom 156; Belgium & Luxembourg, 22; Burma, 3; Netherlands, 25; Philippines, 6; Greece, 12; New Zealand, 10; France, 220.

In the cases of Italy, Norway and Iran the exact number of the scholarships to be offered is not available at this time, but applications are being received in these competitions nonetheless.

The basic eligibility requirements are: 1. American citizenship. 2. A college degree or its equivalent by the time the candidate takes up his award. 3. Knowledge of the language of the country sufficient to carry on his studies abroad.

Interested applicants who are presently enrolled at a college or university should get information and application forms from the Fulbright Program Committee on their own campus. The Secretary of the Fulbright Program Committee on this campus is: Dr. Eugene K. Eakin, Director of the Office of Placement, Room 104, Waterman Building.

Concerts to be Given By University Bands

A series of band concerts by the combined University and R.O.T.C. bands conducted by Dr. Joseph Lechnyr has been planned under the direction of the Public Relations Office. These concerts are to be held on the third Sunday of each month during the school year. They will take place at Ira Allen Chapel from 5.00 to 5.30. The doors will close at 4.55 because the concerts are being broadcast over station WCAX.

These concerts are being produced by the Radio Workshop. A great deal of credit should be extended to Miss Lydia Frank as the director of this group.

The first concert was held Sunday, Oct. 30. Many highly complimentary comments were received about it at the Public Relations Office.

The newly organized Men's Chorus is expected to join with the band in future concerts, possibly starting at the next one scheduled for Sunday, Nov. 20.

At this concert President Lyman will give a three minute talk on subjects of general interest.

Both students and the public are invited to attend.

UVM Organizations Contribute Talents To Campus Drive

U.V.M.'s clubs, honorary societies, and other organizations have been bubbling with activity lately. The Campus Chest was responsible for most of the business carried on last week-end.

A novel publicity stunt at the U.V.M. vs. Mass. game forecast these activities. As the band formed an impressive "CC" the tiny Belden twins emerged from a trunk carrying a banner inscribed "Campus Chest." Staff and Sandal's sale of candy bars was another hint of coming events.

Towards the end of last week the ground floor of the Waterman Building looked like a carnival midway. For the benefit of the Campus Chest, dungaree-clad girls in shirtsleeves shined shoes, as Pi Phi's contribution.

The Social Action Commission of S.C.A. had a baby contest to offer. The contestants were Mary Corcoran, Leon Dean, Florence Pizinger, James Pooley, Jack Trevithick, Mary Jean Simpson, and the Rev. R. A. Hall.

Mouths watered at the pastry offered for sale by the French Club. The Red-stone dormitory auctioned off a cocker spaniel, Alpha Epsilon Phi sold apples, and Key and Serpent sold chances for the Middlebury game. Delta Phi Epsilon's grab bag was also a main attraction on the "midway."

Sophomore Aides created quite a sensation with their nail-driving contest. Many confident males tried the seemingly easy task of hammering a nail in a birch log, and to their amazement couldn't do it with their allowed three tries.

Another attraction was the food table of genuine Tri-Delt made cakes, pies, doughnuts and breads. Such delicious looking, and tasting foodstuffs were hard to resist. The Poultry Club Barbeque and the Pep Committee's sale of tickets for the Middlebury game also worked into the motley parade of projects.

Dr. Daniels Lectures At Fleming Museum

Dr. F. Daniels lectured to the Sigma Xi Society on Friday evening, November 4, at Fleming Museum on "The Future of Atomic and Solar Energy."

Doctor Daniels opened his lecture by stating that our natural resources are slowly diminishing. After they are gone, we shall have three sources of power to rely on: Waterpower, Atomic and Solar Energy. He told of the history and development of atomic and solar energy up to the present time and went on to explain the economic and physical problems involved in developing these powers for commercial use.

Doctor Daniels, at present, is a professor of chemistry at the University of Wisconsin. During the past war, he served with the Chemical Warfare Service and was an Atomic Energy Consultant.

Dr. Hyla S. Waters Discusses Vocations At SCA Gathering

At the third supper meeting of Student Christian Association a missionary surgeon and representatives from local church groups participated in a panel discussion on vocations.

Dr. Hyla Waters, a surgeon at the Methodist General Hospital in Wu Hu, China, helped to organize the hospital after graduating from Smith College, and the School of Tropical medicine in London.

During the war Doctor Waters was interned by the Japanese, then came to the United States on the Gripsholm. The later returned to China to continue her work.

While at UVM, Doctor Waters gave interviews for those interested in becoming medical missionaries. Her visit here was sponsored by the Student Volunteer Movement. The Faith and Worship Commission, headed by Larry Ainsworth and Harriet Gregory, made arrangements for the meeting.

charted to transport the student body to the game. All will probably be used. Nine hundred and fifty tickets also have been made available for student personnel. As a result, the Green and Gold should be well represented on the sidelines and by all means well represented on the playing turf. With the whirlpool bath working overtime this week, UVM's key performers should be in tip-top shape for Saturday's brawl against a rejuvenated Middlebury eleven which has lost only two of its six contests, beaten Norwich 6-0, in its only state contest and battled previously unbeaten, untied Union, Vermont's victimizer, to a 14-14 snarl last week-end. Capt. Stan Ursprung, who started his thirtieth consecutive game at right end most impressive—record wise—in the football history of the school is at hand. Only time—and perhaps a couple of pep talks and thoughts of what a victory will mean—will tell. From the Sidelines: In flogging Rochester (no relation to the valet of the same name), the Cats were ruptured with injuries from stem to stern. Robinson, one of the, if not the best backer-up in the state, Schofield and Ballard did not see action. Each will start against Middlebury, though, they're that important. . . . Hebsche's TD, coming after Dempsey blocked a punt and raced 29 yards with it to the eight, was his first of the year. . . . Don, pinch-running for Ballard, the team's leading runner, ran six yards to his right and then three yards up the middle to set the Cats up with a 7-0 first period margin as Stan (The Man) Ursprung booted his eleventh placement of 14 kicks. Collier, respected and liked by one and all, stole a Rochester pass in the dying moments of the game to set up TD number two. He raced 25 yards with it before being cut down on the three. Farrell went two and Kehoe sneaked over for the TD. With Ursprung out of there, Collier kicked the extra point.

Pass Defense Shines

Smart and alert planning annihilated Rochester's one-two punch. End (and pass catcher) Carl Wren was effectively caged by Cook and Ursprung. Halfback Frank Howd, the Rochester triple threat ace, was halted on both the land and in the air. . . . Rochester consensus according to a newspaper feature, labels Howd, incidentally, as the town's most kissable man. Wow! Rochester made only one threat. This abortive drive was iced on the five. . . . Vermont made only one non-TD drive, and it was isolated when a short fourth-down pass—Kehoe to Traverse—flicked off Chas' fingers on the five. Ken Lawson, who subbed for guard Bill Carpenter who was subbing for the injured Schofield, did a bang-up job, banging up and wrecking the opposition. . . . Before even taking the field, Evans' disciples had to beat back a double play combination of soft snow and cold. The weatherman couldn't make up his mind before game time whether to let it snow, let it snow, let it snow, or have it rain. So unleashed flurries of both.

Keefer Still Out

Only Jack Keefer, who starred in the opening 7-6 win over St. Michael's will probably be on the bench at 1.45 kick-off. He has not recovered from a pulled leg muscle which has kept him under the weather four times this season. For eight men, Saturday's game wraps up a four-year football career. Art Collier, Bob St. Gelais, George MacDonald, Ursprung, Chas. Traverse, Hobie Cook, Ed Comolli and Bill Carpenter will be putting the finishing touches on their college grid days. As key operators the last four years, they were able to put together two wins in a 2-3-2 season in '46. They won three, lost four and tied Massachusetts in '47. Last year, they won four, lost three and tied Rochester. They lost to Middlebury 13-12, when they weren't given a chance in the world to stop the downstate Blue. With Evans handling the backs and Mike Kasap, the former Illinois great, handling the linemen, the Vermont combination has gone great guns this season. They fought and earned a 7-6 opening win over St. Michael's. They were impressive when they had the ball in a 21-0 win over St. Lawrence. They think to this day that they had a good game one of their best of the season, in absorbing 26-7 pasting at the hands of a great Union team whose only defeat the last two years was a 7-6 drubbing by UVM in '48.

Collier and Dempsey

They were lucky in defeating New Hampshire, a great team, by a 13-6 count at Durham. The Cats clawed their way to two trigger-quick touchdowns in the last two minutes of the first half and then held on for dear life. They then mopped up Massachusetts, 20-12, to finish their two-game Yankee Conference slate with a clean 2-0 slate. Last Saturday, on a day when, baby, it was cold outside, they polished off a stubborn Rochester array, 14-0, as Bill Dempsey blocked a punt and that man Collier tore a leaf from one of Collier's exciting sports stories and grabbed his seventh interception of the year to set up the winning scores. But now the water is over the dam. The game which will make this year the

We Predict . . .

By Winn Fingerit

Did anyone predict correctly on all of Saturday's games? For those of you who didn't see the sport pages on Sunday, here are the scores of those football engagements. The Catamounts were winners over Rochester—wonderful isn't it? Michigan State proved the most stubborn foe Notre Dame has faced since the Southern California game of last year, but it was the thirty-fourth game without defeat for the Irish. Rice's six-ounce advantage in the line helped the Owl in registering a victory over the "razor backs" of Arkansas. Stanford's young football team defeated the University of California in a mild upset on the Pacific Coast. An undefeated Baylor Bear was jolted from the select undefeated class by Texas. Wake Forest paid little attention to a new Duke president and Billy Cox to submerge the "blue devil." Union was forced to settle for a tie against a fighting Middlebury team helped by the early arrival of winter, and it ended the victory string of well-coached Union. And finally, Brown forgot that Herman Hickman was the most congenial coach in the Ivy League as they defeated poor Eli Yale.

The sport staff, back after a week's rest, terminates the predictions for the '49 football season of the University of Vermont in the following manner:

Winn Fingerit ventures:

Vermont 21, Middlebury 6
Notre Dame 41, North Carolina 6
Pennsylvania 17, Army 21
Dartmouth 7, Cornell 14
Oklahoma 14, Missouri 21

19 Seniors Will End Football Careers For Vermont In Saturday's Finale With The Panthers

By Winn Fingerit

The last football game of their college careers will be played on Saturday against Middlebury by 19 seniors. With three exceptions on the line and one in the backfield, the whole first team is graduating. Many of these Seniors are ending colorful sports careers which began in the fall of 1946 when they entered the University after their discharge from the service. Most of these men participated in other sports besides football.

When one looks at the name of those graduating names like Ursprung, Cook, St. Gelais, Comolli, Dempsey, Ballard, Kehoe, Collier, and MacDonald, one shudders to think of next year's team. Most of these men will continue in sports by seeking jobs in the coaching profession upon graduation.

Stan (Mr. Automatic) Ursprung will best be remembered for his sparkling defense work guarding the end and a few of his famed circus catches of aeriels. He also kicked thirteen extra points during the course of two seasons.

Hobie (Sixty-Minutes) Cook and his colleague, Ed Comolli have held down the tackle positions for the past three years. Their line work has been outstanding and they are a big factor in the team's success. Hobie will be seen during the winter in a basketball uniform. Bob St. Gelais is having the best season of his career in football. He is starring at right half back and has broken away on several long runs and has scored 5 touchdowns. Also at intervals during his undergraduate days, "Saint" has played basketball, baseball and has broadjumped for the track team.

Art Collier has also played baseball and basketball besides football at U.V.M. Art was captain of the baseball team during the '48 season. He has been outstanding at defense this year and is leading the team in interceptions. Bill Dempsey was the man who called defensive signals and broke up numerous plays from his position as backer-up.

Besides leading the team in offense this year, Ralph Kehoe has pitched for the baseball team and played basketball. John Ballard is the team's leading runner at his left halfback position. In the spring, John plays left field. George MacDonald is that little man who stands about forty yards in back of the line of scrimmage and catches those fourth down punts and tries to eat up yardage. Many times he has broken away for long gains.

Some of the other men who will be in uniform for the last time on Saturday are: Tony Trono, Charles Traverse, Ken Williams, John Ward, Reggie Linsenmeier, Ken Lawson, Jack Hoskiewicz, Henry Corra and Bill Carpenter.

By RICHARD LAWRENCE

Opening the season at home, Vermont played a good, snappy game, outside of errors and lost to Dartmouth, 6-1. The next day, Vermont tied Dartmouth in the fifth but was swamped in the seventh to lose, 9-5. Traveling to Middletown, Conn., the varsity led until the fifth inning when Wesleyan pulled themselves out with careful hitting, 12-7. New London, Tufts, and Brown, further losses on the New England trip, brought Vermont back to play Colgate for two in the win column, 7-2 and 11-2. An easy game, the first saw the Vermonters hitting at will; in the second, Clancy made fourteen strikeouts and was hit but four times. Six runs were made in the fifth and sixth innings, Vermont making little effort.

Tufts was not in its class here in the first two, fast plays and hitting counting in the victory, 7-0 for Vermont. Next day Tufts won, 6-3. Rensselaer, the first topheavy victory of the season, 18-2, followed. A series of poorly played games in the New York trip, with Manhattan, Fordham, and Union showed the boys that they could slip and make errors. In the Manhattan game, lost 16-4, ten bases on balls were given, and in the one with Fordham, last by a tally of 9-7, Vermont let 8 runs in on errors.

Seven Lean Years

Football history has already been made by the 1949 eleven. Six wins and one defeat is, the best performance for a Catamount team in twenty-five years. If the Cats win this Saturday against the Panthers another record, even more astounding, will go down in the books. Seven victories in one season is something that has never happened to UVM.

Not since 1942 have the Evansmen walked off with the Vermont State Conference title and it was the last time a win was posted over the Blue and White. The Cats came from behind to chalk up a score of 18 to 7.

Johnny Corbisiero, one of Vermont's biggest headaches, has graduated, but Wendy Forbes can be counted on to give the Cats trouble. Ends Irv Meeker and Ralph Loveys are competent operators both offensively and defensively. Last week Loveys blocked a punt which set up the tying score against Union.

There have only been two common opponents to form a basis of comparison. Vermont lost to Union 26 to 7, and defeated Norwich 20-0. Middlebury squeaked by the Cadets 6 to 0 and held the previously undefeated Dutchmen to a 14 to 14 stalemate. A prediction one way or the other is extremely dangerous. We can only say that if Vermont plays like it has in the last three games chances for a triumph are better than even.

Many doubts are running through the minds of UVM supporters this week in regard to key men who have suffered minor injuries in the last few games. The most recent casualty was Capt. Stan Ursprung who sprained his ankle in the 14 to 0 shacking of Rochester. If Jack Keefer does play he will undoubtedly see limited action. Charlie Smith and George Schofield are still nursing bruises. Johnny Ballard, one of the most improved back-field men, skipped the Rochester trip to give his banged up ribs a rest.

With Ralph Kehoe tossing the leather, Bob St. Gelais sweeping the ends, Dom Cote's long, yard advantage punts, and the tight defensive of the forward wall there will still be plenty for the Panthers to worry about if the others are not ready.

Saturday's engagement will be the 40th time that the two state rivals have met on the gridiron. Vermont has come out on top 20 times and ended up on the short side of the score in 15 contests; five games ended in ties. In 1946 the two schools battled to a 12 to 12 tie; the following year at Porter Field the home team won 19 to 0; and last year the Cats played one of the best games of the year but lost 13 to 12. There will be 19 seniors on the UVM team who will be all out to turn the tide, eight in particular.

Most of Vermont's success this year has been made possible by the excellent line play of the seven pillars of marble. Very few touchdowns have been scored on long sustained drives on the ground by the opposition. Many of our touchdowns have been set up by pass interceptions and blocked punts. The best offense is a good defensive as far as the Cats have been concerned. Recently, however there has been a marked improvement in the backfield. Johnny Ballard and Bob St. Gelais, aided by better offensive blocking, have been eating up the yardage.

This is the last game of the year for the Cats and whether they win, lose or draw you cannot say that they have not been trying their best. Hats off and good luck to "Fuzzy" and his men.

Sports Parade

A win over Syracuse, 10-5, and a loss to St. Lawrence, 11-6, closed the New York schedule. At the close of May, Boston University was swamped, 17-3, and nearly won the second game in Vermont's home series by Vermont errors in the fifth. An argument was raised over some close plays in this inning.

The Norwich game was won, 8-0, by Vermont and a pair of losses to Manhattan followed, 4-0 and 9-1. There were no scores made by either team in the first seven frames of the first game and the second was a pitcher's battle with errors deciding the score.

St. Lawrence came and was defeated in an easy game, 17-0. There were three double plays in this event made by Vermont. Colby was defeated, 6-3, and Columbia, the last game, was won by a score of 9-0 to finish the season in a gratifying way.

Harriers Take 3rd at Conn., Defeat Mass. 24-35

The UVM cross-country team was handed its first setback this season, in the Connecticut Valley Championships on last Tuesday, November 1, at Amherst, Mass. The Vermont harriers finished third among five competing squads. The University of Connecticut finished first with a low score of 44 points. Following the Conns were the Coast Guard Academy in second with 71, and the Catamounts in third, trailing the CG by one point, with a score of 72. Springfield College captured fourth with 74, and finishing last was the University of Massachusetts with 76.

Bruno Giordano of the Uconns, broke the tape first in a new record time for the 4-mile course at Amherst. His new record time was 20:01.4. Following Bruno was Dick Miller of Springfield in second, Dave Klingersmith of the Coast Guard in third and Bernie Cossar of Massachusetts in fourth. The first man to place for the Green and Gold harriers was Capt. Johnny Bellows in thirteenth, with the time of 21:03. Following Johnny for the Catamounts were Russ Mahoney in fifteenth, Bob Caswell in sixteenth, Owen Coughlin in seventeenth, Earle (Continued on page 8)

Bill Dempsey and Charlie Smith

Bill Howard

My choice for All-American Center is a lad up here in Vermont by the name of Bill Dempsey. Bill hails from Dorchester, Mass., and weighs 190 pounds of solid muscle, he is 6 feet 1 inch in height and can really run.

Bill graduates this year and will be missed a lot come the fall of 1950.

You may be wondering if the guy is aggressive and alert and just plainly on

No he isn't a relative of of Jack Dempsey.

You may think that Joe DiMaggio's comeback was something this year but there is a fellow up here who has had two of his legs injured in the last three years and has been hurt again this year but he began a comeback on the football field that not very many fellows have done in a long time. His name is Charlie Smith, a 170 pound, 5 feet 11 inch end, from Hackettstown, N. J. He is only a Junior this year, but I think you better keep him in mind for next year's All-American honors. Charlie the ball. Well, he is one of the most aggressive men they have on U.V.M.'s team this year. To give you an example, the Mass. State eleven U.V.M. was playing Saturday, Bill was taken out for a breather and at that time State had the ball on their own 15-yard line, and then it happened on four plays they were down to the Vermont 35-yard line and anticipating a touchdown. At that point the coach injected Mr. Dempsey into the game and he played like Joe Page only he is not a pitcher and it was not a baseball game but he did contribute a lot to put out the fire at that time.

I know that is only a part of duties on the football field as a defensive player, but you have to see him to believe it in so far as his offensive work is concerned he can really open up a hole in that forward wall to enable those scatbacks to come through. Yes sir, it's too bad we have to lose a valuable football player as he this year; oh say, Bill Dempsey plays hockey and is a member of the Phi Delta Theta Fraternity. Quite a guy.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA

The local chapter of Alpha Chi Omega was visited recently by its National Eastern Counselor, Mrs. Katherine McDonald from Cincinnati, O. The coffee hour held in her honor October 18 gave all the girls an opportunity to meet and talk with her.

The Alumni meeting held at the house during Mrs. McDonald's stay gave quite a bit of news concerning the class of '49. Kathie Eaton is working in Burlington as traffic manager of WCAX, and also in town is Katie Crocker, who is editor of Panorama.

Dee Caryl is a frequent and welcome visitor at the house during her stay here while waiting to go to Syracuse in January to do graduate work.

Alpha Chi would like to extend congratulations to Becky Wheatley on her marriage this past summer and also to Lynn Davis on her pinning to Paul LaHaye.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

The highways and byways of the Queen City reverberated to the strains of "Bloody Mary" and the "Sweetheart of ATO" and other somewhat improvised melodies too numerous to mention on the conveniently moonlit night of October 29. The brothers, pledges, and their dates were off on a party. The brain-child of social committeeman, Rob Fordham, paid off in a big way as ATO's went completely informal and staged an old-fashioned hayride and "hoe down" which may be a yearly event henceforth.

Last Wednesday two distinguished brothers were entertained at the fraternity house. They were Stewart Daniels, Executive Secretary of national ATO, and George Stanley, chief representative of the local alumni association. Both worthy brothers were duly impressed by the sound policies of the chapter's administration, the spirit of camaraderie that prevails, and the new appearance of the house in general.

After the evening meal, brother Daniels gave the assembled group a short, informative talk on the workings of the central offices of the national foundation, including the tremendous growth of the job placement bureau since its modest beginning in the early 1930's, and the intricate machinations of the Palm, ATO national magazine.

Brother Daniels expressed the desire to see some of the Beta Zeta members at the National Congress to be held in Ohio next June. He elaborated by saying that this Congress promises to be the largest gathering of ATO's that has ever been held.

Something new has been added. That genial crew who serve meals in the dining hall are now adorned in white jackets, white shirts and bow ties—a sign of great things to come.

DELTA PHI EPSILON

We're glad you're with us, oh, Ruthie G.

For you are our new D Phi E.

This little jingle is meant to tell Ruthie Goldberg, who was initiated on Sunday, Oct. 23, how glad we are that she is a soror now. A dinner in Ruthie's honor was held at the Black Cat Cafe following the ceremony which was held at the home of Mrs. Michael Frank, one of our patronesses.

We wish to extend our thanks to Miss Muriel Hughes, our faculty advisor, for letting us use her apartment for the guided tours. We certainly appreciate her generosity.

D Phi E's project for the Campus Chest proved to be very successful. Many people came over to take a peak at the sign "Take a guess, for the Campus Chest." When they noticed that it was a grab bag they were eager to see what they could pull out. Combs, blotters, gum, candy, pencils, and many other things were inside. All had fun working on it.

KAPPA PHI KAPPA

A tea hour sponsored by Kappa Phi Kappa, national education honorary, was held in Southwick North Lounge at 4.15. Dinner at 6 in the Waterman Building, a general panel discussion on "The Idea of Student Government" from 8 to 9 p.m., and a recreation hour from 10 to 11 p.m. completed Friday's events.

Round table sessions were the order of the day on Saturday with meetings of college and high schools combined and later separately to discuss the unique problems of each. A final evaluation session was held in the morning and later a panel and discussion of the entire conference.

The entire conference ended with a successful exhibition given by Dean Simpson in the President's dining room.

NU SIGMA NU

There was a special meeting for pledges and members of Nu Sigma Nu medical fraternity last week at the house at 49 N. Prospect St. This is in keeping with the active program outlined for the year. A buffet supper was served.

Feature of the meeting was a short address by Dr. N. B. Dreyer, professor of pharmacology, and movies of the New Hampshire-Vermont football game. Serving on the committee for the special meeting were Philip Hincks, '51, chairman; James Burke, '51; Thomas McCormack, '53; and Edward Jenkins, '51, president of the fraternity. A social hour followed.

The regular meeting of the month was addressed by Dr. D. D. Durgin, medical resident at the Bishop DeGoesbriand hospital, on a medical topic of current interest.

PHI SIGMA DELTA

Phi Sigma Delta has added four new fraters: Larry Berger, '52, Gil Edelman, '50, George Levy, '52, and Barry Grandeau '52.

Social activity has really been in full swing during the fall semester. On Oct. 1 an informal dance was held, also on Oct. 22 a buffet supper and dance. Fine crowds attended both affairs particularly enjoying the entertainment of Skitch Levine and Bill Marsa, George Borofsky, Roger Schoenfeld, Gerry Kerstein, Norm Feiber, Berny Shulman and Charlie Brenner.

During the summer George Borofsky was married to Marjorie Schenkman. Two

Pan-Hell Appoints Three Students To Revise Constitution

A committee of three was appointed at the October 18 meeting of Pan-Hellenic Council to revise the constitution. Alma Warrell, Lynn Thorell, and Esther Havens will bring the new constitution before the council for ratification shortly.

Dates for formal parties have been decided and are as follows: November 9, Delta Delta Delta; November 10, Pi Beta Phi; November 11, Kappa Alpha Theta; November 13, Delta Phi Epsilon; November 17, Alpha Epsilon Phi; November 18, Kappa Xi Kappa; and November 19, Alpha Chi Omega.

Delta Phi Epsilon has been acquitted of charges brought by the council October 11 of pledging two girls during a period of non-open bidding. Since no evidence could be found substantiating the council's charge, the council voted to drop the issue. Open bidding, however, is now permissible. If girls have been on this campus during one rush period, they can be open bid.

Sigma Gamma, which is not rushing, is giving a party after regular rushing for girls interested in that sorority, with Pan-Hellenic's approval.

The council asks that any women who have been members of sororities not on this campus, please leave their names in the Dean of Women's office.

fraters have parted with their fraternity pins, George Thomas and Marv Saltzman having pinned Sue Levine and Sylvia Wool.

On Sunday, October 29, the frater body attended the memorial service of Frater Max Shubert who during the last years of his life lived in the house and served as an inspiration and guide to the frater body.

Progressing rapidly is the war orphan fund with which the fraternity will take care of a European war orphan. It has been the pleasure of the fraternity to have Uno Teemant from Estonia as their guest.

At the Homecoming dance we received trophies for winning both the fraternity and campus softball championships.

In recent weeks many minor repairs have been done about the house. Both the living room and dining room have been redecorated and new furniture has been installed.

Our touch football team sparked by the fine play of Gil Edelman, Rocky Rothchild, Kurt Shindler and Sol Black, and the expert running and passing of Bailey Goldberg, Billy Marsa and Mort Kaufman, swept through their league with 5 wins and 0 losses, and went on to win the interfraternity crown with a 20-12 victory over Kappa Sig.

DELTA DELTA DELTA

On Saturday, October 15, Jane Smith became the bride of Richard Long in Hackettstown, N. J. Both graduates of U.V.M. last June, Janie was a member of Mortar Board and Dick, a member of Phi Delta Theta Fraternity. They are now residing in Readsboro, Vt.

After the homecoming poster was put up Friday, everybody was busy taking snapshots when a representative of a collegiate magazine stopped and asked to take a picture of Mickey Osborne near the poster. Mickey, who had done most of the artistic work, gladly obliged with paint and brush in hand!

Alma Warrell has been a traveling girl lately. She attended the Student Union Convention at St. Lawrence University in Canton, N. Y., and visited the Tri-Delta chapter house there.

Thursday night the Tri-Delts played hostess to Dean Simpson at a dinner in the chapter house. One night every week six girls have been exchanged with other sororities for dinner. The Pi Phis and Alpha Chis have already been guests.

The Teachers' Convention always brings "home" the alums of Tri-Delta. Among those visiting were Gerry Balich, Doris Hoffnagle, Eleanor Griffith, Priscilla Joslin, Peg Ingalls, Marie Matthews, and Dona Donelan. A surprise came with Gerry Balich for in she came with a diamond! Wedding bells will be ringing for her on November 23 when she will be married to Edwin Calcagni of Barre.

AIEE

The American Institute of Electrical Engineers' open house scheduled for the week-end of November 11 and 12 has been postponed until next spring. The reason for the postponement is lack of time needed to make the necessary preparations for an enlarged event, including the mechanical and civil engineers.

During the open house engineering students of the University will perform demonstrations and experiments for the interest and education of the general public. AIEE also announces that its meetings, held every other Friday night, are open to all students of electrical engineering.

NEWMAN CLUB

The first monthly meeting of the Newman Club was held at Southwick Oct. 26 at 7.30. Eighty-one students attended the meeting and the social hour which followed.

Also attending were Miss Catherine Nulty, Newman Club Advisor, Mrs. Eileen McGinley, and guest speaker, Father Robert Joyce of St. Peter's Church in Rutland. Father Joyce is a former Chaplain of the U.V.M. Newman Club and a former army Chaplain. He is now serving on the University's board of trustees.

After a short business meeting, Father Joyce spoke about the Catholic student and his relation to the university. He said anyone with a faith can exert much influence. No matter what a man's religion may be, he will respond to the truth and beauty of that religion, carrying it and spreading it throughout life. An intelligent person will not be made hostile by a bigot or a person leading a sinful life. No mind is impregnable, and the bigot can be led to reason, the sinner to a better faith.

In closing, Father Joyce again stressed the unlimited good an individual may do if he will only go out of his way to make an impact upon his fellow man.

A social hour of dancing and refreshments of cider and doughnuts followed. Anyone wishing to join may do so at the next meeting or by contacting Ed Streeter.

I shall pass this way but once. Am good therefore that I can say or do, or any kindness that I can show to any human being let me do it now. Let me not defer it or neglect it, for I shall not pass this way again.

—Anon.

1000 Specialists tell us "When you can measure..."

Lord Kelvin, writing in 1883, summed up once and for all the importance of measurement.

"When you can measure what you are speaking about," he said, "and express it in numbers, you know something about it, but when you cannot measure it, when you cannot express it in numbers, your knowledge is of a meagre and unsatisfactory kind."

The need is still great for accurate 'numbers.' For example, G-E engineers working on water-purification equipment required a device to measure water's turbidity. Another group needed data on vibrations of their equipment.

But at General Electric any group up against tough measurement problems does not have to be stymied for long. It can "appeal" its case, can seek the aid of men who make a specialty of measurement—the more than 1000 staff members of the G-E General Engineering and Consulting Laboratory. GE & C solved the two problems above by developing the first "turbidimeter" and a "recording vibrometer" now finding applications throughout industry.

The work of GE & C illustrates again how General Electric backs up research and creative thinking, implements new projects with the best available facilities, and so remains in the forefront of scientific and engineering development.

Thirty Men and A Woman

In a house located at 57 Williams St., lives one woman amongst thirty men. She has made a statement to the press that she loves it. This is her first year living with them, and she hopes that she will stay with them for many years to come. No, this is not in the raised eyebrows department of this paper but the woman who is living at the Sigma Nu house is their housemother who has achieved the distinction of being the only housemother in any fraternity house on campus.

Mrs. Brauer is a charming woman. She was born in Brattleboro and has lived all her life in Vermont. She has no children other than her "thirty boys" who actually are closer to her than most boys are to their real mothers. This is Mrs. Brauer's first job and will probably be her only one since she loves it so. She said she has never been so happy as when she started living there.

Actually, there are quite a few advantages in having a housemother in a fraternity house, as Mrs. Brauer and all housemothers in the sorority houses will testify. Mrs. Brauer is always around to act as a chaperone at the dances and the various functions held at the house. She is introduced to all "her boys" dates and I imagine passes judgment privately as would any mother. Then, too, at the fraternity dances there is always someone to turn to in case (and heaven forbid it should happen) some girl's hem rips and a quick sewing job is in order.

Another very decided advantage (or to certain people's viewpoints at least) is the fact that girls are allowed to visit at the house at certain designated hours in the afternoon. At any rate the main advantage in having Mrs. Brauer living at the Sigma Nu house is the same advantage there is at living at home for she does her best to create a home away from home atmosphere, and everyone realizes how very nice it is to have "Mom" around just to speak to whether there are problems or not.

Sorority Rushing

Early rushing is an experiment this year on the U.V.M. campus. It was only initiated by the Pan-Hellenic Council after a great deal of discussion with the administration and the sororities and a thorough examination of the statistics on marks from other colleges which have this system.

There appeared to be no appreciable difference in the marks of early and late rushees, in fact after the early rushing period the girls were better able to settle down to college life and studying. Perhaps a finer balance of school and sorority is achieved when rushing is not allowed to drag out, it is believed.

Pan-Hellenic Council has tried as much as possible to schedule open houses and parties on week-ends. An open house, November 6, after the informal parties has been added to the rushing agenda to enable girls to go back to sororities previously visited or to those sororities whose parties they were unable to attend.

75 Average Needed

Pan-Hellenic strongly advises all rushees to keep up their marks. Each pledge must have a 75 per cent average to be initiated.

This year's council has tried to eliminate any semblance of unfair rushing procedure by having meetings of all rush captains, and using the honor system. The rules for 1949-50 as given in the Pan-Hellenic Handbook are: "Eligible rushees shall not visit any sorority house except at designated times; sorority members may entertain eligible girls only if they are 'Little Sisters,' assigned to them by Student Union with the exception of the Dean's Tea.

Sorority women and eligible girls are honor bound not to give or receive special favors. Permitting fraternity men or others to influence rushees is beneath the dignity of sorority women."

Library Association Meeting

Dr. Sidney B. Smith, director of libraries at the University of Vermont, and Miss Helena Norton, chief cataloguer, were in Swamscott, Mass., last week attending the annual Association which was held from Wednesday, Oct. 12, through Saturday, Oct. 15 at the New Ocean House.

This year the meeting of the New England Association was also the regional meeting of the American Library Association.

On Saturday afternoon, Dr. Smith presided at the meeting of the Association of College and Reference Libraries. He was also chairman of the program committee for this meeting.

Miss Norton is one of the directors of the New England Library Association.

CLASSICAL CLUB

At its second monthly meeting on November 1, Goodrich Classical Club presented a reading of the play Agamemnon by Aeschylus. Bruce Stargatt gave the introductory synopsis of the play and took the part of the Watchman. Because of the illness of Walton Brown, Bruce also read the part of the Herald.

The title role was read by Harold White; his wife, Clytemnestra, by Joan Crandall; the chorus of Argive Elders by Tom Kent, Lindley Hartwell, and James Frink; the unfortunate prophetess, Cassandra, by Carol Brody; and the revengeful Aegisthus by Harry Miele.

At the close of the play there was a social hour for members of the group and their guests.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAM

Through the Junior Professional Assistant Social Analyst Examination, announced by the U. S. Civil Service Commission on October 11, social science graduates can qualify for appointment to responsible field office positions in the Bureau of Old Age and Survivors Insurance, Social Security Administration.

Senior students may apply for this examination by filing applications by November 8 at the Placement Bureau, Room 104, Waterman.

Mortar Board Activities

MORTAR BOARD FORMAL

Silver-dusted pine branches and a silver mortar board decorated the ballroom at Southwick for the fall Mortar Board Formal. The dance, held last Friday evening, November 4, was well attended.

In the ballroom, while the Catamounts played, the dancers greeted members of Mortar Board and Miss Mary Jean Simpson, Miss Margaret Wing, Miss Betty Bandel, Prof. and Mrs. H. S. Schultz, and Prof. and S. N. Bogorad.

In the gym several congratulatory telegram posters decorated the walls and a huge silver mortar board was on the stage. Silver stars hung from the ceiling and candles on small scattered tables lit the room.

During the intermission, refreshments were served. The winner of the Professors' Baby Contest was Mr. Pooley.

A gentle snow had begun as the couples said good night.

MORTAR BOARD WEEK-END

A full week-end was planned to celebrate the silver anniversary of Akraia Chapter of Mortar Board.

Beginning the activities was the fall Mortar Board Formal held Friday evening at Southwick. The anniversary party scene was used and the anniversary cake with twenty-five candles was cut during the intermission.

A luncheon for the founders and members of Mortar Board was held at Waterman, Saturday at 1 p.m. Saturday afternoon discussion groups met at Southwick to discuss problems common on college campuses. Guests from Middlebury and New Hampshire joined in these talks.

Climaxing the events of the week-end was a coffee hour for the University family held Sunday evening at Southwick.

TUTORING

The Mortar Board tutoring service opened officially on October 10, for the benefit of those who are weak in their studies and need extra help.

Mortar Board started this service with the funds set aside by the Student Government with which one half of the tutor's bill is paid, leaving the other half for the student to pay.

Instructors Grant Permission

Those desiring to be tutored must have permission of their respective instructors before doing so and then must register at the Placement Bureau, Room 104, Waterman. Tutors, themselves, must be recommended by their professors and should come to the Placement Bureau with the list of courses they wish to teach and their profs recommendations.

The prices listed for tutoring service are: $.80 per hour for one person, $1.30 per hour for two, and $1.50 per hour for three. Mortar Board will pay one half of the above fees.

Veterans Tutored Free

Also there is a Mary Jean Simpson Fund, which is to be used for veterans' tutoring services fee. All veterans interested in being tutored must also report to the Placement Bureau to register. However, vets will not have to pay any fee at all for it will be charged to the above fund.

Barbara Hardie Elected As New Treas. Of WSGA

Women's Student Union has a new treasurer. Barbara Hardie, '52, of Rockville Center, N. Y., was elected in a special election held Wednesday to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Jean Smith.

Barbara is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority and a Sophomore Aide. She is an Elementary Education student. When asked if she had any previous experience handling money, she remembered being treasurer of the French Club in high school. She felt honored by her election and promises to do her best on the Student Union Council.

Student Ct. Receives Seven Members In Recent Elections

Seven new members have just been added to the Student Court after the election held last Tuesday. Robert Condon, Chief Justice, made the announcement Tuesday evening.

Those juniors and seniors elected are as follows:

Joan Banghart '51, is in the College of Technology and is majoring in business. She is on the business staff of the CYNIC. She comes from Douglaston, L. I., N. Y., and hopes to be a secretary. She is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta.

Mickey Boylan comes from Scarsdale, N. Y., and is a psychology major in the pre-medical course. He enrolled at U.V.M. in 1945 and after one year of college was in the Marines for two years. He is a junior now and was a second place winner cake walking for Sigma Phi last year.

Harlan Farnsworth, a junior in the College of Education and Nursing, is a Burlingtonian. He is an active member of the Congregational Club, and in his freshman year attended a national conference in Lawrence, Kan., representing that group.

Walt Fimian is a senior pre-med from Brattleboro. He was president of the Newman Club and plays varsity tennis. He is a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

Mary Ellen Fuller is also from Burlington and is active on the Religious Life Committee. She was given the award last year for doing most for interfaith work. She is a junior in the College of Agriculture, and a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority.

William Johnson, varsity letterman, is from Lyndonville. He is a junior in the College of Education and Nursing and is majoring in English. He is manager of this year's basketball team, and belongs to the Varsity Club. He is a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity.

Barbara Larrabee is a science major in the College of Arts and Sciences. She is a senior and comes from Shoreham. She served on the Judicial Committee of Women's Student Union. She is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority.

Harriers Third

Randall in twentieth, and Elwin Wolcott in thirty-fifth.

Although Bruno Giordano crossed the line in first he was given stiff competition by our Russ Mahoney. Russ held the lead for the first two miles of the course, but was overtaken by Bruno in the third mile.

This four-mile course at Amherst is considered a rough one. The first two miles of it is made up mainly of steep uphill grades, and the going is pretty tough for the harriers of the competing teams.

The Catamounts have now only two remaining meets. One will be against the Massachusetts cross-country team at Burlington on November 4. Following the Massachusetts meet, the hill and dalers will wind up their season with the all important Middlebury meet at Middlebury on November 11.

STATE 24-35

The Vermont cross-country team was not slowed down last Friday by the cold, drizzling rain, as the team went on to capture their fourth dual meet this year 24-35 over the University of Massachusetts.

In 21 minutes, 36 seconds out at the Country Club course, Russ Mahoney broke the tape, and just nine seconds behind came Bernard Cossar of Massachusetts State. In third place was Louis Clough also of Massachusetts.

Vermont took fourth, fifth, and sixth places with John Bellows, John Porter, Coughlin, finishing in that order.

1 Mahoney (V), 21:36; 2 Cossar (M), 21:49; 3 Clough (M), 22:05; 4 Bellows (V), 22:07; 5 Porter (V) 22:15; 6 Coughlin (V), 22:28; 7 Phinney (M), 22:43; 8 E. Randall (V), 22:51; 9 Wolcott (V), 23:02; 10 Caswell (V), 23:13; Pierce (M), 23:25; 12 Funkauser (M), 23:25; 13 Hopkins (M) 23:25; 14 Allen (M), 23:29; 15 Goding (M), 23:43; 16 L. Pierce (V), 24:14; 17 Lyon (V), 24:37; 18 P. Randall (V), 25:49; 19 Arms (V), 26:15; 20 Brohan (V), 27:47.

This Friday is the last meet for the varsity cross-country team as they run against Middlebury College Cross Country squad at the Middlebury course.

University Club Dinner

Over 100 members and guests met Saturday night for the first dinner meeting of the University Club of the University of Vermont. After dinner in the Faculty Dining Room the assembled members and guests gathered in the newly-decorated lounge room of the University Club in the Waterman Building where they listened to an address by Mr. David W. Howe, business manager of the Burlington Free Press.

Mr. Howe's address, entitled "Newspaper Reflections," began with a series of reminiscences from his youth as a student at UVM. He discussed various aspects of the newspaper business and summed up the functions of a newspaper as follows: 1) a newspaper must inform, interpret, and entertain; 2) it must serve as a marketplace for goods and services; and 3) a newspaper must serve as a check upon government. In connection with the third of these aspects, Mr. Howe emphasized the necessity of private ownership of newspapers; a government-owned press, he declared, is the agent of dictatorship. The private press must exercise self-restraint, Mr. Howe said, and must be conducted as a public trust. Emphasizing the necessity for a free press, Mr. Howe referred to the late Justice Holmes' statement that freedom of the press means freedom for the thought we hate; he quoted also Ambassador Warren Austin's statement that press freedom and peace are inseparable; and finally he quoted Jan Mazaryk, who asserted that journalism and the daily press are extensions of parliamentary control over government.

The meeting was concluded by a drawing for a twelve-pound turkey, donated by Prof. Faye Crabbe, of the Department of Nursing Education. The turkey was won by Dr. Elijah Swift, former dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.

OUR FIRST SNOW

Vermont claimed the dubious distinction last week of being blessed with a snowfall of over one inch. It was a far cry from last winter when the first snowfall fell in January and all of New England experienced one of its mildest winters.

By Monday evening however, nearly all traces of the snow had disappeared and UVM was hoping for balmy weather for the Middlebury game.

try permanently while others have only temporary visas.

Among those who have come to the United States permanently are Mrs. Hedi Stoeck Ballantyne who came from Austria, and is an elementary education student, and Ursula Hirsch who came from Germany. She is majoring in horticulture. Both are in the class of 1950.

From Greece, we have Blaise Kent Xydias, who is majoring in Romance Languages. He, too, is to remain in this country permanently.

Renate Hirsch, although she came originally from Austria, arrived last year from Turkey. She is a graduate student majoring in chemistry.

Two agriculture students in the class of '52 are J. Murray Elliott, who is on a temporary visa from Canada and Henry Orner, who came from Southern Rhodesia.

Another Canadian student here on a temporary visa is Patricia Miller, an education student in the class of '51.

Windfall To Offer Prizes In Annual Literary Contest

In a school as large as U.V.M. there is, no doubt, much hidden writing talent which is lying dormant just waiting for a chance to show itself to advantage. Well, here is the chance! Windfall, the U.V.M. student magazine, is sponsoring its third annual contest for both poetry and prose.

The contest is open to every student in the University. A prize of twenty dollars is being offered for the best work in prose and the same amount for the best in poetry. The contest closes on Dec. 1.

All those having the urge to write are invited to participate. Although every one cannot win first prize, there is a great chance that material will be accepted for publication in Windfall from these entries.

Windfall is published by the Scribes Association, a comparatively recent organization on campus, having been started over three years ago last January. It is a regularly established student organization accountable to the SGA. Recently it has been reorganized under a new constitution. It is not sponsored by any one department, and is not an off-shoot of the English department.

The main purpose of the Scribes Association is to foster and promote interest in creative writing on campus. It attempts to do this in two ways. One is by publishing Windfall, the other is by holding weekly meetings which are called Writer's Workshop meetings.

The Writer's Workshop last year was one group. This year it has been separated into two, a prose group and a poetry group which meet on different nights. Those interested in reading and writing poetry meet on Tuesday night at 7.30 with Mrs. Francis Colburn at 359 College Street. Mrs. Colburn, who is herself a poet, has worked with the Workshop during its three years of existence. Poetry by many well-known poets is read as well as that written by the group members who derive much help from the friendly and beneficial criticism of the others.

Students interested in writing prose meet at the home of Jerome Kelley, the editor of Windfall, at 431 South Union Street. Many young writing enthusiasts feel that they have really increased their writing skills through the practice and criticism received by attending the meetings.

Article 111 of the new constitution states that "Membership is open to all regularly enrolled students at U.V.M." All those interested at all in writing are invited to attend Writer's Workshop meetings and also to visit the Windfall office in room A-18 in East Hall. It contains a very interesting assortment of magazines from other colleges which show just what other schools are doing in this field and how U.V.M. compares with them.

ROTC Confers Honors On Military Students Of Ability

Appointments as distinguished military students will be made Monday to nineteen members of the University of Vermont Reserve Officers Training Corps (R.O.T.C.).

The awards are to be made by Maj. William Evans-Smith, professor of military science at the University of Vermont.

Each senior R.O.T.C. student has been designated because of displayed proficiency in class work and demonstrated leadership and ability in drill, both at the University of Vermont and senior camp.

Receiving appointments are William J. Buzzell, Bennington; Richard V. Casabianca, Burlington.

Community Concert Opens Series With Charles Kullman

The Burlington Community Concert Association will open the 1949-50 series with Charles Kullman, leading tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Company, radio and recording star who is featured in the new Universal film, "Fandango." The concert will be held in the Memorial Auditorium on Sunday, November 20, at 3 p.m. Admission is by membership card only.

A Connecticut Yankee, born in New Haven in 1903, Kullman entered Yale University as a pre-med student. Because he liked to sing for fun, he joined the Yale Glee Club. This bit of extracurricular activity was the turn of fate that changed the course of Kullman's life —his success as soloist with the Yale Glee Club made him abandon his incipient medical career for one in music.

Charles Kullman

Graduated from Yale with a Bachelor of Science degree, he won a scholarship to the Juilliard School. After three years at Juilliard he won another scholarship entitling him to study at the American Conservatory in Fontainebleau, France.

In 1928 he returned to the United States to join the Music Faculty of Smith College, where in addition to his work as an instructor, he sang in such old operas as Monteverdi's "Orfeo" and the title role in Handel's "Xerxes."

He left Northampton to join Valdimir Rosing's American Opera Company where he made his initial appearances in the roles of Faust, Don Jose and Pinkerton.

In 1931 he went to Europe making his debut in Berlin as the hero of "Madame Butterfly." He repeated his triumphs at the Vienna State Opera and at the Salzburg Summer Festivals where he appeared with Toscanini and Bruno Walter, also at the Florentine May Music Festival and at London Covent Garden. In December, 1935, he made his debut at the Metropolitan Opera in "Faust" and then sang in "Carmen," "La Traviata," "The Magic Flute," "Boris Gudonoff," "Manon" and many other operas.

The radio and recording industries too have kept Charles Kullman busy during the past few years. He has been on such radio programs as Hit Parade, Ford, Chesterfield, Maxwell House, Firestone and Great Moments in Music and over the Columbia network.

Social Committee Of IFC To Sponsor Dance On Nov. 19

With fraternity pledging at hand, the Interfraternity Council has set forth plans for the resumption of the I.F.C. Rushing Dance. The Council has brought back another tradition to the campus which was suspended during the war. The plans call for a gala dance, featuring the music of the Catamounts, to be held in the Waterman Soda Fountain on November 19. Enjoyable music and refreshments will be available to all from 9 to 12 o'clock on that evening.

The Council urges all new pledges and fraternity aspirants to attend and support the dance. The entire proceeds of the dance and the sale of refreshments will be donated to the Campus Chest. According to the I.F.C. Social Committee, who have handled all the arrangements, an enjoyable evening will be had for all those who attend.

Don't worry about the price, for all men will be admitted for 60 cents and for women there will be no charge at all. Let's all turn out, especially new pledges, and show the Interfraternity Council we're behind them. So here are the whats, wheres, and whens to remember for an all-around good time:

Cynic Demands More Information About "Winterset" Production

Where is Mr. Humphrey? He's not in his office nor is he at Southwick directing the stage crew of "Winterset." "Winterset!" That is what this is all about in the first place.

With the Dramatic Club's fall production coming up the CYNIC wants its readers to be kept informed about what's going on. So far all it's been able to find out is that there will be a production, and that the name of the play is "Winterset."

Ah yes, there is a rumor to the effect that Howie Delano is employing his talents on the scenery. Someone said that this is the first time a student has taken on this task all by himself. This is all hearsay you understand.

But try and find Howie! If you call the number they give you at the information booth, whoever answers will only tell you that they've never heard of Howard

Debate Tournament To Be Held Nov. 18-19; 39 Colleges Take Part

Gov. Ernest Gibson To Address Young Republican Club

Vermont's popular Governor, Ernest W. Gibson, of Brattleboro will be the guest speaker at the second major program given by the UVM Young Republican Club, it was announced Monday by Edward J. Costello, president of the organization.

Governor Gibson will speak in the Student Lounge at Waterman Building at

Gov. Ernest Gibson

8.00 p.m. on Tuesday night, November 29, just after the resumption of classes. The subject of his talk will be "Politics of the Future."

An additional feature of the evening's program will be the appearance on campus of the new U.V.M. Men's Chorus, which will render a few numbers.

Arrangements for the program are in charge of Gordon Bickford '50, vice president of the club; Bob Taisey, Dottie Post, Jerry Kelley, Charles Lytle and Charles Carlton, Publicity Director.

Governor Gibson was first elected to his present position in the fall of 1946, and was reelected in 1948. Recently he was appointed by President Truman to be the U. S. District Judge, for the Vermont District. He will resign as Governor in January to assume his new duties. His appointment by President Truman, a Democrat, was interpreted in many quarters as a high tribute to the abilities, and personality of Governor Gibson.

Fought In World War II

Following his graduation from George Washington University Law School, Ernest Gibson entered the practice of law in Vermont, and rapidly rose to a position of prominence in the legal profession.

Following the death of his father in 1939, he was appointed by the then Governor, George D. Aiken to fill out his father's term in the U. S. Senate. There he acquitted himself with distinction, one of his speeches on national preparedness being acclaimed by the majority leader, Senator Barkley as "one of the greatest speeches ever delivered in this house."

In 1940, Ernest Gibson resigned as Senator to enter the Army. There he fought in the Pacific, was wounded, decorated, and finally returned to the States, where he was made deputy director of Army Intelligence. By the time that the war had ended, Ernest Gibson had attained the rank of Colonel.

Returning to Vermont, he resumed his law practice, but on the death of his good friend, and leader of Vermont liberal Republicans, Maj. Gen. Leonard F. Wing, Gibson became the logical candidate for the Governorship.

This appearance at U.V.M. will be one of the Governor's last public appearances before his retirement from political life.

Preparations have been made for the "Fourth Annual Debate Tournament" at the University of Vermont in which thirty-nine colleges are to participate Nov. 18 and 19.

General chairman, Newell Curtis, with the co-operation of numerous students, is planning for the registration of the visiting debaters and faculty, and setting up the schedule for the entire tournament.

The purpose of the tournament is to give training in debating, but no tournament winner is declared. Indication that interest in debating is continually growing is demonstrated by the increased number of schools participating and the number of debaters taking part.

Last year thirty schools and two hundred debaters participated, whereas there are ten more schools and sixty more debaters in the tournament this year. The number of people in this debate, including debaters, faculty, committees, time keepers, hosts, hostesses, those involved in registration and transportation, make this function the biggest in the country.

This year thirty-nine schools from the States and Canada represent the wide scope of the influence which debating has forwarded in recent years.

Co-directors of debate at University of Vermont, Dr. R. B. Huber and Mr. N. M. Cripe are sending ten teams to participate in forty debates of the 240 scheduled.

Other schools sending teams are: American International, Colby, M.I.T., St. Lawrence, McGill, Brooklyn, Connecticut, Williams, Army, Wesleyan, Navy, Colgate, Clark, Maine, New Hampshire, Rutgers, Rensselaer, Penn. State, Amherst, New Haven Teachers College, Utica, Hamilton, Dartmouth, N. Y. U.; New York Teachers, Northeastern, Bowdoin, Mount Holyoke, N. Y. U. (Washington Square), Providence, Siena, Bates, La Salle, St. Johns, Champlain, Rhode Island, Genesee State Teachers College and Middlebury.

The question for debate is the national questions of the year, namely, "Resolved, that the United States should Nationalize the Basic Non-Agricultural Industries." A team consists of two speakers each of whom shall have a ten minute constructive speech and a five minute rebuttal. There is a three-minute intermission between the constructive and the rebuttal speeches.

At the end of each debate the critic comments on the debate and gives in-

Compulsory Meeting For All Students Scheduled Dec. 6

A mass meeting of U.V.M. Students held last Wednesday to consider amending the Student Government Constitution was called to order at 4.15 by Pres. Ed. Costello in the Ira Allen Chapel.

Following an explanation of the purpose of the meeting, President Costello introduced Prof. H. B. Huber of the Speech Department as temporary chairman for the meeting.

However, due to the small number of students present, Bill Dingerson, President of the Senior Class, moved that no action be taken at that meeting, but rather that the Executive Council of Student Government set another date and call a Compulsory Mass meeting.

Following considerable discussion as to the date of such meeting, a motion was passed requiring another meeting, and leaving it to the discretion of the Executive Council as to whether or not it should be compulsory.

Following the meeting, it was tentatively decided that December 6 will be the date of the next meeting to consider the amendments to the Constitution. Since the Executive Council has not as yet met, it is at present unknown as to whether the meeting will be compulsory.

Things To Come

The old VERMONT CYNIC will soon have a new look—and it is to be so radical a change that we want to announce it forthcoming birth. No, it won't be printed in color nor will it be adorned with "pin-ups" or horse tips. But the changes will be no less mistakable. First, the size of the CYNIC page will be reduced from its present size to the standard tabloid newspaper size. Next, the plan is to include as many pictures—so pitifully expensive and so pitifully lacking in previous CYNICS—as possible. The appearance of the type and the headlines printed on the pages will also be different. Lastly (although you won't see it), many of the printing costs—labor costs, charges for depreciation on machines, charges for engraving photographs, and the like will be considerably reduced.

How is this going to be done? The key words are offset printing and "vari-type." There are two main ways by which it would be possible to print the CYNIC. The first is called the letter press method which is nothing more in principle than Gutenberg's first printing. For each character to be reproduced on paper there is either a separate piece of type or else a line of characters formed on one "slug." To produce a printed page a group of several thousand of these individual characters or slugs must be assembled. This whole business is inked on the principle of a rubber stamp and an impression is made on paper. There is another method of printing and this is the method which the CYNIC will use: offset printing. Offset printing eliminates all of the separate bits of type used in letter press. In offset printing an exact image is taken of the page to be reproduced. This image is transferred to a rubber cylinder from which the page is printed. In this method type is completely eliminated.

If there is to be no type, then how will the page to be photographed by the offset method be produced in the first place? The answer here lies in the word "Vari-type." The Vari-type machine is nothing more than a glorified typewriter on which printing styles can be changed easily. It is by use of this machine that a page will be set up and then sent to be reproduced on paper by the offset printing method. The Vari-type machine has simply replaced the linotype and hand methods used in letter press work.

This new way of printing the CYNIC is admittedly a gamble. It has one drawback in that the appearance of the printed lines do not have the clearcut accuracy of those by letter press. Also, students who have seen specimens of school papers printed by Vari-type may be a little discouraged, for the appearance of many papers has not been good. On the other hand, there are several advantages. The biggest advantage is the fact that the cost of the whole issue is much less, and the cost of reproducing pictures is way down. And many schools (for example Yale) have used the process with great success.

But however, much a gamble it may be, the CYNIC has taken the plunge and will soon have its first issue printed by Vari-type and offset ready for UVM.

The Alley Cat

There's a cat on campus! What kind of a cat? Why The Alley Cat, UVM's new humor magazine.

At the beginning of the year, freshman Steve Pelletiere formulated the idea of having a magazine based on the same order as the Harvard Lampoon and the Dartmouth Jack O' Lantern which would add spirit to the campus and give the student body a taste of the lighter side of life in the form of cartoons, jokes, short stories, and articles. Having drawn up definite plans, Steve and four other freshmen have asked Student Government for the necessary funds in the form of a loan, which would be returned as soon as possible.

Issued eight times a year, The Alley Cat will be strictly a student publication. Costing thirty cents an issue, it will have approximately thirty-two pages, and the cover, a different one each month, will be in cartoon form.

Eliminating the position of editor-in-chief, the five fellows, who are: Steve Pelletiere, Les Collins, Walt Corbin, Jon Cypher, and John Taylor, plan to work together doing the cartooning and articles, which will be somewhat editorialized. However, the short stories will be contributions from outside. The five also plan to exchange The Alley Cat for other college humor magazines, thus obtaining new ideas and jokes.

Because the magazine is still in the fledgling stage, the originators would like the students to voice their opinions, either through the CYNIC or verbally, in regard to the idea itself. They feel that it is up to the student body whether The Alley Cat appears or not. If anyone, "males only," is interested in working on the staff, please contact one of the above fellows.

Success to UVM's new cat; let's hope it lands on all four feet. Look for its initial appearance about Kake Walk time.

Delano. If you look around the Student Lounge, where most everyone turns up eventually, you won't find him among the bridge players or the crammers. He doesn't seem to be at Southwick working on his scenery either. So Howie is number two on our missing persons list.

All there is to add now is that maybe there will be more to tell by the time the next issue comes out. In the meantime, if anyone sees Mr. Humphrey or Mr. Delano, please notify the CYNIC office before they have time to get away.

Inquiring Reporter . . .

Since President Millis left U.V.M. to accept the presidency of Western Reserve University, much controversy has been going on as to whom will be chosen to fill the position. We, the students, will be the ones most affected by the final choice, and, therefore, we should begin to think about whom we would like to have as our next president. The opinions of four U.V.M.'ers appear here as answers to this week's question: "Who is your personal choice for president of U.V.M.?"

1. Joseph J. Smart, '50, Camden, N. J.

"I think the new president should be a Vermonter, preferably Mr. Lyman, who is also a graduate of U.V.M., and therefore, knows the university. Whoever he is, he should not be a politician! If he is a lover of the state of Vermont and of the University, he would be willing to devote his life to making the school better. The new president should go out for endowment, and should attempt to keep this school at least semi-private."

2. Ed Costello, '51, Rutland, Vt.

"Robert Kroepsch did a fine job as Dean of Administration and in my opinion would make a good president. He is respected by all the students and faculty, which is important. Since he is now getting his doctorate at Harvard, I feel he is qualified for the job. We need at the helm a young man who is a go-getter, and who will bring in new ideas."

3. Rae MacTiernan, '50, St. Albans, Vt.

"I think we need a person like President Lyman, who is intelligent, cultured, and at the same time sincere and friendly. We lack a personal student-faculty relationship at U.V.M., and that should be one of our aims to establish, now that the administrative problems have been more or less solved."

4. "Peter" Mason '51, Highland Park, N. J.

"U.V.M. needs a president who understands the attitude and needs of his students. In the past, the school needed a foresighted businessman to set the school back on its feet. Now that this situation has passed, I think the students desire a president who has a personal interest in the campus and student life."

Pathology Dept. of College of Medicine Will Hold Meetings

A series of meetings devoted to problems of growth and malignancy will be presented throughout the winter by the Department of Pathology College of Medicine, University of Vermont. All meetings will be at 8 in the Fleming Museum.

Dr. Charles B. Huggins, professor of surgery, University of Chicago, will speak Dec. 2. The subject of his lecture, which will be held jointly with the Osler Society, will be "Serum Proteins in Cancer."

On Jan. 5, Leonell C. Strong, Ph.D., professor of anatomy at Yale School of Medicine, will speak on "Genetics and Cancer." On Feb. 9, Dr. Albert J. Tannenbaum will have as his subject, "Diet and Cancer."

The speaker on March 2 will be Van R. Potter, Ph.D., professor of oncology, University of Wisconsin Medical School. His subject will be "Enzymes, Growth and Cancer."

At the March 30 meeting, which will be held jointly with the Chittenden County Medical Society, Roy Hertz, M.D., Ph.D., chief of the Endocrinology Section of the National Cancer Institute, Bethesda, Md., will talk on "Vitamin-Hormone Interrelationships Affecting Tissue Growth."

The final speaker in the series, May 4, will be Dr. Robert E. Stowell, professor of oncology, University of Kansas School of Medicine. Doctor Stowell's subject will be "Nucleoproteins, Growth and Cancer."

Henry Fund Offers Fellowships For Study Abroad

UVM students have an opportunity to be among five American college graduates to study abroad. The Henry Fund offers five six hundred-pound fellowships for study and research at Oxford or Cambridge University for the year 1950-1951.

Advantages of study in another country are many, explained Dean Kidder. The travel alone is a broadening experience. The exclusive opportunity of attending Oxford or Cambridge University, and the experience of being in an entirely different educational system and environment is very stimulating. A student meets the people of England and finds the continent accessible for further travel.

This travel and study is made possible by the Charles and Julia Henry Fund provided for in the will of the late Lady Julia Henry. The purpose of the fellowship is to cement bonds of friendship between America and England. This is to be done by granting funds of money to students of distinction of both countries which affords the opportunity of study in America for British students and in England for American students.

Requirements are evidence of distinction and a bachelor degree. Preference is given to those men and women who received their degree between June, 1945 and July, 1949. If a graduate has a definite scheme of study or research, then he is eligible for application. Procedure for application is available on the bulletin board in Waterman Building.

Experiment Station Research Solves Baffling Disease

What causes rot to tap holes in maple trees? Two University of Vermont Experiment Station scientists have found the answer to this problem which has baffled producers for over 50 years.

The solution came after 18 months of scientific search by William W. Scott, graduate research assistant (at left) working under the direction of Dr. Thomas Sproston, U.V.M. plant pathologist (at right).

Rot occurs in old tap holes and causes what producers call "dry holes" where no sap will run. It will take 40 years for a maple tree to grow to maturity and be ready to tap. Thus it is a serious problem when a producer cannot find healthy wood in which to tap. Or he may find that he has tapped a dry hole. Then not only is his sap production lowered, but his trees themselves are threatened.

To find the cause of this rot the botanists first cut infected wood from above and below a tap hole. They planted the wood chips on a synthetic food supply and found that more than 90 percent of them yielded a fungus called Cytospora.

Their next step was to inoculate healthy trees with this fungus to see if it caused the same discoloration and rot. They found that it did, and thus they knew the cause of the problem.

But they didn't know how the fungus got into the tap hole, nor when. They suspected rain, wind, and insects as carriers, but they couldn't find the fungus that they now knew produced the rot.

All during the summer Doctor Sproston and Scott diligently searched the woods. They scraped suspicious fungus growth from branches of the trees in the maple sugar bush at the Proctor Maple Research Farm. But under the microscope none of the fungi proved to be the guilty one. Then at the end of the summer, when most fungi of this type had long ago produced the spores by which they spread, Doctor Sproston and Scott found the Cytospora fungus just beginning to fruit on dead or dying maple branches. These spores thus were all ready to be washed down from dead branches into open tap holes where they would begin their destruction.

With these problems solved, the scientists are confident they can prevent the spores from reaching their objective. They are not sure whether they will develop a different type of spout or a plug for the hole. But they feel more confident now that they can stop the fungus Cytospora from infecting maple trees in the future.

UVM Sponsoring 2 Courses Off Campus

The Commerce and Economics Department of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College will direct two new trustee-approved summer session courses off campus next summer.

Prof. Philip H. Lohman, chairman of the department will institute the courses which will be given in New York July 10 to August 18, inclusive.

A study of the New York Stock Exchange and Curb Exchange will be made. Representatives of these institutes will be guest lecturers.

The other course, securities analysis will put special emphasis upon equity; and bond investment analysis of the four major securities groups, railroads, public utilities, financial institutions and industrial.

Instructor on the trip will be Franco M. Riciardi. Enrollment will be limited to twenty-five UVM students.

Purple Knights Plan "Night of Knights" To Aid Boys' Club

Have you heard the din or armor issuing out from across the river in the past few weeks? If you have, don't be alarmed. Those hardy knights over there are not preparing a surprise invasion on the pride and joy of Ira Allen. They are just polishing up their lances and swords for their big presentation coming soon for the benefit of the Burlington Boys' Club.

On Friday, Nov. 18, the Michaelmen will hold full sway in Memorial Auditorium when the curtain goes up on a "Night of Knights." The top entertainment units of S. M. C. will perform, including the Glee Club, the Mixed Chorale Group, the Dramatic Society, the Outing Club and the prize winners of the Talent Shows.

These groups will produce a variety show of drama, music, and dancing. There is also rumor of a surprise act of interest to University students.

The show will end with a broadcast from 10.30 to 11.00 over WCAX. Pen

Students Help Fix Barn In SCA Project

Students interested in actively doing something worthwhile are going out to help farmers and to work in churches that need repair work. The first group went to Colchester, Sunday, October 30 to help fix a farm that has just recently burned. It was an all-day project with students bringing lunches. This is one of the projects being organized by the Social Action Committee of the Student Christian Association.

Other projects suggested at the meeting held Tuesday were the tea for United Negro College Fund which was associated with the Campus Chest, future work deputations, plans for a social action conference in March, and an education program.

and Mike, which includes some of the Newman Clubbers of U.V.M., will handle this part of the show.

Panthers Score Early To Upset UVM For Second Defeat Of Season, 14-6

By Glen Fay

Many, many sad faces were seen leaving Middlebury's colosseum Saturday afternoon.

Last Saturday, Vermont missed the best chance in many a moon to beat rival Middlebury. We were favored. We have a better team man for man than the Panthers. Then why did we lose? You guess.

The game in the first quarter was nothing more than a big drive for the Cats, the only trouble being that they were the ones being driven. The Middmen, who displayed plenty of hustle, determination and an excellent psychological edge throughout the game climaxed an eighty-yard push in the first quarter with a touchdown. Hollister, Mulcahy and Forbes took turns assaulting the Vermont line, as Duke Nelson's warriors stunned the overflow crowd, with their power. After Forbes plowed through a gaping hole for the TD, Jerry O'Neil split the posts for the extra point. At this point several leading Vermont rooters bent the elbow and fortified themselves against more horrible things to come. After several extemporaneous headbashes and an exchange of punts, the Panthers found themselves with the ball on their own 6. The huge Vermont line held them to a few measly yards gain and Forbes kicked to the 48. At this point in the festivities George McDonald hove into sight, picked the ball out of mid-air and set out like a scared rabbit for a touchdown. After this scamper the elbows really bent, in celebration.

Ursprung Fails

Stanley (the manly) Ursprung who started his thirty-first game for the Catamounts Saturday, was wide with the placement, and the elbows bent again—for fortification. Stan has made 11 PAs in 15 tries this year.

Nothing much happened after this till about five minutes before the half; it was then that the Middlebury machine again began to roll. It was Hollister, Mulcahy and Forbes once more, with a pass to Ralph Loveys thrown in to boot, that placed the pigskin on UVM's 3, with three downs to go. But one play was enough as Hollister placed his cleats on the prostrate form of Vermont's left tackle and went over standing up. O'Neil, again demonstrated his skill and the score became 14-6. Too bad the teams couldn't know at that point that the scoring was over; it would have saved a lot of bumps and bruises.

Half Time Exhibitions

During intermission UVM's world famous R.O.T.C. Band demonstrated its superiority over the Midd aggregation by outpointing the latter in a game of "hot scotch and eight hands around." The Green and Gold unit was first on the field and last off, never allowing the "Blue Blowers" in the scoring column. This was one of the brighter spots of the whole afternoon.

Kehoe Shines

With the resumption of play "Rutland Ralph" Kehoe began to shine. He ran and passed brilliantly. The bullets he threw were bull's eyes. But despite his efforts the Green could not make the end zone again, even though a toss to glue-fingered Art Pruneau and several smart ground plays once found the ball on Midd's 8. Barre's man Pruneau, by the way, is one of the best pass receivers it has been my pleasure to see. I'm sure glad he was playing for us! Dom Cote was again punting spectacularly and kept the enemy in their own territory most of the second half. Both teams engaged in pushing each other up and down the field during the entire second canto. It was thrilling to watch but uneventful to recall.

Afterthoughts: Vermont's eight (8) graduating lettermen will leave a big headache for Coach Evans. But being somewhat hardened to this situation, he'll no doubt come up with something. . . . From where I sat it looked like little Howie Haddigan made about 6,000 tackles during the game besides that, the kid can really get up and go. . . . Midd's spectator facilities are definitely for the birds. A ducat costs two bucks and then you take a chance on standing (no extra charge).

The lineups:

Middlebury—le, Loveys, Nightingale;

Phi Sigs Reign As All-Campus Champs

Phi Sigma Delta became the All-Campus champs when they defeated Kappa Sigma 20-12 and the All Stars 19-6, on the back campus field last week.

Phi Sig put the crusher on Kappa Sig to become the 1949 Interfrat champs. These same two clubs met last year in the finals with the Kappa Sigs walking away with the title, however, with the brilliant passing of Goldberg and the running of Marca the tables were easily reversed.

It was evident from the very first play that the Pearl Street boys were up for the game, they took the opening kickoff and turned it into six big points. Throughout the game the Kappa Sigs played a brand of ball that they haven't shown all season while sweeping their league. Both teams entered the fray with unblemished records.

Bailey Goldberg, the Phi Sig field general, played one of his greatest games, his running was smooth and his passing sharp. Mort Kaufman, Rocky Rothchild, Bill Marca, Sol Black and Kurt Shindler started for the winners, while Kotlarczyk, Al Niemann and Stretch Galli played heads up ball for the defending champs.

The University of Vermont basketball team is undefeated in its last 28 state conference games.

Ed Kotlarczyk, Detroit, Mich., was the University of Vermont basketball team's leading scorer last year with 224 points.

Cage Drills Begin In Preparation For Difficult Schedule

While the football team has been finishing their successful season, the basketball team has already started practice in preparation for their rapidly approaching opener against Dartmouth, on December 3, at Memorial Auditorium in Burlington. While Coach "Fuzzy" Evans has been guiding the football team, Capt. Al Niemann assisted by Larry Killick, have been drilling the squad on their fundamentals for the past two weeks.

From last year's club, Ex-Capt. Hammy Livingston and Ken Pierce have graduated. The core of this year's squad will be made up of two 4-year men, Capt. Al Niemann and Ed Kotlarczyk. In the height department the Catamounts will have Keith Galli, and the drive will be supplied by Pat Farma and Gene York. At the close of the football schedule, Ralph Kehoe and perhaps Hobie Cook will don their basketball uniforms. Graduating from last year's freshman team who may play with the varsity are Eddie Jasinski, Ernie Vuley, Johnny Bloomer, Budd Propp, and Roy Weber.

This season the hoopsters will engage in twenty contests. They will play eleven of their games at Memorial Auditorium, while they will participate in nine road games. The Catamounts' first three tussles, against Dartmouth, Clarkson and Norwich, will be played at home. Their first road game is against New Hampshire at Durham. Following the Wildcat game UVM will engage the Baby Blue Rams of Rhode Island State, a new edition on the season's schedule. The Rhodies have been known to score over one hundred points a game, and their season's average usually runs in the sixties. It should be interesting to see how Vermont fares against the Rams.

St. Mike's, Norwich, Middlebury and Vermont Compete For Trophy In All Sports But Track

A trophy, emblematic of sports supremacy will be awarded each June to the state college with the most brilliant winning record in football, basketball, and baseball during the preceding school term, it was announced recently by an eight-man committee from the four colleges—Vermont, St. Michael's Norwich, and Middlebury.

The first trophy will be awarded next June.

Basis of competition was decided by the eight-man committee.

The winning football team will be considered on its over-all record. The winning basketball team will be considered on wins acquired in state competition. The same holds true in baseball.

Until St. Michael's organizes a track team, no points will be awarded for track competition.

Five points will be awarded for a first in each sport, three points for a second, two points for a third, and one point for a fourth.

The University of Vermont already has won the top five points which is awarded for the best over-all football record this fall.

We Predict

by Mort Kaufmann

To us at Vermont, the '49 football season is at an end. Granted, most colleges have two weeks more of football to play, but "Shorty" is having the "Green and Gold" uniforms cleaned and pressed until next year, so we will put this column in "moth balls" with them. But it is customary and so human to look back over the season and point to the thrills, the disappointments and enjoyment the staff had in predicting the important football games. The averages of the staff do not indicate experts, for the highest score was 66 percent which was made by Winn Fingerit and that would mean "warning" for all of us. But fortunately no one on the staff was subject to such a standard for it would have meant much more studying of the nation's football teams for Jerry with his 65 percent, Vic with his 61 percent and Mort with his flunking 52 percent.

Probably the biggest thrill we had during the year was the way our own Catamounts made our averages suffer with the best season since "way before" Notre Dame lost a football game. Other football games were predicted with cool methodicalness, Vermont's games with the heart.

We can say with sureness, that the greatest college football team in the country is Notre Dame; there was no doubt in anyone's mind after Leahy's giants had turned the "Green Wave" of Tulane into a ripple a few afternoons ago. Oklahoma, California and Army bring up the rear. Vanderbilt and Harvard have not lived up to pre-season expectations, while Dartmouth, Wisconsin and Rice have paid little attention to the magazine articles of early fall.

Before turning to basketball, I'd like to insert the first person for a few paragraphs concerning football at Vermont in the future. Being a senior, I won't have an opportunity to advocate amateurism in athletics, particularly football, so I'll reiterate it as I did last year. I hope the University will continue to uphold the high standards in the future, no matter how great or poor our athletic teams will be in '52 or '80. There has been a tendency in recent years for universities and colleges to give more than scholarships to athletes; open financial inducements and disregard for mental traits have been used to get anyone with big biceps and hard heads. It's wonderful to win and see banner headlines of one's Alma Mater going to Bowl games or winning State Titles, but let's win with amateurs who love to play sports as part of college life.

Sports Slants

By Vic Murdock

While the Panthers and Cats were clawing at each other last Saturday your Sports Editor was tackling the Law School Admission Test, so I cannot give you a genuine opinion of the game.

However, by word of mouth and through other sources certain conclusions can be drawn. Two weeks ago we witnessed the Middlebury-Union game and the Panthers demonstrated then, as they did last Saturday, that they were a team to be respected. Duke Nelson did a great deal of experimenting since the losses to Trinity and Tufts, and finally came up with the right combination. The downstaters had the Green and Gold so well spotted that they knew just about every move UVM was going to make.

Three or four deep penetrations to within the Middlebury 15-yard line failed to pay off. UVM had the breaks but could not capitalize on them as they had in previous games. With Stan Ursprung and George Schofield on the sidelines most of the game the Vermont forward wall was not as tight defensively. End sweeps by the fast Panther backs was the decisive factor in the contest, according to those who witnessed the game. That eighty-yard touchdown march in the first eight minutes gave the Panthers a big psychological advantage. It was one of the few times this season a long touchdown drive has been reeled off against the Catamounts.

Despite the fact that Vermont lost the game, two of the finest plays of the game were credited to George MacDonald, who went fifty-two yards to score on a run-back, and Ralph Kehoe came close to going all the way on a hidden ball maneuver.

Art Pruneau did some fancy pass catching and Ralph Kehoe connected with thirteen out of his twenty-four passes. . . . Howie Haddigan had himself a field day at backing up the line, dropping Panther backs when it appeared as if they were breaking loose. . . . Banta, Cook, and Comolli did a fine job in the line for UVM. . . . it was a hard game to lose with the State title at stake, a chance to post the best record in UVM history, a dozen and a half seniors anxious to defeat the big rival for their first time, and numerous other considerations. It is rough going when you play one state rival in the opener and the other in the finale. It is all over. The Monday morning quarterbacks still have a lot to say, but let's hope they do not forget the fact that UVM won six and lost two.

Kittens Lose Finale To Cubs In Mud

By Dave Livingston

Which is the most ferocious—Panther or Catamount, Cub or Kitten? The first question was answered Saturday, but on the second part was answered Friday, Nov. 4.

Amid the rain, muck and mud, the Middlebury Cubs rolled or rather slipped to a 26-0 win over the Kittens. Only a brave few ventured out against the elements to witness the contest in which tempers flared up several times.

The Cubs marched for a TD after they received the opening kickoff with quarterback Ted Allen plunging over from the two.

Two minutes later they crossed over into diagonal stripe territory again after they recovered a Vermont fumble on the Green and Gold's 26. Bob Trefts then broke loose on 14 and 12 yard romps to score.

The Kittens, aided by opposing penalties, put up a stubborn defense and the visitors smooth T faltered until just before the half. A Kitten fumble enabled the Cubs to push over another six-pointer. Beers toted the ball over on a 12-yard end skirt.

In the opening minutes of the final period, the Kittens put out a desperate touchdown bid, marching 46 yards on Brown's and Mann's ball jaunting and Payne's aerial heaves. But again, that dread disease, fumbleitis, set in and the Cubs recovered to end the threat.

Coach Sam Guarnaccia's eleven racked up its final points in the closing minutes of the game. Trefts scampered 18 yards for the tally.

In the 1948-49 campaign, the University of Vermont basketball team scored an average of 54.4 points a game. It held the opposition to 48.6 points a game.

Pres. Lyman Views Vermont Football History

By Kay Smith

At the conclusion of one of the most victorious football seasons in U.V.M. history, we were quite interested to find out just what our less successful seasons were like and maybe even why they were years of defeat. To do this we interviewed one of our most prominent and actively-interested alums, Dr. Lyman Allen, class of '93 and easily touched off a wealth of reminiscence.

Dr. Allen, couldn't understand why we wanted to look at "such a black page" in U.V.M.'s history. He is ashamed of our football record, says the sport on our campus was "a perfect farce," that we were usually "horribly licked." Then he proceeded to pour forth one of the most interesting of tragedies. It ran like this:

"Till the late '80s we played intramural, association-type football, in which all members of freshman and sophomore classes participated, on the campus east of the Old Mill. (After each of these games, the frosh would play the juniors, and the sophs the seniors.)

"The players, in no particular uniform, romped around the field in conquest of a round ball. Each class game was preceded by a 'nigger show,' which started with a parade from the Old Mill to the Medical School, led by umpires and referees in costume. The frosh class was represented by a junior and the sophs by a senior, both of whom read jocular discourses burlesquing the players.

"Then the crowd, about a hundred, marched back to the campus to view the game. At the end of the game, a barrel of cider would pop up and be consumed by the contestants. To the winning team went an old chamber pot with winning class numerals on it, which gave them a seat in U.V.M.'s hall of fame.

Plenty of Cider

"The night before the contest, there was a cider rush in which all the male students participated. The street gas lamps were turned off, and the fight was on.

"Our present form of football was innovated here in the late '80s. The game was executed with smashing mass plays. No forward passes were allowed. The boys, confined in canvas suits, would use a V-formation, including extra-heavy guards and centers to plow through the opposing line. The first coach had a merely theoretical knowledge of football, it showed well in our first game. Dartmouth, 90, U.V.M., 0. Even Goddard Seminary beat us. We did defeat a 'fitting' (prep) school, though.

Beat Norwich 50-0

"In the '90s we played better, usually beating Middlebury and Norwich. Dartmouth, Trinity and Williams humbled us every time. The falls of '93 and '94 found us without a coach and, consequently, without a team. Norwich proclaimed itself state champion; this seemed a pretty bold assumption to us, so we challenged them to a game, after ten days of training.

"The defiant Catamounts sprung a 50-0 victory in a 40-minute game. Later we got hold of a really practical coach, George Hoskins, who occasionally played

Cross-Country Team Undefeated In Duel Meet Competition As Mahoney Takes 1st At Midd

With Russ Mahoney, New England intercollegiate 880 and mile champion, setting the pace, the University of Vermont cross-country team racked up the state title in a 40-21 win over the Middlebury harriers there Friday afternoon.

Mahoney buzzed across the finish line in 23:27 to give Middlebury's second finishing Jim Newman his first non-first place of the season.

Jim Porter and Owen Coughlin of Vermont took the next two places, the latter edging out the Panther's Dave Dale, who in return edged out the Catamounts John Bellows.

The rest of the field was monopolized by Vermont. Caswell, Wolcott, and Randall all crossed before the tenth man, Rapp of Middlebury came in.

Although the varsity kept their winning ways, the UVM freshmen suffered their first defeat of the season 25-30 from the Middlebury frosh.

Mel Wrisley, the Kittens' ace runner, again took the blue ribbon. Middlebury's Ed Hickcox and Rog May took second and third respectively. Running second and third for Vermont were Brock and Saurwein.

center for us. About 1894, the Middlebury-U.V.M. game ended in a free fight, a pretty rough rumpus in which stones were the favored weapon. (This game was played in Vergennes.)

No Cause To Cheer

cheer.' There was simply no organization. There was 'organized devilry,' though, (not 'vandalism' as today). Everything was just beginning—no gym, no football science. If the scores aren't enough evidence of this, we must concede that our ignorance was clearly exposed when, in the '80s, we went on a little

ALPHA EPSILON PHI

AEO celebrated its chapter's Founder's Day Oct. 16 with an open house held at the home of the chapter adviser, Mrs. H. Abraham. The sorority had among its guests, Dean Simpson, Miss Wing, Miss Shively, faculty adviser, and many townspeople.

Ceremonies were held Oct. 13, to install officially Suzette Levine as dean of the chapter. Fran Rosengarten was initiated into the sorority the same evening. Dinner at the Black Cat followed, with the girls celebrating not only Fran's initiation but also Sara Cohen's birthday.

"An apple a day keeps the doctor away."

This was the slogan for AEO on Nov. 2, when the girls participated in the Campus Chest drive with their annual apple-selling campaign.

There has also been a great deal of excitement in AEO which isn't due to campus activities. Adele Kaye, former dean, was married to Gene Cohen, AET, shortly after graduation. Jimmie Schenkman was married to George Borofsky, OEA, in August. Congratulations are also in order for Sue Levine who was recently pinned to George Thomas.

News from the alumni dept.: Roddie Hecker is engaged to Bob Bernstein, while June Grody was married to Harold Davison on October 23.

DELTA PSI

Private Chan Taylor, formerly a pledge at Delta Psi, returned for a visit. Some may remember Chan for his outstanding performance as the cigar-smoking nurse to Prince Charley in the Kake Walk skit last year.

Two babies arrived last week. The first was a boy, born to Brother Papa Jack Hines for whom our heartiest congratulations are in order. The other was a baby in the form of a brand new refrigerator which came to grace the kitchen at the House.

Brother Newell Curtis has pinned Jane Cook of Burlington and a member of Pi Beta Phi. Brother Berney Hurley has pinned Betty Mattison of Rutland, and Brother Al Beauchamp has pinned Doreen Burke also of Rutland.

Some alumni were in town last week. Al Pratt '50 was down for the game and Stu Evans '46, house president for that year, was back for a visit.

Football games averaged out pretty well last week with a victory for the Deltas over Chi Sigma Zeta 12-6, and a defeat at the hands of Sigma Phi, 44-20. A late comment by coach Jack Hudson was "C'est la vie."

FUTURE FARMERS OF AMERICA

The Vermont Collegiate Chapter of Future Farmers of America met Nov. 3, in Waterman. Reports were heard from the Auditing Committee, Social Committee, Membership Committee, and the Constitution Committee. A freshman visitor, Norris Elliott, expressed his desire to become a member of the chapter, satisfied all requirements for membership and was accepted. Elliott was elected to the office of sentinel.

Gordon Farr led the discussion on revising the constitution. Numerous changes were made during the elongated discussion and they were accepted. Discussion was resumed on the by-laws and they were tabled until the next meeting.

Cider and doughnuts were served as refreshments.

ARIEL

Increased student interest in the Ariel, the college yearbook, and a drive to cut cost of publication are to be accomplished this year by pictorial advertising.

In the past when students came to the advertising section of Ariel, they closed the book because there was no reader appeal in that section. As a result merchants who advertised felt they were donating instead of advertising in the yearbook. Advertisements fell off.

"What," thought Art Meyer, business manager, "could be done to make the advertisements appealing yet profitable to contributors?" His answer was given at the Detroit convention pictorial advertising.

This method of advertising is very simple. Pictures do not cease at the advertising section, but students are photographed while exhibiting the article advertised and the photograph is used with the advertisement with possibly a caption of interest to draw the eye of the reader.

Such a method has been efficient in other yearbooks and serves a two-fold purpose. It adds attractiveness and efficiency.

The added attractiveness is obvious. As to efficiency, merchants will realize their articles are going to be read so they will give more advertising to the publication.

Meyer hopes this increased advertising will increase the income sufficiently to cover more than one-twentieth of the cost of the Ariel. This fraction will be greater than those of previous years and will relieve the strain on the student activity fee.

Ten Aggies Visit Marketing Centers Of Poultry Products

The class in marketing of poultry products in the College of Agriculture at the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College left by car Monday, Nov. 7 on a five-day poultry marketing trip to Boston and Springfield, Mass. Prof. D. C. Henderson accompanied the group.

Among the places they visited were the Hood Creamery in Boston, the egg auctions in Springfield, and the Boston Board of Trade. En route to Massachusetts, they stopped in Bellows Falls to visit the poultry processing plants there.

Besides Professor Henderson, those making the trip were: John C. Atkinson, West Brattleboro; John P. Bellows, Springfield; Harold M. Blakeley, Burlington; Donald C. Bruce, Middlebury; Herbert Hempstead, Jamaica, N. Y.; John W. Hough, Fort Ethan Allen; A. William Jasper, Havertown, Pa.; Friend H. Jenkins, Bennington; Leonard S. Mercia, Morrisville, and Henry R. Rouba, Pittsford.

NOTICE

In order that students may be free to take the trains and buses which leave Burlington at approximately 11:30 a.m., classes which normally meet at 11 o'clock and later on Wednesday, November 23, will be cancelled. Classes scheduled for 8, 9 and 10 o'clock will meet as usual.

The regular schedule of classes will be resumed on Monday, November 28. Contrary to information on the activities calendar, no classes will be held on Wednesday, December 21. The normal schedule will be followed on Tuesday, December 20.

Campus Chest Seeks $3,700 To Reach Drive's $5,000 Goal

During the week of Nov. 3-10 the Campus Chest climbed from $600 to $1300. The women's dormitories took the lead with the greatest single contribution—$403.95. The faculty headed the per capita giving with $2.75; the Off-Campus students were second, averaging $1.74.

This figure is still far short of the $5,000 quota; however Rev. Raymond Hall, Religious Life secretary, indicated hope that the quota will be reached.

He pointed out that a total of $1,000 in cash contributions had been received from only 630 students and faculty members, and that as yet four-fifths of the University population had not been solicited.

An unusually low number of "pledges" have been made in this year's drive—but pledges are invited by the Chest. So he advised not to turn away solicitors because students couldn't afford a cash payment at the moment.

Mary Ellen Fuller, co-chairman of the Campus Chest with Peggy Fisher and Ruth Goldberg, says, "We are in hopes of having all the solicitation cards in the Religious Life Office by November 23. Then we can go home for the holiday with a job well done."

Students' Wives To Hold Informal Dance In December

Plans for an informal dance to be held in December were discussed at the last meeting of the U.V.M. Students' Wives' Club.

Offices held by different members are as follows: Mrs. Ann Kennison, president; Mrs. Mary Pratt, vice-president; Mrs. Natalie Hough, secretary; and Mrs. Evelyn Carter, treasurer.

The membership of the Club is an estimated 90 persons, split up in different interest groups. There are bridge, educational, physical, sewing and bowling groups. Also, the Book Club and general athletic groups. These separate groups meet once a week, while the Club meets once a month.

Each month a different group has charge of the meeting. Last night the Club members were entertained by the bowling enthusiasts.

Three films were shown as the main attraction, on Prince Edward Island, the State of Vermont and a Bell Telephone film.

Refreshments were served during the social hour.

UVM's Super Highways

The above picture shows graphically the condition of the various roads around the campus. The similarity between those at East Hall and the Freshman Dorms and those at the construction site of the new hospital wing is striking indeed.

It has been noticed that during the past year there have been three major repair jobs done on these roads along with about ten smaller ones. The amount of patchwork to fill in the major pot holes has been astronomical.

It does not seem too difficult even for this correspondent without a thorough knowledge of road construction and engineering nor of cost-accounting to reason that if one good surface job had been done in the beginning we might have a pretty fair road now, and that its cost would probably be less. But as noted, we still have roads that, aside from the pretty curbs and the attractive war surplus fences, are in the same primitive state they were in two years ago when the dorms were first put up.

It has also been noticed that the road going up to Converse which is black top and has been there for some years is still in good condition. It is comparable to the Merritt Parkway after you have been on the road from East Broken Spring.

Then there is the dust that arises in a gentle cloud during the warmer seasons, but what's the sense of going on . . . . N. B.

It has just been noted that another extensive repair job was done on our roadways over the week-end. It rained today, muddy, isn't it?

But maybe we aren't using the proper approach in this problem. Now if we could prevent the formation of clouds over the University of Vermont . . . .

DEBATE TOURNAMENT

structions to the debaters on how to improve. Each critic announces the winner of the particular debate during the critique. With 240 debates taking place, the complexity and efficiency of the tournament can not be underestimated.

The tournament will be divided in two divisions—a varsity, an experienced division, and a novice or beginners division.

As an additional feature of the tournament, there is a Congressional Session in the area of the subject for debate. The purpose of the Congressional Session is to provide a more complete discussion of all phases of nationalization of basic industries than may come about in the debates.

A schedule of events follows:
Friday, Nov. 18, 4.00 to 7.00 p.m.—Registration; 8.00 to 9.35 p.m.—Round I of Debate; 9.45 p.m.—Debaters and Coaches Coffee Hours.

Saturday, Nov. 19, 8.30 a.m.—Round II of Debates; 10.15 a.m.—Congressional Committee Sessions; 1.30 p.m.—Round III of Debates; 3.15 p.m.—Round IV of Debates; 5.00 p.m.—Meeting of Congressional Steering Committee; 6.00-7.00 p.m.—Banquet; 8.00 p.m.—Congressional Session.

Football History

tour and played big teams for three or four consecutive days.

"It is probable that our unscientific playing was due to the fact that most of the boys were from small high schools and had never seen a football before. Two very bright spots (by contrast) are added to the picture. We beat Holy Cross in 1907. And, we had one outstanding football man, Lou Little, now Columbia's coach." (Dr. Allen tones down that spot by emphatically stating that Lou did not learn football at U.V.M.)

An author's note may be added in explanation of this black page—football never brought out the "rah-rah" spirit in this section of the country 'til recently. Baseball was always the popular sport. The new chapter of U.V.M. football history, being written now, has much more satisfying characters and plot.

Major Norm Hays, Oklahoma A&M, '40 -Aviation Executive, U.S. Air Force!

A native of Grove, Oklahoma, Norman Hays graduated from Grove High School in 1935. The following year he entered Oklahoma A&M, where he majored in engineering; also took public speaking.

Active in national 4H Club work while in college, he helped organize its statewide activities, won a national 4H championship in Public Speaking. In 1940 he received his BS degree in engineering.

A month later he began navigator training as an Aviation Cadet. In 1941, he received his navigator's wings and a commission as Second Lieutenant . . . married his college sweetheart.

Sent to an RAF Navigation School in Canada, he graduated with the highest possible rating of Specialist. Norman served overseas for 18 months in the Aleutians, Italy and Saipan.

Accepting a regular commission after the war, he was assigned to development of navigation instruments; navigated the B-29 "Pacusan Dreamboat" on its famed Hawaii-Cairo non-stop flight in 1946.

Typical of college graduates who have found their place in the U. S. Air Force, Major Hays is Chief, Navigation Section, at Headquarters in Washington . . . with a secure career . . . a promising future.

If you are single, between the ages of 20 and 26½, with at least two years of college, consider a flying career as an officer in the U. S. Air Force. You may be able to meet the high physical and moral requirements and be selected for training. If you do not complete Aviation Cadet training, you may return to civilian life or have opportunity to train for an important officer assignment in non-flying fields.

Air Force officer procurement teams are visiting many colleges and universities to explain about these career opportunities. Watch for their arrival or get full details at your nearest Air Force Base, local recruiting station, or by writing to the Chief of Staff, U. S. ## Fraternity Rushing Ends; Now We Can Study Again

Well, at long last things are about to calm down on the hill. The cause of this quieting down is the end of rushing. Rushing ended last Saturday with the pledging of 257 men. It was a very successful rushing season as compared with the rushing of the last few years.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon topped the list by pledging 42 men to lead the rest of the fraternities. The rest of the fraternities in order of the number of men pledged are Sigma Nu 34, Kappa Sigma 31, Delta Psi 26, Chi Sigma Zeta 22, Phi Delta Theta 21, Lambda Iota 21, Tau Epsilon Phi 20, Alpha Tau Omega 16, Phi Sigma Delta 16, and Sigma Phi 8.

Following is a list of the men pledged:

Alpha Tau Omega

Richard L. Allen, Glens Falls, N. Y.; John H. Breakenridge, Boise, Id.; Donald P. Clark, Rutland; Donald D. Ferland, Montpelier; Henry C. Forrester, Weehawken, N. J.; Julian Gomez, Barre; Robert Helemann, Hasbrouck Heights, N. J.; K. Mball W. Howes, Northampton, Mass.; Earl M. Jacob, Bedford, N. Y.; John P. Lambert, Burlington; Robert C. Kraft, Jamaica Plain, Mass.; Thomas S. Rousseau, Teaneck, N. J.; John W. Seddon, North Adams, Mass.; David A. Parker, Saxons River; Judson P. Smith, Rutland; George B. Waller, Jr., Schenectady, N. Y.; Harry B. Wiggins, Rutland.

Delta Psi

Francis Bell, BATTLEBORO; Donald R. Brown, Bellows Falls; Alan E. Buttles, Burlington; Thomas Chee-ham, Dedham, Mass.; Robert V. Clifford, Montpelier; Owen T. Coughlin, Spring Valley, N. Y.; John A. Densmore, Burlington; Jack E. Farnham, Bennington; William H. Fowler, Waterbury, Conn.; Christopher Catrouse, Norwich, Conn.; Robert J. Hughes, Lyndonville; Peter G. Huntsman, Montpelier; Leo F. Johnson, White River Jct.; Peter T. Kao, Hong Kong, China; Victor T. Kao, Hong Kong, China; Philip C. Mann, Winchendon, Mass.; William G. McKernan, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Tom B. Miller, Burlington; Ross R. Roberts, Rockville, Conn.; John A. Schenley, Rutland; Edward L. Pacetti, Barre; George L. P. Ke, Rutland; Clayton H. Plumb, Springfield; Paul A. Putnam, Springfield; Roderick B. Ware, Chevy Chase, Md.; John B. Wright, Fair Haven.

Kappa Sigma

Richard F. Allen, Burlington; James W. Atkins, Barre; Rodney Belden, Burlington; Roger Beuten, Burlington; Gary Clairmont, Burlington; James E. Croker, Burlington; Michael J. Custode, E. Orange, N. J.; Frederick W. Downs, Stockbridge, Mass.; Paul J. Fitzgerald, Bellows Falls; James W. Francis, Maplewood, N. J.; Robert V. Hays, Morris Plain, N. J.; George L. ## Cynic's John Moore Pans Charles Kullman And Community Concert

The Community Concert Association is supposed to bring good music to this town, but if Charles Kullman is a typical example of its efforts, it is failing miserably. Kullman, billed as a leading tenor at the Metropolitan, gave a concert here November 20, and made a distinct impression on the audience concerning how hard the Memorial Auditorium seats can be. If the program had been half as long, Kullman would have been endurable. His voice was not bad, although not outstanding, and he did reasonably well in the first hour. However, after two hours and eight encores the only reaction was a vile taste in the mouth and a numbing pain behind. There is no getting around it. He ended up as a sloppy, straining, bellowing steer.

The Community Concert Association in this town could do a good job in bringing good performers here, since its subscription list is so large and its resources so great. However, as long as it insists on bringing out second- and third-rate artists like Kullman, it is neglecting its duty. It is my own wish to see this organization join itself with the U.V.M. Music Department, which has done an excellent job in bringing us Rubinstein, who is recognized as one of the biggest names among pianists.

Outing Club Sponsored Film Has Enthusiastic Reception At Vermont

The ski enthusiasts of the University had a treat last Tuesday afternoon and evening when a movie, "Allo, Henri," sponsored by Outing Club was shown at the Fleming Museum.

The film featured Henri Alloi, the Olympic Downhill Champion. He is often confused with another well known French skier, Emile Allais because their style of skiing is very similar.

The picture showed mainly shots of various ski meets around the country. It showed the French ski team in Canada, Colorado, and Sun Valley. In addition to Mr. Alloi's downhill and slalom skiing, many fine shots of Peter Hugsted, the Olympic jumping champion, were shown.

The film was made up mostly of exhibitions with few demonstrations of particular techniques. Alloi did, however show in detail the performance of his downhill turn used for downhill and slalom racing.

Another feature of the film was Smokey, the skiing dog. What he may have lacked in perfection of form, he made up for in his enthusiasm.

A chance to observe so much exemplary skiing coupled with such amazing highlights as Smokey's antics and the gorgeous scenery shown in technicolor made this film thoroughly enjoyable for both skier and nonskier.

This film was sponsored by the Outing Club. Its president, Jake Bailey, has announced that they plan to run busses again this year on Sundays to Stowe and Mad River Glen. They also hope to be able to run a bus to Underhill Heights on Friday night providing conditions on the slopes are favorable. Rates for the busses have not yet been announced. Those interested in going to one of the resorts should watch the Outing Club bulletin board downstairs in Waterman. If a trip is planned, bus schedules will be posted the Friday before.

The University of Vermont was the scene of great activity over the past weekend as the Fourth Annual Debate Tournament took place in the form of debates, a mock Congressional Session and two radio broadcasts. Two hundred fifty-two debaters representing forty-one schools competed in one of the largest debate tournaments in the country.

There was no winning team in the tournament, as its purpose was to provide debating experience for the participants. Instead the judges gave a critical commentary on each debate and declared which team in their opinion conducted the best debate.

In the Varsity division, Vermont won sixteen out of twenty-four debates, while in the novice division, which consists of those people competing in their first collegiate debate, Vermont won eleven out of twenty-four. Colgate's varsity team was the only one to emerge undefeated in all its debates, although either the affirmative or the negative side of ten other teams was also unbeaten.

The question for debate was; "Resolved, That the United States should Nationalize the Basic Non-agricultural Industries." Results of the judges' comments show that the negative teams overshadowed the affirmative by a very slight margin.

The Congressional Session was modeled after the United States Congress, with twelve Congressional Committees and a Steering Committee preceding the general Congressional Session in City Hall Auditorium. Four resolutions were taken under consideration with great fervor, with these results: a resolution "that in the basic non-agricultural industries a government arbitration board to settle disputes between labor and management will be binding to both parties," was barely defeated; a resolution "that more power authorities like TVA should be established" was passed by a substantial margin; a resolution that the United States should subsidize foreign prices was passed; a resolution "that Congress should make available increased funds to enforce present anti-trust laws" was also passed.

Both radio broadcasts were on Saturday, one over WCAX at 5.00 and the other over WJOY at 9.30. Prof. John Crawford of Wesleyan was moderator of the first program, and Mary Fuller of U.V.M., Joe Sax of Navy, Richard Schweiker of Penn. State, and Charles Radcliff of Bates were the four selected debaters. On the later program Prof. Norman Crawford of Rutgers was moderator, and Pauline Wescott of U.V.M., Leonard Klein of N.Y.U. (Heights), Elliott Winick of Brooklyn, and Russell Dilks of Dartmouth were the debaters.

The actual competition was only a part of the week-end's events, however. For the guests' entertainment there were also coffee hours, a banquet at the Hotel Vermont, and finally a dance in the Waterman Building on Saturday night. Mrs. Vera Shedko was in charge of the banquet at which Nicholas Cripe was toastmaster, with President Lyman, Thomas Hayes, the president of the Vermont debating team, and Prof. Joseph O'Brien of Penn State as speakers, and the Sigma Nu quartet for entertainment.

Besides the twenty-four debaters from U.V.M. at least three hundred non-debaters, in close cooperation with Doctor Huber and Mr. Cripe, co-directors of debate at U.V.M., and Newell Curtis, student chairman, helped make the event extremely efficient. The visitors were especially impressed with the use of walky-talkies for swift communication and the rapid registration procedure.

Congratulations

With the football season over—and it was a mighty fine season—a minor sport has gotten off to a fine start this fall and we sincerely hope that the rifle team will continue to turn in the same kind of results that it accomplished last week in its first match. The highest score piled up last year by the rifle team was 1,381 points; the score last week against Clarkson in a postal match was 1,383 points—a good 40 points ahead of Clarkson. The competition for the team this year rests on a five-level basis. The first goal is the championship of Northern New England schools; the second, the New England Collegiate Association title; the third, the Army ROTC matches; the fourth, the William Randolph Hearst Trophy competition given in the different Army Command areas; and the last, the Department of Defense Trophy, the winner of which is virtually the national champ. Last week the individual scores were excellent on the Vermont team; no member shot under 270 points—which is good shooting in any competition. The Vermont team also has a potential national champion in Tom Breen, who shot a phenomenal 289 out of a possible perfect score of 300 points. Let's hope the team will keep this up.

Cynic Promotions

This week marks the printing of the official list of all workers on the VERMONT CYNIC for this year. For many of these workers it is their first official recognition of their positions on the staff of the paper, for the scrubbing program for all new students interested in newspaper work has been completed and those "scrubs" who fulfilled all of the numerous tasks necessary to put the CYNIC out have been promoted to the position of reporter. For other members, however, there are also new positions. This year, for the first time in several years, the position of "News Editor" has become more than a name. In a program whereby reporters are promoted to News Editors upon successful completion of writing as a reporter, the reporters of last year have been named News Editors. Under the new set-up their job is clearly defined and it is no easy one. Each News Editor is in charge of a specific department of news gathering (for example, Student Government, Administration); and each News Editor has charge of certain of the new reporters. On other staffers, as well, there are additions: Rewrite, Photography, Art, and the Sports Department.

Jeepers

After the recent debacle of modern democracy when approximately 30 students of the University of Vermont turned up to discuss a new constitution for UVM students, there were many interesting conjectures and rumors as to what might possibly be contained in the new constitution and whether there might not be some fairly important stuff in it after all. Some of the rumors had it that it might be a good time to determine whether fraternities and sororities might ultimately come under the jurisdiction of Student Government as concerns social affairs, the use of alcoholic beverages, and the like. Another rumor was that all clubs are to be limited to appropriations of $25 per year. There was a rumor a move might be made whereby Student Government would have jurisdiction over Women's Student Union. These were all rumors, of course, gleaned from the statements of some of those who take an interest in actual—and not nominal—self-government. But it might not be a bad idea for some of those directly concerned to get out and see what's going on at the Mass Meeting to be held December 6 in the Chapel.

Information Office In Waterman Is UVM's Great Waste Basket

by Maureen Haney

Located in the Waterman building is a little office through which much of U.V.M.'s life blood flows. It renders innumerable services to both students and faculty members, clubs, and organizations. It is, of course, the Information Office. Do you know just what these services are, or how they are carried out? If you don't, you are not acquainted with an integral part of life at U.V.M.

Perhaps the Lost and Found Department is one of the best known of these good deeds which the office performs. Looking through the drawers and the shelves which contain lost articles is quite an entertaining experience. On the shelves which were built to keep the "catch-all" desk free of such paraphernalia is a box containing nine pairs of glasses, most of them looking very much alike with flesh-colored frames. On the same shelf is a collection of lost books representing many of the courses at U.V.M., such as speech, nutritional psych, chemistry, American government and French.

Almost everything imaginable is contained in the two desk drawers which are used for the purpose. Most of the articles are silk scarfs, gloves, and mittens. Among the not-so-common "foundlings" are a purse, a black manicure set with all the implements including scissors, keys, jewelry, lipsticks, wallets, pens, hats, two Student Government activity books, two dress patterns, an empty pill jar, and a rather rusty can-opener. Last spring the drawers were cleared out and two big boxes of such useful items as scarfs, matched gloves, etc., were given to the different societies for distribution to the needy.

A good idea is the keeping of a lost and found record book which is dated from December 18, 1942, right up to the present day. It contains a complete list of every article except books, which has been found. The owner's signature is also recorded, if he has claimed his lost property.

The office also carries on a mail pick-up service. Two mail boxes painted a lovely pale green decorate its walls. The larger one is for out-going mail, the smaller one is for campus mail, which does not include that of the dorms. There are also cubby holes for mail for just about every department, club, and organization on campus. A few of these include the alumni office, the cashier's office, the cafeteria, Veterans' Education, and the bowling alleys.

If you have ever been in the Information Office perhaps you noticed the very interesting clock which hangs on the wall. Inside the case which contains the pendulum is a white tape which is looped up and down, and on which there are numbers and little holes. These holes regulate the ringing of the bell and are punched at the correct intervals so that it works, in a far-fetched manner, something like an alarm clock.

The main activity here which goes on constantly, on week days from 7:30 a.m. to 11:00 p.m. and on Sundays from 9:00 a.m. is the switchboard operation. It is very busy, especially between 7 and 9 at night. (I wonder why!) Three operators work in shifts to keep it continually at the service of all. Next to the switchboard are three boxes full of information cards containing the names, and other pertinent information, of all the U.V.M. students and faculty. This enables the operator to give information quickly when asked for it.

As one might imagine, the switchboard is not only a busy, but also an interesting place to work. Reports have it that Coolidge Hall takes first prize for being the busiest dorm. There is usually a waiting list of desperate boys who give their names and ask the operator to call when the line is not busy.

And there you have it! One sometimes wonders how U.V.M. could ever get along without this important little place, the Information Office. The answer seems obvious. It couldn't.

Letter To Editor

To the Editor of the CYNIC:

Dear Sir:

Bouquets, kudos, and congratulations to Edward Waters for his excellent and timely article on the condition of roads around East Campus and the three dormitories. As a dormitory resident for two years, I find that despite the constant "major" repairs and waste of money, the roads get progressively worse day by day. I hope Mr. Waters' article comes into the right hands and that the University uses some money to do a badly needed job on "mud hollow" and its potholes.

Red Faced Reporter Bows To Mr. Humphrey; Show Going Great Guns

by Mary-Ellen Burke

Apologies to Mr. Humphrey, Howard Delano, the Dramatic Club and all concerned. The article on "Winterset" printed in last week's CYNIC was not meant to be critical of the hard working advisor of the Dramatic Club or his equally hard working crew. A red faced reporter has been humbled.

Mr. Humphrey has been found—snowed under with work. Howie's handiwork has been observed with the problems of the set most evident.

Howie and his stage hands really tackled a job when they decided to construct the set for the Dramatic Club's coming production. One look will tell you that, but it is the second look that starts you wondering how they ever accomplished such a professional job.

On one end of the stage is a stone wall, or a reasonable facsimile, with the front of a building facing it from the other end. In the center of the stage stands some sort of structure in front of gauze curtain. Behind the curtain is a second set picturing the inside of an apartment. The curtain and the back set are new devices which Howie is employing to overcome the problem of two sets.

The floor is covered with hammers, planks, paints and the like, giving evidence of long hours of hard work put in by the members of the Dramatic Club.

The cast of characters who will make this scenery come to life is:

Trock	.....Ross Roberts
Shadow	.....Newell Curtis
Garth	.....Al Hurley
Miriamne	.....Carol Brody
Esdras	.....Bob Arthur
The Hobo	.....Steve Berman
First Girl	.....Audrey Campbell
Second Girl	.....Marjorie Yates
Judge Gaunt	.....Herb Levine
Mio	.....Andy Doe
Carr	.....Neil Towne
Herman	.....Parker Ladd
Lucia	.....Jack Holly
Piny	.....Vera Shedio
Sailor	.....Lester Culver
Policeman	.....John Levy
Radical	.....Will McBride
Sergeant	.....Bill Semonite
Man in Blue Serge	.....Bill Durkee

(There are still two or three parts that haven't been cast—small ones. We will give you these later.)

ATTENTION ALL WOMEN STUDENTS!

The women's mass meeting which was scheduled for November 30 has been postponed until January 4, 1950.

There will be a house presidents' meeting on November 30.

Dram. Club To Present "Winterset" Dec. 8, 9; Drama Based On Sacco-Vanzetti Case

On September 25, 1935 at the Martin Beck theatre in New York, the curtain rose for the first performance of Maxwell Anderson's "Winterset." The play became a success with audiences and producing groups everywhere, and now on Thursday, December 8 at 8.15 p.m., the Southwick auditorium curtain will rise for the first U.V.M. Dramatic Club performance of the Anderson classic. A second performance will follow Friday evening.

The play has been pointed out to be a combination of the events of the famous Sacco-Vanzetti case with the psychological problem of Hamlet. Mio, like Hamlet dedicates his life to clearing his father's memory of a stain unjustly put upon it. And it is also true that the famous instance of the failure of justice in a Massachusetts court, though not directly presented, created the moral and emotional attitudes in Anderson's mind out of which sprang the characters and tragic tone of the work.

Sacco and Vanzetti, as everyone knows, were two Italian laborers who were found guilty of robbing and killing a Massachusetts paymaster and his guard. Although throughout the trial the two maintained an air of simple nobility, evidence against them was aided by the fact that they were radicals and had been engaged in a systematic distribution of radical pamphlets. Liberals all over the country organized a campaign to prove the innocence of the two men, but despite new evidence of their innocence, they were executed.

Anderson does not tell this story in "Winterset." He merely uses it as material out of which to spin an equally melodramatic plot—one that poses grave social questions stemming from the case. He shows the effects of the trial on a number of people connected with it.

The setting for the play is a bank of the East River in Brooklyn, under a bridgehead. Credit for designing the triple-duty set used in the play must be given Howie Delano who is the first student to set this precedent.

Portraying Mio, the boy who tries hopelessly to clear his beloved father's memory, is Andrew Doe, '52 of Montpelier. This is Doe's first attempt at acting a la U.V.M., but comes from a rich high school background (Ed. note—girls, you should have seen him as Romeo).

Trock and Shadow, two ex-prisoners, are played by Ross Roberts and Newell Curtis respectively. Roberts hails from Rockville, Conn., and he too, is appearing for the first time in a U.V.M. production, while Curtis, another Montpelierite, is a veteran at show business.

Miriamne, the 15-year-old heroine of the play, is brought to life in the person of sophomore Carol Brody. Miss Brody, another first nighter, has had considerable drama experience in high school in Brooklyn.

Miriamne's brother Garth is presented by Al Hurley '51, of Milton.

Bob Arthur '50, one of the Dramatic Club's favorite sons, who appeared in last spring's production of "You Can't Take It With You," and has handled publicity for the Varieties, plays Esdras, the kindly rabbi father of Garth and Miriamme.

The Hobo of "Winterset" is Steve Berman '51, of New Britain, Conn. Berman, too, acted in "You Can't Take It With You."

In the role of Judge Gaunt, the haunting character who is tortured into complete mental confusion by his conscience, is Herb Levine. A Newton, Mass. senior, Levine has appeared in several U.V.M. productions, most recently, "My Sister Eileen."

Carr, the 17-year-old roadboy friend of Mio's, is presented by Neil Towne, the second Miltonian in the cast. Towne has been prominent in the U.V.M. acting profession since he came here two years ago.

Audrey Campbell '50, of Livingston, N. J., and a transfer from Drew University, is the First Girl in the play. Miss Campbell was also with the cast of "You Can't Take It With You." The

Dr. Robert Huber Chosen Pres. Of N. E. Speech Assoc.

The New England Speech Association elected Dr. Robert B. Huber, director of speech at U.V.M., president of the organization at their annual meeting Saturday, November 26, in the Hotel Statler, Boston.

Dr. Huber graduated from Manchester College, Ind. He received his master's degree in speech from Michigan and earned his doctor's degree at the University of Wisconsin.

In the fall of 1946 Dr. Huber came to U.V.M. to organize the speech department. He had previously taught at Indiana University, University of Wisconsin, and University of Oregon. During the war he served as a naval air navigator.

Formed in 1939, the New England Speech Association aims to foster good speech among the general public and to encourage the improvement of speech instruction in public and private institutions. The association's 300 members are comprised of teachers in schools, colleges and other institutions who instruct in drama, radio, public speaking, discussion and debate.

Heard during the two-day discussion periods, Friday and Saturday, were speakers on voice and articulation, development of the American theater, radio education, and reports on high school and college speech courses.

Also attending the meeting were Mary Jane Farnham of Burlington, teacher of speech at Montpelier High School, Ronald H. Humphrey, director of dramatics at U.V.M., Dr. Eleanor Luse, director of the speech clinic at U.V.M., and Nicholas Cripe, co-director of debate at U.V.M.

Dr. William S. Carlson Will Arrive Next April To Resume Duties As President

Mass Meeting For Frosh And Sophs Dec. 6 Compulsory

There will be a mass meeting in the Ira Allen Chapel Tuesday, December 6, to discuss the revision of the Student Government Constitution. It will be required for the freshman and sophomore classes, and optional for the junior and senior classes. This is necessary due to the size of the chapel, and since the freshmen and sophomores will be affected by the decisions more than the upper two classes.

Martha Atwood, Chairman of the Constitution Revision Committee of Student Government, feels that the meeting is very important since the students should be given a chance to state their own opinions about how they will be governed.

It was felt that the upper two classes should also be required, but those that wish to hear the discussion and contribute to it will be able to attend.

The meeting is at 7 p.m. and attendance will be taken.

Sigma Gamma Plans To Resume Former Social Activities

Sigma Gamma in the past few weeks has gotten back into the swing after losing many of its members to the alums. An open house, teas, and informal parties are on our calendar for the near future. In fact invitations are "in the makin'" to a Winter Wonderland Party to be held December 11. Where?? We aren't telling it's a surprise destination.

Members of Sigma Gamma now feel they can extend the hand of friendship and cordially welcome friends old and new. We as a local sorority, are based on Vermont tradition. Our group is determined by its own members without discrimination of race, color, or creed. Sigma Gamma wants to make it possible for any student to enjoy the social life of group activity without heavy financial burden.

IFC Given Control Of Kake Walk; New Directors Named

With a Vermont winter come snow and freezing temperatures; with a winter at U.V.M. comes Kake Walk; and, as an indication that plans are already underway for the 1950 Kake Walk winter carnival, Robert E. Herriott, Willard Robertson, and Richard G. Kinsler have been announced as the Directors of this year's Kake Walk production by Acting President Elias Lyman.

Also contained in the President's statement, was the announcement that Kake Walk policy will be in the hands of the Inter-fraternity Council, with the University Council serving in an advisory capacity. This constitutes a change of set-up over previous years, when the IFC had no connection with Kake Walk. As its first contribution to Kake Walk, the IFC has provided the directors with a set of Kake Walk by-laws which have been approved by the University Council.

Bob Herriott, who, along with Will Robertson, will handle the production end of U.V.M.'s winter carnival, hails from Tiverton, R. I., and is a member of Delta Psi fraternity. He is a junior in the School of Technology. Bob is well suited to the job of director, having served as chairman of the Decorations Committee of the 1948 Kake Walk, and as chairman of the Auditorium Committee of the 1949 production. He is known among his classmates as the President of the Class of 1951, a member of Key and Serpent Society, and as a class representative on Student Government.

Will Robertson comes from Manchester and is a senior in the College of Arts and Sciences. His fraternity affiliation is Phi Delta Theta and he has previously served Kake Walk as Assistant Director in 1949. Among his other accomplishments, Will has been a member of the CYNIC staff, as Advertising Manager, in his sophomore year, and has worked on Windfall, as Business Manager, during his junior year.

Dick Kinsler, the third member of the "big three," will be in charge of Kake Walk finance. Springfield, Mass., is Dick's home town, and Tau Epsilon Phi, his fraternity. He earned his Kake Walk experience as chairman of the Award Committee in 1948. Dick is a member of the Key and Serpent Society and the Finance Committee of Student Government and was active on the 1950 Ariel.

New Administrator Former President of Univ. of Delaware

Accepting the presidency of the University of Vermont, Dr. William S. Carlson will arrive next April 1 to succeed the acting president, Elias Lyman.

Although the committee on nomination of a president approved Dr. Carlson last August, he did not make the decision to accept the presidency until this November 21. He said he wanted to make certain his position here would be a permanent one before he accepted.

Educational and faculty leadership, success in public relations, and the essential humanness of the man were the important factors in the choice of Dr. Carlson by the committee. Acting president Lyman states, "He also possesses the ability to meet all sorts of people and, most important, he is a human person—a person who acts like a Vermonter and one whom we can make into a Vermonter."

Mr. Lyman continued saying, "Dr. Carlson wanted to be sure that the University of Vermont would be the place where he would want to spend the rest of his life." Continuing to praise Dr. Carlson, Mr. Lyman says, "While extremely able as an administrator and as a leader, he's like a big kid—young, with a good sense of humor and energetic."

Dr. Carlson has been president of the University of Delaware since July, 1946, during which time the University prospered, student enrollment springing from 930 to 2,200.

Previous to his job at Delaware, Dr. Carlson has been an author and explorer, a high school principal, and dean of admissions at the University of Minnesota. He received his bachelor degree, masters degree, and his doctorate in geology at the University of Michigan. He has studied at Copenhagen, Denmark, made scientific trips to Europe and the Arctic and functioned as aerologist for the University of Michigan's Greenland Expedition of 1928-31 and written his book, "Greenland Lies North."

His army career was an illustrious one, the doctor being awarded the Legion of Merit and serving as director of the Arctic, Desert, and Tropic Information Center. Dr. Carlson became a full colonel in 1945 and was assistant chief of the Special Projects Branch of Plans Division at AAF headquarters.

He has received an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from Dickinson College and is an elector for the Hall of Fame.

Although Dr. Carlson, his wife and his daughter, Kristin Mary, will arrive next April, it is probable he will not be president officially until commencement exercises next June. Having given his resignation at the University of Delaware, he will come to the Vermont campus early to become acquainted with the University.

Nancy Gill Reynolds

Since Hedi Ballantyne has only been in America a few years, I asked her to begin our interview by telling a bit about her life before coming to the U.S.

Born in Vienna, Hedi lived there until Hitler took over in March, 1938. Shortly after her father left for America in June, she was sent to England where she lived with a school teacher and attended a private school, continuing to learn English. War broke out in the fall, but Hedi continued her schooling, finishing when she was sixteen.

Having passed her college entrance exams, she worked for a two year training period in a nursery for evacuated children. The following year Hedi took the position of staff nurse in a London day nursery.

During her stay in England she had had little opportunity to keep in touch with her mother, who was still in Vienna. However, in '46 they arranged a meeting in Sweden where they stayed four months.

It was in September '46 that Hedi finally made her long awaited trip to America, for the war had delayed the voyage since '41. The trip on a French boat took sixteen days, and Hedi came directly to Vermont where her father was living. That fall she entered U.V.M.

Majoring in elementary education, she has participated in many activities during her four years here. Joining the IRC in her freshman year, Hedi was elected president in her junior year, and is now a council member. Active in several WAA groups, she began modern dance in her sophomore year and is a member of the master dance group this year. Hedi has also taken part in the Outing Club, French Club, and SCA. Last year she was elected to Mortar Board Society, and is a member of Alpha Chi Omega.

After her sophomore year Hedi married, and is now living with her husband in Winooski Park at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Stoehr. Dr. Stoehr is a teacher of German at St. Michael's College.

Hedi feels that the IRC has been her most worthwhile activity during her four years at U.V.M., for when she joined in her freshman year, it was not a strong organization, and she helped obtain the present office in East Hall in order to help the Club. She said that it is important for students to be internationally minded instead of centering their thoughts about one tight little group.

Another point which she brought out was the fact that students don't work at and enjoy their assignments; they merely do their daily work as a matter of course. The student-faculty relationships, so impersonal on our campus could be improved if we got to know our faculty and had discussions with them.

Hedi has grown to love Vermont and after graduation she plans to teach and live here.

Letter To Editor

University of Vermont
23 November, 1949

Dear Editor:

Good manners may not necessarily be the mark of good breeding; they most certainly indicate an individual's consideration of his associates and ambition for greater ethical character. The man with good manners seems to pass us by unnoticed and he is an inconspicuous personage, but if he is rude, churlish, uncultured, vulgar, coarse, discourteous, or otherwise inconsiderate of his companions he stands out like an ill humored car-buncle. In the interest of the great majority of students at the University of Vermont may I pass this plea along to those wornout hulks who park their size twelves on coffee shop tables and library tables: we don't enjoy having your feet up where we eat and study. Forget your breeding if you have to and make a try at good manners. I'm only a farmer so I don't know too much about good manners, civility, and courtesy, but I do know that you pick up the darndest things on your shoes.

Sincerely,
ROBERT B. McDONNELL

Music Critics Laud Vermont Symphony's Expressive Qualities

by Brooks Tillotson

The Middlebury College gymnasium is teeming with spectators. The people come from all over the state of Vermont, from New York City, and from Boston to witness this spectacle. The time is any Sunday afternoon, and the spectators range from college students and mill workers to big-time newspaper writers and critics. They have all come from far and near to watch the Vermont State Symphony Orchestra at rehearsal.

Alan Carter, the conductor and founder of the orchestra, seated on a stool at the podium, clad in an unimpressive open shirt and bow-tie, dripping with perspiration, is sending the orchestra through a rigorous performance of Tschai-kowsky's 5th Symphony. From the clarinet section, he demands more espresso in its melancholic introduction of the first theme. From the horn player, in the second movement he calls for the quality known well to musicians as "schmalz." The orchestra responds to the command of the conductor, knowing too well the consequences of playing poor dynamics, and using a poor tone quality. The fact is that, only a few years ago, the orchestra was not at all competent, as far as its comparison with smaller professional orchestras is concerned. But today as a noted composer told your reviewer, "The V.S.S.O. has a quality, which makes it among the best small orchestras in the nation. That quality is its interpretation of music, both modern and classical."

Having completely exhausted himself and the musicians, Mr. Carter calls for a break for coffee and sandwiches. This break is most important from both the physical and the musical points of view, because at this time, the players are instructed in the better interpretation of their parts by the music critics who are present. Such great musicians as Otto Luening of Columbia University, Jean Berger of Middlebury, and Alan MacNeil of Springfield, are frequently present, and their newest compositions are often given premiers by the little orchestra.

The rehearsal is finally over after intensive study with Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto, with Ernest Eniti, concert violinist and president of the new Vermont Conservatory, as soloist, and Berger's delightful "Creole Overture." The members are informed of the concert dates, at which they are to play these pieces and the Tschai-kowsky 5th Symphony. The first concert is to be in Burlington on Dec. 4. After much preparation and elbow grease, the orchestra looks forward to a successful concert there. With five hours of rehearsal under their belts, the members start the weary journey home; back to school, or that mill job, or the sick cases at the hospital. That is what makes the Vermont Symphony so great: it is composed of a cross-section of American life.

Annual Christmas Concert To Feature Handel's "Messiah"

The University Choir, assisted by members of the University Orchestra and by St. Paul's Choir and the First Congregational Choir, will present the first or Christmas part of Handel's "Messiah" in the Ira Allen Chapel Sunday, December 11 at 4 p.m. A group of traditional and modern carols, including one by Benjamin Britten, will open the program. The soloists will be Janice Shively, Elsie Schermerhorn, Marilyn Holden and Shirley Guild, sopranos; Shirley Lanctot and Mary K. DeForest, altos; George Merritt, tenor; and Carl Nelson and Paul Williams, basses. Sadah Shuchari Start will play violin obbligatos, and Miriam Natilee Marston will preside at the organ. Mary Bremer and Romaine Farnham will be the pianists. The directors will be Howard Bennett and Ippocrates Pappout-sakis. This performance will supplement the Lenten-Easter concert of last spring, when the second and third parts of the "Messiah" were given. The concert is free and public.

UVM Postman Completes Twenty-Five Years Service

One of the best known and liked persons around campus is an amiable fellow known to all his friends as Charlie. Charlie is the man that we on campus eagerly await each day, from the lowly freshman to the all-important professor. And who is Charlie, why he's the mailman.

Charlie Villemaire was born and has lived all his life in Winooski, across-the-river. He is married and has one boy and two girls, one of whom attended U.V.M. Charlie has been an employee of the post office for the past twenty-nine years, twenty-six of them delivering mail to the U.V.M. campus. During this time he has seen a second generation of students come on campus, children of people who were students at the University during his first days as a mailman on campus.

Being a mailman involves a great deal of responsibility and work. But, according to Charlie, it is as much fun as it is work. However, anyone who thinks that a mailman's job is a racket should be around to see him coming in toting huge armfuls of letters, pamphlets, magazines, newspapers and what-not. He figures that he handles about five or six thousand pieces of mail each day during the two deliveries he makes, plus an equal amount which he picks up at his various stops to return to the post office. All of this adds up to around a half ton of material to be moved each day. His route includes all the buildings on the main campus, Waterman, Old Mill, Billings Library, and the dormitories as well as Redstone, the Medical Building and the two hospitals.

During my short interview with Charlie, he struck me as being one of the most congenial individuals that I have chanced to talk to. This was also evidenced by the manner in which everyone greeted him with a friendly "Hello Charlie." He stressed the fact that he has enjoyed the twenty-six years of service to the University in this capacity, and would possibly be content to continue thus for another twenty-six years. This may be due to the fact that there are not as many canines on campus as on the average city route. Charlie confided to me that dogs are the dread of every mailman!

As a sideline, Charlie runs a sort of informal post office information bureau on campus for the benefit of anyone who may have troubles pertaining to postage, postal regulations, etc. It may be this

Prof. Dykhuisen and Students Discuss Is Religion Important?

Is religion important? Should a person arrive at religious convictions by free critical inquiry or receive them as a gift? Can a healthy religious outlook be the product of our present "secular" education? or of our parochial schools?

These and other questions arose last Monday night when Prof. George Dykhuisen and a group of fifteen students and faculty probed into one of the basic issues of our times—the relation of religion to education.

Dr. Dykhuisen prefaced his remarks with a definition of religion as "the attempt to arrive at an adjustment to ultimate reality." He indicated that a "religious outlook is important to the mature person, but that it must emerge from free, critical inquiry."

As he traced the dominance of religion in education from earliest civilizations to our present-day parochial schools, Dykhuisen cited a strong objection to this system: the stifling of free, scientific inquiry by making the facts conform to a preconceived idea of ultimate truth. On the other hand, the average graduate of the parochial school has an integrated philosophy of life—he relates his life to the ultimate goals. He has religion, but not enough critical spirit.

It was pointed out that the average graduate of the secular school has a free, inquiring spirit—but NO RELIGION.

This dilemma was then thrown open to discussion, and argument centered on whether the gift of religion established by revelation and human experience through the ages can be combined with the achievement of religion and examining of religious truths by critical inquiry. Most of the group believed that such a combination is necessary.

What kind of emphasis in education tends to produce a healthy religious life? What do you think?

store of knowledge that has won him the office of State President of the National Association of Letter Carriers in Vermont. This is his second year in that position.

So, next time you see this blue-uniformed carrier, shout out "Hello Charlie." I'll guarantee he'll return your greeting with a wave or a friendly word.

SAE FRATERNITY

With a new crop of neophytes to fatten the fold, the brothers of Sigma Alpha Epsilon look forward to a year of many new friendships, competitive and social events. The football season now over, at last we can meet Howie Haddigan with the assurance that he will be minus those characteristic cuts and bruises. Or can we? Howie took a step off the deep end a little while ago, and lost his pin. The fraternity serenaded Cindy last week, but from the looks of things, seemed to be serenading the whole of Coolidge Hall. S.A.E. has recently acquired some beautiful new living room furniture. Last week Dean Simpson and Miss Wing

Campus Chest Quota Reaches Half-Way Mark As Drive Ends

Our University Chest totaled $2,550. when the drive ended before the Thanksgiving holiday.

Several weeks ago the Campus Chest drive opened with the Belden twins' climbing out of a chest on the fifty yard line at Centennial Field. As the campaign officially closed on November 21 with a canvassers' supper there was room for one of the twins to climb back into the Chest, for only half of the $5,000 quota was attained. The number of students who contributed was comparable to last year's WSSF Fund, but per capita giving decreased slightly.

Suggestions for the running of next year's Chest were offered by the solicitors at the supper. It was recommended that this year's Committee prepare a careful record of how the 1949 drive was conducted and pass it on to the committee in charge of the 1950 Campus Chest, to be appointed soon.

were invited over for dinner and the meal was spent in pleasant conversation. A couple of Alpha Chi's came over a few days later, and made another meal most enjoyable.

FOOD SERVICE

In an effort to expedite service, the Food Service Department will try an experiment during the 15 days from Dec. 5, to 20, it is announced by Prof. Ruth L. Godfrey, director of Food Services. In place of the identical cafeteria menu now served there and in the Soda Fountain, Miss Godfrey plans a snack bar menu in the Soda Fountain of only sandwiches, hot soups, salads, desserts, sodas, milk shakes, sundaes, coffee, tea and milk.

The plan is entirely experimental, Miss Godfrey emphasizes, and after a few days a questionnaire will be provided to give students opportunity to express their approval or disapproval of the new arrangement.

To further expedite the hot food service which will remain as before in the cafeteria, two checkers have been placed at the end of the line, just outside the door to the dining room.

UNIVERSITY CLUB

The University Club of the University of Vermont will hold its monthly meeting on Friday, Dec. 2, at 8.00 p.m. in the club rooms in the Waterman Building.

Featured on the program will be an address by Mrs. J. Watson Webb, who will speak on the work of organizing the Shelburne Museum. A miniature scale work model of the nine acres and 14 buildings of the museum, which is styled as an old Vermont village, will be shown by Mrs. Webb to illustrate her talk.

Mr. and Mrs. Webb are the sponsors of the museum, which is intended to keep alive the best of the American heritage as it is reflected in early New England.

YOUNG REPUBLICAN CLUB

Gov. Ernest W. Gibson told the Young Republicans last Tuesday evening what he believes is the best policy for a candidate for public office, specifically governor.

Addressing a crowd which filled the Student Lounge, Governor Gibson said that honesty and the use of modern business methods is the best way of running an office. He believes that a candidate should present a direct and concrete program to the people; and in conjunction with this type of program a public servant will best serve the people by being specific, straight-forward, and willing to spend money when needed.

Finishing his speech, Governor Gibson said that the "state government should be the bulwark of carrying out the national as well as the state's policy."

The Men's Chorus sang two songs—"Some Enchanted Evening" and "Champlain," with the group joining in the second verse of the school's traditional song.

PHI DELTA THETA

For the third time in four years, Phi Delta Theta has the honor of listing the captain of the football team among the brothers of the house. This comes with the announcement that Dave Banta was elected a co-captain of the 1950 varsity football team.

With the Rushing session having come to a successful conclusion with the pledging of 21 new men, the fraternity took the opportunity of thanking all the girls who helped us at our banquets by serving them a dinner at the house on Wednesday of last week.

Plans are rapidly going ahead for future activities. The Winter Formal to be held on Friday the 16th is under the competent charge of Bros. Ray Comolli and Andy Smith. At this time such details as the hiring of a band and the theme of decorations have already been set up. We all expect that this will be as tremendous a success as have all our formals in the past.

With deer season having just ended, many and varied stories are drifting back about some of the more intrepid hunters (?) who set out with promises of venison steaks for the board table. One of these concerns a brother from Port Washington, N. Y., who apparently was watching in the wrong direction for a deer that ambled by about twenty yards behind him. Try looking down the road as well as up the next time Chuck. Another one is about Little Ray's big brother Ed who fired three shots at a large buck only fifty yards away and on the third shot finally succeeded in removing a fringe of hair from the animal's neck. The battle cry of, "Wait till next year," is resounding round the house.

Cats Meet Dartmouth Tonight In Opening Encounter

Niemann, Kotlarczyk Playing 4th Year With Green & Gold

by Glenn Fay

On Saturday, the third of December at Memorial Auditorium the University of Vermont basketball brigade will open their 20 game slate with the ever-tough Dartmouth Indians forming the opposition. This game is more or less a warm-up contest for both aggregations, but it is expected that the Indians will be the warmer of the two teams before the evening is over.

Last year the Hanover lads twice applied the hairbrush to the Evansmen in handy fashion. Since then the Green lost Ed Leede to the Boston Celtics, while Ken Pierce and Hammy Livingston graduated from U.V.M., making the teams still about even relatively. The Cats, by the way, have proved victorious over the Indians but twice in a series which dates back to 1900 and covers about 31 encounters. However, almost anything could happen this year.

The Green and Gold, who have won 28 straight state basketball contests, and seven straight state titles, are led this year by Capt. Al Niemann and Ed Kotlarczyk, both 4 year men who made their debut as freshmen with the sensational 1946 combination of Killick, Jake and Co.

Capt. Al Niemann

Other members of the squad who may expect to see plenty of action are: Keith Galli, a junior from Great Hills, N. Y., Rutland Ralph Kehoe, "Ace" Bloomer, the West Rutland southpaw, Howie Merrick from Brooklyn, and Pat Farma the pride of Fairfield, Conn. The squad has been cut to sixteen.

Dartmouth undoubtedly will be one of the hoop powers in the east this year, as usual, and an overflow crowd is expected to be on hand to size up our Catamounts in big-league competition.

Dartmouth's starting lineup will probably include Robert Hustek and Emil Hudak at the guards; James Ballard (6' 5") at center; Bill Biggs and Weston Field (6' 4") at the forward positions.

ni Passing

With the first game this Saturday, it is pertinent that a column be inserted in the CYNIC concerning the sport which Vermont has been most proficient, during the last few years. And it might be said prematurely, that Vermont gives every indication of having another fine team this year.

There is no doubt that we will have keen competition from our opponents, particularly in the state. St. Michael's has most of last year's good team back, but they will miss Billy Hart, and more important, the services of last year's coach, Benny Borgmann. Middlebury will have such spirited operators as Ralph Loveys returning from the '48-'49 five, and the potential of the team is high.

Nationally speaking, it is customary for most writers to base their observations at this early date on last year's performance and what key players have been lost because of graduation and other causes. We can then assume that San Francisco, Loyola of Chicago, Bowling Green and Kentucky will be among the leaders, while Villanova, C.C.N.Y., Holy Cross, and Notre Dame will be strong.

If college basketball has any similarity to the unpredictable football season, it is fortunate that the sport staff will not venture to predict games, at least for the first few weeks anyway!

Sports Slants

By Vic Murdock

Just about every one else in Burlington who is connected with sports writing has reprimanded Sam Donnellon, Sports Editor of the Middlebury Campus, for his remarks in the issue following the U.V.M.-Midd football game. Now I find the unpleasant task of doing the same on my shoulders. Most of his remarks were directed to the local papers and radio sports casters and concerns this column only as an interested bystander.

But what was an absolute disregard for his school, fellow students, and the good of sports in Vermont can not be overlooked. He implied that the Panthers were wasting their time competing with state rivals and that it would be more fruitful if other schools replaced them. This ridiculous bit of rubbing it in after our loss to the Panthers can only be answered with a question. How would you feel Sam, if I suggested that Vermont drop Middlebury in basketball? I think if I came out with such a proposal the athletic department and the administration of the school would find another sports editor. Why not try to help make the relationships with Middlebury, Norwich, St. Michael's and Vermont something to be proud of, so that the people of the state and those from the outside will be favorably impressed? What do you say Sam?

Now that three inches of snow covers Centennial Field, "Shorty" Cote has stored away the football gear, and U.V.M. failed to receive a bowl bid, all eyes will be focused on the unveiling of the 1949-50 version of Fuzzy Evans' hoopsters. Saturday night at Memorial auditorium the Cats run smack into powerful Dartmouth. Most of the highlights of the game have been covered in another article in this issue; but keep your eyes on Emil "Whodat" Hudak, popular and aggressive guard for the Indians.

Glances Here and There

Capt. Stan Ursprung was picked for a second team berth in the UP's all New England team recently. Ralph Kehoe, Hokie Cook, and George Schofield all received honorable mention. . . . Hammy Livingston, who captained the Catamount quintet last year, is coaching at Willsboro high school in New York State. . . . It is probably old news by now but George Schofield and Dave Banta were chosen as co-captains of next year's eleven. . . . Nine U.V.M. boxers have begun training for the 1950 Golden Gloves Tournament. Why not start a team to compete with other small colleges in the area? . . . Vermont's varsity ski team will compete Lyndonville collegiate invitation meet, December 31-January 1; the team will take part in four other meets.

Freshmen Cagers Prepare For 20 Game Slate

The University of Vermont freshman basketball team opens a 12-game slate at home Nov. 14 against Norwich University. Twenty-five (25) candidates are working out under Coach Norm Strassburg's direction in preparation for the schedule which includes home and home games against Dartmouth, Vermont Junior College, St. Michael's, Clarkson, Middlebury and Norwich.

The Vermont varsity quintet opens its 20-game schedule at home Dec. 3, against Dartmouth College.

Vermont's freshman basketball candidates: Bob Kniffen, Binghamton, N. Y.; Harold Simpson, Concord, N. H.; Gerald

Brewster, Stillwater, N. Y.; Edward Watkins, Keene, N. H.; John Scarey, North Bennington, Vt.; Dave Kelley, Montpelier, Vt.; Gary Clairmont, Burlington, Vt.; John LaBelle, Saratoga Springs, N. ## UVM's Biggest Pep Rally

Bonfires blazed, students cheered, and the U.V.M. band played on, at the last pep rally of the year, held on Nov. 11, 1949, at 7:00 p.m. in back of the gym. The rally was a prelude to the U.V.M. Middlebury game which was played on Saturday, Nov. 12.

Bob Carter '52, was M.C. and introduced the guest speakers. Captain Barrett of the fire department, and Sergeant Corbett of the police department wished the team luck and spoke a few words on fire-prevention and crime prevention. At the conclusion of their speeches the band, led by Doctor Lechnyr, broke into "Long Victorious," with the students joining in on the chorus.

"Fuzzy" Evans, football coach, then addressed the students, thanking them for backing the team and stating that Saturday's game would be "the most difficult game of the year." He also thanked the departing seniors for the great job they had done and said they had been a "great bunch to play with."

Mr. Evans was followed by Acting-Mayor, Dr. Karl McMahon, an alumnus of U.V.M. Dr. McMahon said that no team deserved more to win than U.V.M., and that no team had had better coaching.

U.V.M.'s Acting President Lyman was next to come before the mike. He wished the team and the crowd luck and spoke for the faculty, who had wished the team,

"fingers like glue," and, "Feet packed with dynamite."

Ed Costello, President of Student Government, spoke a few words, and urged the students to yell throughout the game, in support of the team.

Throughout the program, the cheerleaders led the crowd in U.V.M. cheers. The students displayed a lot of spirit and seemed to please the cheerleaders with their enthusiasm.

The rally ended with "Champlain," played by the band, and sung by the students. At its conclusion, the snake dance down to the center of Burlington commenced.

A dance was held in the gym after the students returned from the snake dance.

Faculty-Student Informal

The English Department at U.V.M. successfully inaugurated a new program of faculty-student informal gatherings in October. Every other Monday from 4:00-5:00 p.m., B-2 East Hall is open to all English majors who wish to drop in for tea and talk with other students and English teachers.

In attendance at the October gathering were Prof. W. B. Pope, department head, and Miss Betty Bandel, Prof. S. N. Bogorad, Mr. John W. Aldridge, and Mr. G. R. Hopwood.

Film on Experiment In Int. Living To Be Given Dec. 12

Are you interested in going abroad next summer? There are many students on the campuses throughout the country who have hopes of going abroad for a summer before they go out to meet the "hard world." One of the organizations that makes arrangements for students to live in Europe for the summer is the Experiment in International Living, Inc., from Putney, Vt.

There are several students on the U.V.M. campus who have had the experience of going to Europe with the Experiment. Through arrangements with the Putney office a film on the Experiment's methods of living abroad will be shown at the Fleming Museum on Monday, December 12, 1949, at 4 o'clock. Also at this time Jean Ritchie will tell of her experiences in Denmark with the Experiment during the summer of 1948; Dot Brau will explain her unforgettable summer with the Experiment in France during the past summer; Leonard Tomat will tell of his summer's experience in Italy.

The Experiment in International Living is a non-profit non-sectarian student organization that makes arrangements for American students to live in foreign homes for a period of about six or seven weeks. During the past summer 450 Americans were placed in foreign homes with a "brother" or a "sister" in 17 different countries. Plans are being made to have 500 students live in foreign homes. Come to the Fleming Museum on the twelfth of December and hear about what can be the "experience of a lifetime."

Vermont Ranks 14th With Small Colleges In Punting Average

The University of Vermont football aggregation led the opposition in only three departments this past fall. Scoring, punting, and pass interceptions.

About a week ago the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau announced some small college statistics. U.V.M. ranked fourteenth with a team average of 39.6 yards and Dom Cote placed twelfth with 41.3 yards.

Major Norm Hays, Oklahoma A&M, '40 -Aviation Executive, U.S. Air Force!

A native of Grove, Oklahoma, Norman Hays graduated from Grove High School in 1935. The following year he entered Oklahoma A&M, where he majored in engineering; also took public speaking.

Active in national 4H Club work while in college, he helped organize its statewide activities, won a national 4H championship in Public Speaking. In 1940 he received his BS degree in engineering.

A month later he began navigator training as an Aviation Cadet. In 1941, he received his navigator's wings and a commission as Second Lieutenant ... married his college sweetheart.

Sent to an RAF Navigation School in Canada, he graduated with the highest possible rating of Specialist. Norman served overseas for 18 months in the Aleutians, Italy and Saipan.

Accepting a regular commission after the war, he was assigned to development of navigation instruments; navigated the B-29 "Pacusan Dreamboat" on its famed Hawaii-Cairo non-stop flight in 1946.

Typical of college graduates who have found their place in the U. S. Air Force, Major Hays is Chief, Navigation Section, at Headquarters in Washington ... with a secure career ... a promising future.

If you are single, between the ages of 20 and 26½, with at least two years of college, consider a flying career as an officer in the U. S. Air Force. You may be able to meet the high physical and moral requirements and be selected for training. If you do not complete Aviation Cadet training, you may return to civilian life or have opportunity to train for an important officer assignment in non-flying fields.

Air Force officer procurement teams are visiting many colleges and universities to explain about these career opportunities. Watch for their arrival or get full details at your nearest Air Force Base, local recruiting station, or by writing to the Chief of Staff, U. S. Air Force, Attention: Aviation Cadet Branch, Washington 25, D. C.

Second Girl is played by newcomer Marjorie Yates. Miss Yates is a sophomore from Mount Vernon, N. Y.

Herman, the gawky shoe salesman, is in reality Parker Ladd. Ladd, a Hardwick senior, is another "My Sister Eileen" footlighter.

Mrs. Vera Shedko portrays Piny, the apple woman. This is Mrs. Shedko's second step up the thespian ladder; she appeared once before in front of the Varieties curtain.

Lucia, the street piano man, is pictured by versatile Jack Holly, the colored boy in "YCTIWY." Holly is from Schenectady and is a junior.

Les Culver, a Pawlet freshman with WGY experience, plays the Sailor.

The Radical is presented by Will McBride. McBride, the name cartoons made famous, is a sophomore.

The part of the policeman is still indefinite. Either John Levy or Jerry Hayes will bring this officer of the law to life.

Carlton Courtney '50, replaces Bill Semonite in the role of the Sergeant.

Non-speaking parts go to Harry Miele and Bob Durkee, the Men in Blue Serge.

There you have it. "Winterset"—a study of the soul and mind of man, and splendid example of how crude facts can be elevated into art.

Willard A. Fletcher Receives Scholarship To Study Abroad

Willard A. Fletcher, Jr., a member of the class of '49 at U.V.M. won one of the country's one hundred fifty-two Fulbright Scholarships which enables him to study abroad for one year.

Bill Fletcher was born in Johnson, Vt., in 1924. His father was an American citizen and his mother was born in Luxembourg. He lived abroad and attended school equivalent to our high school. While attending a technical school in September, 1942, he, as an American citizen, was placed in a concentration camp by the Germans. After eighteen months he was exchanged as a prisoner of war. Bill arrived in the United States in February of 1944 and in March of that year he joined the U. S. Army. He was a member of the group that freed the prisoners of that same camp where he had been interned. While in Luxembourg he was able to see his mother, who was still living there, and their meeting was written up in the Stars and Stripes.

In the summer of 1946 Bill came to U.V.M. under the G.I. Bill. He attended summer sessions and was able to graduate in 1949. He majored in Political Science and made the Dean's List. He was also President of the French Club and tutored French and German.

Bill put in an application for a Fulbright Scholarship in his senior year and he was notified of his acceptance the following August. The award itself was made in Belgian currency as he was to study at the University of Brussels. It covers transportation, tuition, books, equipment and maintenance for one academic year.

The boat on which Bill went to Europe arrived on October 10. The other Fulbright Scholarships in that part of Europe include ten other students at Brussels, six at Louvain and five at Liège.

When the students arrived in Brussels they were entertained by the American Embassy. Soon after this, classes commenced and he is now continuing his studies in Political Science.

Handel's "Messiah" To Be Presented At Christmas Concert

The University of Vermont is very fortunate in having as its music professors such able and learned musicians as Howard Bennett and Ippocrates Pappoutsakis. As long as they have made their homes in Burlington, they have contributed greatly to the music culture of students of this university and of the townspeople. The Christmas Concert, to be held in Ira Allen Chapel on Sunday, December 11, at 4.00 p.m. is the newest endeavor of these two professors to bring to Burlington music of the masters of old. The University Choir will be assisted by the string section of the University Orchestra, and also by the St. Paul's and the First Congregational Church Choirs, in presenting the first, or Christmas part of Handel's Messiah. This magnificent composition, written under tremendous strain, radiates the great religious experience which Handel underwent while he was composing. The reporter suggests that Handel must have died in the most wonderful of circumstances, since he succumbed while listening to a performance of his great work.

The first part of the Messiah has not been performed in Burlington since 1927, when it was presented by the University Choir, under the same conductor. Thus, it is indeed due time that the work should be given. The program lists a large number of soloists, consisting of both students and townspeople. The soloists will be Janice Shively, Elsie Schermerhorn, Marilyn Holden and Shirley Guild, sopranos; Shirley Lancot and Mary K. DeForest, altos; George Merritt, tenor; Carl Nelson and Paul Williams, basses. Sarah Shuchari. Start will play violin obbligatos, and Miriam Marston will pre-side at the organ. Mary Bremer and Romaine Farnham will be the pianists. This concert will supplement the Lenten-Easter concert of last spring, when the second and third parts of the Messiah were given.

Also on the program of the Christmas concert will be a number of traditional Christmas Carols, sung by the Choir, and a new composition by the English composer, Benjamin Britten, called "Deo Gracias." An arrangement of an Appalachian folk song, "I Wonder As I Wander," the arrangement done by Niles, will also be given.

The concert certainly will benefit all who attend. Music is all too inferior a pastime in Burlington, and concerts like this one should not be overlooked. The date has been changed since the University calendars were issued, so check December 11 on these calendars.

English Dept Gives Teas To Further Student Interest

Small social gatherings of English majors with faculty members of the English department are current affairs on the first and third Mondays of each month at East Hall.

There are almost 100 English majors at the University of Vermont. A problem arises as to how the instructor of the department can meet each individual and come to know him on a different plane than teacher-student relationship.

Prof. Willard B. Pope solved the riddle. When a student finds an opportune time, he informs Miss Bandel he will be at the meeting.

Usually a dozen or so attend, and at four o'clock they meet the faculty in the seminar room at East Hall. The meeting is informal with refreshments and a friendly atmosphere.

Vermont Symphony of Tremendous Value

Brooks Tillotson

From this Vermont Symphony musician's point of view, when asked what I thought about the Burlington concert, there is only one thing I can say: "Heecccc!" I've never been so tired since I started playing six years ago, when Dad used to whip me into playing A Major arpeggios on the Mellophone! In case any of you readers are curious, the Tschai-kowsky 5th is a rugged symphony to play just once. But then, just for fun, some day, put your piccolo in your right hip pocket, and take a little jaunt with me and the V.S.S.O. on one of its double-day concerts. I'm telling you, there is only one thing more tiresome than playing two concerts in one day, and that's playing three! To comment on the Rutland concert, I should say that the Tschai-kowsky was much better performed there than here. No comment is needed for the Mendelssohn, since Mr. Eniti and the Concerto fit like a snug glove, even though the glove may be a little worn and holey in spots.

The one thing that I did notice, through eyes puffed with fatigue, and Lipton tea bags bulging down my cheeks, was the number of empty seats in the auditorium Sunday night. What is going on in Burlington, anyway? As soon as you tell a Vermonter that his next door neighbor has become President of Chase and Sanborn, he switches to cocoa. That's the whole trouble with the music culture in Burlington: people look down their noses at Milton Slater and his pertinent comments on the correct appreciation of music, and he in turn looks down his nose at the accurate critiques of Boston and New York musicians. This musician thinks that, had the Burlington populace known about the Tschai-kowsky symphony performance, there would have been three thousand people present. But there was so little publicity of the concert, that only a few choice students at U.V.M. even got wind that there was to be a concert. I suggest that the promoters of the V.S.S.O. get on the ball in the future.

Another thing in passing: it is clearly evident that that only appreciation of music to be found in Vermont is of the most conservative nature. Now why is this so? A state with the facilities for music that Vermont has should most certainly, I would think look for new fields in music.

WCAX To Air Views On Proposed Power Authority For Vt.

The Vermont Forums will hold its weekly discussion in Burlington this week over Station WCAX. The topic will be "Does Vermont Need More Public Power?"

This issue is causing a great deal of controversy in Vermont at the present time. There have been many heated arguments in the state legislature about what is to be done with the control of electricity and power.

At the Forum, two men will present their arguments. Prof. Marshall Dimock will speak for government control while Mr. Albert Cree will advocate control by private enterprise.

Both these men are well qualified to represent their respective policies. Professor Dimock was formerly an Assistant Secretary of Labor and a teacher of Political Science at Northwestern and Chicago Universities. Mr. Cree has served with the New England Public Service Co. and at this time is the president of the Central Vermont Public Service Corporation.

UVM Project To Gather Gifts For State Hospital

Would you like to know that those who are unfortunate enough to have to spend a Christmas away from home will have a more enjoyable Christmas because of you? Well you can help. The U.V.M. Project which last summer worked at the Waterbury State Hospital is sponsoring a drive for small gifts to distribute to the patients this year at Christmas time. The group will begin to collect these items in a place to be announced later. The notices will appear on the bulletin boards as to the place, so watch them carefully. These gifts do not have to be anything expensive, merely something practical, such as a bar of soap, pack of cigarettes, candy, small games, etc. You can be sure that they will be appreciated. Any little thing done for these people makes them feel wanted and secure. And as many do not have families to care for their needs, the hospital is their home. Make them happy at Christmas time. You, and only you can do it. You won't regret it.

English Department Funds Sponsor Film "The Scarlet Letter"

The movie, "The Scarlet Letter," sponsored by the English department, was shown in Fleming Museum, Thursday, December 1, at 4 p.m. and 7 p.m.

The English department paid a small incidental fee for the film which was rented from a company specializing in visual aids. The ideal situation according to English teachers, would be more free movies about stories written by Melville, Hawthorne, Emerson, and others whose writings are studied in the literature courses at UVM. If this desire can be accomplished, more free movies will be given.

"Down to the Sea" was shown last year and gave a background of the whaling industry for all, but English 23 students were particularly interested as it related to their study of "Moby Dick."

These movies serve two fine purposes, giving a background to students studying various works of these authors and offering worthwhile, free entertainment

Final preparations have been completed and the UVM Dramatic Club's annual fall production, "Winterset," is set for its grand opening, this evening, December 8 at 8.15 on the Southwick auditorium stage. A second performance will be presented on the following evening, December 9 at the same time. This three-act drama by Maxwell Anderson based on the famous Sacco-Vanzetti case of the early 1920s is filled with action-packed drama, and promises to be emotionally stimulating for all the fortunate people who elect to see it.

Although Anderson combines the events of the Sacco-Vanzetti case with the psychological problem treated in Shakespeare's "Hamlet," Anderson uses this material to spin a plot which poses grave social questions and to show the effects of these problems on the people concerned with them.

Cast in the various parts are the following UVM students: Ross Roberts as Trock; Newell Curtis as Shadow; Al Hurley as Garth; Carol Brody as Miriamme; Bob Arthur as Esdras; Steve Berman as the Hobo; Audrey Campbell as the First Girl; Marjorie Yates as Second Girl; Herb Levine as Judge Gaunt; Andy Doe as Mio; Neil Towne as Carr; Parker-Ladd as Herman; Jack Holly as Lucia; Vera Shedko as Piny; Lester Culver as the Sailor; John Levy as the Policeman; Will McBride as the Radical; Carlton Courtney as the Sergeant; and Harry Miele and Bob Durkee as the Man in Blue Serge.

In charge of various phases of the actual production of the play are the following: Leonard Tomat, business manager; Tom Kent, stage manager; Bob Taisey, publicity; Audrey Kerner, tickets; Howard Delano, stage crew; Bob Sutherland, lights; Mike Wiedman, costumes; Carolyn Foster, make-up; Mrs. Betty McMahon, properties; Alma Warrell, ushers; and Nancy Leming, house and programs.

Tickets are on sale in the Dramatic Club ticket booth located opposite the Book Store in the Waterman Building. All seats are reserved and tickets sell for 50 cents and 75 cents apiece.

Middlebury Proposes New Regulations For Fraternities

(a) Any fraternity with discriminatory clauses in its constitution or by-laws must make efforts to have these clauses removed by the year 1952 or be considered to have its membership revoked in the Middlebury Interfraternity Council.

(b) That said fraternities with discriminatory clauses in their constitutions or by-laws must show adequate proof at a hearing in the fall of 1952 (before the rushing program commences) that they have made a reasonable and honest effort to have these clauses removed from their constitutions and by-laws.

(c) That a judiciary board shall be set up to determine whether fraternities with discriminatory clauses in their constitutions or by-laws have made honest efforts to remove their discriminatory clauses.

(1) This board shall be comprised of:

(a) Three members of the Interfraternity Council no one of whom can be from any fraternity being considered by the Board.

(b) One member of the faculty to be elected by the faculty.

(c) One member of the administration to be appointed by the President of Middlebury College.

(d) Two alumni, who are fraternity men but not members of the fraternities being considered by the board, to be appointed by the Alumni Council.

(2) The fraternities being considered by the board shall be represented by at least two of their active members and one member of their alumni board.

(3) The basis on which said fraternity shall be considered is a letter from its national office (Continued on page 6)

OH SAY IFC

Do we exclude Jews and Negroes from our fraternities at U.V.M.? Does discrimination play a part in each year's rushing? It exists in one form or another at probably nearly every college with fraternities in the North, not to mention those in the South. Has anything ever been done about it? We can answer yes. Movements have started periodically in many colleges. Here at U.V.M., fraternities other than the Jewish ones, have occasionally admitted a Jewish student. U.V.M. was the home of the celebrated "Crystal Malone case" of a few years ago, when a sorority—now extinct at U.V.M.—pledged a girl who had some negro blood. A large-size smell was raised by the national officers, the U.V.M. Administration politely crossed to the other side of the street, the girls were in a complete quandary, and the chapter at Vermont was disbanded. These instances have been rather rare, with both fraternities and sororities, principally because no one has cared to make an issue of the matter. Ironically enough, everyone breathed a sigh of relief this year when one of the locals found itself in a position to take in two Oriental students, whom other houses would have taken, if it hadn't been for certain "codes," written or unwritten.

But the object of this is to goad our Interfraternity Council into a little positive action on the matter. It backed a resolution at the National Interfraternity Convention in all sincerity, no doubt, opposing discrimination. But this NIFC is quite a farce. The undergraduates have no vote; they can attend panel discussions if they like, but the "old grads" run the big business. Where we have to start is not in conventions, but here at U.V.M. where our own IFC can do something.

And this Council has a good opportunity now to hop on a bandwagon which has been in the process of formation for the past few years. At Bowdoin College, there has been much agitation in recent years to ban fraternities with clauses; last year there was a celebrated case at Amherst involving the pledging of a Negro. N.Y.U.'s administration has just taken action against their fraternities which have discriminatory clauses. But most important, as far as U.V.M. is concerned is a plan put into effect by the Middlebury IFC. The Cynic is advocating a similar plan to Middlebury's, we think it can be improved to fit our situation.

The Middlebury Plan

The Middlebury plan says that all fraternities with restricting clauses must make an honest effort to have them removed by 1952 or else their membership in the MIFC will be liable to be revoked. They will set up a board to judge whether the fraternities have made an "honest effort." The board members can not be members of the fraternities involved or in any way connected with them. We admit that Middlebury has a different situation. Their fraternities are better organized, and so is their Council. Their Council has a more definite purpose than the Vermont IFC, for their one main purpose is to provide the facilities for all men who want to go fraternity. Their rushing program is undoubtedly better also. But we can skip these differences in the light of the fact that the Vermont Council is in a position to do something about our situation here at U.V.M.

Our Plan

We propose this plan.
(1) Every fraternity with discriminatory clauses at Vermont will have them removed by 1954. (We have increased the time, since we are starting late. The increase in time should allow any house to make an honest effort.)

(2) The Administration will suspend the rights of any fraternity containing clauses at the end of this period. (The role that the Vermont Administration should play in frowning upon discriminatory practices in this institution of higher learning is obvious.)

(3) No fraternity containing discriminatory clauses shall be permitted to become established at Vermont. (This point is also obvious.) That's the plan.

HOW ABOUT IT, IFC?

Your Student Government

By Marsh Sabens

A group of drowsy, maybe even uninterested, members of the Student Government Executive Council gathered together in the presence of only two visitors Wednesday. While more than the usual number of Council members were present, the interest of some seemed to be only in the motion to adjourn. If interest within the group is apparently lacking, it would seem rather difficult to engender greater outside interest. Could it be that participation in Student Government is more a matter of prestige than interest? If so, then there is little wonder that five or six people always carry the load of discussion and influence the decisions of the other fifteen members.

It was announced that in order to facilitate liaison between Student Government and campus organizations mail boxes will be installed in Waterman. In a democratic way, Student Government will compel all clubs to rent a box at a dollar a year. After the initial cost has been repaid, all proceeds will go into a prize fund.

Since the Elections Committee is not large enough to carry out its work at its present size, it will be enlarged to at least eight persons to be selected by the present Committee. When it was suggested that the new members be recruited from the honorary societies, one person voiced her sorrow that the already overworked members of these organizations might be burdened with still more. Wonder where she got that impression? Don't hear too much about these industrious, overworked honoraries.

John Hurst has been chosen as director of the recreational ski program, to be assisted by Dave Patch and George MacDonald. A fee of two dollars will be charged for each participant.

Dissatisfaction was expressed at the new set-up near the Cafeteria. It was felt that having no book racks or vending machines in the vicinity is a definite inconvenience. Ed Anania will meet with the parties responsible for the new system to see if partial restoration of the old is possible. Good luck, Ed, but don't be too disappointed.

Student Government has now reached the stage of all good government where rules and regulations are all-important and inflexible. The question arose concerning a foreign student who will need funds next semester if he is to stay in college. When someone suggested that some of the proceeds from the Campus Chest be used, several members voiced opposition because regulations and conditions had been laid down and abrogation of these should not be permitted. An attempt to unwind the red tape surrounding the situation failed and further discussion was postponed. At this impasse came the motion to adjourn.

Campus Improvements?

By Kay Smith

What's the matter?
Did the cafeteria exodus look like a mission house line before?

Is that why the first basement of Waterman is roped off and guides and signs conveniently posted in front of the cafeteria?

Have people been having trouble finding the food line or getting through the crowd to their classes?

Has somebody complained that the lower hall looked too collegiate with books piled against the wall and in the book-cases?

Maybe some jealous rival of Charles Winfield and Anna R. recently died and left a provision in his codicil to mutilate somehow their handsome and appropriately equipped monument. These don't seem plausible motives, so perhaps the whole arrangement was designed to alleviate the unemployment situation—a state-created project.

If the last supposition is the only one which satisfies at all, curiosity is still further whetted in descending the stairs to dine at the classy joint. Students are greeted by a gracious little man who slightly bows. They are about to say, "Two near the orchestra, please," but see, through the door, friends lounging around the tables, and regain a leisurely attitude. They are brought up sharply when they spy a line of bold, confining poles and chains and wonder if there is steak or chicken on display inside. What they really wonder is just what was wrong

Letters to the Editor . . .

Dear Sir:

I ask you, what unpardonable crime has the student body committed that it should be subjected to the rantings of one John Moore, who seems to have been employed for the season to enlighten the common herd, lest they might enjoy our infrequent musical events! It might be interesting to secure the opinion of one of our resident musical experts concerning these same events which pained Mr. Moore so greatly. If they have refrained from commenting publicly on his outbursts, it can only be because they are wisely giving him the exact amount of attention he deserves. It would be nice to be able to ignore him . . . the prospect of a whole year of Mr. Moore is depressing, to say the least.

I don't pretend to be a professional music critic, but I have listened to a good many singers. Mr. Kullman may not be Caruso, but he is a talented artist. To use the language used by Mr. Moore in speaking of a recognized artist is not only adolescent . . . it is a degree of bad taste of which adolescents are seldom guilty.

Unless there is a possibility that Mr. Moore may outgrow his delusions of grandeur, I suggest that the CYNIC find itself a critic who knows a little more about music and a great deal more about good taste and common courtesy.

MARYLOU TAYLOR '51

Dear Sir:

The CYNIC has, I believe, an excellent staff of reporters who, for the most part, give the students an impartial view of happenings in and around school and Burlington. There seems to me, however, to be one major lack—the lack of an impartial music critic.

Your so-called critic reveals only the picture of the little boy who was made to sit through an unpleasant experience and then related his ideas to a group of companions.

If Mr. Moore has nothing to offer besides destructive criticism it would be well if he were at least counterbalanced by another article in the same column which was prejudiced in the opposite direction.

I understand that one of the functions of the community concerts is not only to bring "big names" to cities . . . but also to give excellent "unknown" performers a chance.

Last—Mr. Moore's idea of the artist's interpretation of the composer's intentions (I'm referring now to the article on the Rubinstein Concert).

It must be remembered that the artist does his best to interpret both technically and "emotionally" the size and feeling of a composition. Rubinstein does very well, I think, but the artist is only half of the interpreting team—the listener must add the other half. Was Mr. Moore doing his half?

B. P. BISSON, Med. '53

with their conduct or the appearance of the place to warrant such drastic regulations. And, they criticize vociferously the ignored aesthetic and functional laws. What gripes them most is that, if UVM has money to sprinkle around, there are things that can use improvement—roads, landscape (on East Campus), dorm smokers, lounges, bedrooms, recreation rooms. . . . The whole situation makes them rebel against the seemingly worthless expenditure.

Dear Sir:

On November 10 your music critic wrote about Mrs. Start's concert: "It is incredible to believe that Sadah Shuchan Start is a member of the faculty, for her concert last Sunday proved that she is a concert violinist of the highest caliber. This faux pas we could smile at and forgive. But when, last week, he came out with this about Charles Kullman: 'He ended up as a sloppy, straining, bellowing steer,' it was impossible to forgive. This type of offensive, unconstructive and prejudiced criticism should not be printed in the CYNIC. I would suggest that your music critic study how better to do his job, and go about writing with a little less cockiness."

HEDI BALLANTYNE

I am only one of some 3,200 students at Vermont who pays $15.00 a year to support our Student Government. Last night I sat down and figured out that this year the twenty odd members of the Executive Council of Student Government will have approximately $42,000.00 of your money and my money to spend.

I believe that most of our money is spent wisely, but I am sure that it would be to our advantage if we all took a more active interest in the affairs of Student Government.

And what better chance is there to show your interest than on December when the proposed new constitution is to be unveiled. At this convention any student may air his views concerning the new constitution. I understand that there are some highly controversial questions to be discussed, including a new voting scheme which could enable certain groups on campus to swing elections in whatever way they pleased.

14 Fraternities On Bias Clauses Act

Fourteen colleges attending the second annual Northeastern Interfraternity Conference at the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, have opposed fraternal discrimination and called for its removal from the constitutions of national fraternity organizations.

They requested the National Interfraternity Conference "to strive for the removal of religious and racial covenants from the constitutions of national fraternity organizations."

Schools represented were: Syracuse, Middlebury, Clarkson, Union, Rensselaer Polytechnic, Brown, Vermont, Maine, Worcester Polytechnic, Massachusetts College of Art, Amherst, St. Lawrence, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Maine, M.I.T., St. Lawrence, Syracuse and Union did not sign the resolution because their campus IFC groups had not taken a stand on the issue.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA

Early Christmas spirit abounded at the annual Alpha Chi Christmas bazaar held Saturday, December 3 at the chapter house, 384 Main St.

There were many varied tables including a parcel post grab bag, a display of Christmas decorations, a radio raffle, Christmas cards, jewelry, hand made articles such as socks, scarves, baby things and pot-holders. A tea room was also set up which served tea, cake and coffee.

Joyce Rogerson was general chairman, and under her was Charlotte Raymond in charge of the tea room, Bev Heald the grab bag, Jane Gates the raffle, Louie Farnsworth publicity, and Louise Gee decorations.

The lucky winner of the portable radio offered in the raffle was Sarah Cohen of Burlington.

The members of Alpha Iota extend a warm welcome to their new pledges and wish to congratulate the other Greek letter organizations on the completion of their successful rushing period.

Many thanks to all those who assisted in the rushing this year, and particularly the alums who showed such wonderful spirit and willingness.

Congratulations to the committee heads who worked on the Christmas bazaar: Betty Wheeler, general chairman, Charlotte Raymond, tea room, Jane Gates, raffle, Bev Heald, grab bag, Louie Farnsworth, publicity, and Louise Gee decorations, and also to their hard working members.

A talent such as typing comes in handy now and then as lately has been proven. Pass the chocolates, Louise!

DEBATE CLUB

University of Vermont debaters placed fifth in the week-end second annual Tufts Invitational Debate Tournament. Nineteen teams took part and Dartmouth College won.

On U.V.M.'s affirmative team were Mary Ellen Fuller '51, of Burlington, and Bruce Stargatt '51, New Rochelle, N. Y. They posted wins over Harvard, Boston University and Rhode Island, and were defeated by Temple.

The negative team was composed of Pauline Westcott '51, of East Poultney, and Phillip Levin '52, of Burlington. This team defeated Tufts and Rhode Island, but lost to Harvard and Maine.

U.V.M. was edged out of the semifinals, which saw Maine defeat Temple, and Dartmouth defeat MIT. Question was: Should the government own and operate the basic industries?

Thursday night, U.V.M. had non-decision debates with Emerson and Boston University.

Others participating in the tourney were teams from Rutgers, Fordham, Curry, Amherst, Suffolk, American International, Emerson, Northeastern, and Georgetown, the winner last year.

DELTA PHI EPSILON

Once back again at school after the Thanksgiving vacation, nothing much has changed except that each sorority has its new pledges. DPE sisters are happy to have them with them and like to say a big HELLO.

Sporting a new diamond is Ricky Levine, who passed chocolates on Monday night to mark her engagement to Bobby Boyarsky of Phi Sigma Delta. Lots of luck, Ricky!

Another change is the election of Ruth Kenner as corresponding secretary.

FUTURE FARMERS OF AMERICA

A special meeting of the Vermont Collegiate Chapter of the Future Farmers of America was held in Room 258, Waterman at 7 p.m., Monday, November 21.

The constitution committee finished its report and it was accepted with changes which arose in discussion.

The program of work committee reported and the additions and revisions were accepted. Members will receive copies at the next meeting.

Preparation for the radio program is under way. It will be given over a local station, but the time has not been set.

Pres. Bill Bueclar stressed the fact that not enough milk is consumed by children. He advised that the chapter help to increase milk consumption and asked for volunteers to speak and give demonstrations at local schools.

Officers of the initiating teams received copies of parts to the initiation ceremonies, both of the Green Hand degree and the Chapter Farmer degree. These programs will take place December 13.

Discussion on the initiation banquet will be held at the next meeting, December 6 at 7 p.m., in Room 258 Waterman. It is also planned that membership cards will be given out.

Interfraternity Athletics

Now that touch football has subsided, the winter activities of the interfraternities' competitive athletics will take effect.

The Bowling League has just begun with eleven fraternities taking an active part.

Kappa Sigmas are the defending champions this year and the Phi Sigma Deltas which were runners up last year seem to be the potential leaders this year as yet it is too early to determine just which fraternity will be victorious come March 2, at which time the season will end.

As for the Basketball League it will be composed of the eleven fraternities and nine teams from the dormitories.

Delta Psi won the basketball crown last year and Kappa Sigma fraternity finished in second place.

All in all it looks as though this will be an interesting year for the fraternities, one that will be well worth keeping a tabulation of and seeing in action.

KAPPA XI KAPPA

The eight founders of Kappa Xi were joined by their 24 new pledges Monday evening, November 28, in a meeting at Southwick. Janet Stephens '51 of South Orange, N. J., was elected president of the pledges. Marilyn Murdock presided at the actives' meeting while Mary Ellen Murray, pledge trainer, conducted the pledges' meeting.

Mrs. William A. Owen, official Pan-Hellenic delegate from Gamma Phi Beta sorority, spoke to the girls of Kappa Xi Kappa Wednesday evening at a special meeting at Southwick. Again Friday afternoon an opportunity to meet Mrs. Owen was offered when she attended a meeting in the Waterman Building.

Pledge Marjorie "Peggy" Yates has the part of the second girl in Winterset, while Active Carolyn Foster is in charge of make-up for the Dramatic Club's fall production.

Kappa Xi Kappa extends thanks to all well wishers who sent telegrams and letters of congratulations on its first pledging.

PI BETA PHI

The Pi Phi's have finally settled down to a normal existence after a season of rushing. The new pledges were feted at a dance given at the house in their honor last Friday evening. It turned out to be quite an affair with everyone leaving their shoes at the door as they entered.

The house was recently honored by a visit from their national Grand Secretary. She gave the Pi Phi's much valuable advice for solving their problems. Each girl got to know her personally. We hope she will return to us again.

The house these days is graced by a genuine Siamese cat named Deckie. Its owner Peter Mason received her as a gift from a close friend, shall we say at Amherst, a member of The Dekes. Thus the name Deckie.

The ski enthusiasts are at it already. Bobbie White, Toni Peloquin, Lynn Thorell, Nancy Stell, Harriet Carlton, and Jane Cook also have their eye on the ski team. Here's hoping they make it.

It seems that everyone welcomed the Thanksgiving vacation with open arms. Now the only thing anyone can think of is Christmas. Plans for a Christmas Formal are being made, so everyone is busy once again.

The Pi Phi's should like to congratulate all the sororities and fraternities on their new pledges and once again thank everyone who helped during the rushing period.

Congratulations, a little late, but just as sincere, to George Schofield and Dave Banta as co-captains of the 1950 Football team.

SIGMA GAMMA

Patronesses, mothers and alumnae of Sigma Gamma Sorority were honored at a tea at Southwick Sunday afternoon, Nov. 13. Mrs. Consuelo Northrop Bailey and Mrs. Bertha Little Larrabee, two of the founders of Sigma Gamma, were present.

The Misses Dorothy and Jean Murphy poured. Refreshments were homemade.

cakes and cookies. Milkweed silk and bittersweet made a nest for the traditional November turkey centerpiece. Candles and a fire in the fireplace made the room cozy.

Cats Display Fine Defense But Poor Shooting Causes Loss To Dartmouth

A scrappy UVM basketball team bowed to Dartmouth college last Saturday night in Burlington's Memorial Auditorium by a score of 35 to 28. The game was highlighted by hustle, good defensive play and bad shooting.

In dropping the season's opener, the Catamounts showed room for vast improvement, they hit on only 11 out of 72 attempts for a poor percentage of 15.3. The usually high scoring duo of "Steady Eddy" Kotlarczyk and "Big" Al Niemann scored a total of 7 of Vermont's 28 points. John Bloomer and Stretch Galli stood out for the losers Emil Hudak and Bob Hustek starred for the winners.

Two minutes had gone by when Hedberg's hook put the Hanover lads out in front, however Kotlarczyk knotted the score on a lay up. From that point on the lead changed hands by way of scoring on foul shots. With 8 minutes left in the first half Coach Elmer Lampe introduced his version of the platoon system by substituting Abernethy, Ballard, Buckley, Calhoun and Mulloy (whose 6.7 height thrilled the 3,000 fans in pre game warm up). Dartmouth's second team proceeded to do a great deal of cutting and passing in order to wear out the Catamounts. From this point on Vermont started to "hit." In the remaining 8 minutes Vermont scored 9 points while Dartmouth tallied 7 and Vermont found itself with a low but surprising 16 to 13 half-time advantage. A review of the first half showed Dartmouth generally controlling the boards with both teams exhibiting a fast and aggressive type of play.

The second half saw both starting line-ups on the court. Tom Rowe scored on an underhand lay-up to make it 16 to 15. Foul shots by Niemann and Kotlarczyk and a one hander by Kehoe made it 20 to 15 in favor of UVM. At this point Vermont fell apart, Dartmouth scored 10 straight points, Hustek tallying 6 out of the 10, to take the lead 25 to 20. Bloomer tallied a foul and a driving lay up to bring Vermont to within 2 points. Hudak's two pointer made it 27 to 23 and Galli's set brought Vermont to within 2 points again. Dartmouth's Ballard made it 28 to 23 on a foul and the Big Green led by three.

In came the second platoon to post victory number two for the charges of Elmer Lampe. Dartmouth extended its lead to 5 points on a field goal by Fields.

Kehoe (10) intercepts pass intended for Hustek (23) of Dartmouth.

Kotlarczyk scored on a pass from Farma to make it 30 to 27. From there on it was merely going through the motions. Dartmouth started an early freeze and scored 5 points more while Galli added a foul shot (Stretch was high man for UVM with 10 points) to bring the score to its final reading, Dartmouth 35, Vermont 28.

Norwich Here Wed., UVM Seeks 29th Vt. Conf. Victory In Row

The University of Vermont basketball team will be out to win their 29 consecutive game against Vermont competition when they play hosts to the Cadets of Norwich, Wednesday evening, December 14, at Memorial Auditorium. Game time as usual is 8.30.

The current streak dates back to January 12, 1942 when the Catamounts dropped a 45-43 to St. Michael's College in the victor's gym. That night Larry Killick led the scoring with 14 points. In the following game against St. Mikes, Vermont scored the first win of its 28 game stretch and went on to take 7 mythical state titles.

Norwich opened their season with a 48-33 win over New Bedford Textile who also dropped a decision to Middlebury 63-45. The Cadets have many experienced players back from last year's team and should be an improved club with the addition of sophomores from the Freshman team.

Three names stand out on the Norwich team which may give the Catamounts trouble. Buck Bovee is the veteran set-shot artist who does his scoring from the outside. Rangy Dwight Weller and Glen Thomson are the others who can provide the scoring for the Cadets.

Mt. Mansfield Opens Early As Good Snow Conditions Prevail

Snow conditions made it possible for ski enthusiasts to get started early this year; in fact this is the first year that the chair lift at Mansfield has been in operation as early as November 26.

Managers of the various ski resorts are all anticipating a good season, and in preparation they have made many improvements in their programs.

One thousand people were on hand for the opening at Mansfield and one of the improvements noted was the addition of two new rope tows. This year Stowe

30 Gridmen Receive Their Varsity Letters

Thirty University of Vermont 1949 football letter winners were announced a few days ago by Athletic Director W. L. "Larry" Gardner.

Vermont enjoyed its best football season in a quarter of a century. Coached by John C. "Fuzzy" Evans, an Illinois graduate, Vermont won six of its eight games. The Catamounts defeated New Hampshire, Massachusetts, St. Lawrence, Rochester, Norwich and St. Michael's. They lost only to undefeated Union (26-7) and twice-beaten Middlebury (14-6).

The 1949 letter-winners: John Ballard, Milton, Vt.; Dave Banta, Riverside, R. I.; William Carpenter, Barre, Vt.; Arthur Collier, Great Neck, L. I.; Edward Comolli, Barre, Vt.; Hobart Cook, Auburn, Me.; Henry Corra, St. Johnsbury, Vt.; Dom Cote, Rochester, N. H.; Bill Dempsey, Dorchester, Mass.; Frank Farrell, Irvington, N. J.; Howard Haddigan, Elmont, L. I.; Don Hebsch, Lawrence, Mass.; Ralph Kehoe, Rutland, Vt.; John Keefer, Slatersville, R. I.; Kenneth Lawson, Albert Lea, Minn.; Tom Miller, Burlington, Vt.; George MacDonald, South Ryegate, Vt.; Art Pruneau, Barre, Vt.; Bob Powers, Fredonia, N. Y.; Bill Robinson, Pawtucket, R. I.; Bob St. Gelais, Burlington, Vt.; George Schofield, South Orange, N. J.; Charles Smith, Hackettstown, N. J.; Ronald Smith, Riverside, R. I.; Al Tavares, Lowell, Mass.; Charles Traverse, Morristown, N. J.; Tony Trono, Burlington, Vt.; Stanley Ursprung, New London, Conn.; John Ward, Interlaken, N. J.; Ken Williams, New York City.

Banta and Schofield will captain the 1950 Vermont eleven.

is doing a great deal of out-of-state advertising and if last week is any indication of the whole year there will be larger crowds.

A resort at Bennington managed by the Brunner Brothers offers ski instruction to both children and adults in the daytime. It also features sleigh rides, cross-country tours, dancing and even baby sitters for couples with young children.

Some of the other resorts worth trying are Snow Valley in Manchester, Mad River Glen at Waitsfield, the Ski Bowl at Underhill and Corinth Center.

"50 in '50" is the slogan adopted by the Burlington Daily News Fund as it once again prepares to stage the 1950 Vermont Golden Gloves Tournament in Burlington Memorial Auditorium on three January dates.

The total number of young boxers who took part in the highly successful 1949 tournament was 46. With the Golden Gloves and amateur boxing gaining in popularity each year, the sponsors hope to be able to add at least four to the total so as to make it "50 in '50."

January 12, 19 and 26, all Thursday nights, are the dates for the 1950 tournament. While the opening night is some six weeks away, now is the time for young fellows who plan on taking part to begin their training routine, so essential to a successful pugilist.

First of all, however, prospective contestants should send in a request for an application blank. Any boy, who either resides or goes to school in this state and will have reached his seventeenth birthday prior to January 1, 1950, is eligible to enter.

Merely send a postcard to Gil Wood, Sports Editor of The Burlington Daily News, asking for an application blank and instruction sheet. Do this just as soon as possible.

Several of the larger communities around the state have set up training facilities for amateur boxers—namely, Rutland, Bennington, Brattleboro, Montpelier, Barre and Burlington. Good team turnouts from those areas are expected, in addition to several entries from St. Michael's College and the University of Vermont.

This year there will be eight weight classes instead of the seven in the 1949 tournament, as the 112-pound class has been added. The others are 118, 126, 135, 147, 160, 175 and heavyweight.

The winners of the eight classes will form the 1950 Vermont team which will take part in the New England Tournament of Champions on February 20 and 21 at Lowell, Mass. There a New England team will be selected to compete in the Eastern Tournament of Champions at Madison Square Garden in New York on March 6, 7 and 8.

The road to Golden Gloves glory is open to any boy over 17 in Vermont. The first step is to send in your request for an application blank—and then start training.

The lamp that's bright all over—an inside story...

You could look directly through the clear glass of Edison's first lamp and see the hot filament. While this may have been interesting, the glare made it unpleasant. Many attempts were made to diffuse the light and cut the glare by coating the bulb, without loss of too much light.

A General Electric lamp researcher named Marvin Pipkin was the first to offer a practical inside frosting for lamps, with little light loss. His method, perfected in 1925, was a milestone in lamp research. The G-E inside frosted incandescent lamp is still today the one most commonly used.

But during years of work on many varied lighting projects, Pipkin kept up the search for a still better coating. He has found it—a new silica finish that diffuses the light almost perfectly and gives softer, more beautiful illumination. It is used in the G-E Deluxe-White Lamp now on the market.

This new success of Marvin Pipkin has come only after thousands of experiments and years of investigation. It illustrates again how General Electric emphasizes research and creative thinking, encourages fertile minds to follow their own imaginative bent, and so stays in the forefront of scientific and engineering development.

Winterset --- Some Background

The following contains excerpts from a letter written by Nicola Sacco, one of the principals of the famed Sacco-Vanzetti case of the early 1920s, to his son. It was written from the State Prison in Charlestown, Mass., nine days before the execution of Sacco. Sacco and Vanzetti had been convicted during the Red scare of the '20s of murder in the course of a payroll robbery. The evidence was considered flimsy by many and aroused a storm of protest throughout the world. Literary works written on this theme are: Justice Denied in Massachusetts (1927), poem by Edna St. Vincent Millay; Boston (1928), novel by Upton Sinclair; Firehead (1929), narrative poem by Lola Ridge; and Winterset (1935), play by Maxwell Anderson.

Prof. Felix Frankfurter of Harvard, now a justice of the Supreme Court, was one of the main figures who thought the trial of the men had not been just.

Winterset is a drama in verse form. Based on the Sacco-Vanzetti case, it deals with the attempts of the son of an Italian radical, executed for a murder he did not commit, to avenge his father's death.

August 18, 1927,
Charlestown State Prison

My Dear Son and Companion:

The other day, I ended my hunger strike and just as soon as I did that I thought of you to write to you, but I find that I did not have enough strength and I cannot finish it at one time. However, I want to get it down in any way before they take us again to the deathhouse, because it is my conviction that just as soon as the court refuses a new trial to us they will take us there. And between Friday and Monday, if nothing happens, they will electrocute us right after midnight, on August 22nd. Therefore, here I am, right with you with love and with open heart as ever I was yesterday.

I never thought that our inseparable life could be separated, but the thought of seven dolorous years makes it seem it did come, but then it has not changed really the unrest and the heart-beat of affection. That has remained as it was.

Much we have suffered during this long alvary. We protest today as we protested yesterday. We protest always for our freedom.

I am sure that from what your mother told me about what you said during these last terrible days when I was lying in the iniquitous death-house—that description gave me happiness because it showed you will be the beloved boy I had always dreamed.

Therefore what ever should happen tomorrow, nobody knows, but if they should kill us, you must not forget to look at your friends and comrades with the smiling gaze of gratitude as you look at your beloved ones, because they love you as they love every one of the fallen persecuted comrades. I tell you, your father that is all the life to you, your father that loved you and saw them, and knows their noble faith (that is mine) their supreme sacrifice that they are still doing for our freedom, for I have fought with them, and they are the ones that still hold the last of our hope that today they can still save us from electrocution, it is the struggle and fight between the rich and the poor for safety and freedom, Son, which you will understand in the future of your years to come, of this unrest and struggle of life's death.

Much I thought of you, when I was lying in the death-house—the singing, the kind tender voices of the children from the playground, where there was all the life and the joy of liberty—just one step from the wall which contains the buried agony of three buried souls. . . . Yes, Dante, they can crucify our bodies today as they are doing, but they cannot destroy our ideas, that will remain for the youth of the future to come. . . .

Best fraternal greetings to all the beloved ones, love and kisses to your little ones and mother. Most hearty affectionate embrace.

Vermont Symphony Praised By Critic

By John Moore

The Vermont Symphony Orchestra came to Burlington, December 4 and gave the most beautiful concert that has been heard here in a very long time. Their interpretation of Tschai-kowsky's 5th symphony, with which they opened the program, can be talked about only in superlatives. It held the audience spellbound in wonder and admiration. The Mendelssohn Violin Concerto, with Ernest Eniti as soloist, was very well done, although it could come nowhere near the Tschai-kowsky in emotional content. At times also, Mr. Eniti looked more like a caricature than an actual musician, but that time even that could be forgiven. Jean Burger's Creole Overture was lightweight, and the encore they gave, Bach's "Come Sweet Death," even surpassed the the Tschai-kowsky in its heights of ethereal beauty.

It seems strange that when Burlington thinks of culture, it looks to professionals who are brought in from the outside. They may be good, like Rubinstein, or bad, like Kullmann, but Burlingtonians flock to them in great numbers. Then when native art is honestly and brilliantly presented in such a form as the Vermont Symphony, the audience is almost lost in Memorial Auditorium. Have we no pride in the things that are our own?

Vermont Symphony

Why won't Vermonters flock to hear some good Stravinsky or Milhaud? Why should Vermonters be so all-fired conservative? The Vermont Symphony Orchestra was forced into the all conservative program that was performed here. I think the V.S.S.O. is of tremendous value to Vermont, and that it is the best thing that ever happened to Vermont; but it could be of so much more value if the people would allow it to forward new music by new composers. This is the music of today, and there is no getting around it. Modern music is the voice of a hustle-bustle world, the post-war world. Let's make use of it!

Now this reporter turns off the typewriter and quietly demanding silence (Shaddup!!) hits the sack for some much needed rest.

Slack Season?

Forget the dumb animals for a while and put an end to the needless suffering of your fellow women. The animals are doing fine; they've got logs to crawl into and heavy blankets of fur. Ah, but consider the poor lassies on our fair campus, lassies with red and stinging legs (sometimes so frozen that little pieces chip off.) Yes, consider them, and save the dying members.

You say, "Tell us, oh tell us; how can they be saved?" Well, the girls could let the hair on their legs grow, but they'd still be cold between the pores. It seems as if artificial adaptations must be employed.

"You mean...?!" Yes, but it wouldn't really be the most shocking thing since mother wore tights. One of UVM's administrators thinks that wearing slacks should be permitted. This person says that the girls themselves have final say as to whether or not they shall be worn. This is indeed a pitiable state. Are these creatures self-abusive?

Let's hand out ballots to those who lie frozen by the wayside to determine the will of the suffering. Results will show that indoctrination has made them blind followers of their little green manuals. (Sub-zero weather is the requisite for longies.) To many girls the most anticipated degree at college is the zero degree. Those who dare to break the rule by wearing slacks when the temperature's 'way up around five, lurk around in constant fear, ever ready to plead insanity to the administration. "Was that centigrade or fahrenheit?" must always be on the tips of their tongues.

Give the girls a chance to vote for revision now. Perhaps a rule of wearing long jackets over slacks or ski pants could be settled for. Could there be a more modest attire? Not even the slightest bulge of an ankle bone would be visible. Yes, slacks seem to be the best solution, more proper than knee-high stockings with garters always slipping and making the wearer bend over in a most unbecoming fashion.

Discrimination A Problem?

Just a word on last week's editorial concerning religious and racial discrimination in UVM fraternities. The object of the editorial was not to increase any discriminatory feeling nor was it intended to embarrass any one group. There were, we admit, ulterior motives behind it. These motives were an attempt to get some thoughtful and constructive discussion of the problem and perhaps some constructive action. Our solution—that of giving fraternities a four-year period in which to see that clauses are dropped and with the threat that those failing to comply would be suspended by the Administration is not undoubtedly the best one. Maybe the problem is a deep-rooted evil in all the UVM campus. Undoubtedly the fault of having these clauses does not lie with the present members of fraternities or any other groups which have them, and we refer the reader to the item from the National Student Association publication (The NSA News) printed elsewhere in this issue.

Letters

Dear Sir:

I am one of those not so few students who think that John Moore is doing a more than adequate job as music critic for the Cynic. John is a sincere and devoted follower of music, and his articles show that he is earnest in his desire to improve the quality of musical performances shown in Burlington.

Charles Kullman, who recently gave a very undistinguished performance in a Community Concert, is not an "unknown" performer as one of Moore's critics would like to have us think. He is a leading singer in the Metropolitan Opera Co. and has a fine reputation. However, his concert was miserable, in every sense of the word. While I don't agree with Moore's harsh similes, I feel the performance should have been panned, and panned it was.

In his review of the Rubenstein concert, Moore presented his side of a controversy that is raging today. Some people believe, as our slandered critic does, that the artist should try to reveal the composer's emotions, while other people feel that the artist should interpret the piece in his own way.

Obviously the people who criticized John belong to the latter school of thought, but that is no reason to condemn a man for disagreeing with them.

Moore's now famous remark about the credibility of Mrs. Start being an excellent violinist and a member of the faculty was interpreted in the wrong sense. While we at Vermont have a wonderful music dept. composed of talented musicians, this condition is not prevalent at many other universities. There we find members of the faculty who are slight musicians and have gone into teaching as a more or less last resort.

The Cynic allows its reporters complete freedom of thought and if students feel that Moore's reviews do not correspond to their own thoughts, so what? That is the nice thing about this country and besides, they can always write a letter to the editor.

St. Michael's College

Dear Sir:

On behalf of all concerned with the "Night of Knights", the re-the "Night of Knights", the recent St. Michael's College show for the Burlington Boys Club, we are saying "thanks".

Adequate newspaper coverage for an enterprise of this sort is a requisite - and, in your excellent article on the event, you provided us with more than adequate coverage.

So, for this friendly gesture towards your "arch-enemy" across the river, thank you very much.

Sincerely,

Night of Knights Committee
Gus Contant
Tom Kenney
Mr. Cornelius K. Hannigan

But the problem does remain and therein lay our whole object: to promote some thought by all readers so that it can be attacked wherever it is.

Thus far, we have received one letter on the subject. As for the tight-lipped IFC and the rest of the campus, we still don't know in print how they feel.

Did you ever see a "Stag Line" at UVM? There is one. Here you see "It" looking at some co-eds who, of course, have come to the Waterman Building only to eat.

The new Inter-Fraternity constitution gives full participation in Kake Walk to the fraternities and sororities.

"Do you feel that a student should have to belong to such a group in order to be allowed to walk, take part in skits or King Queen contests?"

This question was asked of sorority and fraternity members and also independents.

1. Elaine Taylor '52, Alpha Chi Omega, Montpelier:

"I've often wondered why fraternities and sororities should be such influencing factors in student life, but I believe that participation in Kake Walk activities is held out as bait for membership.

No, I definitely do not believe that one should have to be in a frat or sorority to participate in the gaities and fun of Kake Walk. This is supposed to be a democratic school, and should be conducted in a democratic way—even to Kake Walk!"

2. Rosalind Ehrenbard '52, VIP, New York City:

"I firmly believe that any person, regardless of whether he or she belongs to a fraternity or sorority or not, should be allowed to take part in any phase of Kake Walk. Kake Walk is a campus activity, and belongs to any member of the student body. As a member of VIP, I am asking not just for VIP, but for anyone on the UVM campus.

3. Lou Lane '51, Chi Sigma Zeta, Dunedin, Florida:

"The main reason why fraternities are granted full control of Kake Walk is because it was through the fraternities that Kake Walk was started. Fraternities and sororities were not only the starters of Kake Walk, but they also had everything to do with building it up and making it what it is today. This is the reason why I feel that the fraternities and IFC do not want other organizations, such as VIP, to participate. In my opinion, this is a very natural reaction on the part of the fraternities, although I don't feel that other organizations, such as VIP, should be omitted from absolutely everything."

4. Francis G. Bell '53, Delta Psi, Brattleboro:

"I believe that only through the fraternities and sororities can there be proper organization for participation in the Kake Walk festivities. Without this organization the Kake Walk would be virtually impossible because it has been seen that members of the university cannot organize with any amount of order, unless fraternities and sororities back them."

Cynic Switches To Vari-Type Photo-Offset Process Used

This week witnesses the final advent of the long-awaited "new" Cynic, a Cynic reduced slightly in size, a Cynic whose characters are formed, not by a linotype, but by a new machine called the "Vari-typewriter", a Cynic which is printed by a revolutionary printing called "photo-offset".

This is the first issue produced under the new system; consequently, further radical changes have been held to a minimum. There are, however, in this issue several changes which are herewith noted.

Several Changes Made

First, in this very first issue, the style of the front page has been completely changed. In place of news and headlines of the old front page, as one finds in a daily newspaper, the Cynic staff has experimented with a new format designed to catch the eye of the reader immediately and, further, to interest him.

Thus, this week's front page contains headlines of pertinent value to large groups of students and also contains an assemblage of photos hoped to be of interest to all.

Behind the Scene

The decision to "switch to" Vari-type and photo-offset was the result of much joint discussion with Mr. J. R. Jennings, Director of Public Relations, and also the result of independent discussion by members of the Cynic Senior Staff.

Demonstrations of the Vari-type machine were given last year, both to the Cynic staffers and to members of UVM's Administration. A delay ensued over the summer months when there was much doubt as to whether sufficient funds could ever be raised.

This year, however, the money was scraped up from various sources (the Public Relations Office gave some, the Alumni Office contributed, and the Cynic advanced some of its funds.)

The decision was made this year by the Cynic staff and the Vari-type machine arrived last week.

The Reasons

The purpose of all these changes, according to Charles Carlton, Editor, was not for the mere sake of introducing radical changes.

It was done with several reasons behind it: to be able to include more pictures, to increase the flexibility of the makeup of the paper, and, most important, to reduce the cost of the Cynic.

Reduction of the cost of the Cynic, however, warned Carlton, is not to be construed to mean that the Cynic's allocation from Student Government should in any way be cut next year.

"The fact is," he said, "we would have had to ask Student Government for additional funds, as has been done in recent years by other Cynic staffs, just to finish the year out. As it is, we may have to ask for some extra to complete this year, but other things remaining somewhat equal, the cost of the Cynic under Vari-type next year should just about fit our present budget if we are granted the same amount."

UVM Students Uncultured?

A REVIEW OF WINTERSET

It would be surprising to us as it would probably be to Maxwell Anderson to see WINTERSET billed as a comedy, yet that is the impression that one would get from the audience's reaction to the UVM Dramatic Club's presentation of this drama on Thursday and Friday evenings, Dec. 8 and 9. Apparently the audience wasn't up to the caliber of the play, for its inopportune guffaws and titters at some of the dialogue spoken during the course of this dramatization were in very poor taste indicating to us either that the play was over the audience's heads or that the audience was downright rude.

Both the performances, especially the Friday evening presentation, were technically excellent and amazingly polished, unsurpassed in this respect by any which we have seen done on the Southwick stage during the past three years.

Mr. Delano's set was a masterpiece of imagination and stagecraft in overcoming the limits of the Southwick stage, setting a mood of chilling remoteness and degradation. With his novel use of the scrim he added immeasurably in helping the cast put across their lines.

Carol Brody as Miriamme lacked somewhat the innocence of spirit and using similar repeated gestures of the hands as sufficient. She failed to feel the whole futility of her ill-shared love. However, we felt the part to be somewhat weak and felt that Miss Brody had a serious handicap to overcome from the start in this respect.

Andrew Doe's interpretation of Mio was one of considerable more conviction. At times he was Mio, yet at other times it seemed that both his speech and mannerisms were too refined for the tough 17 year old kid that he was supposed to be. At the climax of the story when even Mio had doubts of his father's innocence, the scene was handled with a true sincerity of doubt.

Ross Roberts as Trock turned in an excellent job with a perfect portrait of cruel, sneering malevolence. His appearance at the very start set the proper atmosphere and mood for the play immediately. Neil Towne as Carr looked and acted as though he were out of Yale for the holidays instead of a young bum from the East Side. Herbert Levine as Judge Gaunt needed a gentleness of tone and manner to make his part as convincing as it could have been.

He acted a bit too sure of himself to create the proper impression of his insanity. Al Hurley as Garth labored hard to put across his role but hardly looked or acted like a young man from the tenements who was a cohort of Trock. He seemed to create more of an impression of pity than of despair. John Levy was poorly miscast as a stupid Irish policeman. He did the best he could with the role but lacked the proper poise and voice to make the part convincing. Esdras by Robert Arthur carried a sincerity and feeling of conviction as the broken father who sees his ideals falling. The part was projected well but at times a bit of restraint was felt on the part of Mr. Arthur. Newell Curtis as Shadow interpreted the part well but lacked the proper voice to make the part as effective as it might have been. His second act appearance as the man resurrected from the dead was done in a very stirring manner.

Debaters Win 5 Out Of 6

The UVM Debate Team, represented by Bill Elgood, '50, of Island Pond and Charles Black, Jr., '52, of Burlington for the affirmative, and Larry Ainsworth, '52, of Burlington, and Sid Glassman, '50, of West Hartford, Conn. for the negative, emerged victors by winning five out of six debates at Hanover, N. H., at the Dartmouth College Invitational Tournament Dec. 10.

Middlebury College with two wins and four losses, and Dartmouth College with four teams which had five wins and seven losses, were the other schools which participated.

The question for debate was "Resolved: That The United States Should Nationalize its Basic Non-Agricultural Industries."

WCAX Airs Band Concert Sunday; Public Invited

The UVM Band presents its third concert of the year this Sunday at 5:00 p.m. in the Ira Allen Chapel. These concerts have been presented monthly and are broadcast over Station WCAX. The coming concert will be unique since the University Men's Chorus will combine its talent with that of the band to present a program of Christmas music. As has been the practice at these concerts Acting-president Lyman will give a short informal talk on 'A Day at the University.'

Everyone at the University is cordially invited to attend the 'live' broadcast at the Chapel, or at least to tune in WCAX at 5.

Sale Of Xmas Seals Urged At Bookstore

Students, faculty, and UVM staff were urged Dec. 13 to buy Christmas Seals and help fight tuberculosis in Vermont by John T. Carpenter of the Vermont Tuberculosis Association which is currently conducting its 43rd annual Christmas Seal Sale to support its year-round program throughout the state.

In cooperation with Miss Annis Barney, manager of the University Store, the association has placed seals in the bookstore for sale to college personnel between now and the start of Christmas vacation. The seals sell for one dollar per sheet, but any number may be purchased for a penny a seal.

MASS MEETING SAT. 1 PM

Kake Walk Issue On Agenda

VIP Asks Standing Of Inds. Be Known

A decision to petition for a mass meeting for discussion of Kake Walk policy was reached as a result of two meetings of the Vermont Independents. At the VIP meeting of Monday, Dec. 5, it was brought out that while most of the students on campus have heard many rumors concerning the new Kake Walk rulings no one seemed to be in possession of the facts.

Unofficially, VIP had been informed that no non-fraternity members would be allowed to participate in the walking, skits, or king or queen contest, but this had not as yet been released to the general student body.

At this meeting, the group decided to try to clarify the facts, first by contacting the Inter-Fraternity Council, then by seeing President Lyman, and if necessary, to ask for a mass meeting on the subject.

Rowell Gives Views

Results of action already taken were announced at an informal meeting of VIP, which met for a supper discussion in the cafeteria on the following Wednesday and was concluded after eleven o'clock. Prof. Lyman Rowell was present at this meeting to help clarify the fraternity view-point on the matter.

It was then decided on the basis of this and previous discussions around school that this small group was not the only one which did not fully appreciate all sides of the issue, and it was then determined that a mass meeting would be the ideal solution for finding out just where the arguments for each side lay.

Decide on Meeting

The motion was made that "we attempt, by means of petition, to bring about a compulsory mass meeting of students, with the faculty, administration, and trustees invited, for the purpose of determining by secret ballot university sentiment on a permanent Kake Walk policy, all present to have the privilege of voting."

It was understood that the results of this meeting would be in no way binding upon any action taken by the Inter-Fraternity Council or by Kake Walk Directors, but would serve simply to present the issues at hand and present a general impression of how the students of the university felt as a whole on the matter.

STUDENT EMPLOYMENT

Applications for student employment in the Food Service Department for the spring semester will be accepted beginning Monday, Dec. 12. Application blanks may be secured at the Cafeteria office and returned there.

All applications filed previous to Dec. 12 will be discarded Jan. 30. Applications must be renewed to be considered for employment for the spring semester.

All students employed during the fall semester must re-apply for spring semester. Assignments will be made during the fall semester examination week for those who have been satisfactory workers during the fall semester.

New workers will be assigned only after the present workers have been taken care of.

Work assignments for the spring semester will begin Monday, Jan. 30, registration day.

Dr. Eakin Starts Senior Job Clinic

Would you like a job after you graduate?

Needless to say, that is a foolish question.

Not only do a very small minority have their future positions insured for the time when they leave school, but in addition, very few prospective candidates know exactly what is expected of them when they go in search of work.

Bearing this in mind, the UVM Placement Office has begun working upon a plan for a Job Clinic.

Eakin Invites Leaders

Following the lead of Mississippi State University which tried a similar experience last year, the Placement Office, under the direction of Dr. Eugene Eakin, will invite leading business men from both large and small industries to participate in a conference with UVM students on this campus on Tuesday, Feb. 7.

Both employers and future employees will meet in all day sessions of panel discussions, to be culminated by a dinner and informal smoker in the evening, in which, by less formal means, problems can be worked out.

The object of the Job Clinic will be for the students to ask questions which have been bothering them so that when the all important applications and interviews come up, they will know what to do and say. It will be an opportunity for the future job-seeker to find out just what is expected of him, even when asked such puzzling questions as "How much salary do you think you should receive?"

Committee Appointed

Appointed to help set up the Job Clinic, the following committee has been named: John Burrows, Charles Carlton, Ed Costello, Bill Dingerson, Joan Ediff, Larry Kimball and Rae MacTiernan.

STUDENTS NEEDED TO AID CHILDREN

Do you like children? Would you like to make them happy not just at Christmas but everyday? You can do this by helping once a week to lead games, singing, telling stories and working in arts and crafts once a week from 3:30-5 or from 7-8:30 at the Community Center.

The qualifications besides answering "yes" to the above questions are enthusiasm, interest in children, and a desire to assist them in having fun or learning skills. One worker is needed every afternoon, Monday-Friday and two in the evenings.

The children at the Community Center, which is located at 16 Cherry st. are four to thirteen years old. According to the director of the center, Mrs. Clifford Blondin, "The children have enjoyed the college students so much in the past and they are a great help to me. Perhaps some of the college students would like to lead hikes, outdoor sports or trips to factories and museums, which we no longer have as a part of our program."

Anyone interested in this service project which starts after Christmas vacation, sign up on the Religious Life bulletin board in Waterman or get in touch with Sylvia Heiringer of the Social Action Commission of SCA.

ARIEL ADVERTISING

Do you want to save money?

A reduction in the student activity fee will take place, if you, the student body, will urge your merchants to subscribe to Ariel advertisements. Here is all you have to do; it's really easy.

When you go down town to do your Christmas shopping, inform the merchants you are patronizing about the new pictorial advertising program which the Ariel is planning for the 1951 yearbook. Urge them to purchase ads for the publicity they will receive, not for the charitable aspect they will be affording the university.

The greater deficiency of advertisement subscriptions each year has increased the activity fee to what it is now. With the hard work of the Ariel staff and your help, the cost will be reduced considerably.

Pictorial ads to appear in the new Ariel have already been purchased by the Black Cat Cafe and the Bus Terminal. Representing the student body in the Black Cat ad are: Betty Scribner, Schyler Banghart, Helen Ann Gardner and Brendon Boylan. Joan Cole and John Powell were pictured in the Bus Terminal advertisement.

Student Tried Twice By Vt?

At the first trial of the year held by Student Court this week, an interesting complication concerning the phrase "original jurisdiction" was brought up. Strangely enough, the trial nearly achieved the distinction of being declared unconstitutional when Counsel for the Defense, Dick O'Connell, brought to light an ambiguity which only the University Council can set straight.

Freshman Faces Trial

The case involved a Freshman caught cheating in an hour test, to which he pleaded guilty. O'Connell had a point, however. He told the Court that the department in which the exam was taken had meted out a grade of "0" to the defendant, and then had referred the case to the Court. In other words, the department gave out one punishment for academic dishonesty, and next asked the Student Court to decide the man's guilt or innocence.

O'Connell's basis for argument lies in a paragraph of the "University Regulations" (edition of 1949) which states in effect that the Student Court has "original jurisdiction" in cases involving "academic dishonesty", a power authorized, according to the Regulations, by the University Council.

Fuller Interpretation

This means one of two things: 1. The department involved usurped the right of "O.J." of the Court by giving him a grade of "0"; or 2. the department, assuming that it has the right to give any student the grade it deems fit, laid the way wide open for the situation called in legal circles "double jeopardy". That is, the defendant was on trial twice.

The case was continued, in view of the situation, but a fuller interpretation of the term "original jurisdiction", or else information of UVM Student Court procedure to the offending department, by the University Council is needed.

CAMPUS CLIPPINGS

DELTA DELTA DELTA

Founder's Day of Delta Delta Delta Sorority was celebrated in the chapter house at 143 South Willard st. Monday evening, Dec. 4, by twenty alums, and the actives and pledges of Eta Chapter.

The program which was announced by Barbara Preston began with Evelyn Glysson's reading of the "Legend of Delta Delta Delta"—a traditional story which was written by an Eta Chapter alumna in 1932.

Following this, a candlelight ceremony was held with Mrs. Nan Lutman, alum, Miss Betty Kerin, '51, active, and Miss Sally Smith, '53, pledge, representing the three Tri-Delta groups participating in the ceremony.

Traditional songs brought the program to a close.

A dessert and social hour followed with pledges serving at the punch bowl and passing refreshments.

Pledges Entertain at Tea

The pledges of Delta Delta Delta were hostesses Wednesday evening to delegate pledges from the other six sororities on campus at a tea held in their honor at the chapter house.

With the excitement of rushing over, all pledges had a chance to relax and get acquainted with one another, sing, and foster a friendly spirit on campus among all the newly-pledged girls.

NOTICE

Petitions for Student Government elections must be submitted by 6:00 p.m. Monday, Dec. 19. Petitions will be available at the Waterman Information office.

UVM FLYING CLUB

A new club on campus this year is the UVM Flying Club. Its constitution, which has been approved by the administration, provides for forty members.

Each member must contribute twenty-five dollars which entitles him to a 1/40 share in a 1949 Aeronca trainer. The club already has the use of the plane and the members have been flying it out of the Champlain Airport.

There are still some openings in the flying club, and the only requirement is a genuine desire to fly. No previous flying experience is necessary, the purpose of the club being to provide flying opportunity at rates which a student can afford ($3.00 an hour to cover maintenance costs.)

The goal of the club is that each member pass the requirements permitting him to get a private license.

Any student, male or female, who would be interested in Vermont's newest club, should contact Stan Haber or Milt Silveira, John Jones, Alan Aiton, Phyllis Jones, Milton Silveira, Jack Hinman, Gordon Atkinson, Fred Hepburn, Charles Hayes, Rusty Keyes, and Albert Comar.

Members of the University family were received at a coffee hour by Sophomore Aides Sunday, Dec. 11, at Southwick. There were representatives from the faculty, dormitories, fraternities, sororities, and campus organizations.

UVM Looks To Xmas Tradition Concerts, Caroling, Parties

By Polly Lyman

Christmas at UVM is upheld and made richer by all the preceding Christmases and traditions which have been accumulating throughout its history. The voices of carolers blending with the frosty night air, the gay festivity of preparations for the many Christmas parties in the different dorms and fraternities, the very spirit of Christmas itself are all well-known parts of the holiday season so familiar to the older members and so welcome to the new.

One well-known and popular tradition is the Christmas-caroling which is done by various organizations; mainly, the different fraternities and sororities.

Another fine tradition is the annual Christmas concert given by the University choir, the First Congregational Church Choir and St. Paul's Church Choir. This concert is always looked forward to with a great deal of anticipation on the part of everyone in the university, and expectations are always more than fulfilled.

Another enjoyable tradition is that of the Christmas parties given by the various fraternities and sororities on campus. These parties are always exciting and full of the Christmas spirit; they also are looked forward to as the Christmas season rolls around again.

The different dorms on campus also have their share of Christmas parties. Usually each dorm has its own party and tree-trimming ritual, with an exchange of presents lending an air of excitement accompanied by refreshments.

Who'll Do It?

There is one student at UVM for whom Christmas in the United States will be a novel experience this year. Arriving at the University late this fall from Estonia, Uno Teemant became our only Displaced Person. However, his first American Christmas will mean little unless someone invites him to his home and shows him a real American Christmas. Uno lives at the Chi Sigma Zeta House on Main St. Further inquiries may be directed to Mr. Hall, of the Religious Life Office.

Grown-up Kitty

A very obnoxious person was seated in the stands at the Middlebury football game giving out alcoholic comments on things in general and on the Vermont football team in particular. These remarks were not taken lightly by the indignant UVM rooters and several were racking their brains for the proper form of retaliation. Jerry Wood was among these plotters.

Included in these remarks were several comments about Catamounts. Turning to one of his companions the Middlebury man said:

"Shay, what's a Catamount anyway, huh? What's a Catamount?"

Jerry, hearing this remark, retorted:

"A Catamount, my friend is a mature Panther!"

Professor Bradfield has hopes of instituting a course in Dairy Store Management. To his knowledge no other college has ever initiated a course of this nature.

The Dairy Bar is primarily interested in training students and is not a money-making project. The bar is open on Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

The stores in town selling similar products do most of their gross business during the evening and on Sundays. The Dairy Bar, therefore, has no intention to compete with the store keepers.

There is the Bookstore's Christmas gift shop. Also, some sororities make Christmas gifts and sell them. New UVM novelties appear in the University Store especially for Christmas gifts. Among organizations which go around singing Christmas carols as the Christmas season draws nigh is Staff and Sandal, which has a certain day on which it carols. This year it will be Dec. 20.

It is this growth of traditions at UVM which makes the Christmas season one to look forward to, to enjoy when it comes, and to remember and look forward to all through the new year.

Lunch Bar Opens In New Dairy Products Bldg.

On November 30, 1949, the UVM Dairy Bar, located on the main floor of the newly erected Dairy Building, was opened to the student body. Since the University of Vermont is partially supported by taxes, restrictions were enforced on the publicity of its opening.

The Dairy Bar is one that justly fulfills all implications suggested by its name. It consists of a long angular bar with 13 swivel stools along it. Only dairy products such as shakes, sodas, sundaes, buttermilk, cottage cheese, etc. are served.

These products are obtained and made exclusively by students following agricultural pursuits. While you await the fulfillment of your order, you are given the advantage of watching the preparation of all ingredients going into it.

Under the direction of Professor Bradfield, students majoring in agriculture will have a threefold advantage, with the addition of this bar, in learning operations of a dairy bar by serving the public, sanitary procedures of preparing quality products and inventory control and cost-accounting.

Dr. Ralph Barton Perry, professor emeritus of philosophy at Harvard, addressed a large audience at the annual Phi Beta Kappa lecture at Southwick Memorial ballroom on Monday, Dec. 5.

Dr. Perry's talk followed the annual Phi Beta Kappa banquet held in the faculty dining room of the Waterman Building.

The following new members were initiated at ceremonies preceding the banquet: Robert J. Burns, '50, Springfield, Mass., liberal arts; Stephen Gates, '49, Wellesley, Mass., chemistry; Alvan J. Lawrence '50, Morrisville, agriculture; Morris Joseph Levin, '50, Burlington, electrical engineering; Anna Marie Olson, '49, Wollaston, Mass., secondary education; Robert Perkins, '50, Rutland, electrical engineering; and Knox & Hazelton, '50, Rutherford, N.J., chemistry.

The substance of Dr. Perry's speech was explained mainly in "Education is liberal when it trains people in the art of free thinking."

Freedom, declared Dr. Perry, should not be confused with mere appetite or caprice. A man enjoys liberty in proportion as his life is governed by his own choice.

A man is lacking in freedom when he must follow paths which he has not chosen, or when he chooses means to ends already forced upon him.

Education is liberal when it supplies the means for persons to choose deeply and fundamentally, to choose ends as well as means, and to choose from many rather than few possibilities.

A university, he explained, is a community in which, for a time, individuals submit to liberalizing, enfranchising, emancipating influences. These influences are imparted by the spirit of the university, by the liberal attitudes of teachers, by symbols of liberal ideas, and by liberal studies and methods of teaching.

TO START CLINIC

In February a "job clinic" is going to be started at UVM in order to aid students in making selections for jobs. Also, instructions on how to apply for a job will be given.

The faculty is assisting in getting competent businessmen to aid in this job clinic and "smokers" will be held after some of the meetings so that students may get a chance to talk to particular businessmen about specific vocations.

NOTICE

By Glenn Fay

On December 6th the Vermont Catamounts rebounded from their big league opening debacle with all the power and fury of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor and sank the scrappy little Clarkson ship 68-42. Before the brigade from Potsdam, N. Y. could muster its defenses the big guns of the Green and Gold attack had blasted a 16-2 lead with only a few minutes of time having elapsed. So devastating was the attack that the Tech boys were completely demoralized and never came within 20 points of the smooth-working Vermonters even though Coach Fuzzy Evans cleared the bench in attempt to keep the score respectable. The count easily could have gone over the century mark.

The game started fast with Siedlecki putting the visitors in the lead for what was to be the only time in the game with a foul toss. After that "Little Eddie" Kotlarczyk took command of the situation and with assists from Al Nieman strongly reminiscent of the good old days of '46, the score became 22-3 in short order. To say the Cats couldn't miss would be the understatement of the year, but the boys made their own opportunities, driving through the Clarkson team time and again for quick layups. Reserves came into the fray shortly after this and although the Engineers came to life somewhat, the lead was almost beyond reach. The half ended 36-19 with Vermont on the long end of the score.

In the second half the visitors changed to a zone defense and came up with plenty of speed for a few minutes, but could not stand the pace and the contest became a repeat of the first half. With the zone defense facing them, the Green and Gold boys began dropping in long ones. Ed Jasinski, who started his first varsity game, kept the opposition jumping as he dumped in 12 points to lead the scoring.

The game, one sided as it was, gave the fans much satisfaction in seeing what their representatives could do if they had the chance, and also gave them illusions of finer things to come.

UNH, RI & Coast Grd Tough Tests

After Wednesday evening's game against Norwich, the U.V.M. basketball team will leave the friendly surroundings of Memorial Auditorium and journey South — into Southern New England. This trip will find the sharp-shooting Five of Coach Fuzzy Evans playing the University of New Hampshire, Rhode Island State and the United States Coast Guard Academy. New Hampshire and R.I. are both members of the Yankee Conference and this will mark the first full year of basketball for Vermont in the newly established conference.

To those of you who haven't had economic geography, the six-state schools of New England make up the conference. They are the Universities of Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Vermont and Rhode Island State. Probably, R.I. State and the U. of Conn. will prove the biggest obstacles in Vermont's attempt to cop the conference title in basketball this season. The Rams under Coach Frank Keany made basketball headlines a few years ago with great fast-breaking teams and players like Ernie Calverly. The year is 49 and R.I. is minus both Keany and Calverly so the chances of Vermont playing State on a par are not as remote as in the past. The University of Connecticut has had consistently fine teams and it is more likely that Uconn will prove the best team in the conference. It might be said optimistically that the "Green and Gold" should finish third or better in the standings.

The first paragraph mentioned the fact that Vermont will play the United States Coast Guard Academy. Unlike their brother institutions, West Point and the Naval Academy, the C.G.A. has not been competing for supremacy in air power and athletic teams. In fact, the Coast Guard Service was under the Treasury Dept. until the war and probably did not have to depend upon great Athletic teams to make ends meet.

T. Breen Scores 291; Rifle Team Falls Before MIT

Despite a blistering, pace-setting mark of 291 by Tom Breen of the host team, a challenging MIT rifle team defeated the University of Vermont by an air-tight 1381-1378 margin last Saturday afternoon in the UVM range.

It was a Northern New England Collegiate Rifle League match. In a postal match last year, Vermont upset MIT, one of the League's top teams, by a one-point margin.

Breen's score was by far the afternoon's best. He fired a perfect 100 from the prone position, a 97 from a kneeling position and a 94 from a standing position.

Tanner of MIT and Davis and Breen of UVM each scored a perfect 100 from the prone positions. Tanner, with a 286 score, was MIT's best shooter.

The Intramurals,
Weekly Review

by Fred Weinberg

On December 13 the Interfraternity basketball season officially opens with three engagements slated to be played in the university gym. Six teams will seek their first win of the season as the Delta Psi's meet the Owls, Kappa Sigma faces the TEP's and the ATO's tackle the Sigma Phi's.

For the past two seasons a close battle has ensued for points toward the Traynor Trophy. The 1947-48 season brought the mighty Kappa Sig quintet to the fore with Rosa and Anderson as forwards, Hoskiewicz at center, and the Pitts-Lewkowicz combination controlling the backboards. Both the Delta Psi's and the Kappa Sig's went into the play-off with a record of eight wins and no losses. The Kappa Sig's emerged the victors and went on to cop the school championship from the Independents in the final clash of season. Last year there was a complete reversal in the results of operation "Swish." By a very close score the Kappa Sig's were humbled by the refengeful Delt hoopsters, led by Dingerson, Ballard, Hudson, Ingram, and Pratt.

The Interfraternity Athletic Council, headed by Bailey Goldberg, has announced that weekday games will begin at 6:00 p.m. and Saturday games at 1:00 p.m. unless otherwise notified.

It is mandatory that participants be ready to begin promptly at their scheduled time. ALL TEAMS MUST HAVE A MANAGER! To avoid confusion and delay check the list posted in the gym. On the bulletin board there will be posted a weekly schedule of the games. Each team is responsible for knowing the appropriate day and time of their contest.

BOWLING

The Interfraternity Bowling League has been in full swing since December 1. Tuesday and Thursday nights the sound of falling duck pins in the basement of the Waterman Building drowns out all other activities. Early indications show that four teams share the spotlight in the 55-match scheduled.

ATO and SAE are currently leading the pack with eight wins and no losses apiece. Kappa Sigma and Phi Sigma Delta have also shown considerable power in the initial matches. D. Brown and D. Clark of ATO have the high single(128) and double(230) scores to date. The combine from Williams Street also has the high team score with a mark of 1071.

STOWE NEEDS SNOW

Last Saturday and Sunday a large crowd of enthusiastic skiers from UVM, and many other parts, tried the old barrel staves out for the first time on the Stowe-Mt. Mansfield area. The biggest crowd was present on Sunday. Only one trail, the Lord, remained open and it was in need of a fresh snow fall after the wear and tear of two days. The T-Bar received about the same amount of traffic as the chair lift, because the Stowe Standard was in good but not excellent shape. Toward the latter part of Sunday afternoon it, too, was ready for a heavy snow fall to cover up sitzmarks and worn spots made by Christie and Tempo turns. The best conditions were enjoyed in the new Spruce Mountain Area, which was opened this past weekend. All that they have at present is a wide open slope, but it is tops. There is only a rope tow now, but in the near future a T-Bar or chair lift will be installed. Trails are also in the plans.

and anxious moments. Vermont's colleges will be well represented again this year. UVM will have nine students and Lyman "Shorty" Cote answering the bell. Middlebury plans to enter about six, St. Mike's leads the interest with 24, and Norwich still remains passive. There seems to be quite a few boxers who are interested in taking part in the sport. Just recently, within the last year, some fellows got together and organized sailing and swimming teams, without too much help from the school. There is little cost involved and other schools nearby can provide the competition. The same can be done for boxing. A mythical champion in the Vermont State Conference should prove interesting. There is no way of telling where boxing supremacy is centered in the Golden Gloves arrangement, but it has already given us a start in that direction. Rhode Island State and Connecticut are favored to walk off with honors in Yankee Conference basketball this season, but Vermont will not be far from the top.

Note: Inter-frat basketball officials are needed. If interested please see Mr. Post at the gym. The pay is 50¢ per game.

Rod and Gun Club

The Anglers' Club of the University of Vermont has recently voted to change its activities to include hunting, and will be known on campus as The Rod and Gun Club.

In the past, members of the Anglers' Club have maintained activities in the field of fishing only. The club's activities included movies, fishing trips, casting contests among its members, and having guest speakers.

This limited group of college anglers felt the need of expansion into a more active and much larger group. If they included hunting in their activities, they felt their expanded curriculum would attract the larger group they wanted.

There was one drawback. Non-resident students must pay fifty dollars for a license to hunt and fish. This expense is enough to scare a way all but the most enthusiastic of huntsmen and anglers.

The club turned to Bill Preston, graduate of UVM and head of the State Fish and Game Commission. Bill pointed out that Syracuse College had a similar club with the same problem, but had solved the problem by presenting a bill to the New York State Legislature requesting resident hunting and fishing privileges for all members of the club whether resident or not. The bill was passed.

This club is attempting the same thing in Vermont. President Bruce Abele has talked with Governor Gibson, and as a result, the club is drawing up a bill to be presented to the Vermont State Legislature requesting resident privileges for all its members. If the bill goes through, it will be one strong step forward for the new "Rod and Gunners".

The club is planning a turkey shoot soon in the gym, casting tournaments, competition with the UVM rifle team, hunting and fishing trips, speakers, and movies. Notices of meetings will be on the Waterman bulletin board.

Archie Post is faculty advisor for the Rod and Gun Club. Bruce Abele is president, Stan Kukle, vice-president, Win Rose, treasurer, and Stew Lerner, secretary.

The old Anglers' Club was organized in December, 1948. Stew Lerner, now secretary of the expanded group, was the big gun in starting the club on this campus.

The purpose of the club carries its members into fields of hunting and fishing; and in the future, its hope is to include practices of game conservation in activities.

U.Club Hears of Shelburne Museum

A preview of the newest-oldest thing in Vermont was given to UVM's University Club when Mrs. J. Watson Webb, president of the Shelburne Museum in Shelburne told 150 club members and guests the evening of Dec. 2 of the progress being made by the fast-developing museum.

Speaking at the university faculty club's December social meeting held in the Waterman Building clubrooms Mrs. Webb told her audience that Vermonters are welcome to view those parts of the museum which have been completed or partially completed at the nine-acre museum site in Shelburne. Next summer the museum hopes to have several exhibits open. Next September the museum staff will begin moving the Cambridge covered bridge to Shelburne in order to provide an appropriate entrance for the early-Vermont and early-American museum.

It is planned to make the historic old bridge, which the Vermont State Department is making available to the museum, a toll bridge. Once visitors have crossed the toll bridge, they will be welcome to steep themselves in early Americana, from "witch balls" and cigar-store Indians to inns and town meeting houses, as long as they like.

Not A Restoration

Mrs. Webb emphasized that the museum which she, her family, the museum board of trustees, and many interested Vermonters are helping to build is not a restoration nor a village, but a museum. It was apparent to her audience that the completed museum will give Vermont as authentic a bit of early America as Williamsburg has given Virginia, or Cooperstown New York.

The nine acres will be covered by a 165-year-old inn, an early Vermont schoolhouse, a horseshoe barn, a merry-go-round first used at the Philadelphia Fair in 1876, and other buildings characteristic of life as it was lived by earlier generations of Americans.

In the buildings will be dozens of items, from carriages to dolls, from the colored glass balls used to ward off witches in colonial Salem to hats of ancient vintage that Mrs. Webb has collected in a life-time of enthusiasm for the ingenuity, craftsmanship, and artistry of early Americans.

After the meeting, at which Professor Muriel Hughes presided, members and guests viewed the model of the Shelburne Museum which had been set up in the clubrooms.

KW Status Announced

'How do the fraternities (and everyone else) stand in regard to Kake Walk?' has been answered in a news release of the Interfraternity Council. The findings: all fraternities which are members of the IFC can participate in Walking Fo' de Kake', they may participate in the skits, and in the King Campaign and in the Snow Sculpture contest.

Sororities, which are members of Pan Heli, are eligible for the Queen campaign, the Poster contest, and the Snow Sculpture contest.

WOMEN'S DORMS

Women's dormitories are eligible for the Poster contest and the Snow Sculpture contest.

WOMEN'S DORMS AND VIPS

The men's dorms can participate only in the Snow Sculpture contest. As for the Vermont Independent Party (the VIPS), they are classed with the men's dorms for purposes of entrance.

OTHER ACTIVITIES PLANNED

For other students, affiliated in part only or not at all with the above-mentioned groups, the Phi Sigma Delta Helps Santa By Manning A Kettle At The Waterman Building.

IFC has ruled that they are eligible for any other activity connected with Kake Walk other than those mentioned. These other activities, by the process of elimination, include the Kake Walk Ball, the Varsity Hockey game, Winter Sports, the Student-Faculty Basketball game, the Varsity Basketball game, and the Ski Meet.

FIRST YEAR UNDER IFC

This is, unbelievable as it may seem the first time that Kake Walk has been placed fully in the hands of IFC. IFC receives the approval of the University Council and of Acting-president Lyman. Since the above information has already been approved, it is held by many that this situation will stand for this year.

KW Directors Name Ass'ts.

The Directors of UVM's 53rd Kake Walk last week announced the appointment and approval of Brendan Boylan, Sigma Phi; Stanley Brown, Phi Sigma Delta; J. Cyril Ferland, Alpha Tau Omega; David B. Jennings, Sigma Nu; and Paul G. Stevens, of Lambda Iota, as Assistant Directors for Kake Walk this year.

In accordance with the plan of organization for Kake Walk, these men will serve as administrative assistants and as co-ordinators of the various Kake Walk committees.

At the same time, the Directors announced that a Kake Walk scrub list has been posted in the lower hall of Waterman for the purpose of getting the names of those UVM students who are interested in working on the various committees of this year's production of Kake Walk.

Under the new plan in operation this year, there are fifteen standing committees of Kake Walk. Those signing for duty as scrubs are requested to list their preferences for those committees on which they wish to serve. Since the Kake Walk committees will begin work early in January, interested students should be sure to sign the scrub list before the Christmas vacation.

Committees organized to cover the different phases of Kake Walk are: Tickets; Walkers; Skits; Sculptures; Awards; Programs; Posters; Concessions; Decorations; Lighting; Auditorium Assistance; Kake Walk Ball; Winter Sports; King and Queen Campaigns; and a committee in charge of the Throne.

Winterset

The Dramatic Club must be admired for its courage in attempting to do this most difficult of tragedies. In retrospect, however, it would seem that perhaps the group would have been better off to try something a bit less demanding, for a perfect performance of a less demanding play could be turned in by the talent displayed in this performance of WINTERSSET.

Letters

Beginning this issue, the Cynic is awarding to the writer of the best Letter to the Editor one carton of Chesterfields. This week's winner: Eugene Kalkin,

Dear Sir:

It is an encouraging sign to see the main organ of student opinion on the UVM campus, The Cynic, come out with a positive statement on the subject of fraternity discrimination. While the solution that was presented may not be the panacea for the problem, it is at least an intelligent approach, and I believe a start in the right direction.

I do not believe that proposals, such as the one presented in last week's Cynic, advocate the forced admission of any individual, whether or not he belongs to an excluded group, to a fraternity. It seems plain that these proposals seek to create a climate in which students will be admitted to fraternities on the basis of intrinsic individual merit, rather than on any supposed characteristic of the group into which he happens to be born.

We, as college students, should realize that this question of fraternity exclusion is not an isolated question, but is a part of the demand for recognition and equality on the part of minority groups all over the world. We do not live in, or study in a vacuum, and any steps that we take, or do not take, here at UVM, have some effect on determining the actions that students will take on this subject in other colleges and universities.

I believe that in thinking about this admittedly controversial subject some of us would clarify our own thinking by defining for ourselves just exactly what we mean by the word democracy.

Eugene W. Kalkin, '50

Dear Sir:

I picked up my Cynic anticipating a review of the fine production of WINTERSET by the UVM Dramatic Club. I was disappointed. On page three there was a rather sour review, to say the least. I doubt that I was the only reader who was disgusted at the unfair criticism presented.

Perhaps there was reason to criticize the audience; but as for the fine performances of the cast, I cannot find any foundation for the remarks put forth.

Mr. Delano's set was superb and the UVM cast fit well in their newly manufactured environment. Miss Brody carried her difficult role in an extremely polished fashion. She gave the majority of her audience the feeling of her unhappy, tormented mind. Her inner conscientious conflict was well portrayed. Except for the repetition of some gestures, which further impressed some of the futility of her position, the part of Miramne was well cast.

Andrew Doe, a 17 year old kid, seemed to be quite tough enough for me. When one is only seven-teen, no matter what experiences he has had, he cannot be completely hardened. Carr, performed by Neil Towne, seemed to be a lighter character. I do not think he was to be a "young bum" as some would have him. The ease and lighter presentation of Carr was necessary for a rather morbid plot. Mr. Roberts' interpretation of Trock was excellent as the critics stated. Herbert Levine as Judge Gaunt and Al Hurley as Garth both impressed the audience with the sincerity of their performances. Garth's hopeless situation was to be pitied as was intended. He gave the impression of desperation and despair. Levy's performance of the policeman was adequate.

The restraint of Bob Arthur's manner added much to the father's part. There were many subtle qualities which added to the interpretation of Esdras. Shadow was convincingly presented by Newell Curtis. His delivery was excellent and gestures suited the part. In reviewing the entire cast, I fail to find any misfits.

I believe that the Dramatic Club added to its past record in its production of WINTERSET. Much credit should be extended to the

UVM Announces 1950 Foreign Study Faculty, Courses

London, Paris, Geneva, and Heidelberg are just four of the many scenic and historic spots that will be visited this summer by students of the University of Vermont's Foreign Study Program.

Summer Program

For the past two summers the University of Vermont has conducted a six week's program, beginning about July 1, for students who wish to travel abroad while at the same time earning study credits. Because the program is designed primarily to interest students of the social sciences and humanities, applicants, required to have completed at least two years of college work or its equivalent, should have had basic courses in history, economics, political science, sociology, or philosophy.

Courses Offered

During the six weeks abroad three credit courses will be offered: one concerning the economic history of western Europe since 1919; a comparative analysis of the present-day organization and function of governments of western Europe; and a seminar in social, economic, and political problems of western Europe.

Each course carries two semester hours credit, thus enabling undergraduate members of the group to earn six semester hours toward a degree at the University of Vermont or another institution. Graduate students may also earn credits upon receiving a grade of 82 for the total of the work of a course and upon presentation of a satisfactory research paper in that particular course.

Universities

After instruction in economic history and comparative government, the actual studying and lecturing will be done first at the University of Birmingham, England, where seminar lectures and University of Vermont courses will be given, and secondly, at the University of Paris, where a similar procedure will be followed. However, sight-seeing and travel will vie with study interest, for the group, while in England, will be privileged to see such famed places as: Buckingham Palace, Westminster Cathedral, the Houses of Parliament, the British Museum, and countless others.

France, too, may be eagerly anticipated, for the study group, after leaving England the 28th of July, will be provided living accommodations at the University of Paris and the United States House. Before diverting their interests to studies once more, the students will take tours to the Arc de Triomphe, the Place Concorde, the Louvre, Notre Dame, and the Sorbonne, to mention only a few spots of interest.

August 11 is the date set for final examinations in Economic History and Comparative Government courses, thus terminating formal study.

"Holy Year" At Rome

Opportunity to visit Rome and the Celebration of the "Holy Year" will be given, after which the group will travel to Geneva, Switzerland, where they will take a tour of scenic Lake Geneva.

Heidelberg, Germany, will afford a visit to the ancient University of Heidelberg, while Coblenz, Germany, will provide a tour of war damage in one of the most heavily bombed areas in the world.

All good things must come to an end, as August 25 will prove, for then return trips to the U.S. will be made via ship or plane.

Sailing from Le Havre, the group aboard ship will land at Quebec after a nine day voyage providing informal discussion groups, recreational programs and relaxation. On the other hand, some may prefer to reach New York in twenty-four hours by plane.

Prof. George Grosscup, Associate Professor of Economics at the University of Vermont, is the director of the Foreign Study Program, assisted by Professor Knollmeyer, also a member of the Economics Department at UVM. Lecturers for the University of Vermont courses will be Professor Babcock, political science, and Professor Evans, history.

Prof. A. A. Saindon To Succeed Prof. Carroll As IFC Adviser

Prof. Daniel B. Carroll, chairman of the Political Science Department, University of Vermont and State Agricultural College, was guest of honor Thursday evening, Jan. 5, at a testimonial dinner in honor of his long term of service as faculty adviser to the UVM Interfraternity Council.

On behalf of the fraternities, John Burrows, class of 1950, and president, presented Professor Carroll a pen and pencil set.

Speakers included President Elias Lyman, Prof. F. Donald Carpenter, for the faculty; Prof. James W. Marvin, for the presidents of the council; and Ambrose A. Saindon, who will succeed Professor Carroll in the advisory post from which he is resigning after more than 25 years.

Many Guests Attend

Guests included six past presidents of the council, Richard Cowles, '32; James W. Marvin, '33; W. S. Thompson, '40; Robert Pond, '45; Stephen Gates, '48; and Marvin Saltzman, '49, who live in the Burlington area.

Also ten faculty advisers for individual fraternities on campus, Prof. Sam Bogorad for Alpha Tau Omega; Prof. Thomas J. Sproston, for Chi Sigma Zeta; Prof. Marvin for Delta Psi; Dean George V. Kidder for Kappa Sigma; James R. Jennings for Sigma Nu; Prof. Truman N. Webster for Phi Delta Theta; Irving Lisman for Phi Sigma Delta; John W. Robinson for Lambda Iota; and Dean Rolf N. B. Haugen for Sigma Alpha Epsilon; and Roger G. Cooley for Sigma Phi.

Also members of the newly created Interfraternity Judicial Board, all of whom are members of fraternities not represented on the Vermont campus. They are Prof. Thurston M. Adams, Prof. William R. Adams, Prof. Frederick C. Marston, Jr., Prof. George C. Grosscup, and Major William Evans-Smith.

The 22 active members of the Interfraternity Council were also guests.

Professor Carroll, who is a graduate of the University of Illinois and received his Ph.D. from the University of Wisconsin, came to Vermont in 1924 as an assistant professor of political science. He was promoted in 1926 to associate professor, and in 1939 became professor and head of the department.

Supervised Student Elections

In addition to his long service to the Interfraternity Council, he for many years supervised student elections and served as a member of the Faculty Student Council. He also represented UVM on the National Interfraternity Council. Professor Carroll is a member of Sigma Phi Sigma Fraternity.

Kake Walk Directors Announce Choice Of Tex Beneke For Kake Walk Ball

The Directors of the 1950 Kake Walk today announced that Tex Beneke and his Orchestra will be bringing "Music in the Miller Mood" to Memorial Auditorium for this year's Kake Walk Ball on Feb. 23rd. The Beneke band, one of the most popular in the country, particularly on college campuses, should provide a pleasant inauguration for U.V.M.'s 53rd annual mid-winter classic.

In addition to the 18 regular players in the orchestra, Beneke features Glenn Douglas, Buddy Yeager, Bob Mitchell, and the Moonlight Serenaders. Tex himself will not only lead the band, soloing vocally and on the saxophone, but will have the honor of crowning this year's King and Queen of Kake Walk.

Although Glenn Miller was reported missing in action and is presumed dead, the Miller tradition is being maintained just as if the old maestro were still with the unit. The notes and the arrangements given to the band by Mrs. Miller enable them to play in the original manner such old favorites as "In the Mood," "Chattanooga Choo Choo," "Little Brown Jug," and "Moonlight Serenade," still the theme song.

Tex, whose real name is Gordon Lee Beneke, started his musical career at the age of 9 and has been playing "Music in the Miller Mood" ever since 1938 when Glenn first organized a band. At first he only played the saxophone, but one night

Miller heard him casually singing "Ida, Sweet as Apple Cider," liked it, and from then on Tex was also a vocalist.

After Miller was lost on a flight from England to France in December, 1944, his wife and his manager asked Tex to take over and reorganize the band as it had already been planned. The new orchestra was immediately a success, and has been ever since. This has been shown by a recent collegiate poll which placed the Tex Beneke Orchestra third in the nation in all-around popularity, topped only by Vaughn Monroe and Tommy Dorsey.

Tickets will go on sale in the Book Store starting February first at the price of $3.60 per couple.

Larries Defeat Cats; Frosh Win Easily

Grant and Propp attempt to get the ball away.

A hard driving, fast breaking St. Lawrence Basketball team decisively defeated Vermont by a 56 to 39 score at Memorial Auditorium on Monday evening, marking the third straight loss for the Green and Gold. For the first ten minutes of the game, neither team could score with consistency and mid-way through the first half, UVM enjoyed a 13 to 10 lead. Despite the fact that Captain Al Niemann was handicapped by a knee condition, the Evan's five was playing commendable basketball against a Larry five which had lost to highly touted St. Michael's by a few points at the auditorium earlier in the season. With Ray MacDonald and Ed Kotlarczyk leading the way offensively, Vermont held a 17 to 16 lead, 3 minutes away from half time.

It was during the last few minutes of the first half that St. Lawrence's fast break began functioning with perfection and the boys from Canton spurred to a 26 to 22 lead at half time, a lead which was to grow as the game progressed.

With Bill O'Rourke and Roger and John Lawrence showing speed and accuracy on the court, St. Lawrence quickly moved ahead in the first few minutes of the second half on a blistering fast-break which wore down the Cats until it was obvious to all those present that Vermont could not catch the high flying Larries. Very little shooting was done by the St. Lawrence five from outside the foul line, most of the shots being of the lay up variety. On the other hand, the Cats had very little opportunity for lay ups and were forced to shoot from the outside. In addition, the shorter Larries controlled the boards against their taller opponents during the second half. All these facts plus a weary Vermont basketball team resulted in a well deserved victory for St. Lawrence.

"Shorty" Cote Heads Golden Gloves Team

by Al Dorn

The University of Vermont's boxing club, under the coaching and training of "Shorty" Cote, the popular trainer for all UVM's athletic teams, have been preparing for the coming Golden Gloves boxing tournament at Burlington, which commences on Thursday the twelfth. The boys will be out to capture the coveted team trophy which they lost by one point in the 1948 matches, although two Vermont fighters took individual championships. Last season the Catamounts didn't enter a team in the competition.

Commenting on the year's team, "Shorty" remarked, "This is one of the best squads I have ever worked with, and I expect them to bring the first place trophy to the university." "Shorty" expects to enter eight boys besides himself in the competition. In the heavyweight division, Bob Slater is the lone Catamount entry.

Two lighthweights, Tom Miller, runner up in the 1948 bouts, and Sheldon Meaker, a newcomer, are entered. Rusty Keyes, a boy who fought in the 1948 tournament, and George Conover, another newcomer, are the representatives in the middleweight division. In the welter ranks are Frank Amideo, an experienced boy who put on one of the best fights seen at the 48 Golden Gloves, and newcomer George Allen. No lightweights are entered, but George Ingram, a boy who fought in Pacific Fleet competition and who, according to "Shorty" should end up in the finals, is entered in the featherweight division. "Shorty" himself will represent Vermont in the bantamweight class and will be out to defend the two titles that he won in previous Golden Glove Competition.

If any of the boys are winners in the Burlington Golden Glove competition, they have the right to fight in the eastern semifinals, to be held at Lowell, Massachusetts, on February fourth. If they are successful in these bouts, they will enter the eastern championships at Madison Sq. Garden in New York, at the end of February. Following these bouts are the national finals in Chicago during March.

Howie Merrick tries a tap in as Ray MacDonald looks on.

The frosh have still to find competition. Monday night the quintet far outclassed a scrappy Vermont Junior College quintet, and rolled to an easy 45-20 win.

Although not hitting the hoop with the accuracy they displayed against the Norwich frosh, the Strassburg club worked the ball smoothly and showed a superior brand of ball to their opponents.

The Kittens took a 10-3 first quarter lead and stretched it to 27-7 at the half. The visitors scored a long field goal in the third period to bring their total to 9 while the Green and Gold hit 35. VJC managed a 10 point spurt in the last quarter against Vermont's third team to bring the final count to a respectable 45-20 conclusion.

Big Bob Kniffen from Binghamton, N. Y., at the center slot tossed in 15 points to lead the scoring.

An injured thumb forced Saul Rothchild to leave the game in the second quarter.....Bud Saurwein didn't dress for the game because of a sprained knee.....the frosh's ace passer, Dave Kelley, guarded "Tut" Rennie, a teammate of his on last year's championship Montpelier High team.

Sports Slants

By Winn Fingerit

A glance at the basketball schedule for the next few months reveal a non-too-pleasing situation. With teams like Army, Hofstra, University of Conn., and St. Michael's still to be played, a Catamount team which took the floor against St. Lawrence, the other night, will never be able to hold their own.

Following a loss in the season's opener against Dartmouth, Vermont was riding the crest of a three-game winning streak when they pulled into Kingston, Rhode Island, and played the team that Ernie Calvery made famous. Rhode Island State employing a loose defense and a fast, fast break piled up a 90-50 score. Two nights later, the Catamounts were noticeably upset when they were beaten by an inferior Coast Guard team.

While I am not complaining about our team losing to a superior squad, I feel that our boys are capable of playing much better ball than they have displayed in the last few games. A good team can not be held down for long and I am certain that Fuzzy will straighten things out and lead the team on to victories in most of the remaining games of this season. I am willing to go out on a limb and predict that Vermont will remain unbeaten in State competition this year.

It would be a good idea for some of the students living in the New York and New Jersey area to turn out and root the Cats on to victory against the Dutchmen of Hofstra on Friday eve., January 27. On the following evening, the opponent is Army at West Point.

I should like to reveal a depressing situation to some of the students who still don't know. It seems that certain sports writers working for various locals downtown, would like to see the University of Vermont become the "Sparta" of the East. They would like to see the city of Burlington become synonymous with South Bend, Indiana. The reason for this is that quite naturally, these men and their jobs would become inflated out of proportion to their ability. The fact that some of the athletes attend classes is tragic for it means hours of practice lost.

Luckily, the administration of UVM has vetoed all schemes which would tend to de-emphasize education at the expense of athletics. These would-be "Harry Wismers" having made the long trip up the hill in vain, have continued on their journey downhill across a river in a town not too far from here. Unconfirmed reports have it that the College situated in this town across the river has struck up a friendly relationship with these reporters to their mutual advantage. How long this alliance will continue is not known, but students should be warned that the editorials of the local papers can now be found in the sports section.

And now, a short prayer to those ambitious reporters alluded to above: "Oh, Lord, give us the power to see ourselves as others see us."

New Prexy's View--The Big Sports Question

Skaters Prepare For Season

Now that the wintry weather has finally arrived, our eyes turn to another of the winter sports, hockey. This year's edition of the Catamount puck chasers will be coached by Mike Kasap.

Due to the unusually warm weather (prior to Friday, of course), the boys have got in only two practice sessions. But now that the temperature has dropped below the freezing mark, the boys hope to get in more work before they inaugurate their schedule against Champlain, on Wednesday the eleventh.

Twenty-six skaters have reported for practice, but when the season opens Coach Kasap will have to shave his squad to the collegiate limit of fifteen. Of the twenty-six, seven are returning from last year's squad, and one is a transfer from Champlain Junior College.

Arnie Piche, last season's net minder, will probably get first crack at the goalie's job this season; but he will receive competition from Dave Banta and Roger Gallic, who are also trying out for the job. Six defensemen are out for positions on the squad. Included among them are veterans Dempsey and Colella, and newcomers Powers, Perkins, Bogie, and the transferee from Champlain, Smith. Trying out for right wing positions are newcomers Hutton, Knapp, Howard, Coutts, and lettermen Cote, Hungerford, and Clarke. Out for the center job are newcomers Hurley, Keefer, and Flanagan. Battling for the remaining position on the forward line, left wing, will be veteran Stems, and rookies Newcombe, McCauley, Beauregard, Richmond, Higley, and Wenning.

This season the sextet will play an eight game schedule and will be trying to improve on last year's 2-2 record.

NOTICE

National Teacher Examinations will be held on February 18, 8:30 a.m. at Waterman Building, Room 210. Education students wishing to take these examinations must file their applications and pay the fee to the Princeton Office of Education Testing Service no later than Jan. 20.

The fee for students for the Common Examination plus one option, or for the Common Examination only is $6.00.

Application blanks will be given out in Education classes or may be obtained at the Student Personnel office, and must be sent to: The Educational Testing Service, 20 Nassau St., or Box 592, Princeton, N. J.

Women's Meeting

A mass meeting for the University of Vermont women was called Jan. 4, at the Ira Allen Chapel at 7:30 p.m.

After the Vermont Pledge was given, Chief Justice of Women's Student Union, Rosemary Traynor, installed Barbara Hardie as Treasurer to succeed Jean Smith.

President Rae MacTiernan then announced that a joint conference would be held at Southwick on Feb. 1, and also that a job Clinic for seniors would take place in the near future.

Dean Mary Jean Simpson, who was present at the meeting, announced that any students desiring student aid for the next semester should obtain student aid blanks which are available in her office during the next ten days.

Miss Simpson also announced that permission would be granted to any woman student wishing to attend the Elks Club dance for the benefit of the Goshen Camp for Crippled Children on Feb. 9.

President MacTiernan next introduced Lyman S. Rowell, Associate Professor of Zoology, who spoke on the proposed honor system, which would, at least for the present, only extend to the women students.

The meeting adjourned after the traditional singing of "Champlain."

Sevitsky Concert Delights All

By John Moore

The Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra, with Fabian Sevitzky conducting, gave a Community Concert at Memorial Auditorium Sunday, Jan. 7, and delighted everyone with its performance.

The orchestra had the brilliance, clarity, and precision of a truly fine group -- it sounded like a single instrument in the hands of Mr. Sevitzky, producing whatever effect he intended.

The music may have been dull or stodgy in places, but the orchestra's effect was tremendous. This writer is pleasantly surprised at what the Community Concert Association can do on some occasions.

The highest point in the concert was achieved in Smetana's "The Moldau." Here was one of the rare occurrences of intrinsically powerful music combined with sensitive interpretation, showing how great music can be. This work stood out like a jewel above the rest of the performance.

The Bach prelude and fugue with which the concert opened showed the capacities of the orchestra -- the balance, smooth blending of instruments, and its close communion with the conductor, but it was neither sensational nor inspired in its interpretation by this orchestra.

The Dohnany waltz suite began as a pleasant interlude of light music, but it proved to be too much of one pattern, with a somewhat numbing effect.

Tchaikovsky's Fourth Symphony ended the program in the heavy Romantic mood which seems to suit the orchestra; although it was done brilliantly, it could not stand on the high plane that was reached with Smetana.

On the night of the performance it seemed that Sevitzky could do no wrong. He is an excellent musician and a conductor who knows his job. However, from the selections of the program, it seems that he is submerged in the middle of the nineteenth century. Even Bach emerged in the concert with a Romantic flavor. He has the Romantic spirit and he can work wonders with compositions of that type; therefore, it is probably out of order to ask if he can go beyond a single musical period.

FINE NOTICE

Fine bills are being sent out to all students owing 10¢ or more to the University Libraries. These bills cover all amounts due from October, 1946 to December 23, 1949. Unpaid bills will be sent to the Cashier for collection on January 20, 1950.

Out of the Horse's Mouth

To out-cliche the cliché, the shoe is now on the other foot—or almost on the other foot—in the relationship between organized "Greeks" and the independents on campus. In a word, a chain of circumstances has come off lately, which has led to a pretty ironical situation concerning just who holds the balance of power around here.

The independent students on campus are not members of "well-organized, closely-knit" units. They have generally been given a back seat as much as possible, even though they outnumber the "Greeks" two to one. Thus, it seems somewhat amusing to find that this group—formerly held under control like so many aboriginal headhunters—has somehow escaped this control and now has come up with a group of leaders who have resisted the appeal of the "Greeks" in order to equalize the situation.

This subtle change in the balance—or at least this possible change—all came about some weeks ago, just before Christmas, at a mass meeting held to discuss Kake Walk policies. The meeting went better than the independent students probably hoped for. Several hundred from both groups showed up and a good two hours of discussion took place. What did this meeting show? Well, we doubt that even the wildest dreamer among the independent students could ever have hoped for the clunker pulled off by the fraternities as represented by their Council. What was this mighty line? Simply this: "Yes, Kake Walk is a closed affair for fraternities and sororities and we intend to keep it that way."

What more could be said? What better propaganda could be found? What more damaging admission could a group, which calls its Kake Walk, "the UVM Winter Carnival", but which restricts over 2/3 of UVM's students from participation, make in the eyes of the students who can hold the balance of power?

So far, the leaders of our majority of students have not followed things through to their logical conclusion. We still do not have a concrete report on the views of the vast majority of students; we do not know what they think.

A short poll could certainly clinch matters.
Some people just do not see opportunities.

An Apology

The Cynic wishes to apologize to Faith Allen '53, who wrote last week's letter to the Editor on "Winterset", and, through our error, received no credit for it.

A new style was inaugurated with the December 15th issue of the Cynic. The front page was composed of headlines and pictures only, and gave the week's news in a nutshell. The type is set on a Vari-Type machine and printed on an offset press.

It was with this in mind that we asked the question: "Do you like the 'New Look' of the front page of the Cynic, or would you rather go back to the old style?"

1. Sylvia Albert '53, Stamford, Conn.

"I like the new front page because it catches your eye at a first glance. Headlines are the parts of stories that you read first, and it is a good idea to have the important ones on the front page where they can be seen as soon as you pick up the paper.

Also, people like to look at pictures. After looking at them, and reading the captions they are more likely to read the stories they refer to.

All in all, it makes a very striking appearance, and is something new in college newspapers."

2. Bill Landau '52, Cambridge Mass.

"I like the 'new look' because it gives a different appearance from the other college papers. This new style of type is also easier to read, and a better eye-catcher than the old one.

Since I am most interested in sports, this gives me a better chance to scan the important points on the front page instead of turning to the middle and getting my magnifying glass to read the latest sports results."

Letters to the Editor . . .

This week's cartoon of Chesterfields for the best Letter To The Editor goes to Professor Willard.

Dear Sir:

It is high time that students stop a moment and ponder the meaning of the various requirements for a college degree. Far too many have long since forgotten (if indeed they ever knew) the philosophy behind the steps that must be fulfilled before a degree is granted. Too often these steps are regarded as "hurdles" that must be jumped (blindly if possible) in order to keep up in the breathless race for commencement.

Colleges are not just technical institutes, for training in some particular skill. If that were so, there would be no need for granting a degree; a certificate would suffice. But for many students, colleges are merely pre-business cram schools, where only the "useful" and the tangibly "practical" are sought out, and the rest shoved aside as "useless". Students want the prestige of a college degree without being willing in all cases to make the effort required for its attainment. This desire is prompted in large measure by an inadequate understanding of the function of a college and the learning that it seeks to impart to its students. I shall not discuss the function of a college here; I shall limit myself to some observations on requirements for graduation.

College requirements were set up in order that students might be introduced to several disciplines, an acquaintance with which generally stamps a person as cultured. It is to be assumed that he came to college primarily because he was intellectually curious and was imbued with the desire to learn and learn for its own sake above any other consideration. Of course that may be a rash assumption; it is perhaps presumptuous to assert it these days. But unless the essential motive for going to college is the broadening of one's intellectual horizons, all meaning of higher education is lost. It should not matter what one majors in, history, economics, political science, fine arts, etc., it is the training of the mind that should count most. While it is true that more attention may be devoted to one particular subject (preferably one that the student likes best), other subjects must not be neglected or scoffed at because they are "required". Let us look at some of the requirements briefly.

The English composition requirement exists because no person should aspire to a college degree who cannot express himself simply and effectively, in correctly spelled, idiomatic English. The foreign language requirement is set up because no person should aspire to the fellowship of educated men and women who knows no language but his own and has no insight into another's culture. From

3. Ada Hyzer '51, South Royalton, Vermont

"I like the clearness of the pictures, but I don't like so many large pictures on the first page. I think it was an interesting experiment for the first issue of the new system, but I wouldn't like it to be a weekly practice.

It's more of a student project now than it was before, and that's what we have always been striving for."

the science requirement it is hoped that one may derive a respect for the scientific method, an added appreciation of natural phenomena, and an ability to read and understand any non-technical scientific article.

These are but a few of the principal requirements for a college degree. They are formulated with the idea that students may become wiser when they leave college than they were when they came in. Growth in wisdom is the basic aim of all curricula in higher education; and with increased wisdom it is devoutly hoped that young men and women will go forth "the better to serve" their country and their kind.

Sumner Willard

Dear Sir:

We would like to call the attention of the students to the fact that the University Senate Health Committee is now trying to do all it can for student health and is asking for the suggestions of any student in regard to this service.

Anyone who has suggestions for improving the service is asked to see any of us on the Committee.

Miss Faye Crabbe

Miss Elizabeth Wilson

Dear Sir:

Along with most of my fellow students I have recently completed my pre-registration for the coming semester. Is the present system at all inadequate? Here is how it is done in the department with which I register. For three designated days a part of the department staff is on duty in a designated room. A particular student walks into the room, sits down in front of a long table opposite the faculty members on duty and explains his troubles to whichever advisor is available first. The result is that this student probably will never have the same advisor more than once and the tendency is for the student to be treated impersonally and with unfortunate haste.

I would like to see an arrangement whereby each faculty member within a given department would have a list of designated students. Appointments would be made and this faculty member would have a personal conference with each student during, say, the latter half of the semester. Students would have this same advisor consistently throughout their college years unless possibly when changing curriculum. Under this system faculty advisors would get to know their respective students and would take a personal interest in them and their problems. It probably would take more total time on the part of faculty advisors but it would be more than worth it towards personal solution of a student's academic problems and towards better faculty-student relations. Most of us as students have a great respect for our faculty and we would welcome an opportunity to meet with them for solution of our problems.

Fortunately many departments of this university use a system similar to this but many of us would like to see it extended to all departments and all students.

Charles M. Lytle, '52

Seniors To Hear Of Jobs Students Will Meet Employers

Something is finally being done for those harried seniors who know nothing definite about this June except that they must find jobs. In the past they have been left pretty much on their own to sink or swim, but this year the Placement Office has come up with a new plan to ease the situation. The first Annual Job Clinic, to be held on Tuesday, Feb. 7, is their attempted answer to this vexing problem.

The purpose of the Job Clinic is to bring together the people who want the jobs and the men who have them to offer. Leading businessmen from Vermont and other areas will be here to discuss what they look for in an employee. They will give inside information on the types of questions asked in an interview and just what they expect to find in a letter of application. In addition they will bring information on their particular field of work and what kind of openings at what salaries prospective employees can hope to find.

All of this information will be disseminated in a full-day session, open to seniors only. The program includes informal panel discussions with questions from the floor and a smoker providing direct personal contact and further discussion. In addition, there will be a special luncheon for speakers, committee members, and a limited number of the faculty. In order to provide over-all unity, three specific topics have been named for discussion, although divergence, if necessary, will be welcomed. The topics are "What Employers Expect of College Graduates," "The Effective Letter of Application," and "The Successful Interview."

The topics and basic ideas were obtained from Mississippi State College, which first originated the plan and has been experimenting with it for the past two years, finding it very successful. The Placement Office hopes, although we are using the questions that Mississippi has found helpful in the past, that we will develop our own set, more pertinent to Vermont, as a result of this year's Clinic.

A partial listing of the men who will attend the Job Clinic includes Mark O'Dea of Woodstock, Vermont, who, now retired, was active for years in advertising and is the author of several pamphlets on the subject; Howard S. F. Bates, personnel manager of the Free Press; J. M. Schule, from the Worthmore Retail Stores of Greenfield, Mass., dealing in agricultural products; Robert Russell, personnel manager of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company in Boston; M. H. Howarth, superintendent of personnel service of Western Electric Company, New York; H. F. Braman, personnel manager of the American Brass Company, Waterbury, Conn.; and W. G. Lovell, personnel director for the State of Vermont.

In order for the Placement Office to arrange for seating, pre-registration is required of

Classical Club Will Banquet as Romans Tuesday

If on Tuesday night, Feb. 7, you should hear shouts of revelry from Southwick Memorial, don't be alarmed. It will only be the members of the Goodrich Classical Club celebrating their annual Roman banquet.

The latest reports from Hattia Carnegius say that togas are being worn longer this year and pastels are now the rage. In appropriate dress the banqueters will partake of food in the prescribed prone position using the earliest known implements of man-fingers.

The meal will have everything ab ovo usque ad mala and only the purest essence of the grape will be served to the bacchantes.

Host of the evening will be Dean Kidder presiding over the ritual of the sacrifice. Torture for the initiates into the club will take up the first part of the general convivium following the repast. The second half will consist of special entertainment originated by a special group for the occasion.

Wrecked UVM Station Wagon Is Returned

The Student Government station wagon is now back on campus after being laid up for repairs following an accident early in December at Durham, N. H. The car, a 1947 Ford was badly damaged when it collided with a N. H. machine while returning from a conference at the University of New Hampshire. No structural damage ensued, but considerable repairs to the body were necessitated. The car was returned by Curtis Mosher '51 who was engaged by the Student Government President to pick up the car.

UVM Numbers Racket Revealed

by Barbara Beals

Not to be outdone by rooms in Waterman, those in Science Hall, Old Mill, Morrill Hall and the Engineering Building have now also been included in the upper brackets (non-taxable), several now being three digitarians.

Old timers at UVM will now have to reorganize their cognitive structures and keep up with the times.

All this is due to a fairly understandable problem which heretofore had existed, and had been accentuated yearly with the influx of new, confused freshmen and transfer students who searched hourly through the maze of the Old Mill, Sci Hall, and the rest.

Another aspect of the problem was the necessity, by the office of the superintendent of buildings, to know what rooms were to be found in the buildings on campus, what was to be found in them, and what they were to be used for.

The new plan was to go into effect this fall, but due to the fact that the schedule of class sections had already been printed using the old numbers, it was decided to wait until this winter when everyone could be notified in advance.

Dr. William Carlson Wants More Alumni, State Aid

Inauguration Will Be Held April 1

Dr. William S. Carlson, who will take over as president of the University of Vermont on April 1, made a hurried visit to Burlington last week. Accompanied by Mrs. Carlson, he arrived on Monday night and spent Tuesday looking over the University.

As part of a very hectic schedule for that day, Dr. Carlson spent almost an hour in a press conference, which the Cynic was fortunate enough to attend. One of the first statements that he made concerned the tuition at UVM. Comparing the amount that our students pay with the fees charged at other land grant colleges, he pointed out that the University of Vermont is very close to the top of the list in the amount charged the individual student. Charges for resident students here are almost twice what they are in the University of Delaware, where he is presently finishing his term of office.

Because of the amount charged, he feared that many Vermont students find it necessary to attend universities elsewhere. Looking into the distant future, he hoped that tuition could be measurably reduced to alleviate this condition, one method being more active alumni support. Dr. Carlson pointed out that students do not anywhere near pay for the cost of their education; therefore it is part of their responsibility, once they have left school, to help maintain the institution.

Dr. Carlson, in answer to a question from Pres. Lyman, said "teaching students to think" is his ultimate aim in education. He added that this ability can be taught by means of any curriculum, but implied that it required more than a narrowly confined selection of courses. He is firmly convinced of the necessity of learning thinking habits which may be applied to the whole social situation, rather than accumulating a large stack of facts.

Explaining about the general education program that he has initiated in Delaware, Dr. Carlson said that the latter was the basic aim of that program. He also went on record as being opposed to an entirely elective or an entirely required program. He favors more electives, but could not advocate a full elective system unless the advisor system were so improved as to really guide the students in their choices. An example of this was the severe inability, which he found on the part of Delaware students, to express themselves in their native tongue, which has led to a system of testing in English usage at the end of the Junior year. Any student who cannot pass this is required to repeat Freshman English in his Senior year until he is able to express himself more fully.

Dr. Carlson stated that he was firmly convinced of the desirability of an academic honor system, such as has just been established at Delaware, but only if completely desired by the students. This is something which cannot be initiated from the top. The esprit de corps must be such as to want it and carry it out fully. In line with his statements regarding freedom of both faculty and students to decide issues which involve them, he favors a strong student government.

Commenting upon the quality of today's student in comparison to that of his and Pres. Lyman's times, Dr. Carlson said that on the whole today's entering student is just as well prepared and the graduating student is just as well or better prepared than formerly. A great deal of this he attributed to the stability which the veterans brought to the campus and which seems to be remaining now that they are graduating. While enlargement has meant harder work for the educators, he does not feel that it has lowered standards.

In answer to what he thinks of fraternities, Dr. Carlson stated that he believes they have a definite place on campus, but in many places have not lived up to their potentialities. (Continued on page six)

Registration Aide Reveals Dog Day Tactics At UVM

by Dick Cloutier

The dog days are here. Called semester enrollment by the University, for most students they mean anything from three to eight hours of one devilish line after another. He stands in line first to get his registration papers, then to enter the East Hall, to get his enrollment card signed, to fight for section cards, to join various clubs, and even to pay his bills. Upon graduation, anyone of these registration veterans will be qualified to join the armed services—he will have had sufficient line-standing experience.

But the few hours that students spend in enrollment are short compared to the time that is spent by Registrar Hamblin, faculty members, and the students who volunteer to aid in registration for a slight remuneration. I can speak from experience; this is my third year of working at registration in the sectioning department.

To the eyes of the unknowing student, the typical registration day starts off about 7:45 in the morning. Standing shivering at the front entrance of East Hall, he sees "those lucky dogs" going in the side entrance. Little does he know the story beneath the surface.

Actually for many of the workers, registration commences sometime earlier with the setting up of the enrollment system. This requires a complete upheaval of the set-up of the building as we see it in normal times. Furniture is rearranged; directions and signs are taped upon the walls to indicate various stations and routes to be followed; all kinds of materials and machines must be brought in; and many other tasks carried out before registering students ever set foot in the building.

Finally the doors are opened, and in a short time a mad wave of section-card hungry students come pouring into the sectioning room. They hurriedly glance up and down the lines attempting to find the right ones. Many, after having patiently stood in this turmoil for several minutes, find that the Dairy Bar lab G116 or Modern Dancing 81 is over in the next line. This confusion always aids in efficient sectioning.

You would be surprised to learn just how many attempts are made to coax, cajole, bribe, or intimidate the sectioning clerk into giving out a section Z card for Canadian Club and Canada Dry Sampling lab D54, which Professor Tippler is teaching and which is already overflowing to the tune of twenty to one. Why do students prefer certain classes? Is it because of favorable hours, or of an instructor's reputation?

Even after working in sectioning for this length of time, I still cannot put my finger on the definite answer. One girl came up to me during a period of enrollment, and wanted a certain laboratory section which, due to physical limitations, was filled. "But I've just got to get that lab," she wailed, then pleadingly, "Can't you give it to me just this once. I'll never pass the course unless I get that lab." When I asked her why she wanted it so bad, she replied: "My brother is the lab instructor."

Still others set up a little schedule for themselves so that they have no classes until 10 o'clock, none in the afternoon after 2, and none on Saturday. So, when I announce that the only thing left is section M at 8 o'clock on Tues., Thurs., and Sat., they look at me as if I were a Russian spy with the atomic bomb secrets and moan: "I just can't take that class." "Well, why not?" "It's too early, besides, I don't want any Saturday classes." So what happens? Why, I give them that section and a T.S. Chit for the chaplain.

Of course, all is not over for the poor student once he com-

STUDENT LOANS

Students can now get loans of up to $15 payable within one week. Miss Mary Ruth Coffman in the Religious Life Office, 265 Waterman, is the "loan counselor."

The new loan fund, totaling $375, has been set up from part of the Campus Chest Funds.

WAC Commissions Are Now Offered College Alumnae

New plans favoring college graduates for commissions in the Women's Army Corps were announced earlier this month by Major General Frank A. Keating, Commander of the New England Sub area of First Army.

Now eligible for commissioning are women college graduates who hold baccalaureate degrees from accredited colleges or universities and women now in their senior year of college who meet certain prescribed requirements, as well as Warrant Officers and enlisted women presently in the Army. Successful applicants will be appointed initially as second lieutenants in the WAC Section of the Organized reserves with subsequent tender of a Regular Army commission if selected at the completion of a basic course of training at Camp Lee, Virginia.

Regular requirements as to age and marital status still stand. Applicants must have reached their twenty-first birthday but must not have passed their twenty-seventh. In the case of former members of the military service, the Army may extend the maximum age limit depending on the length of prior service. The applicant must also be unmarried. If divorced or widowed, she is ineligible, and also if she has dependents under 18 years of age or has legal or other responsibility for the custody, control, or support of children under that age.

Further information and assistance in preparing for application may be obtained from the Department of Military Science and Tactics here at the University of Vermont.

pletes registration. He has to buck the book and supply line which is a feat in itself. To this is added an extra attraction for the veteran—sweating out the line to have his book and supply allowances checked and approved.

As all things must do, however, semester enrollment and all its lines and troubles soon come to an end and are only a memory to most students. But then, of course, there is still the matter of standing in the lines at the cafeteria, the infirmary, the movies (on Saturday and Sunday nights) and sometimes even at Bove's. What students won't go through to get an education!

Rain, Rain, Rain Skiers Mutter

Whoever arranged for the weather lately certainly got his signals mixed!

Hordes of eager skiers arriving in Vermont and vicinity during the holidays for a thrilling bout of one of the most exciting of winter sports, and equipped with skis, boots, extra sweaters, ski poles, sleeping bags, long red underwear, nose drops, and woolly socks for loafing around cozy fires after strenuous exercise in the fresh, cold, invigorating Vermont air, encountered instead a horrid, torrid spell of disgustingly spring-like weather complete with April showers and a daily temperature of fifty to sixty degrees Fahrenheit.

Everything grew damp, not to mention the spirits of the would-be skiers! The grass grew greener, gardeners started to plant crocuses, and everyone dug out last year's bathing suits and took sun baths.

After spending their long-anticipated vacations sloshing through mud puddles while their skis mildewed, the many disappointed skiers returned home via trains and buses, looking ridicu-

UVM Student In Mexico Works With Townspeople Teaches In Schools

by Emerson Frost

If I had had six hundred dollars last summer, I would probably not have gone to Mexico; I would have gone to Europe. I am satisfied that I went to Mexico.

Under the direction of the American Friends Service Committee, Americans of all colors and creeds as well as people from other countries, worked together harmoniously with the village people of Mexico last summer. My assignment, along with twelve other men, was in the small town of Ocoyoacoc, fifty kilometers west of Mexico, D. F.

We helped the town's people and learned how they plant trees, dig spring holes, mend roads, and use mud for mortar in rock work. We also helped, or tried to, in the schools. My greatest triumph was teaching some fifth graders and their teacher how to play tic-tac-toe.

The big game in that section is soccer; that is probably why we usually beat them at baseball. We went to fiestas and had some parties of our own, but were carefully cautioned to do no dating, as this American custom is not widespread in the villages. When a Mexican boy takes a girl out, his intentions are supposed to be honorably based upon marriage.

Many ask how I conversed with the people when I speak practically no Spanish. The answer is not too difficult. Learn a few simple phrases and be patient and friendly, the way the Mexican villagers are. Usually there was someone around who knew something of both Spanish and English and who helped me out. Yet one can always say simple things to people near the soil. I had learned in Greece to ask for water when thirsty; I speak no Greek. I merely enlarged on the process in Mexico. I spent most of one afternoon in a rather old-fashioned iron foundry and had a great bull session with the moulders, but I do not know exactly what language was spoken. I do remember that the Spanish words for coke and cupola are cognates of English words. Besides, one who speaks excellent Spanish may frequently be stumped by the many people who speak only an Indian dialect.

The big staple product in Mexico is corn, and we once attended a dinner at the village president's house at which this food was the basis of the whole meal. First we had a sweetish broth made from young corn pith, for a second course, corn meal and raisins baked in corn husks, lous in brand new ski suits with nary a worn spot on the seat, carrying unused skis on their shoulders, and with ski poles scattered in the aisles.

Many were heard to mutter disparaging remarks about Vermont "Just like home—no snow, no nothin'—just rain, rain, rain!"

And then it got cold, cold, cold—but still no snow. The mercury went down to a frustrating five degrees above (too warm for slacks, co-eds are told) but very little of that fluffy white stuff could be found.

But, gosh, the weather was pretty much the same all over New England—no one can say it's all Vermont's fault!

And besides, a little change of weather is refresh—NO!

Is that snow I see falling to the ground?

By golly, it is!

Well, I take it all back.

All's forgiven and forgotten.

Oh, boy—I'm going skiing!

and finally dessert pastries made from corn also.

Travel in Mexico is as low as 1/4 cent (American) per mile, second class. This may be because the trains are run by the federal government and most lines are cooperatives. We had a little hitch—hiking except for short trips. We found that traveling in Mexico we saw as much if we traveled both ways over the same road, the surroundings only a few miles away often being totally different.

It is easy to reach Mexico in a variety of ways, among them train, bus, plane, and hike. I might add that hiking west of the Mississippi is much slower than it was three or four years ago, but is just as cheap. I made it home from Brownsville, Texas, on six seven dollars by sleeping on the ground or in jails instead of hotels or tourist places, and carrying a loaf of bread and a few hard-boiled eggs and other concentrated foods with me.

I might add here that of a whole wonderful summer, the climax of the trip, for me, was visit to the active volcano Paracutin, and the village it recently buried.

(Ed. Note: Emerson L. Frost is a physics major in his junior year. A resident of Pittsford, Vermont, he spent two years in the navy, traveling half way around the world from Hawaii to Palestine. While in UVM he has been active in the Vermont Independents and is at the present time, vice-president of VIP. He first heard of the work of the American Friends Service Committee when he met Jean Fairbairn, College Secretary of the New England Regional Office, at an IRC convention here last year.)

The AFSC has for many years pioneered in the field of international friendship. By means of work and study projects, has attempted to promote world peace by increasing understanding through knowledge of the problems of others. In addition to its work in Mexico, which in its tenth year, the AFSC conducts similar projects in Europe and southern United States plus study seminars for international peace. Most of the work is on a completely voluntary basis.

Two Run For President

ED STREETER

A member of the class of 1951, Ed Streeter comes to UVM from Wilmington, where he was president of the senior class and a member of the basketball team. Ed has engaged in several college activities, including frosh cross-country, choir, Outing Club, Newman Club, Men's Chorus, Round Table, as secretary, and the Freshman Orientation Committee. He was editor of the Freshman Handbook, is a member of Key and Serpent and an SAE pledge.

His platform:

1. An investigation of the present and future plans for the field house at Centennial.
2. A continuation of the present plans for working towards a student union building.
3. Possible organization of a student-faculty lounge where teachers and students may discuss academic and social interests and problems.
4. A faculty-student committee to evaluate the present curriculum; including the marking system.
5. An evaluation of campus clubs and activities, possibly combining some and extending others. The Varsity Club is a good example of a growing, influential club which is important, among other things, for inter-collegiate relations.
6. Improvement of students' facilities. Present facilities, such as the library and music building, do not meet the needs and interests of the students, investigations to be made from which plans, like opening the music building on Sundays, would be carried out if possible.
7. Changes in exam system. Systems have been worked out at other colleges where final exams have been done away with, and the results have shown that it can be an excellent system. I think that this is a good project to work upon here at Vermont. An alternative would be to start the fall semester earlier in September and complete finals before the Christmas holiday.

ART HILL

A native of East Brookfield, Art Hill was graduated from Spaulding High School, where he was active in Student Council, dramatics, and the glee club. Art came to UVM in 1947, where he became a brother of Sigma Nu, chairman of the Pep Committee, and a member of the Student Government Council. He is also a member of the Ethan Allen Rifles, Key and Serpent, Freshman cross country, and Men's Chorus.

Art's platform:

1. To establish a publicity department in which capable college students may be delegated to appear at various high school assemblies to promote interest in the University of Vermont.
2. To assist in furthering the efforts of the Speech Department, and others, in establishing a campus radio station.
3. To endeavor to make it possible for students to ride at reduced bus fare within the city of Burlington from their residences to the University.
4. To cooperate with the president of the University toward modifying present rules which prohibit the establishment of a football training table.
5. To organize a non-profit unit whereby students may borrow small amounts of money for short periods of time, free of interest.
6. To provide an outlet for talent in humor, art, caricatures, etc., in the form of a humor magazine.
7. To continue efforts toward obtaining washing machines for the men's dorms.
8. To develop even better student-administration relations than ever before.

Student Government candidates for all positions are requested to attend a meeting in the Student Government office, Tuesday, Jan. 31, at 4 p.m.

Renamed Lawrence Debate Club Makes First Trip In New Sedan

Longer trips and more active competition are anticipated results of the UVM Debate Club's new face-lifting. On Jan. 12, Mr. Edwin W. Lawrence, of Rutland, presented the group with a new Plymouth sedan in order to give them more traveling freedom.

Renamed in honor of the Rutland attorney, the club will now be known as the Lawrence Debate Club.

First use of the new Plymouth came on Jan. 24, when three members of the team and Dr.

Robert B. Huber, chairman of the Speech Department and sponsor of the group, made a trip to Newport, Vt., to present four discussion programs on the question "Should the Federal Government Own and Operate the Nation's Basic Non-Agricultural Industries?"

The debaters taking part in the programs were Mary Ellen Fuller, '51, and Joe Levin, '50, of Burlington, and Thomas B. Hayes, '50, of Bellows Falls.

Goddard Head, Legislator Lead Next Vt. Forum

"Is Consolidation Essential to Solving Vermont's School Problem?" There are many opinions and a great deal of feeling on this vital topic. It will receive a thorough going over Wednesday night in the City Hall Auditorium at this month's Vermont Forums.

Taking the affirmative side will be Dr. Royce S. Pitkin, organizer and president of Goddard College in Plainfield. In addition to articles in Parents' Magazine and The Nation's Schools, Dr. Pitkin is the author of Public School Support in the United States During Periods of Economic Depression.

George H. Carpenter, member of the Vermont Legislature in 1947, a strong believer in local privilege and responsibility in education, will argue the negative side of the issue.

A new feature of this month's forums is that any member may bring one guest to see what it is like.

The January question was "Should Vermont Establish Specialized Juvenile Courts?"

At this meeting, a social hour was held following the forum, at which time speakers and audience mingled informally.

This idea proved so successful that it has been decided to make it a regular part of the Vermont Forums evening.

No Preliminary Examination Lists Hamblin Predicts

What with registration and exams both, Registrar Frank Hamblin has been having a busy time for himself during the last few weeks.

A total of 13,851 individual exams were taken in the gym during the 11-day examination period, Hamblin said.

Usually the registrar's office fears catastrophes such as blizzards, fires, etc., but this time the only difficulty encountered was with the printed schedule in the Cynic. Before every exam students were warned to disregard the schedule printed in the Cynic due to a mix-up which jumbled several around in the wrong places.

So far as Hamblin knows, no one missed an exam on this account!

One change that will probably go into effect, Hamblin believes, is the elimination of the preliminary exam schedule. A carry-over from the quarter system when four exams a day were scheduled, the preliminary exam schedule seems to have out-lived its purpose. Only five conflicts arose during mid-years, all of which were easily ironed out.

On To Registration

Exams over, the UVM registrar has looked forward to spring semester registration to see how the block system will work. An innovation is the dispensation of kits. Students spent most of their time fumbling in their kits in the fall for the correct paper. This time all needed papers are down to a minimum and can be picked up on the way through the line.

It will take the average student 40 minutes to go through the registration line, Hamblin estimates, and if no snags are hit, some may be out in 20 minutes. Strangely enough when name blocks were drawn, out of 26 blocks, the last group in the alphabet turned out to be first in line.

Probably for the first time in his life, Mr. Ziyak will be first in line!

Council Positions Open In Election

Costello Declines A Re-election Bid

Operating for the last time under the election procedures of the old Constitution, UVM students will go to the polls on Wednesday, Feb. 8, for the all important Student Government elections. Voting will take place in the lower level of Wateman from 9 until 4:30 on that day, near the Lounge.

In advance, it is difficult to say where the hottest races will be. For the first time in years, there are but two candidates for the top position, the most important student elective office, that of President. No petitions were filed for this position, apparently reflecting the campus opinion that the incumbent, Edward J. Costello, '51, would seek re-election. In the absence of nominating petition, the Nominating Committee named three juniors, Arthur Hill, David Newhall, and Edward Streeter to be candidates. Newhall, however, declined, leaving but two in the field.

Two names will appear on the ballot for the office of Vice President, the aspirants being Larry Kimball and Jean True, both members of the Class of '51. Candidates for Secretary are Barbara Hamilton, Nancy Gill Reynolds, and Rita Seu, all sophomores. Only one candidate is seeking the office of Treasurer, the present Acting Treasurer, Alpheus Streeter.

Thirty students will be competing for eight positions on the new Council. As a result of an amendment to the Constitution made at the Dec. 15 Mass Meeting, elections will henceforth be held semi-annually. For this reason, only one-half of the Council will be elected at this time. There are two berths open for juniors, three for sophomores and three for freshmen. In the running for the junior positions are Emerson L. Frost, Stanley James, Frank Kelley, Betty Kerin, and Charles Wiley. For the sophomore class, Charles Black, Jr., Marianne Ciotti, Harold Henningsen, Eloise Liston, Charles Lytle, Bob Mintzer, and Marilyn Murdock will campaign.

The freshman Class, demonstrating again its tremendous spirit, has the largest number of candidates. They are Susan Atwood, Rodney Belden, Charles Brittain, Francis Bell, Bernice Berger, Robert Brooks, Donald R. Brown, Leland Churchill, Anne Cott, Margaret Kelley, John Mathison, Carl Sica, Lydia Sweeney, Mary Sylvester, John Taylor, Richard Viets, Richard Wolfe, and Jane Wray. Pictures and a brief description of all candidates will be placed on a bulletin board near the voting area on Monday, Feb. 6.

Many students have expressed surprise that the incumbent President, Ed Costello, was not seeking re-election. When questioned by this paper, Costello stated that although many of his friends and associates had urged him to be a candidate, and despite the fact that they filed nomination papers for him, he was refusing a nomination because he felt that no one should attempt to monopolize student offices. "With only four years at UVM, a student holding an office for more than one year discourages others from seeking that office, and thereby causes the organization to suffer."

I feel that the more candidates that are available for a position, the better will be the quality of the elected officials, for the voters then have a better selection. Others should be given the opportunity for the honor, as well as the responsibilities that go with the honor," he stated. Last year, Costello became the first sophomore to be elected President, as after a hard-fought campaign he broke the junior tradition.

A non-compulsory meeting will be held in the Student Lounge to enable candidates for offices to expound their platforms on Monday night, Feb. 6. All students that can come are urged to attend.

The new officers and council members will take office about Feb. 15.

KAKE WALK TICKETS

Tickets for this year's Kake Walk Ball, featuring Tex Beneke and his "Music In the Miller Mood", will go on sale Monday, February 6, in the UVM Bookstore, the Kake Walk Directors have announced. The Directors also made it known that tickets for the Friday and Saturday night productions of Kake Walk will go on sale Sunday afternoon, February 12, in the Student Lounge, and from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. on February 13, 14, 15, in Room 36 Waterman. After February 15, all tickets will be turned over to Hayes and Carney, Inc., for local sale.

Post, Evans

See NCAA

Weakened

While most of UVM's athletes were actively engaged in wrestling with examinations, Coaches Archie Post and Fuzzy Evans traveled to New York to take in the NCAA conference held there Jan. 19-21.

Evans attended the meetings of the National Football Coaches Association while Post attended those of the National Track Coaches Association. Saturday they were both present at the voting on the seven colleges alleged to have violated the sanity code set up by the NCAA.

According to Post, the sanity code seemed most liberal to most schools and the fact that the seven colleges came through unscathed, despite a majority vote against them, was due to "guilty conscience on the part of other schools." A two-thirds vote was needed to oust the schools from the NCAA.

It was agreed by Vermont's two coaches that the failure of the NCAA to put teeth into its rules and oust the offending colleges considerably weakened its reputation in athletic circles throughout the country.

all who wish to attend. There will be a table maintained at enrollment in East Hall on both Monday and Tuesday at which time interested seniors may leave their names and any questions which they should like discussed. For those who fail to sign up at this time, there will be a table in the lower corridor of Waterman Building on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday. Friday, Feb. 3, is the absolutely final deadline for pre-registering. No one will be admitted to the Job Clinic who has not signed up by this time.

Because of the importance of this Clinic to the graduating class, seniors will be excused from all classes in order to attend the meetings. After final registration at from 8:00 to 8:40 a.m., the Clinic will be opened in the Student Lounge at 8:45. There will be a recess at 1 p.m. for lunch, after which discussion will be resumed at 2:15. The informal smoker will be held in the Soda Fountain at 4 o'clock. It is hoped that this schedule will be strictly adhered to so that all of the topics can be fully covered and the guests will be able to leave Burlington on time.

The planning committees involved have been under the overall chairmanship of Dr. E. K. Eakin, Director of Placement.

Dr. Carlson

In answer to a flurry of questions regarding athletics, UVM's future president said that while he does not like to see a loser, he objects to winners who are dishonest or hypocritical. He believes that athletics are a unifying element between student and alumni and therefore should be encouraged. Dr. Carlson especially wanted to point out that Delaware has been very successful in athletics. Deploping the necessity for having a sanity code, he nevertheless feels that it does not take any privilege away from the University; the university determines both who shall enter and who shall remain.

NOTICE

Law School Admission Test will be given February 25. Applications for this test must be sent to the Educational Testing Service, 20 Nassau St., Princeton, N. J., no later than February 25, and candidates must state that they wish to take the February test.

Application blanks will be in the Student Personnel Office after February 1.

KAKE WALK NOTICE

Bids on the concessions for checking coats and selling soft drinks on the three nights of Kake Walk are now being accepted by the Directors. Those bidding for the Coat Checking Concession must agree to use six (6) people the night of the Ball and four (4) the other two nights. Those bidding for the Soft Drink Concession must agree to use at least four (4) people each of the three nights.

All Bids should be sent to the Kake Walk Directors, Box B, Waterman Building, no later than February 8, 1950. Applicants whose bids are accepted will be notified by February 10, 1950.

Editorial

"A REPLY"

In the last issue of the Cynic, Professor Willard brought up some interesting points in a letter concerning education. There can be no disagreement with his main thesis, i.e., that the acquirement of "culture" is a necessary adjunct to the acquirement of a college degree.

However, Mr. Willard says that the student is completely to blame for the stress he has put on the special courses. On the contrary, the student of today is placed in the position where these concepts have been forced upon him by the society into which he will graduate. One of the more obvious of these stresses is the emphasis that company representatives place on these special courses when they are looking for future employees. Another one that is directly responsible to educators, is the present professional school admission system which bases selection on a few subjects, in some cases, one subject.

The student is placed in a position, therefore, that forces him to work hard on certain subjects to the detriment of others. This usually has a certain chain reaction. He usually gets a poor grade in these neglected subjects, which causes him to avoid work in these subjects, which causes him to get poorer grades in these subjects and so on. These cultural courses, then, have not only added little to the individual's culture but in all probability have inculcated a healthy dislike for the subject in the student. How many students have sworn off anything to do with literature after having taken one of the various literature courses? This is added to by the attitude of some teachers who tend to ignore students in their classes who are not majoring in the field that the former are interested in. A few instances have come to our attention where this was not a passive attitude on the part of the instructor but a positive one.

No, it is not only the student who is responsible for these conditions, his fault has been to succumb to all these pressures. The blame can be affixed to the entire educational system, and it is for those who are the designers of this system to consider their methods and bring about change. There will be no pat answer, there can be only a shift in the relationships between the different aspects of education, a shift which will make the student more fully realize the purposes and aims of education.

The next point in Professor Willard's letter with which we want to differ is... "It is to assumed that he (the student) came to college primarily because he was intellectually curious and was imbued with the desire to learn and learn for its own sake above any other consideration". This, we believe, is a perversion of the philosophy of education. Just as drinking for its own sake causes a person to be tabbed an alcoholic so learning for its own sake causes a person to be the scholastic equivalent of an alcoholic.

Man is an animal with a well developed brain. The brain development is the thing that distinguishes him from the other primates, and is therefore a gift which should be valued, studied and trained. But, he is an animal endowed with a

Women's Student Union has recently proposed a new system under which all women students in the university will live. Known as the Honor System, this new form of self-government is aimed at developing better discipline and more responsible members of the community. Under the Honor System each woman student will be responsible for her own honorable conduct and partly for the honorable conduct of others. This new plan has proved favorable at the many colleges at which it has been tried, and it is hoped that it will be successful here too. Thus, the question this week is: "Do you feel that the installation of the Honor System here at UVM will be a good idea?"

1. Lois Black '50, Lexington, Mass.

"I lived under the Honor System at junior college, and it worked there. This system, which involved only our social life, was adopted by a Conference of Junior Colleges to a certain extent. We had the group pressure system where a girl was made to feel that she had to report herself by having her friends ignore her until she did so. This part didn't work very well."

2. Marjorie Kirkland '53, Troy, New York.

"We had it at Prep school and it worked pretty well there for a while. Then we had a slump, but after this period was over it worked very well. After already seeing it in action, I think it should work very well here. Girls will be careful that they do the right thing, because if they know they will have to report themselves for doing the wrong thing, they'll be careful what they do."

3. Evelyn Mueller '51, Norwalk, Conn.

"I think an Honor System would work academically, but am not sure how well it would be socially. People will become suspicious of their friends and there will be a lot of conflicts in the dorms. It is hard to switch from one system to another, but everyone has honor and will use it if he has to, so I guess the new system will be a good one."

4. Jane Duby '53, Schuylerville, New York.

"I went to Green Mountain Junior College and it never worked there. I think it would work scholastically before socially. Everyone should be included in the Honor System, and this includes freshmen, as that's where it would have to start."

brain, and although it is polite to frown upon that part of him, it is still there and he must satisfy some of the cravings of that animal. One of these is the desire for a certain degree of happiness or contentment. Learning then should be something that is wanted by that animal so that he can better understand life, live a better life and be happy in it. Learning, therefore, is a means to attain those ends, it is not the end in itself. Learning for its own sake can become a little like the proverbial "tail wagging the dog".

The solution, again, is a proper relationship in all the factors in the individuals training. Neither do we want a Brontosaurus nor do we want a super charged brain with body attached. And we all don't have to be "average" or "normal" either, there will be plenty of room for individual differences. The very existence of taste and interest will be cause for plenty of variation.

'Under Warning' And "On Trial"

Rules Stated

by Faith Allen

Because there is a question in some students' minds about the rules governing students "on trial" or "under warning," here they are.

These rules are given under Article VI, 3 and 4 in the 1949 edition of the Regulations of the University.

Students are adjudged delinquent in scholarship and are placed "under warning" or removed from "under warning" whenever the record of the preceding term justifies such action.

Students are placed "under warning" if they have failed two courses or more, or if their grades in over half of the credit hours are below 70.

Students are "removed from under warning" if they would not be placed under warning under the above rule, provided that over half of the credit hours are of grade 70 or better.

In addition to the above, students may be "continued under warning" provided they have been "on trial" and the Dean or faculty believe that the record justifies this action.

A student "under warning" is not eligible to participate in any athletic or other student activity which involves overnight absence from the city, or for initiation into a fraternity or election to an honorary society.

A student "continued under warning," i.e., "under warning" for a second consecutive term is debarred from participation in all athletic and other student activities.

Students may be placed "on trial" at the discretion of the Dean, the faculty, or the appropriate committee of the college concerned. In general, those students will be placed "on trial" who have failed half their work or more but have been permitted to continue in college, or who have not earned more than one grade as high as 70. Students who re-enter, after having been dropped, re-enter "on trial". The conditions of the trial are in each case set by the Dean of the college concerned.

A student "on trial" is debarred from participation in all athletic and other student activities.

An additional rule for freshman women in the Women's Student Government Association Handbook states:

Any freshman who is placed "under warning" or "on probation" unless she registers for a social evening may not leave her room during the evening study hours from Monday through Friday, except to go to the library or to study with another student in her dormitory, with permission from the House Director. No visitors, students or outsiders, may visit the room of a freshman "under warning" during study hours.

A rule for all women students states: On Saturday evening, in place of one 11:15, any girl in good academic standing, may have the 12:30 privilege within her quota of social evenings, provided she has a definite engagement.

This does not necessarily mean that a girl not in good academic standing cannot have the 12:30 permission, but it leaves the way clear for Women's Student Council to take away this privilege if it is thought necessary.

Honor System To Be Tried If Girls $100 Prize

In Old Mill Vote Yes

by Maureen Haney

The Women's Student Government of UVM is based upon an honor code but there is no honor system as such in practice. At the St. Lawrence Conference of Women's Student Governments in October the honor system was a main topic of discussion. Representatives of UVM coming back from this Conference talked to Dean Simpson about the system, discussed it at the Council meetings and at the first Joint Conference meeting.

Three times previously, the last time in 1946, the system had been tried academically but was not successful. It is believed that if it starts with the women on campus in their dormitory living that it will eventually follow academically.

In order to acquaint the girls with the proposed honor system Student Union council members visited the different dormitories and discussed it with the girls at house meetings. Dr. Rowell spoke about it at the women's mass meeting on Jan. 4. Now a tentative decision has been made to experiment with the system, using the "Old Mill" as a laboratory. This, of course, will depend upon the decision made by the girls themselves living at this dorm. They will vote upon it on Sunday night, Feb. 12.

As yet no constitution has been made. However, Dean Simpson has drawn up in a condensed form the main principles of the system.

The honor system is not being forced upon the women. After they have had a good chance to become thoroughly educated and acquainted with its principles, they will be given an opportunity to vote upon it. "We don't want a 'yes' or a 'no' through ignorance."

Following is Dean Simpson's condensation derived from the constitutions of other colleges. Copies have been placed in all women's dormitories so that the women may become familiar with it.

A. Definitions

1. Honor is that quality of character which results in a nice sense of what is right, just, honest, and true.

2. Honor is something which cannot be divided. We either have it or we do not.

Honor operates and must be stressed in all spheres of life, in every relationship and in every situation.

3. An "honor system" is the name applied to a form of self-government where each individual's responsibility for her own honorable conduct and her share of responsibility for the honorable conduct of others in the group is accepted and lived up to.

a. The philosophy underlying an honor system rests on the principles of honesty, responsibility and trust in one another.

An honor system will work only if such mutual trust and confidence exists throughout the whole college community.

b. This does not mean that every individual is a law unto herself. Certain standards and at least a minimum of rules and regulations are absolutely necessary for successful group living.

"Matters of deportment and personal conduct are not only a legitimate educational concern of an institution of higher learning but are in reality an educational obligation."

c. However, the rules under which any college group lives should grow out of group experience, group discussion and the considered opinion of the majority of the people concerned, but must operate within the framework of the institution and of the goals which it has for its students.

d. Rules should be subject to periodic review and be possible to revision, but once set up, obedience to them is a responsibility of the individual and of the group.

B. Aims

The aim of any system of student government is to teach its members to become self-directing and self-disciplined individuals and responsible citizens of the community.

Its primary duty is to promote the general welfare of all the students while at the same time respecting the personality of the individual.

C. Areas of Responsibility

1. Responsibility of Administration

Under a true Honor System the faculty and staff entrusts to the students the responsibility for the maintenance of honorable conduct in all aspects of campus life, both social and academic, and must agree to accept the responsibility:

a. For assuming that all members of the group are honest.

b. For sharing with the students the collective responsibility for preventing violations.

c. For supporting and strengthening the system by offering helpful criticisms and suggestions.

2. Student Responsibility

Under the Honor System every student assumes the responsibility for:

a. Acting in an honorable manner by complying with all social regulations to the best of her ability.

A prize of $100, offered by an anonymous donor, will be awarded for the best unpublished full-length play by a New England resident submitted to the Catholic Theatre Conference, New England region, according to Rev. John L. Bonn, S. J., of Boston College, chairman of the regional conference.

The contest is open to all writers, regardless of creed. All rights in plays submitted remain with the authors. Manuscripts must be typewritten and must be accompanied by self-addressed envelopes, bearing return postage. Entries should be sent to New England CTC Play Contest, care of Office of General Publicity, Boston College, Chestnut Hill 67, Mass., and must be postmarked not later than midnight of Aug. 1.

A Night At Fleming Museum, Or Is Burlington Really Dead

by Bill Davis

One just sits down to study, and in comes Mike's big feet or, in Coolidge, Mary from across the hall. Three or four more come in, the door slams, somebody hollers, a firecracker goes off, and a vociferous poker game makes up an evening humdrum at the dorms.

Then your best buddy walks in. He can't study. "Let's go somewhere tonight," he says.

"Where?" you ask. "Wow! Boy, is this place dead."

And that's what many students say, "Wow! Boy, is this place dead". So they waste another studious evening in their rooms with nothing to do.

Well, here's something to do. How about a free show? There's one at the Fleming Museum every now and then, like the one last Thursday night, for instance.

The movie was "Kenji Comes Home". Kenji was a Japanese soldier just returning home to Hiroshima, victim-city of an American atom bomb. His home, family, friends had all been wiped out together with the factories which supplied jobs. He had very little money and knew very few people.

After meeting the sister of an old friend, Kenji finds a job, friends, and looks toward his life to come.

KAKE WALK SKITS PICKED

The skit competition judges announced last week that five out of the eleven fraternity skits submitted had been chosen for the two-night production of Kake Walk on February 24 and 25.

The following skits were selected for presentation at UVM's winter carnival: "Now it Can Be Told", Delta Psi; "State of the Union", Sigma Phi; "Adventures of Sam-No-Trump", Alpha Tau Omega; "Howdy Doctor", Phi Sigma Delta; and, "Variety in Review", Phi Delta Theta.

Considering the cooperativeness shown by the judges and skit writers, the Kake Walk directors expressed the opinion that these skits should be the best to be presented in recent years.

Skit elimination judges were Sidney B. Smith, director of University Libraries; Harold Collins, director of admissions; and, Miss Betty Bandel, instructor in English.

Medical College Admission Test

The Medical College Admission Test, required of applicants by a number of leading medical colleges throughout the country, will be given twice again during the current calendar year, according to Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the test for the Association of American Medical Colleges. In October 1949 and January 1950, approximately 15,000 pre-medical students were directed by their medical colleges of choice to take this test in partial fulfillment of admission requirements.

Candidates may take the MCAT on Saturday, May 13, 1950, or on Monday, November 6, 1950, at administrations to be held at more than 300 local centers in all parts of the country. The Association of American Medical Colleges, through its Committee on Student Personnel Practices, recommends that candidates for admission to classes starting in the fall of 1951 take the May test. The results will then be available to institutions in the early fall when many medical colleges begin the selection of their next freshman class.

The MCAT consists of tests of general scholastic ability, a test on understanding of modern society, and an achievement test in science. According to ETS, no special preparation other than a review of science subjects is necessary. All questions are of the objective type.

Application forms and a Bulletin of Information, which gives details of registration and administration, as well as sample questions, are available from pre-medical advisers or directly from Educational Testing Service, Box 592, Princeton, N. J. Completed applications must reach the ETS office by April 29 and October 23, respectively, for the May 13 and November 6 administrations.

This committee, which meets once a month, is composed of the following people: Dean Brown, of the Medical School, Dr. Harwood, Student Health Director, Miss Wilson, Director of Student Health Service, Fuzzy Evans, Athletic Coach, Miss Cummings, Director of Women's Athletics, Dr. Bell, Orthopedic Consultant, Miss Margaret Wing, Assistant Dean of Women, Dr. Stevenson, Psychiatric Consultant, and Miss Crabbe, Director of the School of Nursing and Chairman of the Senate Health Committee.

Lyman Allen

Dr. Lyman Allen, Professor Emeritus of Surgery and a retired member of the Board of Trustees of UVM, delighted over 150 members and guests of the University Club on Friday evening with his reminiscences of old Burlington. Recalling scenes and episodes from his youth, Dr. Allen described in detail the old houses which formerly stood on what is now the College Green, including the house in which he himself lived as a boy, on the site where Morrill Hall now stands. Dr. Allen related anecdotes about many early families and people associated with the early history of UVM.

In addition to his description of Burlington when the railroad ran through a ravine on what is now the area between Union St. and Winooski Ave., Dr. Allen related some of his early experiences as a volunteer firefighter. He said that in the old days a mineral spring in the old ravine was highly regarded as a health cure, until a break in a nearby sewer was discovered. Rats, according to Dr. Allen, first came to Burlington on the horse boats of Capt. Gideon King, for whom King St., is named. Recollections of early Burlington transportation facilities, hotels and industries were illustrated by maps and old prints shown by Dr. Allen. His talk was concluded with an account of early winter sports in Burlington, when it was possible to ride a sleigh from Prospect St., down to the lake in half a minute.

The "Old Burlington" character of the evening was carried out even in the refreshments; "spiced tea," which tickled the palates of Burlingtonians in the '90's, was served.

Bromley Bucks Snowless Days

Up at Manchester, Vermont, where Bromley's mile long slope waits silently for thousands of sleek hickorys to crease its smooth surface, ski lodge operators, mindful of the high mercury and the mud and snow base at Bromley, are earning their keep in a range of activities from drawing Terry Toon Cartoons to making miniature cigarette boxes. One lodge owner finds the mud season a perfect opportunity to tackle something she's always wanted to do: short story writing. On the side, she keeps in daily touch with four employees at her Long Island real estate office. Another operator puts nearly all his spare time into improving his lodge. Last week, with no prospects of skiers arriving, he and his wife chipped down an entire ceiling. Smack in the middle of the mess, two unexpected holiday clangers clanged the door-knocker. "There we were", he laughed, "Caught with our plaster down".

Prompt Service For Steel 'Edging

Book Review

by Jack Robinson

THIS I DO BELIEVE, David E. Lilienthal, (Harper and Brothers, New York, 1949), 208pp.

At a time like the present, when there are all too many books and articles which asseverate that democracy in the United States has a dim future if certain economic problems are not solved in this or that specified manner, it is delightfully encouraging to encounter a work that treats American democracy as a political and not an economic concept; in a vein, moreover, that is both constructively critical and optimistic. Despite an occasional shortcoming, David Lilienthal's new book ought to be on the required reading list of every American.

Perhaps unconsciously, Mr. Lilienthal borrows his method from Plato. The great Athenian, inquiring into the nature of justice and injustice, considers the state and the individual as the large and small versions of one substance. The American public servant, directing an inquiry into the nature of democracy, implicitly postulates the same sort of relationship between the United States and either the TVA or the Atomic Energy Commission. Despite the obvious limitations of such a method, the inventively fertile mind of the author is afforded innumerable opportunities to delineate what he considers to be the essentials of democratic life.

Mr. Lilienthal is forceful, for example, in his insistence that democracy is at bottom a matter of ethical and moral values. Each of the various statements of this proposition adds immeasurable to the coherence of the whole work. Each also gives emphasis to the implicit proposition that a sober discussion of the fundamentals of democracy necessarily fixes attention upon the methods of making political decisions and of implementing those decisions rather than upon the content of the decisions.

It is not to be assumed, however, that the author does not concern himself with the latter problem. He devotes large amounts of space to effective attacks upon the economic and social doctrines of the dogmatists of both the right and the left. One who wishes to be better equipped for personal speculation on such questions as whether or not economic planning is compatible with democracy owes it to himself to become familiar with Mr. Lilienthal's arguments.

Note must be taken, finally, of the author's effective treatment of the indefeasible proposition that democracy involves a moral obligation on the part of every individual to bear his share of the responsibility for the actions performed in the name and for the interests of all. What he says to elaborate this precept should elicit this response from each American, "This I too believe — and will act upon".

European Trip To Study Life And Customs

A Summer Tour which includes the visit of France, Belgium, Luxembourg, Switzerland, and Italy is organized for the months of July and August under the leadership of Dr. Edouard Bourbousson, associate professor of modern languages at Oregon State College.

This trip is planned for those who are interested in having an intimate knowledge of French life and civilization not only through the custom of the sidewalk cafes but through the culture of her museums, chateaux and universities. In France students will visit Paris, the Ile de France, Normandy, Alsace and Lorraine, the Riviera and Provence, the Rhone Valley, the Chateaux region, and Berry.

The tour will include visits to Brussels, Namur and Ardennes in Belgium; Luxembourg; Geneva, Lausanne, Fribourg, Bern, Thun, Brienz and Interlaken in Switzerland; Como, Milan, Italian lakes, Verona, Padua, Venice, Bologna, Florence, Siena, Rome, Leghorn, Pisa, La Spezia, Genoa and San Remo in Italy.

This summer tour will especially benefit students who are interested in political, economic and social problems of Western Europe. Interviews are being arranged in Paris with members of the French Government and in Geneva with some leaders of the "Academie Diplomatique Internationale". Geneva, which had been home of the League of Nations for 20 years, is still the center of several committees of the United Nations.

The date of departure has been set between June 23 and July 12. The cost of this trip is $1,400 at minimum first class rate from New York to New York. Places may be reserved with the party by making a deposit of $200.00.

Dr. E. Bourbousson, author of several books and contributor of articles published in numerous publications, is a graduate of the University of France, and he has also lived in the countries in which the tour is organized.

For more information write to Dr. E. Bourbousson, Oregon State College, Corvallis, Oregon.

UVM Welcomes

Gamma Phi Beta

UVM's newest sorority, Kappa Xi Kappa, is going national. According to President Marilyn Murdock, '52, the good news came in the form of a telegram from Mrs. William A. Owen Syracuse, N. Y., National Expansion chairman for Gamma Phi Beta sorority which has accepted Kappa Xi's petition for a charter.

Pledging ceremonies will take place Saturday evening at Southwick, with Mrs. Owen and a delegation of actives from the Syracuse University Alpha chapter of Gamma Phi Beta officiating.

An open house will be held after the pledging at Southwick, Faculty as well as students will be welcome.

Kappa Xi Kappa was founded at Vermont in September with eight girls as members. During rushing they welcomed 24 new pledges into the group which will be pledged Saturday.

Dean of Women Mary Jean Simpson has expressed her delight at the new sorority's being granted a charter at this early date and is looking for its continued success. Sorority advisers Miss Eleanor Luse of the Speech Dep't. and Miss Jeanne Wallerius of the Extension Service are also very happy about the new Gamma Phi Beta Chapter.

Several important topics were under discussion at the Women's Student Union Joint Conference which was held Wednesday evening, February 1, at Southwick.

The first thing considered was the honor system which has been proposed by the Women's Student Union. Miss Mary Jean Simpson read a paper which she had prepared giving a composite picture of honor systems and how they worked at other schools.

At the meeting they also discussed the procedure for the forthcoming election of officers. February 14 the senior nominating committee is to meet with Miss Simpson to draw up a list of nominees. The Women's Student Union wants petitions filed by any student whose classmates feel that she should run. These nomination papers should consist of a hundred names. The list of nominations will be posted March 2, and all nomination papers must be received within forty eight hours after this list has been posted. The elections will be held at a mass meeting scheduled for March 8.

Registrar's Daze

The registrar's office has been a busy place these past few weeks with enrollment marching in upon the heels of final examinations. The Cynic decided to find out just what made it "tick" with such accuracy and regularity. Mr. Hamblin and his staff were very patient as our reporter wandered through a perfect maze of filing cabinets, and were glad to answer all of her questions.

The staff, which seems small to handle the tremendous amount of material which it does, consists of Mr. Hamblin, the Registrar; Miss Pearson, the Recorder; Miss Anderson, the Assistant Recorder; Mrs. Stein, the secretary for intra-mural affairs; and Miss O'Connell, the secretary for extra-mural affairs. There is a clerk typist, and also student help which is utilized in crowded periods.

Besides being a veritable information bureau, the duties of this office are many and are divided among the different departments. For instance, Miss Pearson puts on permanent record all grades which are received from instructors. This totals approximately 18,000 grades for the 3,200 students at the University.

Miss Anderson notifies fraternities and sororities requesting the scholastic record sheet for averages. Mrs. Stein is responsible for typing and cutting the stencils for the examination schedules. It seems that there were fewer examination conflicts this semester than ever before.

Miss O'Connell has charge of issuing transcripts. Some of the volumes of old transcript records would make good collector's items. She also answers requests for information concerning students, not only in reference to future graduate work or employment, but also in response to inquiries from the F.B.I., the War Department, and many other agencies.

Some odd requests come in at times. Miss O'Connell said that she had been asked to forward information as to whether Ira Allen's two sons had attended this University and whether or not John Dewey was a graduate of Vermont.

Our reporter asked Mr. Hamblin how many students had "flunked out" this semester, wondering which class had the highest percentage. It was a tragic moment. Mr. Hamblin said that although the complete list of failures had not yet come into the office, it was common knowledge that it is the freshman class that suffers the greatest depletion. Our reporter thought that was the moment to leave.

FIELDHOUSE WORK BEGINS SOON

Construction on the University of Vermont's new $25,000 field house at Centennial Field will begin this spring, it has been announced by Athletic Director, W. L. "Lairy" Gardner.

The field house, in the making for the last several years, will be located underneath the north football stands, running parallel with Colchester Avenue.

More than 50% of the $25,000 goal has already been donated or pledged, according to Gardner. Only last week, Wills, Buckham and Chittenden dormitories made their second donation of the year, and Mr. R. L. Whipple, class of 1906, of the R. L. Whipple Co., contractors and engineers of Worcester, Mass., contributed $1,000 to the fund.

A field house at Centennial Field where athletic teams may dress has been desired for some time. Now, all teams which participate at Centennial Field must return to the gymnasium here to change and shower.

Plans call for a pair of locker rooms, toilets, showers and training rooms, and one equipment room. However, one of the training rooms may be converted into an officials' quarter. Also the building may be extended to either side, according to tentative plans, subject, of course, to revision.

Speaking on behalf of the Field House Committee, Gardner said "present plans call for preliminary work to begin as early as possible this spring. It will go as far as the money on hand will allow. We hope that when alumni, friends and any other interested parties see the project in construction, they will be interested in seeing it completion."

It's Not A Bed Of Roses

Massive Mike (for alliteration's sake) Kasap, just plain "Moose" to his pals, is a Moose who likes to bounce Notre Dame line men off his chest and his baby boy on his knee. Which makes him a pretty unique Moose in the annals of U.S. Moose. For as far as we know, most Moose (the plural of Moose) can bounce N.D. line men off their chests, but it isn't every day you can find one who can bounce baby boys on their knees.

At his desk in the athletic department, the domain of great white fathers, ageless major league baseballers and Golden Gloves punchers who are still waiting for round two, Kasap was talking football the other day—about the Big Ten Purdue champions of 1943, the Big Ten Illinois champions of 1946, the Baltimore Colts of 1947, etc.

The big man was talking about the days he played with these football teams, for he was a member of each of these elevens whose favorite delight was scarring up the scones and eyeballs of some innocent guys who didn't know any better.

Mike Kasap

Presently, someone from the back row raised a question: "Say, Mike, how was it out at the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day, 1947?"

Well, now that someone in the back row had raised quite a question—one that Massive Mike, who incidentally was a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity, Illinois' Kappa Sig house, likes to dig his molars into at every turn of the way. Needless to say, there have been many turns of the way.

In the time it takes to type that Massive Mike was voted LaSalle, Ill.'s best athlete in 1943 by LaSalle, Ill.'s best people, Kasap had rent the air with darts, each of which was aimed by Pasadena's bed of roses. As far as he is concerned, you can keep that nasty old Rose Bowl, the Sugar Bowl, the Orange Bowl, etc. And he thinks that without a doubt, there's no tomorrow (pronounced O Solo Mio) for the bowls, either.

"All we did was to bang up our heads," Mike snorted, "while the folks in California banged up their cash registers. It's just a big-money-making proposition."

Cagers Meet Champlain 5 On Saturday

Say, if this guy Fuzzy Evans ever needs to pick up a few pennies on the side during the off-season, he can easily go into the predict for payment business. Just a couple of months back, Dec. 3 to be exact, the eve of his cagers' 20-game schedule opener against Dartmouth, Evans, the prophet, predicted that his mates would have to play 800 minutes of classy basketball if they were going to survive the pitfalls ahead.

He had scheduled the school's toughest and roughest court schedule in its history. A couple of good games here and there would result in the scalps of a couple of the East's top-notch outfits.

Looking at the record re Evans' prediction, without the aid of a crystal ball no less, one can see that UVM's varsity basketball coach hit the nail smack on the head. Going into last night's battle with St. Michael's College on the Auditorium court, the Green and Gold dribblers had been liquidated seven times in a dozen contests, and in the main, mostly because they weren't up for the big ones or because they didn't have it in the clutch.

After 12 games, Vermont had taken larrupings at the hands of Coast Guard (a surprise), Dartmouth, St. Lawrence, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Army and Hofstra (no surprises). On the victory's side of the ledger, the Catamounts had clawed AIC, Clarkson, Norwich, Middlebury and New Hampshire. They had experienced two strings of three game losing streaks, and one three-game winning streak.

The future holds but one cinch victory—unless Norwich also snaps out of the doldrums they've been occupying of late all by its lonesome. Even Saturday night's 8:30 game here with Champlain College looms as a toughie. After the Bluejays, the Cats still have to get by St. Michael's again (our home game, Monday night), Yankee Conference foes Massachusetts and Maine, Champlain at Plattsburg and the March 4 windup at Middlebury.

Dartmouth has defeated Vermont 30 times in 32 basketball meetings since 1900.

In Los Angeles, there is always a friendly gathering of University of Southern California students at Ted Owen's. And, as in colleges everywhere, ice-cold Coca-Cola helps make these get-togethers something to remember. As a refreshing pause from the study grind, or on a Saturday-night date—Coke belongs.

Ask for it either way... both trade-marks mean the same thing.

7-Game Spring BB Schedule Listed

Nine Tangles With Both Army, Navy

Despite the snow-silken landscape, etc., there was a tinge of spring around the campus today. The reason: the release of UVM's annual southern baseball trip schedule.

The slate calls for seven games in eight days including contests with both major service academies, Army and Navy. It opens on April 3 against George Washington University at Washington, D. C. and closes April 10 against Army's classy nine at West Point, N. Y.

Incepted in 1893, when a trip to the nation's capital for a couple of games was listed, a southern spring trip has become a fixture on UVM's annual schedule. Last year, the Catamount baseballers cracked out three victories in five games. Three games were canceled because of poor playing conditions.

As Ray Vescovi, team captain this season, led the hit parade, Vermont touched up Camp Meade, Hofstra and Camp Kilmer for victories. The Cats fell before Loyola and George Washington. They meet all but the Kilmer soldiers this spring as well as Upsala ( farm team for the Burlington Cardinals last summer) and the Army.

The spring schedule: April 3, George Washington; 4, Navy; 5, Fort Meade; 6, Loyola (Baltimore); 7, Hofstra; 8, Upsala; 10, Army.

The rest of the baseball schedule will be released by Athletic Director and diamond coach Larry Gardner shortly. Last spring, Vermont split even-Stephen in 18 games.

Pop Shots

Coach Norm Strassburg's freshman team, at Clarkson College, Malone, N. Y. tonight, tangles with Dartmouth's good frosh quintet Sat. night in a 6:45 prelim. The Kittens were undefeated going into last night's tilt with the Michaelmen.

All in all, Jan. 9, was a tough basketball day for the Rothchild brothers of UVM. Each sprained his right thumb in two different games.

"Forexample: I was a tackle on that great Illinois eleven of '46. After a couple of early season pastings at the hands of N.D. and Indiana, our guys (our guys: Young, Agase, Rykovich) finally began to hit on all cylinders. We won the conference title and as a result, were told we had the honor of giving up our Christmas vacation for a post-season game—the Rose Bowl game.

"While it ran under the title of the 'Rose Bowl' game, the grandpappy of 'em all, it was just another game for us. It was all work and no play for two weeks, while our official party, i.e. influential alumni, their wives, conference folks, etc., and there were an awful lot of etc. along, had the time of their lives—at our expense.

"Once in a while, the Tournament of Roses committee would take us to one movie studio or another. All they cared about, or so it seemed, was to make money, and to hang with everyone with everything and everyone else.

"Why, even on the day of the game, with about two million souls in town, our team was forced to remain in our rooms, and didn't even see that spectacular four-hour pre-game parade until after the game—when they were kind enough to show us movies of it.

"Many of the boys quickly soured on the whole thing. It wasn't too much fun. A couple of the kids got so fed up with the game that they just stayed out a whole night, and were sent home early.

"Down at the station, when we saw them off, they said: 'Boys, give 'em hell for us, will you?'

"I guess we took care of their wishes, and had a gay oldtime doing it. We gave 'em hell—if you can call a horrendous 45-14 murdering of U.C.L.A. hell."

Ski Team Enters ISU Meet

University of Vermont ski coach Bob Searles predicted today that with any kind of luck at all his team will finish either first or second in this weekend's Eastern Division I.S.U. meet at Lyndonville.

A first or second at Lyndonville, incidentally, entitles the Vermont team to enter the Middlebury Carnival on Feb. 23-24. The Eastern U.S. Collegiate title will then be at stake.

In its first competitive collegiate meet of the season, Vermont finished fifth in a last field of nine classy teams last week at the Dartmouth Winter Carnival.

Searles hopes to have his best two performers ready for the Lyndonville meet. They are Captain Ken Belding, who was Vermont's pacesetter at Dartmouth, and Dave Sylvester, his best jumper. Sylvester injured a toe on the eve of the Dartmouth meet and was unable to participate at all.

Searles gave his team a hearty pat on the back for its Dartmouth performance. He said that they were besieged by injuries and illness and did not do well in the cross-country event, the team's best event. Yet, they finished second in the downhill and came fast at the meet's close.

Girls To Try Honor System

- b. Protecting the Honor System from weakness and upholding its principles, not only by personal respect for and adherence to regulations, but also by preventing their violations by others.
- c. For helping incoming students to understand and support the system by explanation, attitude and example.

D. Interpretation of Student Responsibility

Each student assumes personal responsibility for:

- a. Abiding by the smoking and drinking regulations.
- b. Complying with all rules regarding registration, overnights, social privileges, etc.
- c. Acting with integrity and with consideration for the well-being and good name of the college community at all times.

3. Individual Responsibility

If a girl fails to abide by a community regulation she is responsible for reporting herself promptly.

4. Collective Responsibility

An honor system involves not only individual but collective responsibility as well. By active group opinion and pressure the strength of the system is preserved.

When a girl violates a rule it is not only a personal matter. She is failing the community and her associates who have assumed that she is honest and she has endangered the system by violating the trust placed in her. Therefore it is the responsibility of each girl to act to prevent a violations by another student. Not only will such action protect the community, but it will help the girl who has failed to understand more fully her moral obligation and to strengthen her own powers of self-discipline.

When a student knows definitely that a rule or standard has been violated by another student her course of action should be:

1. To wait 24 hours in order to allow the offender to report herself.
2. She should then inquire of the House President of the dormitory where the offender lives as to whether or not the girl has reported herself. If so, no further action is needed.

NOTICE: FOR MEN ONLY! WIN A VARSITY LETTER!

Fleming Museum

There now seem to be two paths which he can take. One is to become a Christian and believe in democracy, the other is to become a communist.

The movie left Kenji in this position looking for reason to accept one way or the other.

Afterwards there was a coffee hour upstairs, friendly gab, guys and gals.

It is movies like these that afford both entertainment and food for thought. There will be another movie on Tuesday, Feb. 7 at 7:30 called "The Life of Louis Pasteur."

Don't think that the museum is a stuffy old place either. For those who wonder about some techniques of sugaring in Vermont there are some exhibits of tapped maple logs. There is woodenware made from Vermont rock maple, and mens ties woven in our own state—just dozens of entertaining things. And of course one can see the Egyptian maiden who is a mummy now.

NOTICE

There will be a 4-H Sleigh ride on Wednesday Feb. 15. Come and bring a friend.

CAMPUS CLIPPINGS

Notice

Do you have any good human interest snapshots taken here on the campus?

If you do, they can earn you a carton or two of cigarettes.

The Cynic is accepting snapshots to be used in the Ariel. The best one received will reward its sender two cartons of Chesterfields.

The next three top snaps will be awarded one carton each. Include your name, address, and year with each photo submitted. Leave prints in the Cynic Office.

Ralph LaPointe

Popular Ralph LaPointe, student and scout and coach, heads for Florida's balmy breezes the first of next month to report for spring baseball training with the Rochester Redwings. He played for the International League entry last year.

LaPointe, former UVM football and baseball ace, will be angling for a regular infield berth—second or third. He's been up in the majors in the past, playing with the Phillies and the Cardinals in the National League.

Freshman Rifle Team

Vermont freshman rifle team members: Dave Bonnette, Burlington, Vt., Bart Jacob, Bedford, N. Y., Wayne Clark, Bradenton, Fla., Michael Newton, So. Windham, Vt., George Harvey, Richmond, Vt., Don Tanner, Drexel Hill, Pa., Russell Pearl, Barnet, Vt., Reynolds Deacon, Manchester, Conn., Alfred Pierce, Wellesley Hills, Mass., Don Massey, Schenectady, N. Y., John Leddon, North Adams, Mass., Alan Bently, East Arlington, Vt., Len Korzun, Cuttingsville, Vt.

Stan Ursprung

University of Vermont 1949 football captain Stan Ursprung of New London, Conn., has set a school and individual endurance record.

In four years of varsity football, Ursprung started 31 consecutive games. He played right end for Coach Fuzzy Evans from 1946 through 1949 without missing a game. An excellent placement-kicker also, Ursprung was named to the United Press' all New England second team this year.

Early Spring?

Spring is on the way although you would never know it by the wind howling outside, yet they say ten thousand groundhogs can't be wrong.

Every one of them came out to look for his respective shadow on February 2, but the cloudy sky was not conducive to shadows. According to the cracker-barrel forecasters, this means that spring is just around the corner.

This is just hearsay, so don't put your skis away too soon. That snow around campus is the real stuff and there might be some more of it to prove Mr. Groundhog wrong.

Editorial

The students at St. Michael's College were very clever in their imitation of the Vermont Cynic. They obviously spent much time in its preparation; according to the Editor-in-Chief, the issue had been in the planning stage ever since UVM's defeat of the Purple Knights in football. The Michaelman, St. Michael's student newspaper, need have no fear that the hoped-for effect by their Vermont Mymic fell short of their wilder expectations; without a doubt the Vermont "Cynic" was never picked up so quickly by the students in its entire previous history.

There is one fact that is a little disturbing, however, that being the rumors that have floated across the Winooski to the effect that the instigators of the parody have been threatened with various chastisements. We heard, recently, that those primarily associated with the issue were to be expelled.

This paper, as the representative of UVM students, can say only that any such action would meet more severe disapproval by Vermont students than any amount of such good-natured ribbing that may come our way. As one student stated, it was a lot more fun for all concerned than walking up to see the Waterman steps daubed with paint.

(P.S. We have but one query: our Editorial Staff took its riding on the masthead with such names as Iva Headache, Nancy Pants, etc.; where did our Business Staff come in?)

Pi Phi Wins Poster Contest

A pert young Pi Phi, Janet Beardslee, is responsible for the official Kake Walk poster which is currently attracting attention around the campus and in the windows of downtown stores.

Through her artistic talents, Janet not only supplied Kake Walk with its official publicity poster, but also won a cake and cup for the girls of Pi Beta Phi sorority by winning first place in the sorority poster contest. These prizes are to be awarded at Kake Walk.

"There's nothing really exciting about it," is the way Janet dismisses all inquiries, but one look at the finished product tells a different story.

The winning poster depicts a black-face cakewalker, his arms and white-gloved hands held in the traditional "walking" position. Super-imposed over the Walker's neck and around his head is a large green V. Lettering for the poster is done in green and gold. By the use of a new color process, Day-gloss, the printer was able to effect a unique and startling color brilliancy.

Since she has never had any formal training in art, Janet attributes her success to "fooling around with paints and brushes" until she finally hit upon the final idea. She estimates the whole operation took a mere hour and a half.

Miss Beardslee is a sophomore majoring in Home Economics. She lives at Coolidge Hall.

Has your IFC representative been giving you a report as to what is going on in the Council? Better check up—it is pretty important. It would not hurt the Pan-Hell to look into a few points that the IFC has found controversial—discrimination is not restricted to males only.

MISS SHIVELY-- VOCAL ATHLETE

by John Moore

A select audience composed mainly of faculty members and music majors enjoyed a recital that Janice Shively gave last Friday at the Fleming Museum. Miss Shively, who teaches voice here, displayed a good lyric soprano voice, characterized by an easy facility in handling any gymnastics that the composer might invent. Because of this, the outstanding works on the program were the Mozart "Alla-luja" and the Gounod "Je Veux Vivre."

However, it was apparent that she was holding back and not giving all she had. There was a long program ahead and her throat was not in the best condition. It may have been this or it may have been an actual limitation in her voice that caused some of the more expressive works to fall flat. In such works as Purcell's "Dido's Farewell" and the Bachelet "Chere Nuit" she could not fulfill the demanded expression with straining—the result was not convincing.

In the main, though, Miss Shively did a particularly good job. The Grieg and Franz songs were highly enjoyable in the midst of a good concert. She deserved all of the large applause.

NOTICE

For the benefit of those students and faculty members attending Kake Walk on Saturday night, February 25, there will be a Ski Party at the Underhill Ski Bowl on the preceding Friday night, February 24. Special buses will leave the Waterman Building at 6:30 p.m. and fifty cents will be charged to cover the cost of transportation and use of the ski tow and lighted slopes. Those interested in the Ski Party should sign their names on the list which is posted on the Kake Walk bulletin board in the lower hall of Waterman.

Watch For The Campus Poll

OUR CREED

In the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one group in the academic community to interpret their function in the community, and to assume, among the members of this community, the separate and reciprocal station to which their needs, responsibilities, the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them.

We hold these truths to be self-evident: that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, among which are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness; that derived from these is the right to a sufficient education indicated by their needs and capacities. That to secure this education and by it to reinforce the basis of society, students, educators and administrators form a community deriving their powers and responsibilities from their mutual commitment to the common end; that whenever any practices become destructive of this end, it is the right of the members to alter or abolish them, and to institute new ones, laying their foundation on such principles, and organizing them in such a way as the members shall deem most likely to effect their educational aims.

Prudence, indeed, will dictate that educational practices long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience has shown that mankind are disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed.

But when a long train of abuses, prohibits the just attainment of the ends of education, it is the right, it is their duty, to abolish such practices and to provide new guards for the future security of the academic community.

We, therefore, speaking for the students of the University of Vermont, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do proclaim the rights and duty of this group, collectively and individually to work for the abolishment of these destructive and malicious practices; to re-establish their rightful position in

Dixieland Expert Ed Bort Predicts 1950 Jazz Revival

by Ann della-Chiesa

How do you like your music? Carnegie Hall style? burnt to a juke box crisp? or in the down-to-earth emotional rhythm which characterizes Dixieland jazz? That's the way Ed Bort, a UVM senior, likes it.

Ed is a zoology major with an avocation for jazz—either making it or playing it—be it Chicago, Kansas City, or New Orleans. He has jazz in his blood—his father, a jazz musician to the nth, plays a number of instruments, and once turned an offer to wield the sax in Art Mooney's band to stay in California with Anson Week's west coast combo. Now Ed's brother has joined the group.

Ed, who is a trumpeter by rights, can remember when he was a toddling tot of five, listening to the musical selections on the radio, picking out and

Students Elect Ed Streeter

Following in Ed Costello's steps as head of Student Government is Edward Streeter, a junior from Wilmington. Ed has really made a name for himself by participating in the following activities which appeared on his platform:

1. Secretary and Treasurer of Key and Serpent
2. Member of the Men's chorus
3. Secretary of the Round Table
4. Editor of the Freshman Handbook
5. Member of the Freshman Orientation Committee
6. Member of the Newman Club Executive Council

In these activities students say he has proven himself to be friendly, well-natured, and is considered by many as one of the most all-around "fellas" on campus. Ed put up a good fight and his campaign committee did an excellent job in promoting him for president of Student Government, such slogans as: "Ashes to ashes, Dust to dust, For Student Government, Ed is a MUST!" helped to remind the students of the proven capabilities of Ed in his past experiences. Ed's slogan is: "Good Government Is Everybody's Job!" It is positive that Ed has the backing of every student in UVM to help him attain a better Student Government.

For Vice-President, Lawrence Kimball, a junior from St. Johnsbury, was overwhelmingly favored by the student voters. Larry is also well-known on campus and has been quite successful in other organizations on campus that he had represented. It is said he will make an efficient working partner with Ed Streeter.

Rita Seu, sophomore from Bristol, Conn., is the newly chosen secretary for Student Government. She too is popular with the student body and has held responsibilities as a member of Sophomore Aides.

Re-elected treasurer, Alpheus Streeter, proved that he was the only one capable of handling Student Government financial affairs. Having had experience at this job already, he is sure to do an even better one in the coming school year.

Also council members were elected to represent the different student classes. For the juniors Elizabeth Kerin and Frank Kelley have been chosen; sophomore favorites are Marilyn Murdock, Eloise Liston, and Charles Black, Jr.; Susan Atwood, Lydia Sweeney, and Richard Viets will represent the freshman class.

Social Rules For Kake Walk

Social rules pertaining to Kake Walk have been decided upon by the University Council. After conferences with the Interfraternity Council and considering recommendations made by Women's Student Union, President Lyman made suggestions to the University Council which have been adopted.

No overnights shall be granted to a woman student unless her parents are staying in town. Late permissions will be granted as follows: Thursday night, 2:00 a.m., one-half hour after the end of the Ball at 1:30; Friday and Saturday night, 2:30 a.m., one-half hour after the fraternity houses close at 2:00. The administration is taking the stand that all women must leave the fraternity houses when they close, including out-of-town guests of men students. This policy has been

UVM Kake Walk "Tops" With All Skits To Highlight UVM World's Fair

by Pat Williams

Well, Washington can have its Sesqui-Centennial; New York, its Worlds' Fair; Dartmouth, its "Wunder Bar"; and St. Michael's its Vermont MYMIC. But at last UVM can boast about something that is really worth writing about. Yes, it's here! None other than the 1950 Kake Walk with its good ole "walkin' fo' de Kake" spirit well under way.

There's nothing like a Kake Walk at UVM for its many activities keep one busy from beginning to end. Ice sculptures, Masquerade Ball, King and Queen campaigns, poster contests, frat skits, and most of all the preparation for the "walkin' fo' de kake" fills the air with a certain kind of holiday spirit. "Cotton Babes" will be played again and again and again, each time bringing back memories to the old timers and upper classmen and introducing itself and its theme to the freshmen.

Tall green and gold covered cakes and gold cups may make their appearance "accidentally" before the big occasion, but they're the aims of all groups' participating in any of the contests and campaigns. Already posters have been put up announcing the Kake Walk Masquerade which is the largest and most attended formal dance at UVM. There's nothing like dancing to the music of a well-known orchestra amidst gay decorations of green and gold. And, not only do students attend this dance, but also parents, friends, and visitors in Vermont.

If you glance around you're liable to see frats and sororities busily building the bases for their ice sculptures. Each group manages to always think up novel designs, and when they are finished, even Michaelangelo might be proud.

Candidates! Candidates! Yes, there always has been and must be a King and Queen to reign over this wonderful event. Old King Winter doesn't keep campaign committees from doing their jobs, for soon posters will be tacked in every little nook and notch that can be found on campus. A lot of hard work goes into preparing the skits to advertise the King and Queen candidates and those who don't win in the end certainly deserve lots of credit for the well done job of campaigning.

Of course the main event at dance is the crowning of the victorious winners who always reign with pride over UVM Kake Walk.

made because, "The University cannot escape responsibility for anyone who is a guest on this campus," President Lyman said.

The fraternity houses will not be open after the Kake Walk Ball. Southwick will be open to all UVM students during the same hours that the Fraternity houses will be open. Women's Student Union and VIP are making the arrangements. Refreshments will be served.

The three-day Kake Walk week-end this year will follow the regular schedule of past Kake Walks, commencing on Thursday evening with the Ball, and winding up on Sunday with sorority and fraternity open houses. Much of the intervening time has also been planned for, but many students have expressed the wish that the hours left free be used for something new. In answering the following question four students were able to give their ideas on the subject. The question is: "What extra features would you like to see added to the Kake Walk calendar?"

1. Gordon Bickford '50, Putnam, Conn.

"As a permanent feature, a two-day hockey tournament, (weather permitting), involving the four Vermont College hockey teams with awards, etc., could be added to the Kake Walk agenda. It would boost the rather indifferent State hockey competition, and would be a natural and highly attractive feature to UVM's otherwise well-rounded Kake Walk week-end."

2. Ruth Kenner '51, Burlington.

"I'd like to see more activities on Friday and Saturday afternoons as other universities have in their Winter Carnival week-ends. By more activities I mean something like a hockey game, movie, or Dramatic Club play. Something, too, should be planned for fraternity and sorority open houses to give the fifty-third Kake Walk a big farewell!"

NOTICE

The Interfraternity Council has received inquiries the past few weeks about future discussion of student participation in Kake Walk events. The University Council approved the bylaw of the Interfraternity Council which defines Kake Walk policies and vests responsibility for administration under the supervision of the Interfraternity Council.

3. Ann Gray '52, Orleans.

"I like Kake Walk, but I think it could be improved by adding another activity or two. Why not a faculty stunt show? I am sure this would meet with the approval of most of the students. Other things we could have would be a hockey game, or even a girls' basketball game."

4. Leonard R. Tomat '50, Barre.

"Since the skits and 'walkin' fo' de Kake" have become a two-night stand, I think that the whole Kake Walk Week-end will be more effective if something like a tea-dance or a ski party could be planned for Friday night. In this way it gives something more definitely planned for those who desire to attend the Saturday night performance."

Marie Chapdelaine Shown At Museum

"Marie Chapdelaine," the French movie shown Thursday by the Fleming Museum, is the story of an utterly naive and rather unemotional Canadian-French girl. The picture is adapted from the novel of the same name by Jean Hemon.

The theme of the movie, as of the book, is actually the fight of the mind against environment, and Marie's seemingly ineffectual mind is a symbol of the normal adult mind bound by convention or custom and never totally free for rational thought.

The film adaption has the usual English subtitles for those whose French is not what it used to be, and stars Madeline Renaud, Jean Gabin, and Jean-Pierre Aumont.

Windfall To Harvest

At last, the day that we have been awaiting with bated breaths is arriving very soon. On that day, Windfall, our UVM student magazine, will make its first public appearance this year and with it the names of the contest winners and their winning entries.

On the day that it comes out students will be able to pick up their free copies either at the bookstore or in the Windfall office, Room A-18 in East Hall.

9 Candidates Vie For Royal Posts Of King; Queen

"Pops Night Penny Carnival" at Southwick begins the vieing of Greek fraternities for Kake Walk King and Queen. Those aspiring to win the royal crown in the sororities are Zoe Keniston, Kappa Alpha Theta; Jean Hard, Pi Beta Phi; Adrienne Smith, Delta Phi Epsilon; and Betty Ann Scribner, Delta Delta Delta. Potentialities for King are: Stan Ursprung, Phi Delta Theta; John Ballard, Delta Psi; Howie Haddigan, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Hobie Cook, Kappa Sigma; and William Marsa, Phi Sigma Delta. This year's campaigning should be very exciting since there are many more candidates for King than there were last year. The ratio of four sororities and two fraternities last year was raised to four sororities and five fraternities this year.

Zoe Keniston

A perk young miss from Wellesley, Mass., is Kappa Alpha Theta's nominee for Kake Walk Queen at UVM. She's Zoe Keniston, a sophomore, who has made many friends with her most charming smile. Although, she majors in Spanish, outside interests have found a place to fit on her schedule. Zoe is in the Outing Club, W.A.A. (where she is most interested in basketball and volleyball), and a faithful worker on the Ariel. Her beaming face has been seen most of all by students at football and basketball games where Zoe is a cheerleader. She is one of the first girls ever to be elected to the cheering team. Besides sports, Zoe also has a beautiful singing voice which the Kappa Alpha Theta's think will melt anyone's heart.

Jean Hard

Pi Beta Phi is dreaming of Jeanie with the light blonde hair, its nominee for Kake Walk Queen of 1950, friendly, vivacious Jeanie Hard of Burlington. A junior and a home economics major, Jean has excelled in academic and extra-curricular activities. She is a member of several organizations and is secretary of the junior class, vice-president of W.A.A., a member of Student Union and Staff and Sandal. She is a member of the Pep Committee and last fall was director of the Freshman Camp. Jeanie is also on Dean's List.

Adrienne Smith

"Ajie" Smith, friendly, blue-eyed sophomore, comes to our campus from Lake Placid, N. Y. Her interests not only center around her government majors, but also find themselves in the field of sports. She has skated professionally in the Lamb Yocum Show in Philadelphia and did professional riding for the U.S. Troop shows, proving that she not only can curve a neat figure eight but can also handle a mean horse. Ajie's activities on campus include membership in the Dramatics Club, Spanish Club, and the Canterbury Club. Also she is house president now at the Old Mill. As Alumnae chairman of Delta Phi Epsilon sorority, Ajie plays an important role. Her stately charm and versatility make her a perfect queen.

Betty Ann Scribner

From Lyndonville, Vt., hail Betty Ann Scribner, Delta Delta Delta's candidate for Kake Walk Queen of 1950. This blue-eyed blonde graduated from Lyndon Institute in 1947 where she was active in the Dramatics Club, Student Council, cheering team, the Glee Club, All Sports, and was a member of Girl's State and art editor of the school paper.

Kidder And 3 Blind Mice Star At Roman Banquet

Gaiety was the keynote of the recent Roman banquet held in Southwick ballroom Tuesday evening, Feb. 7 by the Goodrich Classical Club. Dressed in bright togas and stolas of various colors, the revelers entered the door with the right foot forward for good luck. After they had arranged themselves in appropriate positions, Dean Kidder, as host, performed the ritual of the sacrifice and prayer to the Lares and Penates, gods of the household.

Slaves brought in trays of stuffed eggs, olives, crisp bacon, and stuffed celery for the gustio, the first course. Later bowls of scented water were brought in for the banqueters' in which they could wash their fingers in preparation for the cena, the main course. Sliced cold ham, onions, and carrots along with quantities of bread and honey were consumed with great licking of fingers. The wine cups were kept filled by the busy slaves from a large wine bowl in the center of the banquet hall.

By casting dice, Bruce Stargatt was chosen magister bibendi, the master of the drink. In a short speech in Latin he wished that all might have a good time, but urged them to observe the golden mean in their drinking. Dessert of apples, cake, dates, and nuts ended the feast.

Ann Baker conducted the initiation of nine new members into the club. Four of them pretended to be well-known characters from Roman and Greek literature and history. Larry van Benthuyzen chose to be Socrates, Mrs. John Ballard impersonated Antigone, "Peter" Mason gave a sketch of Pericles, and Allen Ouhl described Alcibiades, John Moore, Larry Stoddard, Rita Seu, Barbara Kunze, and Mary Bonneville formed a quintet singing "Auld Lang Syne" and Caesar's "Triumph" in Latin. They concluded with a rendition of "Three Blind Mice" also in Latin, first as a round and then acting it out while singing it.

Harold White as chairman of the entertainment committee lead a Truth or Consequences program much to the amusement of the guests. Dean Kidder and Ellen Ouhl were given prizes for their ability to tell the truth, while Pauline Howard, Peter Mason, Ann Baker, Mr. Turner, Walton Brown, and Tom Kent were rewarded for their efforts to perform their consequences.

The menu was planned and the food was cooked by Pauline Howard, Joan Crandall, Molly Nichols, and Caroline Cross. The slaves serving were Carol Brody, Elizabeth Burnett, Tom Kent, and Jim Frink. The initiates washed the dishes after the meal—no great hardship since fingers and paper plates were the main utensils.

The first Roman banquet given here was on May 5, 1938, at Southwick. For four years during the war while the Air Corps had taken over Southwick, the Alpha Chi Omega sorority played host to the club. In 1948, the tenth anniversary of the banquets was observed by a special celebration. The banquet this year is a continuation of what might become a tradition at Vermont.

Mademoiselle Opens 1950 Fiction Contest

MADEMOISELLE magazine has opened its annual College Fiction Contest for women undergraduates in accredited colleges throughout the country. The two winning stories will be published in the August 1950 issue of MADEMOISELLE, and the winners will each receive $500 for all rights.

Previous contest winners have been anthologized in annual collections of the year's best short stories, MADEMOISELLE reports. These include one 1946 winner, written by Sue Kuehn, Wellesley College, '47 which was reprinted in the O. Henry Prize Stories of 1947, and a 1948 winner, Jerry, by Laura Hunter of Columbia University, which was reprinted in Best Short Stories, 1949.

Stories submitted in the 1950 contest may be 3,000 to 5,000 words in length. They should be typewritten on one side of paper only, and accompanied by contestant's clearly marked name, home address, college address, college year. Stories which have previously appeared in undergraduate publications are acceptable if they have not been published elsewhere.

MADEMOISELLE's editors will judge all stories. Their decision will be final.

Entries must be postmarked no later than midnight, April 15, 1950, and addressed to the College Fiction Contest, MADEMOISELLE, 122 East 42 Street, New York, 17, New York.

MADEMOISELLE assumes no responsibility for manuscripts and will return only those accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Thirty members and pledges of Kappa Xi Kappa will in future years be remembered as the founders of UVM's chapter of the national sorority Gamma Phi Beta. Kappa Xi Kappa, a local sorority founded last fall, went national Saturday night when members of Syracuse University's Alpha chapter of Gamma Phi Beta officiated at the pledging ceremony held at 8 p.m. at Southwick Memorial.

About 350 students and faculty members attended the open house held by the new chapter in Southwick following the pledging ceremony.

The local chapter of Tau Epsilon Phi presented a large decorated cake to the new chapter. Flowers, telegrams, and notes congratulating the new pledges of Gamma Phi Beta were received from other Greek-letter organizations.

In the receiving line were Mrs. William A. Owen, national expansion chairman of Gamma Phi Beta, Syracuse, N. Y.; Elizabeth Shanklin, Sara-Lee Beard, Janice Rumrill, and Sally Burns, all of Syracuse University's Alpha chapter; Jeanne Wallerius, local chapter pledge trainer; Eleanor M. Luse, local chapter adviser; Dean of Women Mary Jean Simpson; and Marilyn J. Murdock of Barre, president of the new chapter.

Miss Margaret M. Wing, Miss Carrie Power, Mrs. Cora Kimball and Mrs. Emily Billhardt poured.

The eight new Gamma Phi Beta pledges who founded the local Kappa Xi Kappa in September are: Edith J. Brailsin '52, Rutland; Millicent C. Lawrence '52, New Haven, Conn.; Marilyn J. Murdock '52, Barre; Dorothy L. Post '51, Burlington; Carolyn M. Foster '52, Floral Park, N.Y.; Patricia A. Varn '50, Elmira, N. Y.; Elizabeth B. Burnett '52, Williston; and Mary Murray '50, Rutland.

Those girls, pledged by Kappa Xi Kappa at the conclusion of the last rushing period, who were also pledged to Gamma Phi Beta Saturday, are: Mary A. Bonneville '53, Pittsfield, Mass.; Ruth C. Coburn '51, West Fairlee; Nancy J. Collins '53, Burlington; Joan K. Edwards '53, White River Junction; Jocelyn I. Gobeille '53, Union, N. J.; Priscilla A. Harlow '53, Rockland, Mass.; Patricia A. Holman, '53, Chatham, N. J.; Nancy A. Menut '52, Snyder, N. Y.; Lucille M. Metcalf '51, East Corinth; Patricia A. Miller '51, Beebe, P. Q.; Hester M. Mudgett '51, Essex Junction; Astrid L. Nelson '52, Bristol.

Also, Marguerite A. Piche '53, Burlington; Carol D. Poynton '53, Larchmont, N. Y.; Harriet E. Pratt '51, Bradford; Pamela R. Pratt '53, Bradford; Priscilla M. Seale '52, Floral Park, N. Y.; Ann C. Shaw '53, Stowe; Janet Stephens '51, South Orange, N.J.; Nancy E. Varn '52, Elmira, N.Y.; Marjorie A. Yates '52, Chester; and Myrtle I. Youngs '51, Pittsfield, Mass.

Stan Ursprung

I will not make promises which are impossible of fulfillment, therefore my platform will be simple and feasible.

1. I promise to do all in my power to make the 1950 Kake Walk the happiest in the hearts and minds of those who have seen other Kake Walks and whose hearts are filled with remembrances of those other days.
2. I promise to do all in my power to see that they, whose first this Kake Walk will be, will have a most wonderful time and will create memories which they will cherish for years to come.
3. To all, I promise to fulfill the office to the best of my ability and with dignity, and to remain ever mindful of the of the honor bestowed upon me.

William Marsa

Marsa's Platitudinous Promises

If royalty is my lot, I shall order the following suggestions to be present to our ever-cooperative University Council.

1. That a new pool room be built in Waterman's basement; this one will contain a pool. Students will be permitted to wear bathing suits in and out of water, though not required to do so.
2. That our bare, cold student lounge be made more collegiate. Its floor will be covered with six or eight inches of pure, silken beach sand and batteries of sun lamps will provide our coeds with new warmth.
3. That U.V.M. become a tight little isle, with all pipes formerly used for water now internally disinfected with alcohol.
4. That a modernistic chair lift be set up to convey all students to and from classes and to Redstone campus.
5. That in order to play at the Kake Walk Formal, "Tex" Beneke's name be changed to "Vermont" Beneke.
6. That the Kake Walk King be responsible for none of his campaign promises.

Howie Haddigan

As candidate for Kake Walk King for 1950, Howie Haddigan, makes the following promises to ameliorate the life of UVM's students.

"I solemnly swear to:

1. Build private booth at Converse, Coolidge, Redstone, Robinson, Grassmount, Lyman, Adsit, Allen, The Old Mill, and Warner House for the purpose of saying "Good Night" in privacy.
2. Obliging give any unmarried (or married) coed a free ride to classes upon request (even without request.)
3. Install electric-eye swinging doors in all entrances to the Waterman Building.
4. Burn down the old gym and lay a foundation for a new structure.
5. Provide all men and women who are under twenty-one with forged birth certificates and repeal the twelve o'clock curfew.
6. Abolish completely final exams and do away with all term papers that are more than ten words in length.
7. Make 35% the passing grade in political science for all first year students.
8. Give all students in the College of Technology 15 extra hours credit, just in case.

John Ballard

If I am crowned King of 1950 Kake Walk, I will strive with all my royal powers to do the following:

1. Install the most modern and complete sound-proof rooms in Coolidge.
2. Provide automobiles for all men with dates on Saturday night.
3. All Co-op houses will be furnished with cooks employed by the Administration.
4. An adequate supply of wrist-watch radios to be used primarily for getting information; quizzes, etc.
5. All present text books will be discarded. Esquire will become the book.
6. Immediate installation of television sets in almost any convenient spot.
7. To be included in the curriculum: standardized ski instruction and a permanent bus schedule to and from Mansfield. To ride on the bus, merely show your athletic card.
8. A conference to be held in order to establish new and more convenient privileges for the fairer sex.
9. From now on, all maid service will be controlled by the Powers Model Agency.
10. From Kake Walk 1950 to Kake Walk 1951, the Royal Palace will be open for visitors at any hour. It will provide free meals, Royal parties, and entertainment furnished by the Court jesters.

9 Candidates Vie

After two years at Lyndon State Teachers College where she was active in the Dramatics Club and W.A.A., Betty transferred to UVM this fall as a junior in the Liberal Arts curriculum. Her special interests lie in art - she aims for a commercial art in the future, music, and dramatics.

Stan Ursprung

Stan Ursprung is Phi Delta Theta's nominee for King of UVM's 1950 Kake Walk. A member of that group of young married veterans on this campus, Stan lives at present, in the Trailer Camp. Originally he hailed from New London, Conn. His record, both scholastic and extra-curricular has been an enviable one. He played right end on the Vermont Eleven from 1946 to 1949, never missing a game, and starting 31 consecutive times. He was elected captain of the 1949 team and was named to the United Press' All New England Team. Also, he is the current president of Boulder Society, the Senior Mens' Honorary, and is a member of the Varsity Club. The esteem in which he is held by both students and faculty is proof of the fine attributes he possesses as a leader and as an individual, shows well the fact that he is most capable and most deserving of holding the honor of being the next King of Kake Walk.

John Ballard

John Ballard, '50, came to UVM in 1946 after spending two and a half years as a gunner in the Air Corps. He was graduated from the public schools of Milton, Vt., in 1943. In high school Johnnie played basketball, baseball, and soccer and has carried along his hobby of sports while here in college. His number "32" was never mistaken while playing Varsity football here for three years, and last year he was made captain of the 1949 Varsity Baseball team. Although his greatest pastime is athletics, John also enjoys hunting and does a fine job of playing the trumpet. Enrolled in the College of Arts and Sciences, John is a history major. He was a member of Key and Serpent Honorary and is now a member of Boulder. John Ballard is Delta Psi Fraternity's choice of Kake Walk King for 1950.

Howie Haddigan

Howie Haddigan, who hails from Elmont, L.I., N.Y., is a junior in the College of Technology and plans to enter the field of personnel management upon graduation. Before entering UVM in 1947 Howie spent two years in the service with the Third Army. He graduated from the New York Military Academy in 1945. Howie has been an outstanding performer on both track and football here on the campus. As the defensive half back he contributed much to the 6-2 record which UVM posted last fall. He earned the title of "the best defensive back of the state" after the Middlebury game. He has two years of varsity football to his credit and this year Howie begins his third year of track. Since he has been at UVM he has been one of the highest point winners on the team. He has eclipsed several records. In his freshman year Howie was captain of the yearling track squad. He has also been very active in interfraternity athletics. Howie is a member of Key and Serpent, junior mens' honorary; the Varsity Club; and Sigma Alpha Epsilon. Hunting and fishing are his favorite recreational activities. Howie Haddigan possesses the diversified background and personable qualities which fulfill the requirements of a worthy Kake Walk King.

Hobie Cook

Hobie Cook was born in Stamford, Conn., in the year 1924. Soon after he was evicted and fled to Philadelphia, Penn. Under Sec. 77 of the Bankruptcy Act he moved to Lewiston, Me., when a sophomore in high school. There he was the only English speaking student in his class until his father skipped a grade. Enlisting in the Marine Corps (by mistake) - the mistake was the Marine Corp's - he attained the rank of P.F.C. by an act of Congress in 1945. The chevron marks are still visible when he's in the shower room. Hobie saw action on four well-known islands: Catalina, Parris, Staten, and Long. He was one of the few marines to be discharged at sea, if you know what is meant. Hobie enrolled at UVM after several unsuccessful attempts to get into an accredited university. While here he has blazed a glorious trail from the fraternity to the soda fountain and back to the fraternity. Finally, Hobie, who has been at sea here for four years hopes and prays to be discharged in June.

William Marsa

Bonnie Billy Marsa, Phi Sigma Delta's candidate for Kake Walk Royalty, hails from salt-soaked Bradley Beach in New Jersey. His younger days were spent roaming the rolling sands of this famed resort in search of snails and rusty nails; but as he grew older, Billy discovered that playing in the sands no longer satisfied him. By the time he was a senior in Asbury Park High School, Bill had become one of the top

Camera Clubs' Annual Exhibit

The Vermont Camera Clubs opened their 9th Annual Exhibit last night at the Fleming Museum. The exhibit which will be on display during the whole month of February, is worthy of the attention of all art lovers. The selections of the six Camera Clubs are arranged in 18 panels of six photographs each in Gallery A of the Museum.

There are few, if any, disorganized pictures, most of them being extraordinarily well planned, well lighted, and well executed. About the only fault of the Camera Club's exhibit is a regrettable conservatism with a resultant limitation of technique.

A favorite, perhaps because it did more or less break with the old art rules, was 16, entitled "The Rigger" which presents an extremely interesting geometric effect. This and one other were about the only ones in which the Camera Clubs seemed to take advantage of the capabilities of their medium.

In the representative field, the Camera Clubs' real forte was 40, entitled "Portrait of the Artist," track men in the state. His coach would just post a curvaceous lass in a bathing suit a few yards past the finish line; panting Billy would always come in first. In September, 1944, Billy entered UVM, determined to settle down to a more serious life. But the sea was in his blood. After a semester, he joined the navy. When we asked him to tell us something about his experiences, he modestly replied, Girls are the same everywhere." Since his return to school, Bill has given much of his time to interfraternity athletics and his many campus activities. His changed outlook was reflected even more sharply in the statement that made him unanimous choice for Phi Sig Steward, "Most fellows would rather eat than go out with girls."

Debate In Finals

In a 4-3 decision by seven judges, UVM lost to Notre Dame at an invitational debate tournament sponsored by Boston University. Twenty-six of the better debate teams east of the Mississippi were invited to the two-day conference held last Friday and Saturday. Among them were Purdue, Navy, Princeton, Army, Denison University of Ohio, North Carolina, Dartmouth, Maine, Georgetown, Harvard, Yale, and the defending champions from last year, George Washington University.

In the six preliminary rounds, each team debated six times on alternate sides of the question: Should the government own and operate the basic non-agricultural industries?

In the semi-finals Saturday afternoon, three judges placed Notre Dame over Princeton, 2-1, and Vermont's Lawrence Debate Team over Purdue, 3-0. Saturday night the final debate in which Tom Hayes and Dick O'Connell represented UVM was broadcast over WBUR in Boston.

3 Panel Discussions Highlight UVM Job Clinic New Look For Bort, Jazz Artist

How to look for a job was the topic discussed by businessmen at UVM's first annual Job Clinic held in the Student Lounge Tuesday, Feb. 7. Answering questions put to them by some of the more than interested seniors who attended, these representatives of many types of industry attempted to show just what an employer is interested in finding out from a job applicant.

The day-long clinic was divided into three panel discussions and an informal smoker. The first panel, headed by Mr. Mark O'Dea, author and authority on advertising, discussed "What Employers Expect of College Graduates."

After a greeting by President Lyman and a preliminary introduction by Dr. Eugene Eakin, director of student personnel, the first discussion opened with the statement that an employer expects just about everything from an employee. Although each industry expects different things from the people it employs, one necessary quality stressed for all fields was "industrial citizenship"—an attitude of responsibility towards society as a whole.

Dr. Eakin briefly sketched the services of the Placement Office with its testing, counseling, and temporary and permanent placement.

Acting Dean Miller of the Agricultural College remarked that general education is provided in agriculture, particularly for those interested in teaching.

Dean McKee explained that Technology offers both kinds of education and stated that where ever possible the student should elect general subjects.

The second panel, "The Effective Letter of Application", was led by W. G. Loveless, State personnel director. The best application letter is in two parts, a summary of interests and abilities, and clipped to it, a resume sheet of experience. The letter should be brief and to the point, should state the necessary information without any attempt at being clever.

Concluding the panel discussions was "The Successful Interview", headed by Joseph B. Johnson, retired president of the Bryant Chucking Grinder Co. Two types of interviews were described, the non-directive interview in which the employer just lets the applicant talk without asking him any White on black, slick paper and lots of pictures is the new look for the Kake Walk programs. Three to six pictures, mostly action shots, on each of the sixteen pages, more information on the skits and walkers this year, plus an attractive cover will make each program a souvenir worth keeping or sending to the folks back home.

A kake walker's clothes - hat, tux, and cane - all in white, are featured in a walking position on a black cover. Inside the cover is a picture of a pair of winning walkers doing their stuff, a good souvenir in itself. Next is the usual story with pictures of the Directors and Committee Chairmen. Then there is a two-page story on the Kake Walk Ball, followed by a feature on the background of Kake Walk and its traditions.

In the center of the program for easy reference is a list of the walkers and their previous experience, and a short resume of each skit with the names of those taking the principal parts.

In the last half of this souvenir program of Vermont's winter carnival is a picture of the rising UVM ski team, a story on the Kake Walk ski party at Underhill, a page on the basketball team with action shots and a feature on stars Al Niemann and Ed Kotlarczyk.

Programs will be sold at Memorial Auditorium Friday and Saturday nights, February 24 and 25, for ten cents each - only one-third of their actual cost.

Organization of the program has been under the direction of Midge Wheeler, while June Stone, Marge Salm, Bill Riddell, Sue Pooley and Franklin Peabody handled the writing.

program. But the local radio stations didn't have the records or the personnel who knew enough about this important phase in America's music. Ed had the records—about 300 of them. And after a successful audition at WJOY, became the star of his own program, "Concert in Jazz." The show was aired at first on Saturdays at 5:00, but when the winter opera season took over, Ed's "concert" was given a 7:30 spotlight on Saturday night. Just listen for the strains of "South" by Pete Daley and his Chicagoans.

Ed's plan was to interest people not acquainted with jazz by presenting jazz per se. And he has! Phone calls and letters have come in to him after his program requesting more of Bobby Haggart or less of Kid Ory or maybe just to praise his presentation. His Hooper rating had risen! He had awakened interest in this thing called jazz and his fans ranged from St. Michael's students to UVM administration wives.

"Jazz," Ed goes on to say, "is a dynamic form of music—a vehicle for expression. It is not ready to be enshrined; it mustn't be brought to a concert hall for its folk music, and not the art that concert music is. And it shouldn't be classed as an art because it's never the same. It's merely a patter around which the musician improvises. Every jazz musician is the creator, while in classical music, the composer is the only creator."

As for bop, our young music maestro has only this to offer: "It's artificial and a vehicle for technical ability only. People don't understand it."

According to Downbeat, Dixie will be back in 1950—back to equal the heights of the '20's. Ed certainly hopes so! He's doing his little bit now to bring it to light in Vermont.

ST. MIKE'S STOPS VERMONT TWICE

Cats Improved for Second Fray

by Glenn Fay

FIRST GAME

Playing like no other team seen on the Auditorium surface this year the Purple Knights from the other side of the stinking Winooski River decisively dethroned the six-year-old king of Vermont Basketball circles by dumping UVM's questionable Catamounts by a 56-41 count in their first meeting of the season. Not once in the past 30 encounters has the Green and Gold been in danger of dropping it's marbles...but now St. Michael's has taken over. For how long remains only to be seen.

Using the double pivot most effectively, with Big Dan Fitzgerald and Bigger Ted Burzenski in the key, the knights kept a comfortable margin between themselves and their more experienced opponents after once overcoming a slight case of jitters.

Although Eddie Kotlarczyk kept the Purple's mighty mite, Jimmy Farley covered with a tent most of the evening the remaining Knights galloped over, around and through the defending champs. Ample reserves which could be inserted without loss of power made the difference as the game wore on. In fact the back-breaking chores were done by reserves in the name of Stapleton and Fitzgerald.

Howie Merrick was the bright light in a losing cause for the Cats. His long shots were dropping with regularity in a desperate attempt to keep his team in the game.

UVM jumped to an early 8-3 lead to set off their supporters in wild but short-lived ecstasy, for the knights shortly tied it at 9 all, on some out of this world shooting by Fitzgerald. With Stapleton, a short man as short men go, covering the Vermont back board with a fine comb and allowing the UVM artists nary a second shot, the Knights pulled away to a 28-22 halftime lead.

The second half found Vermont twice coming within 4 points of tying the score, a seemingly impossible bridge to gap. Burzenski, Fitzgerald and Stapleton kept plugging away with amazing accuracy until they had a 46-31, fifteen point advantage, which turned out to be the margin of victory.

SECOND GAME

For the second time within a week, Fuzzy Evans' basketekers found themselves on the short end of the score, and when the smoke cleared from this one, the

INTO EACH LIFE SOME RAIN MUST FALL

The main topic of conversation the past few weeks being of a nature which either directly or indirectly concerns St. Michael's College, it may be fitting for me to stick my big fat neck out at this point. Let's start with the first SM-VT. game. (I cannot say anything about the second one since at this writing it has not yet been played.) It wouldn't be hard for anyone who saw the game to figure out why the big, bad, experienced Catamounts were used to mop the Auditorium floor. For whatever underlying super-strategy must be taken into account when a game of this sort is being discussed, the fact sticks out like a sore thumb that the "kids" from St. Mike's were outplaying the "tired old men" of UVM. One might say that youth must and did have its fling. The "kids" were up for the game, and we weren't. But what I am wondering is, just when do WE get up for a game? Sure, we have had a tough schedule, let's laugh it off.

For those of you who are still talking about THE MYMIC of last week, this writer believes it is the greatest move to cement relations between our schools since the construction of the Winooski bridge. Seeing smiling faces scanning the pages of that publication before and during the game, made fear of any demonstrations or hard feelings at the outcome of the contest utterly absurd. Much unlike the meeting in football.

THE QUALITY OF MERCY, ETC.

It is time that something was said in the column in favor of the Sports Writers of the local press. As one of these gentlemen so aptly put it, it seems that every new Cynic columnist makes an attempt to verbally disembowel us for trying to make an honest living. While college students may like nothing better than making a name for themselves on campus for their humanistic stand against outside "oppression" their antics in the long run will wreck more havoc on their own hallowed halls than they can possibly gain in eminence for themselves. As I see it, the only way to better our own position in athletics is through a medium sometimes referred to as cooperation. That way, everyone benefits.

NEW RECORD

Eddie Kotlarczyk, who will leave the campus in June with a trail of athletic achievements and broken hearts behind him, has apparently set a new individual scoring record for a four year period at UVM. And each basket the man makes now adds to it. The former record of 723 points made by Larry Killick was overtaken last Wednesday evening by "Little Ed."

Champlain Five Bows To Cats

The Catamounts got back into the winning column Saturday night at Memorial, by defeating the basketekers of Champlain 59-46. The game was a lot closer than the score indicates, and it was not until the last few minutes of the game that Vermont really piled it on.

High scorer for the Cats was Howie Merrick with 11 points followed by Ed Kotlarczyk with 10. Tiny Nick Mastorelli led the scoring for Champlain with 18 points and the tall rangy center, Fennell, dropped in 14 points. A light crowd witnessed the hard fought, rather loosely played contest.

The game was nip and tuck in the opening half and almost midway through the first half, Fuzzy did the unusual by substituting almost a whole new team for his starting five. Grant, McCarthy, Jasinski, and MacDonald replaced Niemann, Galli, Merrick, and Kehoe. The subs played very good ball and gave UVM a 25-24 lead at the end of the half.

Fuzzy's strategy paid off in the second half as the first team kept pouring through the hoop keeping 2 or 3 points ahead of the Plattsburg Five. Instead of faltering and slowing down, as they usually do in the second half, the Cats were right out there playing good basketball, probably because of the rest they received in the first half.

Three baskets in a row by Merrick, MacDonald, and Galli gave Vermont a lead of 5 points going into the last few minutes of play. The Catamounts opened up a 51-44 lead with 70 seconds left to play and they splurged for 8 more points as the game ended.

Frosh Drop Three Games In Week

The Vermont frosh dropped their second decision in six tilts on Saturday evening when they were smothered by a fast-breaking Dartmouth freshman five by a score of 63-39.

The contest was decided in the opening quarter when Gieg, working from the pivot slot for the Indians, dented the twines for 9 of Dartmouth's 19 points against the Green and Gold's 6.

From there on it was no contest, and the Dartmouth frosh lengthened their lead to 35-17 at the half and 56-29 at the third quarter. With the Indian second team playing the fourth quarter, the Catamounts brought the score to 63-39 at the conclusion.

Gieg was the high scorer of the game with 21 points, while Brewster was high man for the Strassburg club with 12 points, 10 of which came in the second half.

A smooth and classy freshman quintet from that College across the river rolled to two rather impressive wins over the Vermont frosh within the past week.

On the eighth, they sent the score skyrocketing with an 82-41 barrage, and on the 13th, they hung up a 66-38 win. Loose defensive play by the Kittens was one of the major factors in the outcome of both games.

In the first game, the Squires pumped the basket 33 times out of 71 attempts for a terrific 46.5 percent shooting average.

Red Brewster and Gene Shaffer were high for Vermont netting 12 and 10 points respectively. For St. Mike's, Barry was the big gun with a 25 point total. Three other Ziterners also hit double figures, Gallop 16, Nolan 12, and McCadden 10.

Gary Claremont aided by Red Brewster and Eddie Watkins tried hard to put Vermont into the ball game in the second battle, but the experience Squires had just too much.

Claremont tossed in 13 points for his best game of the year, while Watkins and Brewster chipped in collecting 11 and 10 points. Carr pushed through 16 for the Purple to lead the evening's scoring. Teammate Barry followed him closely with 15.

Teams Seek Bids To Cage Tournaments

Holy Cross last week remained the leading team in the East and in the nation by extending their victory streak to 20 straight games and was almost certain to receive the NCAA's district one tournament berth. The National Invitational and NCAA tournaments are held in March.

Other teams which appear to be heading for a tournament bid are Kentucky, San Francisco, St. John's, LIU, CCNY, Western Kentucky, Lasalle, Bradley, Duquesne, North Carolina State, Kansas State, St. Louis, Toledo, UCLA, Canisius and Niagara.

In the second district Villanova, Cornell, Columbia, Syracuse, Lasalle, and CCNY will be battling it out for a berth in the next few weeks; the latter two hold a slight edge at present.

Ohio State, which holds a commanding lead in the Big Ten, seems to be the only choice in district four. Kentucky and North Carolina are about the only possible contenders from the district three area.

SAE, ATO Lead Frat Basketball

Interfraternity and Independent basketball is now beyond the half way mark as the teams have moved into the second round of league play. There is only one team that remains undefeated in the games played thus far: Sigma Alpha Epsilon has won five games and lost none, which makes them the team to beat in league B. Their most recent victory was over the Phi Sigs by a margin of 37 to 23. Ken Terrill was high scorer for the winners with eight points and Bailey Goldberg led the losers with five. Kappa Sigma and Sigma Nu are tied for second with four wins and two losses apiece.

Over in league A the ATO's were undefeated up until this last week end when the Sigma Phis handed them a 32 to 25 setback. It was Robert Kynoch and Elbert Nostrand who led the way for the College Street crew with nine points each and for the ATO's Philip Simonds was high with eight tallies. The ATO's have a five won and one loss record.

Bradley and Kansas State, members of the strong district five group, may run into trouble with some of their neighbors. St. Louis and Detroit are Bradley's biggest worry, while Kansas State will have to watch out for threats from Nebraska, Colorado, and Kansas.

League standings:

League A	W	L
ATO	5	1
Delta Psi	3	1
Sigma Phi	3	2
Owls	1	2
Chi Sigs	0	5

League B	W	L
SAE	5	0

In the southwest and far west it looks like Texas A.& M or Arizona in district six, Wyoming has the best chance in district seven and in the Pacific Coast Conference there is such a scramble that the berth for district eight may not be decided until a few days before the deadline.

Belding, Sylvester in Rare Form

Coach Bob Searles and his University of Vermont skiers definitely showed that they are contending for some top positions in the ISU national championship ski meet when they took first place at Lyndonville last Saturday. The meet was held to determine the last two schools eligible to compete in the ISU meet, which will be held at Middlebury in the latter part of this month. UVM took five of the six events to collect a total of 582.75 points; they won the downhill and cross country events on Saturday and on Sunday walked off with the combined downhill-slam and cross country-jumping contests. MIT took the Sunday afternoon jumping title, while UVM placed second.

The Vermont victory was attributed to remarkable well balance and teamwork which is a credit to Coach Searles and his team. They did a lot of pre-season conditioning to prepare for the current meets and it is paying off.

Maine, considered a favorite along with Vermont, failed to show up for the meet. Besides MIT, placing second with 548.01 points, Williams, Yale, Harvard, Norwich, Colby, and Bowdoin finished in that order.

Sunday morning's triumph in the slalom was the deciding factor for the Catamounts as they piled up 95.42 points to 92.42 for MIT.

In the jumping competition the Cats placed five jumpers in the first eleven but the MIT Techmen took first, third, and fourth to win the event. Vermont's Dave Sylvester had the best jump of the day with a leap of 117 feet, just one foot from the course record.

Vermont performed the best in Saturday's cross country event, placing four men in the first five to cross the finish line. Eric Schmitt won the eight-mile grind in the time of 43 minutes and 25 seconds. Ray Harlow and Doug Pierce tied for the next position and in fifth place came Ken Belding. Andy Wissell of MIT finished fourth to spoil a near perfect score.

Saturday's downhill event was won by Addison Minott of Norwich in 38.6 seconds. Dave Sylvester ran the course in 41.5 seconds to place second and with team mates Merritt Edson finishing third, Duffy Dodge fifth, and Ken Belding tenth Vermont compiled enough points to take the match.

There are tentative plans for four of UVM's track stars to take part in the Canadian Legion and Dominion Championships to be held in Montreal on Monday, March 6. Bill McIntyre, Howie Haddigan, Russ Mahoney and Bob Caswell are planning to make the trip.

Knights Edge Cats Kake Walk "Tops" Platforms

Purple Knights (who have a great ball team) were wearing the new champion belts. But the Catamounts didn't hand it to them on a silver platter. It took the Purple three periods of aggressive warfare to get any kind of permanent lead on the seemingly inspired UVM team, and even then the issue was somewhat in doubt, even to the most partial observer.

The Knights jumped off to a quick 9-0 lead before Vermont could find the right combination and come up with a point of its own. With Billy Grant, playing for the ailing Galli after the first few minutes, and making up for lack of height by heads-up ball playing, teaming with Roy MacDonald, the Catamounts began to pick away at the SM lead and things began to happen. With about 2:10 showing on the clock Roy tossed in one that tied the game at 17-all. Burzenski and Farley then connected for the Purple and Howie Merrick sunk one for the Green and Gold to end the scoring for the half and leave the count at 21-19.

Coming back from rest, Ralph Kehoe went off tackle for a score which briefly tied things up, but only for a minute. The score was tied three times within the next three minutes and within the next five the lead changed hands three more.

Then came a short, but disastrous attack by the Winooski boys, which the Cats couldn't halt until the score was 44-31. But then Kotlarczyk and Jasinski, another reserve, took over and sparked the home club to a mighty fine spurt of their own cutting the lead to five points. The scoring again saw-sawed back and forth with Jasinski and Merrick making desperate last minute assaults on the opponents basket in vain, as the horn blew to give the Branon-coached men a 56-52 win.

Ski Suits Out Say Faculty Members In Feb. 13, 1934 Vermont Cynic

At last the answer to an ever present question has been brought forth, for a group of Cynic reporters discovered the following article among some old issues.

On one of the below zero days last week two girls were present in class wearing ski pants. Miss Nulty, head of the secretarial department, said she would no longer permit this in class and asked how the girls would like it if she appeared so in a ski suit. She said that the suits are immodest and that no one would dare to appear in an office in one; that the girls might just as well get used to wearing proper clothing now as later; that there is a time and place for everything and the classroom is not a place for ski pants; furthermore, she wished all her girls to dress sensibly in cold weather.

One of the members in her class said that she had to walk over a half a mile to school and she did not want to freeze while doing so; she would rather be warm and sensible; and she commented that as long as she could not wear her suit in an office, she wished to get some good out of it while she could. Now, girls, you have it.

The most-looked-forward-to nights are those which present the frats and their hilarious skits. Along with these comes the greatest event of the holiday—"walkin' fo' de kake". Much practice goes into the "walkin'" and therefore makes the audience thrilled each time it is done. The "walkers" with top hats, bright satin-colored suits, and blackened faces are really wonderful and always "steal" the show.

There's nothing like a Kake Walk at UVM and this year's promises to be the best yet. It is hoped that King Winter will spread his white coat over the campus so that we can have a "White Kake Walk":

I'm dreaming of a "White Kake Walk",
Just like the ones I use to know;
Where the sculptures glisten
And students listen
To candidates that they all know.

I'm dreaming of a "White Kake Walk",
Whenever "Cotten Babes" I hear;
May your days be merry with cheer
As we celebrate "Kake Walk" this year!

Jean's Our Queen And Howie Is King

Spectacular Kake Walk royalty campaigns were climaxed last night with the coronation of Queen Jeanie Hard and King Howie Raddigan. The 1950 Kake Walk sceptre's were won by Pi Phi's candidate and SAE's candidate Wednesday when 2050 UVM students cast their ballots. The voting was close all the way—evidence that this year's King and Queen competition was one of the best ever staged.

Queen Jeanie with the light brown hair and sparkling smile qualified for queen with beauty, brains, and campus activities—having a dean's list average, being a member of Staff and Sandal, Student Union, and the Pep Committee. A junior home economics major, Jeanie is secretary of the junior class, vice-president of WAA, and was director of last fall's Freshman Camp. Jeanie's hometown is Burlington.

King Howie, "the best defensive back of the state" this year, is a rugged football player whose Kake Walk kingship will be added to his sports fame—earned during 2 years of varsity football and track. A junior preparing for a career of personnel management, Howie spent 2 years in the army. A graduate of New York Military Academy in New York, Howie comes from Elmont, N. Y. Howie is a member of Key and Serpent and the Varsity Club.

The coming of Kake Walk has been the main topic of discussion for many UVMer's these days. Everyone is eagerly anticipating the big week-end, but there are quite a few students who don't know exactly what Kake Walk is. Many of the freshmen and transfer students, after hearing snatches of conversations, have formed odd ideas of what UVM's winter carnival is like. There are also those who just expect one big happy time. Therefore, the question for this issue of the Cynic is: "What do you anticipate for the Kake Walk weekend?"

1. Joanne Boyer '53, Belmont, Mass:

"I've never been to Kake Walk, but I think that the walking and skits will be like one huge play. There will be a lot shouting at Memorial Auditorium when they are on. The walkers will probably be dressed as though they were working on a plantation. Each of the skits, I suppose, portrays the southern tradition in a different way. I guess the week-end will be just one continuous whirl."

2. Art Sarlot '53, Weehawken, New Jersey:

"I think Kake Walk will be one exciting, lazy week-end full of skits, songs, parties, and open houses. I am looking forward to a week-end of fun and frolic, such as I've never before experienced."

3. Mary Menard '53, Springfield, Mass:

"I expect to see a big crowd at the skits, with everyone just having a good time. The frats will be decorated, and their parties will be the same as usual. The only difference will depend on how they come out in the various competitions. The skits will have few props, and those participating will wear costumes. I think most of the students will have different dates for different affairs, as though it were a regular weekend."

4. Wally Gates '53, Wellesley Hills, Mass:

"I've never seen Kake Walk, but from all reports it sounds like a terrific weekend. I only wish I could see the skits and the walking, but I may not see them since I am walking myself. However, I'm looking forward to the rest of the weekend; the ball, the sculptures, and the parties and open houses."

Pres. Lyman Welcomes All

On behalf of the University, I want to extend a hearty welcome to the Alumni who may be returning and to all others who may be here as our guests for the events of Kake Walk Weekend.

The Undergraduates have worked hard to provide a program for your entertainment in the annual Kake Walk itself and in the dances, open houses and get-togethers. The University has been privileged in working out with undergraduate groups policies for the conduct for the weekend, which we hope will definitely contribute to the success of your stay.

For the Alumni, I hope this visit may give you the feeling of being at home among the familiar surroundings and tradition and may strengthen your regard for the University and for its endeavors. To other guests, I hope these few days may be an introduction to the peculiar environment which is the University of Vermont and that you like your taste so well that you may return to us later.

Elias Lyman
Acting President

NOTICE

The Interfraternity Council has received a number of inquiries during the past few weeks concerning the possibility of future discussion of student participation in Kake Walk events. The University Council approved the bylaws of the Interfraternity Council which define Kake Walk policies and vests responsibility for administration in a Kake Walk organization serving under the supervision of the Interfraternity Council.

At the conclusion of the 1950 Kake Walk season, the Interfraternity Council will review this year's experience and will entertain recommendations from campus groups with respect to alternations in the plan of participation which might be desirable.

Vermont's Super Ski Team

by Gordon Bickford

For two years, a building program has been under way in the ski business at UVM. Not since the days of dapper McManama and swift Simmy Ralph has the Green and Gold had skiers who were more than a token threat to the major Eastern ski powers. But by the determination and skill of a group of practically unpublicized undergraduates and some deft guidance by Bob Searles, a long-range program is about to pay off. While all hands are making merry at our Kake Walk festivities this week-end, the varsity ski team will be in competition at Middlebury in the Eastern Intercollegiate Ski Union meet. They will be up against the best in the east—Dartmouth, Middlebury and New Hampshire. There will be other fine teams, of course, McGill, Maine, St. Lawrence, M.I.T.—in all, eleven schools. And for the first time in years, Vermont has a chance to place high. They won't win. They might not even finish in the money, but they will certainly place within the eighth spot necessary for recognition as a Class A Ski school a distinction that passed us by two years ago.

A nimble-footed, young, well-balanced team has been prepared to represent Vermont. For $3,000 spent for ski equipment, and the construction of a 20 meter jump, the University set the stage for a sound athletic proposition. Then Searles (Dartmouth ski ace and ex-Norwich coach) was brought into the fold in 1948, and he put the boys to work on the slopes.

Last week, shortly after Vermont had marched off with first place in the I.S.U. district meet at Lyndon, the bid to the Eastern Finals at Middlebury was forthcoming. The winning at Lyndon was the first sign—a modest investment and some hard work was paying off.

Nothing like this ski eminence had happened at Vermont in a long time. It was evident that U.V.M.'s ski team had taken rapid strides.

There were raised eye-brows on all sides. The Norwegian, Mohn, had been swiped by Middlebury; New Hampshire picked off a couple of promising freshmen who had shown interest in these hallowed halls; yet here were the Cats still in the running. Coach Searles says his boys did all the work. His boys (Belding, Sylvester, Pierce, Harlow, Bailey, Erskine, Schmidt, Dodge, etc.) had worked hard; they were in excellent condition; they went all-out in every meet since a 16 man squad keeps competition for a starting berth keen. But after a talk with the boys it is apparent that some skillful coaching has gone into the making of the machine. On who should get the credit for this rise in Vermont's ski fortunes there is disagreement.

The only thing everybody clearly agrees on is that there are no stars. A senior, Ken Belding, has been the leading point maker, but it is all strictly a team proposition. For four years now, Vermont has had a ski team in serious competition. In 1947 they finished 10th out of 11 entries in the I.S.U. and lost their Class A rating. In 1948 the re-organization began and the Cats finished an adequate fifth in two meets and placed higher in both than the highly-touted Schniebler-coached St. Lawrence team.

The Walkers Of The 53rd Kake Walk

Ten Fraternities To Participate

by Walter Gates

When the Kake Walkers come out onto the floor of Memorial Auditorium some people may find it a little difficult to recognize them through their black-face makeup. A little background material on the walkers might help clarify the situation.

The walkers for the Chi Sigs are Dick Brockway and Steve Palmer. Both are business majors and members of the class of '51. Neither has competed before.

The Delta Psi's are represented by Charlie Gates and Jack Schremly. Jack is a freshman pre-med student from Rutland, and Charlie is a senior from Chicago taking civil engineering. He also walked last year when the Delts took second place on Saturday night.

Dom Cote and Lee McDonald are walking for the first time for the Kappa Sigs. Dom is from Rochester, N. H., and a junior majoring in secondary education. Lee is a member of the class of '52 from South Ryegate, Vt., taking forestry.

Dick Bohlen and Bob Morrison are the Owls who are walking. Both are civil engineers and both are competing for the first time. Dick is a senior from Tenafly, N. J., and Bob is a junior from St. Johnsbury.

The Phi Deltas are fortunate in having their two veterans, Dan Burke and Rod Smith, back again this year. This pair has won for the past two years on both nights, and the previous year Rod was one half of the winning combination. Dan is a political science major from Wellesley Hills, Mass., and Rod is a business major from Scarsdale, N. Y. Both are members of the class of '50.

The Phi Sigs also have last year's team returning this year. Gil Edelston and Mort Kaufman are both seniors. Gil is a business student from Burlington, and Mort is a history major from Nantucket, Mass.

The SAE's are another fraternity which has a pair of veteran walkers. Marsh Sabens, a senior from Essex Junction, is a liberal arts student, and Jim Carter, class of '51, is a pre-med student from Great Neck, N. Y.

Bill Reid and Tom Snelson of Sigma Nu are still another pair which walked together last year. Bill is from Glenridge, N. J., and is a senior in the college of Agriculture, and Tom is a junior from Norwalk, Conn., taking business administration.

Fred Boss and Wally Gates are the walkers from Sigma Phi. Fred is from Port Washington, N. Y., and a sophomore taking the pre-veterinary curriculum. Wally is a liberal arts student from Wellesley Hills, Mass., and a member of the class of '53. Neither has walked before.

The TEP's have Norbert Fried, who walked last year, and Mort

Pitman, a newcomer. Norb is a junior pre-med student from Waterbury, Conn., and Mort is a freshman pre-med student from N. Y. C.

The ATO's, beset by troubles all season long, were dealt the final blow just last week. Don Brown received the word from his doctor that his leg sprain will eliminate him, and consequently the house from competition.

The walking is by no means all the entertainment in the Auditorium, however. Five skits are also to be presented. The ATO's have a skit entitled "The Adventures of Sam No-Trump," a mystery based on a popular radio program of the same name (almost!) The Phi Deltas are presenting "Variety in Review," a review of the entertainment of the half-century. Sigma Phi is presenting "The State of the Union," a series of views of the status of the country. Delta Psi thinks it has found uranium close by in "Now It Can Be Told," and the Phi Sigs are presenting three impressions of the new president of U.V.M. in its skit, "Howdy Doctor."

VIP To Strive For Participation Of All UVM In KW

Probably one of the biggest questions relative to this year's Kake Walk has been what VIP was going to do. The vote taken at the Ira Allen Chapel on December 2, 1949 showed conclusively that the student body does not approve of the University Council's action on the Inter-Fraternity Council Constitution as it applies to student participation in Kake Walk. The effect of the participation clause is that unless you are a member of the fraternity-sorority system you are excluded from all major events of Kake Walk.

This is VIP's position on Kake Walk:

"We feel that Kake Walk has become a University Function. We believe that Kake Walk is the big event of college life at UVM and that the whole University Community has the desire to turn out the best show possible. We do not believe that the best show possible can be attained by excluding over 50% of the student body.

When the new IFC clauses relating to Kake Walk were disclosed late in November, the campus, including many members of the sorority-fraternity systems, were unpleasantly surprised for they were of the opinion that Kake Walk policy was being liberalized rather than restricted.

VIP believed that, after presenting a prize-winning skit last year, they had demonstrated conclusively, the ability of non-affiliated groups to materially add to a bigger and better show for Kake Walk. VIP believes that whatever the sponsoring body of Kake Walk may be, participation should be open to all UVM talent."

VIP is not concerned with special privileges for itself,

Cups And Cakes-Who Could Want Anything More?

by Ann della-Chiesa

Along with 32 green and gold decorated cakes awarded Friday and Saturday nights to practically everyone who had a share in the gala Kake Walk activities, 18 silver, bronze, and gold cups will be presented to the winners of the "walk-in" fo' de kake," skits, ice sculptures, poster contest, and king and queen contest.

Most of the cups are permanent. For instance, the cup presented by the Kake Walk committee to the "walking" winner Friday night. But, there are two other cups which are rotating. That is, the winning fraternity is only allowed to retain and display the cup until next year's Kake Walk rolls around.

Then it will be presented to the winner for that year. The Preston and Briggs cups are examples.

The Preston Cup, first presented in 1942 by William E. Preston, a Burlington jeweler, is awarded to the winners of the first night's walking. They keep it until the fall semester when it is surrendered to the fraternity who won Saturday night.

The Briggs Cup, which received its initial presentation in 1898 (to Lambda Iota, incidentally) is awarded annually to the skit winner and follows the same rule as the Preston Cup. Although the Briggs Cup was presented in 1898, it was enlarged February 22, 1928 and replaced February 22, 1940.

First and second place prizes are presented to the walkers and skit winners for both nights. First and second place trophies for ice sculptures are in two divisions--one, fraternities, men's dorms and VIP's and the other, sororities and women's dorms.

Vermont's new governor, Harold Arthur, will be on hand to present the cups Friday night, and President Lyman, it is hoped, will do the honors Saturday night.

but it is very much concerned with an "esprit de corps" that unites all members of the University Family to the end that UVM can boast the best possible alumni who feel real love for their Alma Mater. This seems a desirable end and therefore VIP will continue to try to attain this end by using the democratic process. VIP will continue after this year's Kake Walk to try to attain this goal and Kake Walk participation for all UVM students will be one point of VIP's program.

What Does Fate Hold In Store For Ice Sculptures?

by Pat Williams

Heave! Ho! Heave! Ho! --- Nope (puff), that doesn't look right either --- tear it down; we'll now try idea no. 9; I don't think the ----s have thought that one up, YET!

Now in case you think this isn't a normal conversation, you are quite mistaken, for any fraternity or sorority group might be heard making the above comments on UVM's campus. The preparation for Kake Walk must always include ice sculptures, and that's what the above group is trying to build.

Already, King Winter has furnished enough snow to begin these most elaborate structures, but, how long will it last? Your guess is as good as mine, and one should never rely on mine! Last year truck after truck ploughed its way up to Mansfield's "Free Snow for All" shop in order that some of the sculptures might be completed. What "fun" it was for those who were chosen for such an honorable job. Did you enjoy the trip, pledges?

Last year the theme for our Winter Carnival was "Gold Miner - 49'er." Kake Walkin', a Cart and Oxen, a Girl in Champagne Glass, and a Hat, Cane and Kerchief were only a few of the ideas used by the fraternities and sororities. A beautiful job was done by them and it was hard for the judges to choose a winner. This year's contest should prove to be just as exciting since there are rumors of more groups entering the contest.

Sing a song of prizes, a pocket full of snow -
Four and twenty trucks to Mt. Mansfield will go;
Statues will be sculptured; the work will be supreme -
Over all this will reign our Kake Walk King and Queen.

Some will just be made of snow; others wood and ice -
But when they are finished, gee, will they look nice;
A lovely cake and gold cup, too, will be the winners' prize -
We wonder who'll get those this year; that is the Big Surprise!

"Cotton Babes" Played At First Kake Walk

by Esther Bentley

"Cotton Babes" spells Vermont, and it has been a part of the college scene for half a century. It has its place in almost every University get-together. It is heard at pep rallies, football games, Sunday afternoon concerts.

But, few know when it all began, or with whom it originated.

The composer, Percy Weinrich, died a number of years ago. The plates made by the printers were long ago destroyed, leaving no trace of the original score anywhere.

"Cotton Babes" was developed here on the hill. Some say it was played at the very first Kake Walk, in 1894.

The Sherman Military Band, led by veteran composer George D. Sherman, for many years furnished the music.

When Sherman retired, Dr. Joseph F. Lechnyr took on the direction of the band. Also, the name was changed to the Burlington Military Band.

By 1921, the college band had developed to such a degree that the rendition of "Cotton Babes" for Kake Walk was relegated to the UVM band.

Then a disastrous fire destroyed a large part of the Burlington Military Band's library. Lost in the flames was the only copy of "Cotton Babes" in print at the time.

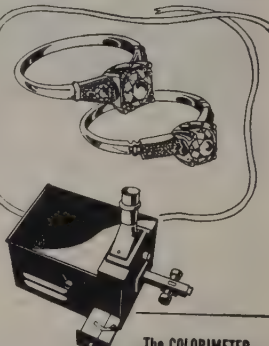

Fortunately, however, Dr. Lechnyr was able from his memory of the original, to make an arrangement. His interpretation has been played ever since.

Meet The 1950 K W Directors: Herriott, Robertson, Kinsler

by Mary Ellen Burke
Photos by Charlie Cookson

Preceding the festivities of Walkin' fo' de Kake, three young men walk across the dark auditorium followed by a spotlight. These young men are the Kake Walk Directors, Bob Herriott, Will Robertson and Dick Kinsler.

Bob, a brother in Delta Psi, is co-director of the production department of Kake Walk. A junior in the College of Technology, his home town is Tiverton, R. I.

Bob's experience in handling Kake Walk problems comes from his chairmanship of the 1948 Decorations Committee and the 1949 Auditorium Committee.

He is also president of the Class of '51, a member of Key and Serpent and class representative on Student Government.

Bob's partner on the production end is Will Robertson. Phi Delt Will is from Manchester, Vt., and a senior in the Arts College.

Besides being Assistant Director of Kake Walk in 1949, he has held positions as Advertising Manager of the Cynic and Business Manager of Windfall.

On the financial end of Kake Walk we find the third director, Dick Kinsler. Dick is a member of Tau Epsilon Phi and a native son of Springfield, Mass.

His experience with Kake Walk came in 1948 when he was chairman of the Award Committee. A junior in the College of Arts and Science, he is also a member of Key and Serpent.

His other activities include the Finance Committee of Student Government and the 1950 Ariel.

Kake Walk Judges Named

by Ann della-Chiesa

After weeks of "walking" skit censoring, and all-round anticipation and guessing, the three most eventful days in the UVM calendar have arrived.

But all these worrisome weeks of rehearsing would be to no avail (except for the mere enjoyment of the spectators) were it not for the two sets of judges who are planted in various position of the auditorium, and in whose capable and trusting hands the verdicts for the skits and walking rests.

On Friday night's judicial stand for skit judging are Prof. C. E. Braun, Prof. S. N. Bogorad and Mr. A. Saindon. For the walking are Prof. Hovey Jordan, Prof. J. E. Pooley and Mr. E. M. Root.

Taking the stand Saturday night will be Prof. A. W. Wurthmann, Prof. B. B. Wainwright, and Mrs. Isabelle Gallup rating the skits and Prof. A. B. Rooney, Prof. P. A. Moody, and Prof. F. D. Carpenter judging the walking.

A new system for judging the two evenings' performances will go into effect during this 53rd Kake Walk, the directors have announced. Each judge selected by the directors must have wit-

KAKE WALK - 1897

"THE KAKE WALK" reprinted from the University Cynic, November 22, 1897.

"The 'Kullod Koons' Kake Walk" was given under circumstances different from the usual this year, and was a decided success. High praise is due the managing committee, and all who turned to help in any way are to be congratulated.

The Armory was filled Friday evening Nov. 12th, by a crowd which occupied all three galleries, the seats on the east side, and several rows of chairs which had been placed on the west side. The judges were Prof. Tupper, Col. E. H. Powell, C. W. Brownell, Elias Lyman, T. E. Wales, W. S. Vincent, and F. R. Wells. The Howard Opera House orchestra furnished music for the walk and the dance which followed. The Hay Hill Foot Ball Team, DeWolk Hopper Opera Co., and Rev. Ebenezer Johnson and family won pieces of cake in the order named. Special mention should be made of Queen Lil and Richard Coeur de Lion.

As a financial venture the Walk was as successful as in every other way, the proceeds being $225 and the expense $60. This balance of $165 clear, together with what has been subscribed, will enable the foot ball management to start next year free of debt."

Kake Walk in this year, 1897, was the biggest and best Kake Walk ever held at UVM to that date. Described as "Kake Walk on the largest scale yet" it featured speciality numbers rather than impromptu skits and for the first time included judges for the various stunts.

It is interesting to compare Kake Walk this year with that of 53 years ago and to see how Kake Walk has grown in proportion and magnitude along with the University of Vermont in general.

nessed at least three previous Kake Walks. One of the judges for each evening is required to have judged a preceding Kake Walk.

Saturday morning, the judges for the ice and snow sculptures will make the rounds of the various fraternity and sorority houses, VIPS, men's and women's dorms to survey their respective arctic architectural attempts. The judges in this category are Prof. M. D. Daggett, Prof. T. J. Sproston, and Mrs. Isabel Mills.

K W Committee Chairmen Finish Weeks Of Elaborate Preparations

Back: Stan Brown, Mickey Boylan, Dave Jennings
Front: Paul Stevens, Cy Ferland

Behind the scenes of Kake Walk is much hard work.

The three directors need a full-fledged staff of helpers to make UVM's winter week end what it is. This year's assistant directors and committee chairmen have been working along with the directors for two months, so if you haven't seen the following people around lately, you know why.

The assistant directors are Paul G. Stevens, Dave Jennings, Mickey Boylan, Cy Ferland and Stan Brown.

Paul Stevens, an Owl from Garner, Mass., is a junior in the College of Arts and Science. He is handling the King and Queen campaigns, awards, concessions and the throne.

Dave Jennings, a Burlington boy, is a member of Sigma Nu and also a junior in the Arts College. Dave's department is publicity, photography, and programs.

In charge of the Ball, Walkers, and Tickets is Mickey Boylan.

Mickey is a Sigma Phi, another junior in Arts and Science and comes from Scarsdale, N. Y.

Cy Ferland, whose major is business, is an A.T.O. from Burlington. A junior too, Cy is managing the ice sculpture contest, posters and winter sports.

Another Burlington resident is Stan Brown. This Arts junior is a member of Phi Sigma Delta and is in charge of Auditorium assistance, decorations, and lighting.

Under these five are the various committee heads which follow: Tickets, Ray Comolli; Walkers, Bob Farrell; Skits, Dick Viets; Sculpture, Betty McMahon; Awards, Hap Henningsen; Programs, Midge Wheeler; Posters, Barb Preston; Concessions, Frank Peabody; Decorations, Mickey Weidman; Lighting, Dave Partidge; Auditorium Assistance, Kurt Schindler; Ball, Len Tomat; Winter Sports, Reg Linsenmeir; King and Queen, Larry Gardner and Mary Ann Browne; Throne, Fred Sigman.

HIGHLIGHTS OF KAKE WALK 1948

THE SKITS

Bob Taisey, now a senior, re-enacts now dated political joke as he portrays "H. S. Truman" in Sigma Phi's winning skit. "Lauren Bacall" perches precariously on the piano.

A Western Union messenger from Sigma Phi descends into the depths of fiell as Mephistopheles (right) awaits arrival.

Country boy (far right) is met at station of Rutland Special in Phi Sigma Delta's second prize-winning skit.

ROYAL COUPLE

King Doug Riddel (Delta Psi) and Queen Carole Farmer (Independents) pose in regal attire at Kake Walk.

THE WALKERS

Phi Delta Theta's winning team of Burke and Smith pose happily with their trophies. (See page seven for more details on this team.)

THE SCULPTURES

Lambda Iota had hopes of a prize-winning sculpture-until the Great Thaw came to which this sign attests.

In spite of the lack of snow, Pi Beta Phi won with this wintry tumble.

As the familiar strains of "Cotton Babes" are heard and the white handkerchief is dropped, a pair of Kake Walkers rear to go into their act.

KAKE WALK SAGA

It would seem that an epitome of antitheses is enacted each season in Burlington, Vermont when the University of Vermont celebrates its annual winter carnival, the "Kake Walk." Here in this ice-encrusted stronghold of Yankeeism a pair of Southern darkies "walkin' fo de cake" is featured as the theme and highlight of the biggest weekend of the college year. For the past fifty-three winters, save one, blacked-up couples in dazzling costumery have kicked high, wide and handsome in competition for the cake which symbolizes campus adulation, and Kake Walk is now considered to be Vermont's greatest tradition.

Philip R. Hastings, a senior medic, last year fashioned this photographic resume of the 1949 Kake Walk featuring Rod and Carol Smith. In a series of characteristic poses capturing the spirit of Kake Walk, Phil has photographed Rod and Carol Smith as they enjoyed the Kake Walk weekend.

Rod, a member of the class of '50, has been Phi Delta Theta's walking choice for the past three years; during these years, Rod has captured a first place trophy. (This year he is attempting to win his fourth first place title, a feat accomplished only once in in the history of Kake Walk.)

Our photographer meets Rod and his photogenic wife at the WAA Penny Carnival; he follows them through the king and queen campaigns, watches Rod during walking practice, accompanies them to the Kake Walk Formal Ball.

He joins them as they enjoy the big nights of skit and walkin' fo the cake competition, and spends the remainder of the weekend with them as they inspect the fraternity and sorority ice sculptures and attend the Sunday afternoon open houses. The following twelve pictures are a representative few of Hastings's series on the 1949 Kake Walk with Rod and Carol Smith.

On the evening of the Friday preceding Kake Walk, we encounter Rod and Carol at UVM's Southwick Memorial where the King and Queen candidates are first revealed to the student body.

Social affairs at the Greek houses abound during Kake Walk weekend. Rod and Carol are seen at a buffet supper held at the Phi Delta house before the Kake Walk ball.

Rod and Carol slipped away to the balcony for a post-intermission coke as a crowd of 800 couples on the floor of Memorial Auditorium made the dance a big success. In former years the Kake Walk Ball was a Masquerade, but last year, costumes were omitted.

The climax of the evening! Rod and Dan step into their routine from the starting point in front of the throne as enthusiasm is at fever point.

At the stroke of midnight, campaign posters were erected to extoll the merits of all candidates. Other campaign devices included radio broadcasts, free smokes, and sweets passed out by fetchingly attired coeds in the student lounge.

King Bob and Queen Lynn, last year's Kake Walk rulers, make their triumphal entrance between lines of gay subjects at the Kake Walk Ball.

We are transported precipitously to a sidewalk cafe in gay Patee by the Delta Psi skit, preceding Rod's entrance as a walker. Delta Psi won first place among the skits.

Carol Smith, tensely clasps her hands from the sidelines as Rod and Dan perform to win first honors in the Kake Walk.

Dr. Joseph Lechnyr, in foreground, Director of the UVM Band, better known as "Joe", has participated in UVM Kake Walks since 1916. Pictured above are Rod and Danny Burke, Rod's partner and co-winner for two seasons, with the other Kake Walk candidates at a "dress rehearsal" in the UVM Gym before the actual affair.

Rod and Carol were among the first couples to set foot upon the royal throne, after a colorful coronation ceremony over which Skitch Henderson, popular band leader presided.

Rod's neighboring fraternity, Sigma Phi, won second place in the fraternity competition with this sculpture depicting a trio of 49ers trying their hands at "Walkin' fo de Kake."

To climax weeks of arduous training come the too honors once again to the walking team of Smith and Burke, and to Rod, The Victor, a smudge from his wife.

CAN YOU PICK A WINNER ?

Cynic Photography Editor Roy Whitmore caught these six pairs of Kake Walkers in varying "walking" positions as they prepared early this week for the final tests. Most of these Walkers have been training faithfully for several months, and these two nights of Kake Walk mark the supreme test of their labors. This practice session held early in the week helped the Walkers get the needed practice with the actual music as Joe Lechnyr brought the Band over to the Men's Gym for the session. After taking these shots, Whitmore exclaimed, "One pair looks as good as another; only actual competition will tell." The Cynic asks, "Can you pick a winner?"

Gentleness on their part helped the University of Massachusetts cagers score a Yankee Conference victory over the University of Vermont quintet, 65-67.

Although outscored in baskets, 27 to 25, the locals kept hands off the visitors to such an extent that only five personals were called against Mass., giving Vermont only six charity tosses. They made three of them, compared to 15 successful free tries by the winners, and this more than accounted for the difference.

Both teams went into the game with 6-9 records with the result that Massachusetts emerged with its seventh win and UVM with its 10th setback and third in Yankee Conference competition against one victory.

Vermont had the shots — a staggering total of 98 of them — but couldn't connect frequently enough, while the home team made 25 out of 71. But it was on the foul line they won the game, sinking 15 out of 25.

The visitors got behind early in the game and never could catch up despite Eddie Kotlarczyk's late spurt. After missing his first seven shots, Kotlarczyk sank five straight sets in the last seven minutes, but Massachusetts was too far ahead to be overtaken. Kotlarczyk was UVM's third high scorer with 10, behind Howie Merrick and Ed Jasinski with 12. Kotlarczyk and Jasinski played the whole game, although 11 of the Cats saw action.

At the half, Vermont trailed 33-28 and came up to within three points early in the half, but that's as near as the Green Mountain dribblers got.

Massachusetts' high average forward Bill Krezey pushed 17 points through the strings for high scorer followed by Ray Gagnon with 15, Ed McCauley with 12 and Hal Ostman with 10.

ED BARTLETT...Assistant Relates Job

by Al Dorn

One of the hardest working men in the University of Vermont's athletic department, but one of least known, is Ed Bartlett. Ed has been at UVM since August, 1946. Previous to that, Ed had served as associate director of Camp Abnaki which, he hastened to point out, was the second oldest camp in the Western Hemisphere.

Ed's actual job with the university is as assistant director to Larry Gardner, UVM's athletic director, or as Ed put it, "Sort of an executive secretary to Mr. Gardner." During the football season, he filmed the Catamount's games which were used for instructional purposes for the Evan's Club and which were also sent out to different alumni groups. For the basketball season, Ed worked out a plan for the numbering of the seats at Memorial Auditorium; and now Ed is serving as assistant director to Archie Post in the Vermont State High School Basketball Tournament commencing on March 3. Ed also handles the ticket arrangements for all UVM's athletic contests.

Ed is also interested in the managerial setup for the green and gold's athletic teams, as he serves in an advisory capacity for the different team managers. About the managerial setup, Ed remarked that it was pretty rough when he first came to the university in 1946 as the student body (made up of a great deal of veterans) wasn't particularly interested in managing the different teams; so it was the job of Ed and the rest of the department to take care of the duties of a manager. However, Ed is now pleased to find that many men are out for managerial jobs, but, he was quick to add, that many more men are needed.

Another of Ed's duties is to help the Varsity Club with questions that may arise. He helped the V-Club in the getting of their hats and helped in writing of the bi-laws of their constitution. In connection with the Varsity Club, Ed pointed out that it is open to all lettermen on the campus, and if they can pass an initiation ritual, they will become members.

Skiers Dark Horse At Midd.

As part of the Kake Walk week-end it will be worth your time to take in the ISU Championship ski meet this Friday, Saturday and Sunday. After Vermont regained its Intercollegiate Ski Union rating at Lyndonville there was good cause for rejoicing here on the hill. But there will be much keener competition when Bob Searles and his greatly improved team journey to Middlebury to take part in the fourteen team affair. UVM placed fifth at the Dartmouth meet a few weeks ago, but there was not a complete schedule of events due to poor snow conditions. One event which may move the Catamounts near the top, and which could not be held at Hanover, is the cross country division of the meet. At Lyndonville UVM was at its best, placing four in the first five. Friday there will be cross country and downhill. On Saturday the jumping and slalom events will be staged and some of the top college stars in the country will take part.

Christian Mohn, who was supposed to come to Vermont, went to Middlebury and no one seems to know the real reason for the change, will be one of the favorite's in the jumping field. Dave Sylvester and Ken Belding will boost UVM's chances of placing high in the event.

Can Still Break Even

Three more games remain to be played on UVM's schedule after the Champlain game on Wednesday and if the Cats come out on top in all of them a ten win, ten loss record will end a rather mediocre season. This is the first year since 1940 that the Green and Gold has not captured the Vermont State basketball title and our long streak of vic-

Strong Maine 5 To Oppose UVM Here Saturday

One of the strongest basketball teams ever to represent the University of Maine is scheduled to provide the opposition here for Fuzzy Evans quintet over the Kake Walk weekend.

The Saturday afternoon game will be preceded by that terrific affair in which condition, drive, and a superior brand of basketball is usually displayed, the student-faculty game. This contest has sent reporters from all over the nation to revising their all-American predictions.

The Bears are touted by rivals as "the most improved team in the Yankee Conference." This is due mainly to the addition of a new mentor and a new system of play. Coach Rome "Doc" Rankin has taken over Sam Sezak's position.

Rankin switched the team offense to a fast-breaking style in contrast to the slow, methodical brand of ball employed by the Pale Blue teams in previous years.

Maine has a seasonal record of often wins and four losses, with five games remaining on the schedule, including the Vermont encounter. The Bears have taken the state title and in their most recent game, they fought Connecticut all the way before bowing out in the closing minutes 67-58. Last year the men from Orono hung up an unimpressive 4-14 record.

Charlie Goddard, 6'4" center is the man to stop on the team. This is Charlie's fourth year of varsity ball and he is at present leading the team with over 200 points.

His brother, Bert, plays at one forward position, while Vic Woodbrey operates the other slot. Lowell Osgood and Al Hopkins complete the quintet.

UVM Ready For ISU Meet

by Glenn Fay

On February 24th and 25th Coach Bob Searles' barrelstaver's will take part in the first top-flight competition in which a UVM ski team has participated in many a moon. By virtue of their convincing win at Lyndonville last week the Cats are again able to compete in the "big league" of the I.S.U. The meet, which will be held in conjunction with Middlebury's Winter Carnival, has everybody that is anybody on a pair of slats lined up for the two days.

Besides Vermont and Middlebury, Dartmouth, McGill, St. Lawrence, M.I.T., New Hampshire, Maine and three teams to be chosen from other sections of the U.S. will be present. As we understand it these teams will also take part in competition for the Middlebury Carnival Trophy, which will make the affair a double-barrelled one from the word "mush."

Just how the Green and Gold representatives will fare against Middlebury's Christian Mohn and Dartmouth's team of aliens is not known, but those of us who have seen Messrs. Sylvester and Belding in action believe they can hold their own in this meet. Also making the trip will be Dodge, Schmitt, Harlow, Pierce, Barstow, Edson and Bailey.

Fr. Hold 4-4 Record; VJC Wins

For the first time this season the Kittens dropped below the .500 mark (4 wins 5 losses) when they were beaten once again by the Dartmouth Frosh 64-44.

As was the case in the first game, which Dartmouth won by a score of 63-39, the Indians were too big and too experienced for the Strasburg Club, but the Cata-mount Frosh did play one of their better games of the season although they were downed by 20 points.

The Big Green had control of the contest completely, and they ran up a 35-23 lead in the first half. In the second half the green and gold didn't threaten the Hanover five, and the Indians triumphed easily 64-44.

Capt. Sherman led the Dartmouth scorers with 19 points, while his teammate Gieg (who hit for 21 in the first game) tallied 6. "Red" Brewster notched 17 points to lead the green and gold, followed by Johnny LaBelle who accounted for 13 and played his best game of the season.

VJC GAME

Since much attention has been given to the varsity in the past few weeks, let's turn our attention to the Kittens and see how they have been doing since the basketball season has begun.

To date the Frosh have four victories and four defeats since Dec. 14 when they opened their campaign against Norwich and winning 62 to 32; Vermont Jr. College was next on their list and the freshmen won 45 to 20; Middlebury was defeated 60 to 44; St. Mike's provided some competition for the Kittens to handle and they lost 80 to 42; UVM traveled down to Mass., to whip Clarkson 60 to 57; the freshmen from Hanover came here and defeated UVM, Dartmouth 63, Vermont 39; St. Mike's again white washed the Kitten's 66 to 38.

On Wednesday night Vermont Jr. College got revenge for an early season loss by taming the Kittens 48 to 39 the Frosh's third straight set, back. The contest was played on practically even terms over the last three quarters, but the Kittens couldn't overcome the seven point lead held by VJC at the end of the first quarter, 15 to 8.

Acting Captain Ed Watkins leads the scoring parade with 95 points; Brewster follows with 74 points; Kniffen with 44 points; Schaffer with 41 points; and next to him is Clairmont with 22 points to his credit.

tories against state competition was stopped at 30 by the polished Purple Knights. At times the cagers have looked very good, but there has not been the smooth team play that has characterized UVM fives of the last few years. Probably the biggest fault is with ball handling and passing as we have witnessed the Cats throw the ball away too frequently in too many games. Their shooting has also been below par and the recent Massachusetts game is a good example; out of 98 tries at the basket the Cats only hit 27 field goals.

KAUFMAN PREDICTS INDIANS AND (DODGERS) TO COP PENNANTS

by Mort Kaufman

Listen, the Dodgers can't miss this year. Williams is a greater ball player than Di Maggio ..... Did you see where the Pirates signed a young boy for one hundred thousand dollars? Sure, Babe Ruth is the greatest ball player of the half century, without question. Bucky Harris picked the Red Sox in the American League this year; bet you a bottle of milk that the Browns win the pennant.

The month is February, but there is talk of baseball about the campus, and the "Hot Stove League" will continue to flourish until the bright days of April when Harry throws out the first ball. It is then that the season starts, and it is then that the speculation of the winter months is either verified or thrown to the wind. But we are a little ahead of our story for this is still the "Hot Stove" season, so let us speculate.

From a soft seat at the Cynic office, the writer concludes the following on the 1950 baseball season in the American and National Leagues. (Note, no major American periodical or newspaper had ventured to predict at this early date; neither "Click," "Look," "Quick," nor "Lick," among others.)

The American League race promises to be as dynamic and thrilling as last year, in fact it looks as if four teams will battle for the pennant. The law of averages seems to favor the Boston Red Sox, who have left more than one Brahmin and Nantucketer with a lump in his throat during the last two years. The Yankees, although maturing will still have Joe "D" and "Old Reliable," Tommy Henrich. Detroit has been strengthened measurably this winter and promises to display an infield this year. Fellar and Lemon are the mainstay of a great Cleveland pitching staff. While Chicago has a young ball club and could very well break into the first division. Washington, St. Louis, and Philadelphia will make up the second division.

The National League will probably be less exciting than the Junior Circuit. The average Brooklynite is smiling happily these days despite the shortage of water. His Dodgers give every indication of copping the pennant again this year. Certainly the Dodgers have everyone back from last year's young, fast team. The Giants, Braves, Phils, Cards, and Pirates remain definite question marks, while the Cubs and Reds are in the process of building for the future.

There you have a quick resume of the forthcoming 1950 baseball season. The writer, who has been preparing for this column since 1940 picks the standings of the two leagues on the last day of the season as follows:

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Cleveland
Boston Red Sox
Detroit
New York Yankees
Chicago White Sox
Philadelphia
St. Louis
Washington

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Brooklyn
Boston Braves
St. Louis
Philadelphia
New York Giants
Pittsburgh
Cincinnati
Chicago

Prof. Tupper, Former Head Of English Department, Dies

by Steve Berman

"There are some men who by virtue of their exceptional abilities and their engaging personalities have the fortune to color the institutions they serve."

This was true of Dr. Frederick Tupper, professor emeritus and for half a century head of the UVM English Department, who died February 11 after a lingering illness.

To the present undergraduate body at UVM, Professor Tupper was perhaps better known as a Chaucerian and Shakespearean scholar than a UVM professor, but to the life of the University and the community at large, his death causes an irreplaceable gap.

Born in Charleston, S. C., Dec. 17, 1872, Professor Tupper was the son of Frederick and Sallie (Davis) Tupper. He received his A.B. from College of Charleston and his Ph.D in 1893 from Johns Hopkins.

He was appointed head of the English Department at Vermont in 1894 and continued in that position until his retirement in 1944.

Among his innumerable associates, Professor Tupper was a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Alpha Tau Omega Fraternities; also a member of St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

Although offered various positions at larger universities; Dr. Tupper continued his teaching program at UVM and with his varied social contacts, he found time to lecture outside the University at Brown, Columbia, and Harvard, plus publishing several books and articles for professional journals.

Among some of his more well-known books on literature are "Chaucer and the Seven Deadly Sins"; "Representative English Dramas from Dryden to Sheridan"; and "The Shakespearean Mob."

It is hard for this writer, who has never had any personal contact with Dr. Tupper, to tell of his position in the community and the state. However, through a few interviews with professors on campus, this writer has discovered that no mere account of his academic activities can give an adequate picture of how much Dr. Tupper's personality impressed itself on the state and the community.

For half a century he was to many students and alumni of the University of Vermont a monumental figure in their memories and thought for what he did.

But Professor Tupper was not only a recognized scholar here at UVM. His name was known in his field throughout America and in England. At one time he was president of the Modern Language Association.

His sense of humor, his un-failing courtesy, his ready cordiality were influences treasured in the minds of hundreds of alumni and friends in Burlington alumni and friends in Burlington and elsewhere.

The highlight of the alumni luncheon of the University of Vermont in June of 1938 was the presentation to the University of a portrait of Professor Tupper by the class of 1903.

At the presentation, Walter A. Dane, representing the class of 1903, said in part: "Exemplar of the cultured gentleman, Doctor of his chosen field of learning, Professor and Practitioner of the art of English speech, Counsellor to aspiring youth, Friend to student-kind, may he for years to come, as in the years that have gone, personify the scholarly perfection of the distinguished faculty of which he is a member."

Certainly wherever University of Vermont teachers and alumni of the last half century are, they will recall with deep, sincere affection the figure of Dr. Frederick Tupper, scholar, lecturer, humorous and gentleman.

INVITATION TO ALL

The Vermont Independent Party cordially invites all members of the University community to an Open House at Southwick on Friday and Saturday evening, Feb. 24 and 25 at 9:00.

Previously, invitations to Kake Walk open houses have been very informal, but this privilege has been abused by non-University people. This year attempts have been made to correct this unpleasant situation.

By request, VIP is enlarging its originally planned Open House to include those who therefore will have free time during the holidays.

CAMPUS

Delta Psi News:

There has been an election of a new president at the house. Congratulations and appreciation go to Stan Burns, the retiring president, for a job well done. Welcome to Ken Lawson and best wishes for a successful term.

"The King is dead, long live the king!"

A new plan for closer cooperation between the fraternities and sororities has been advocated and put into operation by the Deltas. The essence of the plan consists in a number of exchange dinners between the two with the object of both becoming better acquainted and creating an atmosphere of greater understanding.

Also, it will be a chance to sample the quality of cuisine observed at the various houses. Misery loves company, they say.

The Delta Psi "Ice Capades" is in full flourish or at least was until the thaw set in. The tennis court was flooded and the boys are taking turns on picking each other up on the foul line.

A few bright lights at night add the appropriate atmosphere for the more ambitious ones and skating continues through the night. All skaters are welcome to come while the water and weather holds out.

TEP

The pledges gave their pledge dance at the TEP house Saturday. The dance committee, headed by John Levy and Don Wolf, put on some very amusing entertainment for the brothers, pledges and guests attending in the form of a quiz program.

Everyone enjoyed the entertainment in addition to refreshments which were served, and the dancing to soft music.

Hurrying to complete the cellar by Kake Walk, the pledge group, under the competent supervision of Stan Daitch, has been working in shifts. They are putting in new paneling and benches. The second floor of the TEP house has also taken on an entirely different look since before finals. Besides new furniture arrangements in the rooms, every room has received a new coat of paint. The color schemes include all colors of the spectrum. Sun glasses are supplied!

CLIPPINGS

Congratulations go to Ed Fram on his recent pinning of Trudy Rosenberg. Congratulations are also in order for Mort Dondes, who recently became a pledge of TEP.

Sigma Nu

Visitors at the Sigma Nu house over Kake Walk will find a new den where a year ago at this time there was only a ski-filled storeroom. Work on the room was inaugurated way back in November when Les Collins '53 decided that with the growing attendance at sigma Nu's social functions more room for members and their guests would be needed.

Soon after the idea's inception a gang of brothers and pledges went to work with sledge hammers and pikes breaking away the wall that separated the storeroom from the old Stein Room. It wasn't long before things started to take shape and now the house can brag of having one of the finest, if not the finest, lounges on campus.

Even Mrs. Brauer, house-mother at Sigma Nu, helped in her own way. Since the wall being torn down was directly under her room she prayed every day that the floor wouldn't drop out from under her. Yes, sir, everyone helped, and just wait till you see the Sig Nu's dream child over Kake Walk.

Robert Goss, '47 Makes NY Debut At Times Hall

Robert Goss, baritone soloist, appeared in a concert recital in Times Hall, New York City, Thursday evening, February 23.

"Bob" Goss, a graduate of the University of Vermont in music education in 1947, was assisted at the piano by Jan Meyerowitz.

Goss, who also appeared on the Arthur Godfrey Talent Scout Show last Monday evening, February 20 at 8:30 p.m. on the Columbia Broadcasting System, is the son of Mrs. R. J. Goss, house director of the Warner House girls' dormitory, 96 Colchester Ave.

Since his graduation from UVM, Bob Goss has attended the Julliard School of Music, the Mannes School, and the American Theater Wing in New York City. He has taken part in the Berkshire Music Festival, Lenox, Mass., has sung with a number of opera companies, including the New England Opera Company of Boston, and has sung Toscanini in "Aida".

While at UVM he was a member of both the choir and orchestra and on numerous occasions was soloist in various concert programs, operas, and oratorios.

His varied program at Times Hall included: "Songs of the Revolutionary War Days," Francis Hopkinson; "Negro Spirituals and Folk Songs," John Jacob Niles; and arias from American operas, Douglas Moore and Giancarlo Menotti.

Many of these pictures were of such local scenery as Mount Mansfield and the UVM campus.

Dr. Lamden stated that his main aim was to stimulate each member's interest in photography.

In a business meeting preceding the lecture plans for a dance April 15 were discussed. President, Jane Miller, presided.

Later, T. B. Wright of the Syndicate Clothing Company gave a cup to be awarded to the winner of the Peerade which had become part of the celebration.

The Boulder Society was given two smaller cups for the individuals in the winning teams of walkers.

Mr. J. L. Southwick, editor of the Free Press, gave another for the best "Koon Kut Up", an innovation in 1921.

Double Trouble

It was in 1920 that Kake Walk became a two-night affair, with a parade and the Winter Carnival theme entered the picture, Hockey games and ice sculptures came to the fore at that time.

One year, when there was not enough snow one enterprising fraternity ordered cakes of ice. These arrived too late to be assembled into any pattern, and so remained as dumped off in the front yard.

This heap of ice cakes created quite a bit of interest because some clever member of the fraternity had placed a huge card in front of it with the following inscription "Modern Kake Walk—Cubistic Style."

Royalty in '34

The masquerade ball, which had been given up, was revived in 1934—the year which saw the first King and Queen elected.

Election of the first King and Queen was an exciting event.

S. Thatch Hubbard, the successful candidate for King, was sponsored by the Communist Petting Party. According to Thatch, the Communist Petting should get the respect due old age inasmuch as it dated back to Adam and Eve.

Full Bread Basket

The campaign manager for the C.P.P. was none other than one Francis T. Colburn whose slogan was "A full bread basket."

The selection of the Queen was a very complicated matter. A rug was laid out in the hollow square of the spectators and huge dice rolled in.

The monstrous ivories boomed across the rug and number 193 was announced as the lucky number. The lucky number was held by candidate Kay Mahoney.

How times have changed!

Now, campaigning. Voting is voting. Elections are elections.

Lovely queens are chosen to smile and bow sweetly and to be attended by their defeated rivals who also smile.

Kings are elected and reign for the short time, self-conscious embarrassed rulers, looking as though they wished they were anywhere but under the heavy, royal robes and dignified crown.

Vermont's Tradition

The Editorial of February 21, 1947 sums up Kake Walk very neatly. "When we think of college days... We will always remember Kake Walk, Kake Walk is more than a tradition; it is a symbol of college life.

The whole school becomes united in one great surge of spirit—a spirit which is marked by the stimulating syncopations 'Cotton Babes.' The competition is still there.

Prizes are awarded to the group with the best skit, sculpture, and walkers. But the oneness of the laughter at the skits, cheering of the walkers, makes Kake Walk truly a University function.

When the lights are dimmed, and Joe lowers his baton, a million intangibles are aroused inside every UVMer. Kake Walk is not described in words; it is described in feelings.

This is College Life—this is UVM—This is Kake Walk."

"T'was The Day Before Kake Walk"

by Pat Williams

Twas the day before Kake Walk at UVM;
Brains were still working: there were prizes to win.
Sculptures were made from "Mansfield" snow
In hopes they would last for three days or so.
Ballots were counted (and many there were),
For some particular "him" or "her";
Rumors did fly as to who would reign—
Each time 'twas heard was a different name.
At Coolidge and Converse much was ado,
Gowns to be pressed (some old, some new).
At fraternity houses such wails of woe,
The poor guys were running out of "dough!"
Last minute dates! Tickets to be bought!
Ha! Some little "Romeo", "Juliet" had caught.
Crepe paper, posters, streamers and all
Were used to decorate Memorial Hall.
Cynics and programs were still being printed
(Some thought that the winners in them might be hinted).

At Redstone and Slade everything was askew,
The noise of them all made one's face turn blue:
Who took my dress? Leave that alone!
What makes you think that you're at home?
My dress is fuscina and I'll drop dead
If the flowers he brings me are bright scarlet red!
I have a "blind" date; I'm five feet six—
If he's shorter than I, am I in a fix!
Did you hear about Maude? Is she having "fits"
Ray didn't ask her to go see the skits!
Now even with all this, the holiday's great!
Who worries about coming in at night too late?
With fraternity parties and the big VIP dance,
UVM will really "gallop" and "prance".
Have a good time, you're only young once—
Don't sit home and mope like a silly ole dunce!
This is the moment we've looked forward to;
Have a wonderful time! to You and to You!

Ski Team

Next week the returns will be in. The young (largely Junior) Green and Gold team will have run the Snow Bowl with the best competition in the land. They will be minus the championship, but strong in competitive experience and in firm possession of Class A rating. The big question of Frosh help was answered when Vermont's Frosh 'B' team placed second behind New Hampshire at the Norwich Winter Carnival and were trailed - by 'big' Harvard, Yale, and Williams. Placing at least sixth at Middlebury should indicate Vermont is on the way up as a ski power. "Simmy" and "Mac" would have helped this team. So, perhaps, would young Mohn, but the Cats are doing very well without the presence of a leading man. They have adequate equipment. They have competent instruction. It seems that it takes very little more than hard work to make a winner.

Center: Kake Walk ended with a bang last week (see pictures and stories on inside pages.) In its aftermath UVM found itself in the midst of the longest cold spell of the winter; Lake Champlain had even frozen over. But there was evidence that this weather couldn't last. In Washington, D. C., crocuses were reported blooming and householders were mowing their lawns; according to an old saw winter in Vermont could last no more than six weeks longer and might be over in three. And over in the Cage behind the Men's gym spring was receiving an official welcome when Baseball Coach Larry Gardner sent out the first call for spring practice. ## Editorial

During all of the excitement and hubbub of the week preceding Kake Walk one of the most important of the "Weeks" of the year passed by almost completely unnoticed here on Vermont's campus. The "Week" was Brotherhood Week sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews. In keeping with the spirit of this slighted "week", I would like to tell an old story; a story which dates back to ancient times.

Back in days before men had left the settlements of biblical times, a sultan ruled what is today the Middle East. One of the main cities under his rule was the ancient and historical city of Jerusalem in which lived a noted prophet of the day, Nathan the Wise.

One day the sultan sent for Nathan and asked him the question which was the burning topic of the day, "Which religion is the best?"

Nathan the Wise thought a long while before he spoke and then he asked the sultan if he might tell a story before answering the question. The sultan was a great lover of stories and he consented to the wish of the prophet. Whereupon, Nathan began, "Many years ago there existed a ring which had the mystical power to make its possessor beloved to both men and God. All that the possessor had to do to attain these blessings was to believe in the ring.

For many generations the ring passed from father to son, and from father to son, until finally it came into the hands of a man who had three sons, each of whom he loved equally. In order to save himself from the ordeal of choosing between them, he took the ring to a silversmith and had two identical copies made of it. The copies were so much alike that no one, not even the father himself could tell them apart. He took the rings home and gave one to each of his sons, and a short while later he died. The sons mourned him for a proper length of time as good sons do, and then they started to fight and argue as to which of them had the real ring.

Their quarrels became unbearable after a while, until finally one of them suggested going to court to find out which ring was the real one. They went to the leading judge of the day and he listened to their story and looked at the rings and after much deliberation he told them that each of them had the real ring and that to secure the blessings of owning the ring all they had to do was go home and believe in the ring.

The brothers decided to follow the Judge's advice and they went home and believed in the ring and each of them was beloved to both men and God."

When Nathan had finished his story, the sultan asked him why he had told the story and Nathan the Wise answered, "You see, sir, each ring is in actuality a religion, and if people would stop fighting over which religion is best, and instead would go home and believe in their religion and follow it, all people would be happy and prosperous and would be beloved by both men and God."

"Which Kake Walk Did You Like Better?"

by Sophie Muriel Sandow
photos by Charlie Cookson

Kake Walk is over now, but not quite forgotten yet. Most of us are in the stage of comparing this Kake Walk to last year's. Some liked last year's better, while others preferred this past one. There are many reasons why one should prefer one Kake Walk to another, and by answering the following question, four UVMers were able to present their ideas. The question is: "Which Kake Walk did you like better, this year's or last year's?"

1. Priscilla Seale '52, Floral Park, N.Y.

"Kake Walk 1950 had more of the friendly atmosphere that seems to go with the "Big Week-end." The campaigning for king and queen was more spirited, and led to better competition. The snow and cold weather gave the needed touch to make Kake Walk bigger and better than last year."

2. Roy Weber '52, Baldwin, N.Y.

"I thought Kake Walk was much more fun this year. The walking was better and participation in the fraternity skit also added to the enjoyment. The snow conditions were ideal for the ice sculptures. I only wish it could have lasted longer."

3. Mimi Lawrence '52, New Haven, Conn.

"I like last year's Kake Walk better. The skits this year struck me as just plain comy. Nothing came near Delta Psi's of 1949. As for the walking, the position of the walkers and the kicking were superior to last year's, but, oh, the mistakes of Saturday night!"

4. Gerard R. Stiller '50, Smithtown, N.Y.

"Personally, I enjoyed last year's Kake Walk a great deal more than this year's. The skits themselves seemed to have more life and variety to them. Kake Walk was quite good otherwise, and especially liked this year's ice sculptures."

WSU Slate Set Elections To Be Held March 8

Comm. Concert To Feature Singer Elena Nikolaidi

by John Moore

Elena Nikolaidi, contralto, will appear in the Memorial Auditorium on Monday, March 6th, at 8:15 p.m., for a concert for members of the Community Concert Association.

Miss Nikolaidi was born in a small town near Athens, Greece. At the age of 7 she joined the choir in the Greek church where she was known as the "child with the golden voice." At 15 she sang for the directors of the Athens Conservatory, the young contralto made her official debut as soloist with the State Orchestra, Dimitri Mitropoulos conducting.

In 1936 the Greek government selected Elena Nikolaidi to study voice in Vienna. This entitled her to a recital at Vienna's Konzerthaus—her first appearance in a foreign country and a highly successful one.

Then followed an audition for Bruno Walter, director of the Vienna State Opera. She was engaged for the role of Princess Eboli in "Don Carlos". She has sung a wide repertoire of operatic roles—Amneris, Eboli, Azucena, Orpheus, Delila, Erda and her most famous part, Carmen. She has often sung in all the leading opera houses of Europe—Prague, Munich, Budapest, Alexandria, and Cairo. An invitation to sing in the opera house in Italy was necessarily postponed because of the birth of her son, Michael.

In October 1948, Miss Nikolaidi returned to Athens where she made a sensation in recitals and appeared as Carmen eight times (instead of the one scheduled performance) within a fortnight. Later the same autumn—just before she came to America—she gave her first London recital. She was presented to Queen Elizabeth at a benefit garden party. She was offered a year's contract to remain in England to sing with the Covent Opera Company and to make records with them but she had made previous commitments in the United States.

Following her New York debut, Miss Nikolaidi was engaged to sing over the ABC coast-to-coast network on the "Carnegie Hall" program and also appeared on the "Voice of America" program.

The attractive singer is married to Thanos Mellos, whom she met while they were both students at the Athens Conservatory. Just ten days before their departure to Vienna, the young singers (he is a baritone) were married. Once in Vienna, Mr. Mellos taught and coached voice, for the State Opera prohibits the inclusion of married couples on their roster. He now devotes much of his time to managing the musical affairs of his celebrated wife and in helping to bring up their active son, Michael.

How Does It Feel To Walk Fo' De Kake ?

by Walter Gates

How does it feel to kake walk? I don't exactly know myself, even though it was only a few days ago that I was doing just that in Memorial Auditorium. It takes only about two minutes or less, and during that time you don't think about anything except the walking you're doing at that moment. But since I've been asked to try to express my feelings and thoughts about walking, I think that perhaps I should start from the beginning, from the time I first started early this winter.

Since one of our walkers of last year graduated and the other was a Kake Walk chairman this year, a new team was needed to represent our house. Therefore, just a week or so after pledging, a few practice sessions were held to find two new men.

I certainly didn't expect that I'd get accustomed to it rapidly enough to walk this year, particularly since I'd never even seen a Kake Walk. But, being tall, and somewhat limber, and of the same build as another pledge, our "coach" suddenly announced that Fred (Boss) and I were to be the new team. Surprise number one. So from the middle of December to the end of February, Kake Walk was foremost in my mind.

Up until Christmas vacation, we worked out about three times a week, concentrating on loosening up certain muscles which are rarely used in other sports or exercises, and in learning the basic walk and rest steps. These are the two main divisions of training: conditioning and the actual technique of walking.

After vacation, we had more frequent practices until exams intervened. During that period certain other things which I won't name interfered with practice, particularly since it entails playing a record of "Cotton Babes" with considerable volume for an hour or so.

Immediately after exams we really buckled down to daily practice sessions, although I did go home for a few days between semesters. I understand that some teams stayed at school through vacation just to work out those extra days. From the first of February until Kake Walk we concentrated on building up the necessary endurance, and in working out a smooth routine. We began to use the auxiliary gymnasium and the gym itself whenever possible for practice.

Finally came the day when we had the music of a live band to walk to instead of a record. That was the day we began to feel the spirit of Kake Walk itself, because we also had an audience for the first time. Then, too, it's very different walking with the band. A record has a beat which is absolutely constant, but the band naturally tries to take the tempo of the walkers.

Thursday came and Kake Walk arrived. Then Friday, and at last we were down at the Auditorium dressed in our costumes and made up in blackface. We warmed up, and watched parts of the skits to pass the time. At about 9:30 we drew lots for positions. Perhaps some people are not aware of it, but even the walkers themselves don't know the order of appearance until less than an hour before they go on.

I've been asked occasionally if I was scared or nervous out on the floor with thousands of people watching, but the answer is no. You just don't have a chance to think at all in that short (?)

two minutes. You're extremely conscious of the noise of the crowd, but that's the only external thing you can notice. Everything else is just walking as well as it is physically possible.

However, before your turn it's a different matter. It's like a track meet, when you're waiting for the starting gun to go off. Then you do feel the tension, but it's relieved somewhat by the veteran walkers who do their best to help the neophytes to relax.

There is an interesting comradeship among the walkers. They're rivals, but when they encourage each other and congratulate the winners they are completely sincere. Probably it's because they sympathize with each other's feelings; I don't know, but it's extremely friendly.

Of course, like in any other competition, it's exciting to win. However, in Kake Walk more than in many contests, it's almost as thrilling to walk as it is to win. There's gratification enough in hearing your friends cheering you on, and in being a part of such wonderful entertainment for the crowd.

Famous Actress Authoress To Present Program

Cornelia Otis Skinner will present one of her famous monologue programs Monday, March 27 in the Ira Allen Chapel at 8:30 p.m.

The author of "Our Hearts were Young and Gay" is well known for her monologues, better described as solo dramatic productions. Miss Skinner's enthusiastic public has included both the readers of her books, among them "Soap Behind the Ears" and "Family Circle," the latter being her latest, and the audiences who have seen her as one of America's leading actresses in "Theatre," "The Searching Wind" and Oscar Wilde's "Lady Windermere's Fan"

Miss Skinner is being brought to UVM by the Dramatic Club. Admission will be $1.20, 1.80, and 2.40.

Do You Want A New Gym ?

"The Liberty of the Press-it is as the air we breathe; if we have it not, we die." Old political toast.

Subject: Physical Education at UVM.

This university has outgrown its poor gymnasium facilities. We need financial assistance and we need it now! We are under consideration for financial aid, but as Mr. Archie Post, Assistant Professor of Physical Education, says: "We need a drive from the students to get action."

Therefore, in cooperation with the Department of Physical Education, we outline a program which will affect every student if it receives your approval. Here it is:

The proposed changes are:
1. A new gymnasium, 2. Placement of students into sports for which they are adequately qualified and from which they will receive more benefit than from the regular program, and 3. A remedial program for those not qualified to take the regular program. (These are listed chronologically.)

Lack of facilities is the main reason for the desired changes. We need a swimming pool. We need a more properly heated and equipped cage. We need more room for special activities. The Military Science Department, since it is in the same building, crowds out still more gym space. In addition to space, we need more personnel and time.

Bank Presidents To Speak At UVM

Mr. Levi P. Smith, President of the Burlington Savings Bank, and Mr. William M. Lockwood, President of the Howard National Bank and Trust Company, will address members of the University Club on Friday, March 4, at eight o'clock in the University Lounge in the Waterman Building.

The second improve ment would be mainly for those who score "below average" in the Cozens test.

This cost money; therefore we need a state-wide fund-raising program to raise the necessary $750,000 - $1,000,000.

Do you want the above program faster? Whether you do or not, vote now. Make use of of the press. The Cynic and the Student Government will support the will of the majority.

Phi Sig, Phi Delt Take Skit Honors

Playing before standing room only crowds on both Friday and Saturday nights, five UVM fraternities once again this year demonstrated to the onlookers why Kake Walk is fast becoming known as the best winter carnival in the East.

The perennially good Phi Sigma Delta players finally hit the right combination with their skit entitled "Howdy Doctor," and late Friday evening found the Briggs Trophy temporarily adorning the mantelpiece of the Phi Sig's meade hall.

The skit was a cleverly produced review of how the new Dr. Carstairs regime (President-elect Carlson to those of us who never read the Cynic) will affect the military, athletic, and social aspects of the UVM campus. Leading roles in the skit were taken by Lennie Miller, Gerry Kerstein, Geno Gorman, and Mark Byron, who gave an Academy Award performance as a very convincing ape. Let it never be said that there are no proficient joke-milkers at 360 Pearl st.

The second skit of the evening was put on by the Phi Delt and later proved to take second place in the opinion of the judges. Directed by Frank "Cecil B. DeMille" Krug, it featured a gigantic show boat which veteran Kake Walk goers attested was the biggest prop ever seen at the Auditorium.

As an added feature, Phi Delta Theta also presented an on-again-off-again octet singing a group of original college medleys, a purported scene from a silent movie, and a 32-man chorus singing as only 12 men can. Many people over 65 were heard to say that they enjoyed it thoroughly.

(Editor's Note: To all you incredulous readers, a Phi Delt wrote this article.)

Sigma Phi presented "State of the Union", a subtle take-off on the writing of the President's annual message to the Congress. It included a swing through the country showing how doctors, bank robbers, and cows are thriving under the H.S.T. administration. Bob Taisey played a very realistic Harry Truman; in fact, many a comment was heard regarding the realism of the entire skit. As a result, the Sig Phi's took third place in the skit competition.

Alumni News Have You Heard The Latest?

by Maureen Haney

Do you remember those students you used to know and see around campus? Did you ever stop to think what they might be doing now that they have left the University family?

Lynn Davis, '49, for instance, last year's lovely Kake Walk queen, came back for the big event this year. Lynn is now working for an advertising agency in New York.

Bob French, 49, Kake Walk king of last year also returned for the weekend. Bob and his wife are at the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration, and they are expecting their second child.

Janet Brackenridge of South Orange, N. J., All Sports of last year, is enrolled in the Special Course for College Women which opened in September at the Katherine Gibbs School in New York.

Lois Jean Eimer was a graduate assistant chemistry instructor here last year and received her M.S. in June from the University. She has received an appointment as a chemist at Brookhaven National Laboratory, Upton, L.I., N.Y., (under the auspices of the Atomic Energy Commission).

Stan King, a Cynic Staff member last year, has a position as photographer at the Easy Washing Machine Corporation, Syracuse, N. Y.

Kathy Eaton '49, is still seen around campus this year. She is working for WCAX in Burlington. Also working in Burlington is Kathy Crocker '49, who is editor of Panorama this year.

Mary Jane Farnham, in charge of Freshman Camp last year, has a position as director of dramatics at Montpelier High.

Debaters To Ky. National Event

by Frank Peabody

Striving to maintain UVM's reputation in debating while their schoolmates enjoyed the Kake Walk weekend, four members of the debate team entered the Fifth Annual Invitational Debate Tournament Feb. 24 and 25. Four other debaters will leave Saturday, March 4 on a one week trip to be climaxed by the National Tau Kappa Alpha Debate Tournament the next Thursday, Friday, and Saturday at the University of Kentucky, in Lexington, Ky.

At the MIT Tournament, Dave Washburn and Larry Ainsworth supported the affirmative of the national debate question for this year on nationalization of basic industries, and beat Emerson and Mt. Holyoke, but lost to Tufts and MIT.

On the negative side of the question, Chester Ketcham, and Freeman Creasey won out over Champlain, but lost to Harvard.

Major Bill Reynolds, Oregon '40 Pilot-Professor, U. S. Air Force!

Bill was an all-round athlete. He chose football as his favorite sport, made the varsity teams at Pomona Junior College and also at the University of Oregon.

A Theta Chi, Bill enjoyed campus social life. Found that it eased the pressure of rugged athletics and his heavy study schedule in Personnel Management.

Upon graduation, Bill chose a future in the Air Force. He "flew" his first Link trainer as an Aviation Cadet in 1940. By March, 1941, he had won his pilot wings.

The 1st Observation Squadron, Fort Riley, Kansas was Lieutenant Reynolds' first assignment. While there he met the future Mrs. Reynolds. They married a year later and now have two fine sons.

The Squadron moved to Panama, then to the Pacific. Bill advanced from pilot to operations officer to squadron commander. He came home a Major and qualified for a Regular Commission.

Recently commended for peacetime work—organizing and improving instruction techniques—Major Reynolds, a "Pilot-Professor", looks forward to a long and gainful career in the U. S. Air Force.

If you are single, between the ages of 20 and 26½, with at least two years of college, consider the many career opportunities as a pilot or navigator in the U. S. Air Force. Procurement Teams are visiting many colleges and universities to explain these career opportunities. Watch for them. You may also get full details at your nearest Air Force Base or U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Station, or by writing to the Chief of Staff, U. S. Air Force, Attn: Aviation Cadet Branch, Washington 25, D. C.

LAMBDA IOTA

Semester elections were recently held at the Owl House. Our new president is Bill O'Brien replacing Bud Stearns; Al Streeter has succeeded Jack Holly as treasurer; and Holly in turn has replaced Don Perkins as scribe.

Among the 17 pledges received into the third degree recently were: Ike Barney, Dave Barry, Al Bonajobi, Dave Boulanger, Fred Briggs, Larry Bryant, Kaare Christiansen, Leo Churchill, Dick Cloutier, Wally Dunham, Burt Gale, Howie Hamilton, Jerry Hayes, Bill Keppey, Jim Kolego, Mike Misogianes and Tom Pease.

An informal dance was held Saturday, Feb. 11 from 8 to 12 at the Owl House. The uniforms of the day were dungarees or other old clothes and dancing was to the music of recordings. Chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Baranoff and Mr. Ambrose Saindon. Arrangements were under the direction of Al Lamb.

The pledge project for the year is renovating the game room. Under the able leadership of Jerry Hayes, pledge master, designing and work has begun. Proposed repairs include new walls and ceiling, a paint job for the floor, and installation of new lighting.

GAMMA PHI BETA

The colorful black and gold cover on the Kake Walk program was designed this year by an ex-Kappa Xi Kappa, Lois Hayn. The girls of Gamma Phi Beta are proud of Lois and sorry that she decided to leave school.

Sorority hats off to Myrtle Youngs! She was chairman of the sculpture committee which produced "Cotton Babes," the second prize-winning snow sculpture.

The Gamma Phi Beta basketball team, captained by "Speedy" Seale, triumphed over Esther Thomas and her AEPi team 35-24, before Kake Walk set in. Ruth Coburn was high scorer for the evening.

Next game is March 9 when Gamma Phi will meet the victor of the Elmwood Hall - Alpha Chi scramble.

The Phi Delt, pictured above, are, as you can see, overjoyed with their new furniture, which made its initial appearance Kake Walk Weekend.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA

The chapter welcomes its new sisters initiated in a pre-Kake Walk ceremony on Tuesday, Feb. 21: Jacqueline Brandes, Shirley Bryant, Margaret Charleston, Joanne Conchintu, Helen Davidoff, Rhoda Davison, Thomasina Dexter, Santina Foti, Patricia Ham, Maureen Haney, Norma Haupt, Jean Hodgdon, Ann Hooper, Priscilla Howard, Ada Hyzer, Shirley Miller, Joan Phaneuf, Geraldine Phillips, Nancy Gill Reynolds, Janet Stewart, Harmie Taylor, Agnes Wilson, and Beverly Yutzler.

Congratulations go to Esther Havens on her engagement to Hobie Cook and to Ann Hooper on her becoming pinned to Frank Kelley, Sigma Phi.

A Kake Walk open house was held on Sunday, Feb. 26 with Charlotte Smith in charge; Frances Landusky, food chairman; and Mrs. Jane France, Miss Marjorie Perrin, and Mrs. Baxter Cummings pouring at the tea table.

It was a pleasure to see many of our alums over the Kake Walk weekend and particularly our last year's president and Kake Walk Queen, Lynn Davis.

KAPPA ALPHA THETA

The pledges of Kappa Alpha Theta started off the new semester by giving the annual pledge tea on Saturday, Feb. 12. Betty Johnston was in charge.

Three new girls are now proudly wearing Theta pins. Initiation took place on Monday for Mary Barr '52, Falls Church, Va.; Irish Donnellan '52, Old Greenwich, Conn.; and Mimi Martin '52, Glen Ridge, N. J. A buffet supper following initiation was enjoyed by the whole chapter.

Seven girls were pledged by the chapter on Tuesday morning, Feb. 14. There were Pat Carey '53, Ludlow; Betsy Clark '53, Burlington; Ann Crowley '53, Millis, Mass.; Nancy Gilson '52, Kenmore, N. Y.; Claire Hanning-ton '53, N. Darien, Conn.; Mary Lib James '53, Albany, N. Y.; and Peggy Van Nuys '53, Manasquan, N. J.

The chapter and the alumnae observed Founder's Day on Feb. 14. A supper was held followed by an after dinner speech by Mrs. Helen K. French, National President.

Kappa Sig, Sigma Nu Break Phi Delt Walkin' Monopoly

by Pat Williams

The 1950 Kake Walk at UVM saw the monopoly of the Phi Delt on "walkin' fo' de cake" broken for the first time in three years; for the Kappa Sigma and Sigma Nu fraternities walked off with first prizes on Feb. 24 and 25 respectively.

Dom Cote, '51 and Lee MacDonald, '52 walked for the Kappa Sigs; this was the first time for either of them. During the rehearsals Lee lost fifteen pounds, while his partner, Dom, lost ten. The two practiced faithfully to perfect their winning step—almost paralleling their backs with the floor. Both of them were really surprised when given the gold cup and huge green and gold cake which was saved for the special buffet supper on Saturday night. This was the first time the Kappa Sigs had won since 1927. "Our cake vanished ten minutes after we set foot in the house," says Bob Reid, '50, one of the winning walkers of Sigma Nu. On Saturday night the tables turned with Bob Reid and Tom Snelson winning first prize "walkin' fo' de cake" with their high kicking step and very smooth team work. Both Tom and Bob had been practicing since Thanksgiving, and the last ten days before the big event, twice-a-day rehearsals were in order.

The audience on Saturday night was really given a treat when the Sigma Nu and Delta Psi walkers "strutted" together in the Peerade. The walkers themselves were more excited about this special feature than the "walkin'" itself.

Other winners for Friday and Saturday nights respectively were: Delta Psi, second and Phi Delta Theta, third; Sigma Alpha Epsilon, second and Sigma Phi, third.

Tourney Basketball Bid Rejected

Quintet Closes Season At Middlebury Sat.

Because it'd be breaking a precedent, something teams which had caught the East's fancy with sizzling 19-3 and 15-5 records couldn't do, and because it's against the school's policy to accept such things, the UVM athletic department has turned thumbs down on a post-season basketball tournament invitation.

Even though it had won only eight of its first 18 contests this year, Coach Fuzzy Evans' basketball quintet received a bid to the New England regional tournament of the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball. It is better known as the NAIB.

The New Britain, Conn. tourney will be composed of four N.E. teams, with the winner representing this area at the national tourney at Kansas City in mid-March.

Athletic Director Larry Gardner and Coach Evans rejected the invitation. University policy does not allow a team to play a post-season tourney game.

A bid also was received from the same tourney a year ago. It was refused. In 1947, when UVM posted a 19-3 record, a similar bid also was rejected.

As a result, when the final whistle sounds Saturday night in the Middlebury College field-house, the curtain comes crashing down on UVM's 1949-1950 court season.

For the Cats wind up their campaign on Saturday. Middlebury, a state foe, provides the opposition and the chance for UVM to bag its 17th straight verdict over the Panthers since 1939.

A win over Norwich on Wednesday and one over the Middies this weekend will give the Green and Gold a final 10-10 record for the season. Considering the fact that it played the toughest schedule in the school's history and that three starters were fresh out of the ranks, the quintet has achieved a not to be sneezed at record.

Although it is the first time that an Evans-coached array ever slipped into such dire straits, it could have been worse. The Cats' last major hurdle was on Saturday afternoon when they tallied 22 straight second-half points for a 52-41 Yankee Conference win over the University of Maine. If they had fallen before the Potato Staters, the Cats would have slipped below the .500 mark.

Perhaps it is better late than never, but the team has finally built up a full head of scoring steam. Against both Champlain and Maine, the Cats registered 35 points in the second half. It represents the high for the year for a twenty-minute stretch. If you remember, UVM tallied only 16 and 12 points in the two halves against Dartmouth, in the season's opener.

Say, how about starting the '50-'51 season right now.

UVM rifle scores have been filed for All-American honors.

UVM meets Rhode Island State's fast basketball team here next winter.

UVM's baseball team opens its regular season May 3, meeting St. Michael's College.

Dartmouth College brings its baseball team to Burlington May 8, meeting UVM in a traditional game.

Billy Grant is up in the air, and Major Bull Evans-Smith is down on the floor in these two Kake Walk afternoon basketball pictures taken by Wes Phillips in the Auditorium. In the varsity attraction, Grant helped to take Maine by a 52-41 count with an eagle-eyed shooting attack which netted ten points. At the left, Grant gets away a jump shot from a most difficult angle. On the right, the faculty-student contest was strictly no contest. It was a combination football, basketball and rugby game. Chas Traverse and Major Evans-Smith are grappling for the ball, while on the extreme right of the picture, Prof. Robinson is jumping with joy.

"Fuzzy" Evans Skeds Spring Football Drill

Coach Fuzzy Evans has announced that he's planning on starting spring football practice at the University of Vermont in mid-April. The drills will last for about a month.

Evans, along with assistant coach Mike Kasap, held a preliminary football meeting last Tuesday. It cleared the deck for the spring drills.

Vermont enjoyed its best campaign in a quarter of a century (since 1923) when it won six of its eight football games last fall. The Catamounts ripped St. Michael's, St. Lawrence, New Hampshire, Rochester, Norwich and Massachusetts. They lost only to undefeated Union and state champion Middlebury (by a touchdown).

Evans hopes to field a spirited contingent this fall. He'll have on hand Bill Robinson, one of New England's most savage line-men and co-captains Dave Banta and George Schofield who'll team up at the guard slots.

In the backfield, the UVM brain trust is planning on using quarterback Ralph Kehoe, all stater a year ago and UVM's spark-plug, and Jack Keefer, Frank Farrell, Al Tavares, freshman ace Bobby Brown, and Dom Cote. Cote, besides being a fleetfooted runner, was also the nation's eighth best small college punter last year.

Larry Gardner is in his 23rd year as UVM basketball coach.

Freshman cager Mickey Kelly played with the state champion Montpelier High quintet in 1949.

Post Begins Track Practices

With veteran material on hand including middle distance runner Russ Mahoney, the only double winner in the Eastern Intercollegiate at Springfield, Mass., last year, University of Vermont coach Archie T. Post has begun indoor pre-season track drills.

Vermont opens its intercollegiate track campaign April 22, meeting Bowdoin and MIT.

Mahoney of North Adams, Mass., a top cross-country runner in the fall, is Vermont's ace performer and most consistent point-getter. His blue plate specials are the 440 and 880. He is the New England champion in these events.

Vermont is captained by Earle Randall of Burlington, the team's top miler.

Post expects a husky weight squad to back up his dashmen, sprinters and distance runners. Stan Ursprung of New London, Conn., last year's football captain, heads an impressive list of weight men. Others include footballers Lee MacDonald, South Ryegate, Charlie Traverse, Morristown, N. J., and Bill McIntyre, Bennington. McIntyre won Vermont's hexathlon title last year with the most points ever scored in the event.

Post also hopes to get a lot of winning performances out of dashman Howie Haddigan, Elmont, L.I., N. Y., and former Vermont high school stars, Bob Caswell and Jim Porter of Burlington and rugged Paul Putman of Springfield.

V-Men Admitted Free

All members of the University of Vermont Varsity Club, an organization composed of all UVM lettermen since 1886, will be admitted free of charge to all future Green and Gold athletic events in which they earned a letter.

According to Athletic Director W. L. Gardner, eight hundred and seventy-six graduates of UVM have earned at least one "V".

The new directive went into effect last week when the UVM basketball quintet met the University of Maine in a Yankee Conference game at the Auditorium.

Varsity Club officers who have initiated this policy in cooperation with the Athletic Council are: president, John Hoskiewicz; vice-president, Bill Dempsey; treasurer, Bill Wood; secretary, Bob Twiss; chairman of Alumni Membership, Charles Traverse.

Hexathlon Date Listed

The 1950 UVM hexathlon event--out of which comes the school's best all-around athlete--will be held on March 27 and March 30 in the gymnasium and cage.

The winner of the combined six events will receive the coveted James E. Donahue trophy. The trophy was first presented in 1932.

The current point record is held by Bill McIntyre. He scored 6863.718 points last year, busting Frankie Taylor's previous high of 6684.79 racked up in 1941.

The six events are paired off in threes. On the first day, the 110 yard dash, the rope climb and the mile run are contested. On the second and final day, the high jump, the shot put and the broad jump are contested. A minimum of 1000 points is given for each event.

At least four boys have announced their intentions of entering the rugged grind. They are footballers Bob St. Gelais and Howie "King" Haddigan, and Paul Putnam and Dave Hinkley, track stars.

Rifle Team Posts Record

The University of Vermont rifle team has chalked up the highest match score in the school's history -- but even so, it still lost the match in which posted the record.

The UVM riflemen blasted a 1392 score out of a possible 1500, but they were still on the short end of an event 1500 count tallied by their match opponent, the University of Maine.

No other UVM rifle team has ever tallied a 1392 score. It is only 108 points shy of perfection.

Tom Breen, one of the nation's foremost collegiate rifleman, shot a 290 count from prone, kneeling, and standing positions.

Other UVM scores: Wright, 278; Mercia, 276; Davis, 276; Montgomery, 272.

Gardner Is Baseball Clinic Main Speaker

UVM Athletic Director Larry Gardner is the main speaker at the first annual university sponsored baseball clinic. It will be held in the gym Saturday morning, 9-12.

All persons are invited to attend.

The program includes baseball instructional sound moving pictures, discussions regarding various aspects of the game and athletic injuries.

Gardner heads the faculty. He formerly played major league baseball with the Boston Red Sox, Philadelphia Athletics and Cleveland Indians. He is in his 23rd year as head baseball coach at UVM.

Others speakers include Ralph Lapointe, a member of the Rochester nine of the International League, Orrie Jay, UVM alumnus and Burlington High baseball coach, and Lyman "Shorty" Cote, UVM trainer.

Baseball Begins For Pitchers, Catchers

Dartmouth baseball coach Ed Jeremiah and UVM's Larry Gardner

With Coach Larry Gardner calling the pitches and signals for the 23rd consecutive year, the University of Vermont has begun spring baseball practice.

The UVM baseballers open their campaign on April 3, meeting George Washington University at Washington, D.C. It is the first of seven games on this year's annual southern trip.

Only pitching and catching candidates have reported to Gardner. Preliminary drills — as will probably be the rest of the pre-season exercises — will be conducted in the cage, in back of the gymnasium.

Hockey Team Scores 5-1 Win At Champlain

After three unsuccessful efforts, the UVM hockey team has busted into the victory column.

Slapped down by their three state foes—Middlebury, St. Michael's and Norwich—the Green and Gold puck chasers last Monday afternoon rammed home the disk five times for an impressive 5-1 triumph over a Champlain College sextet.

The game was played at Plattsburgh.

Jack Keefer, the diminutive football ace, tallied three times. He set the pace for UVM; Dick Hungerford racked up a pair of goals to ice the contest.

The Cats, however, dropped their home Kake Walk attraction. St. Michael's scored twice in the last period to snare a 4-2 verdict last Friday.

Dick Colella went in for a solo goal for UVM early in the game and then tallied another goal by his lonesome for the Cats.

CATS EDGE NORWICH

UVM stowed away three athletic victories in one night at Norwich.

On Wednesday night, the varsity and freshman basketballers scored court triumphs over the Horsemen by 67-56 and 47-42 margins, respectively, and the varsity hockey team upset the hosts.

Skiers 4th At Middlebury

The University of Vermont

ski team, whose efforts last weekend at the Middlebury Carnival earned it the ranking of the East's fourth best collegiate ski array, will enter three open meets in the next three weeks.

The Green and Gold snowbirds are entrants in the classy Vic Constant trophy race at Stowe this weekend, the Lyndonville Open on March 11 and 12, and the Men's Eastern Downhill, Slalom combined on the 18th and 19th.

The Vic Constant race, washed out of its original December date, is a combined downhill and slalom meet. The Lyndonville meet features cross-country and jumping events.

This trio of meets will cap UVM's best winter season in many years. Under Coach Bob Searles' sharp supervision, UVM's skiers have copped the Eastern ISU title, have finished fifth in the blue-ribbon Dartmouth Carnival, and in the nation's number one meet, finished fourth at Middlebury a week ago.

Although they slipped to ninth position in the jumping, the UVM standard-bearers registered 539.90 points. Middlebury, which claimed the Eastern national collegiate skiing title after the two-day carnival, scored 570.82 points. Dartmouth posted 561.99 points and third place New Hampshire tallied 557.26 points.

The rest of the 11-team field was spread out. McGill was fifth.

RecordReview

by Brooks Tillotson
Classics:

Brahms-Fourth Symphony in F Minor (DM-730)

Koussy and the BSO record this wonderful composition in a clear hall, full of resonance and and brilliance. Beautiful first movement, dramatic second, catchy third and triumphant finale.

Interpretation-A
Recording-A

Prokofieff-Romeo and Juliet, Ballet Suite No. 2 (DM-1129)

The same orchestra plays a superb rendition of one of Prokofieff's lesser known, but no less enjoyable works. Fairly dissonant in parts, but what dissonance! Give it a chance.

Interpretation-B
Recording-A

Popular:

Bradford and Romano-Rag Mop 47-3208 (45 rpm)

As the only male duet currently on wax, Johnny and Tony evidence considerable flair for the pop style vocalizing and their teamwork on this catchy RCA Victor cutting is distinct and different. The other side is "Chattanooga Shoe Shine Boy", another fast-risen hit.

Perry Como-Please Believe Me 47-3211 (45 rpm)

This is one of Perry's most haunting ballads sung with all his effectively sincere approach. The coupling, "Did Anyone Ever Tell You Mrs. Murphy," finds Perry in a light, romantic mood.

Old Favorites:

Barbershop Melodies (Col.C-35)

An album of barbershop harmony such as you have never heard before. The quartet is the champion "Flatfoot Four", and they can really come through with "Shine, Oh Joe", "Little Annie Laurie" and others. American Folk Songs (Cap. CC-75)

Jo Stafford, backed by Paul Weston and Orch. presents some of the most scintillating stuff one could hope for, of course, some of the ballads she croons are English, not American, but you will overlook that when you hear her sing "Barbara Allen", "He's Gone Away", or "Red Rosey Bush". Orchestral interpretation is remarkable too—just a little touch of modernism for a perfect effect.

For all you Kenton fans—he's back again, so watch out! He should be better than ever with his new, 40-piece band.

A Directory of Summer Activities has been prepared for students who have no plans for this summer. This Directory lists many summer activities which are located all over the world; and each project has an appeal to different kinds of students. ## A Concert Not To Be Missed

Since its debut last year at the Inter-fraternity Sing, the Men's Chorus has appeared numerous times during the past semester with great success. On Wednesday, March 15, the UVM Men's Chorus will present a concert at the Ira Allen Chapel.

The concert to be presented comes as a climax to less than a year's organization which the Men's Chorus, under the direction of Lyman Hurd and Professor Truman Webster as an advisor, started last April.

As judged from past experiences the concert should be excellent entertainment.

Goodness Socks! All Hand Knit, Too

Need a new pair of argyles?

Or maybe kid sister has a birthday coming up. Well, stop stewing! Just drop down to the Alpha Chi house on 384 Main, Saturday afternoon, and see what those lasses of the Lyre have to offer. Socks! Socks! Socks! Big ones, little ones! Red ones, yellow ones, striped ones, cables, and argyles. You can't miss! The doors will be open from 2 to 5. Coffee 'n cake will be served too.

Local Jazz Show Gets High Rating

Two issues ago, the Cynic printed a story on Ed Bort, a UVM senior who spins his own jazz jockey show on WJOY. Since then, Ed's program, "Concert in Jazz" has extended from a 15-minute Saturday night broadcast (7:30) to a half hour (at the same time).

A recent telephone survey made by WJOY reveals that "Concert in Jazz" received a 67.6% listener appeal vote over the nationally heralded Vaughn Monroe show aired at the same time.

NOTICE

A representative of the Women's Medical Specialist Corps of the United States Army will visit the Vermont Campus about March 15, to interview qualified young women who have obtained, or will obtain their baccalaureate degrees in June, with a major in Biological sciences or in Physical Education.

If there are any Senior women or graduate women interested in the Physical Therapy Training Program of the Medical Corps of the Army please leave your names before March 1st, at the Office of the Dean of Women where further information on this subject is available.

Skit Honors

On Saturday night the Phi Delts again presented a much more polished version of their "Varieties in Review" and were awarded the first place cup. Phi Sigma Delta won second place with their tremendously popular "Howdy Doctor." "State of the Union" again took a strong third place.

Also playing: "Now It Can Be Told" was written by Colonel Knouse (Vermont's Joshua Logan) and was produced by Delta Psi. It was an entertaining and original skit seasoned with a bit of tradition, a pinch of uranium, and a good joke here and there.

"Sam-No-Trump" featured Johnny Tampus (better known as the poor man's Milton Berle) and the ATO Trumpet Local 107. It had more laughs than all the other skits combined, but the skit author forgot that the judges are not college kids.

NEW CHESTERFIELD REPRESENTATIVE

Campus Merchandising Bureau, college promotional agency for Chesterfield cigarettes, has appointed Ray Henry as its UVM representative this semester.

Debaters To Ky.

Bowdoin and Northeastern.

Bates College of Maine defeated MIT in the final.

On route to the National TKA Tournament in Lexington, Ky., the UVM debaters plan to debate against Notre Dame, Goshen, Indiana, and Purdue.

Tau Kappa Alpha is the national debating honorary society and this tournament is for all the chapters in the U.S. President Joe Levin of the UVM chapter, Phil Levin, Bruce Stargatt and Ian Macniel will represent UVM at the National Tournament.

NOTICE

Friendliness and coffee will be the highlights of the Vermont Independent social hour to be held at Southwick from 8 until 9 p.m., Monday, March 6. Open to everyone, the social hour will hour will follow the regular business meeting which will be held from 7 until 8. If this first attempt proves successful, VIP hopes to make these combined meetings a regular feature of the organization. It is hoped that all who are interested will attend both meetings of the evening.

CIO Head Salerno Talks Before SAC

Joseph Salerno, an International Vice President of Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union, CIO, spoke on Saturday, Feb. 18, to an assembled group of students and townspeople on the development of organized labor in the United States, specifically referring to the Amalgamated Union.

Beginning with the stories of the earliest mills in Lowell, Mass., as an example of what struggles had to be overcome, he developed the subject up through the struggles Sidney Hillman had to get labor into politics. It was mentioned how the Amalgamated has widely developed labor-management relations due to the fact that the men's clothing industry is made up of so many different types of small industries and the necessity of close cooperation. One of the major points he made was that in the earliest days of organizing it was the unions who stabilized the prices on men's clothing. By insisting on equal wages for equal jobs in an industry-wide plan the whole business became stabilized and undercutting was eliminated.

The talk was given in the morning, and a tea was held in his honor in the afternoon. An informal discussion was held and several questions pertinent to labor were discussed. June Stone and Mary Ruth Coffman poured. At the conclusion of the tea Mr. Salerno presented the university a book on the life of Sidney Hillman with an inscription to the students by Mrs. Hillman.

Mr. Salerno was sponsored by the Social Action Commission of the Student Christian Association with the help of Mr. Anthony Jenkins, state advisor to the CIO in the state of Vermont, and Mr. David White of the Department of Economics.

UVM Frosh Win Debate Tourney At St. Michael's

Three Teams Garner 14 Wins

UVM's freshman debate team returned from the St. Michael's Novice Tourney late Saturday afternoon after having chalked up fourteen wins to their credit out of the eighteen debates in which they took part. These debaters can be proud of their successful showing, as this was the best showing that Vermont has made at the tourney as compared with previous years.

In addition to making such a fine showing as a group, the individual debaters on the team achieved high ranks for themselves in the final scoring. Don Brown held the highest rank among all the debaters competing with a score of twenty-three out of a possible thirty points. Dave Prince, another member of the Vermont team, tied with Shapiro of Dartmouth for second place. The majority of Vermont debaters also followed as superior debaters.

Vermont sent three full teams; SMC had two; and Dartmouth and Champlain were represented by one team apiece. Those competing on Vermont's teams were: Don Brown and Dave Prince, negative; Howie LaPorte and Faith Allen, affirmative; Leonard Thornton and Carol Poynton, affirmative; and Josephine Norton and Mary Dodge, negative.

Also from Vermont were: Cynthia Swartz and Sharon Livingston, affirmative; and June Hall and Elizabeth Clarke, negative. Miss Lydia Frank, Mr. R. H. Humphrey, and debate coach, R. B. Huber accompanied the debaters on the trip.

Following the debates, there was a banquet for all the debaters. The high spot of the banquet was the announcement of the ranking debaters.

Dr. Stoehr, Pianist Will Play Monday

Alpha Chi Omega Sorority is sponsoring a two-piano recital of works by Dr. Richard Stoehr on Monday, March 13 at 8 p.m., at Southwick. In previous years Dr. Stoehr has played to the girls at the Alpha Chi house, but this year it was decided to extend an invitation to the public. Barbara Beal, a UVM junior and a pupil of Dr. Stoehr, will play the first piano part, Dr. Stoehr the second piano part, and Dr. Wilhelm Raab, the violin. Everyone is invited to attend.

Dean's List Girls Guests At Party

Mortar Board members will be hostess to all UVM women students who made the dean's list last semester, Thursday, March 9 at Southwick from 7:30 to 9. The traditional "Smarty Party" is held every year to give recognition for good scholarship. Invitations to the Smarty Party are sent out by Mortar Board.

Skits will be presented by Sophomore Aids and Staff and Sandal members. Charades will also be on the program. Esther Thomas will be mistress of ceremonies. Refreshments will be served.

Miss Mary Jean Simpson and Margaret Wing will also be guests at the Smarty Party.

Hedi Ballantyne is in charge of the party.

Close Two Redstone Campus Smokers

by Pat Williams

SMOKE, SMOKE, SMOKE THAT CIGARETTE!

(cough, choke, cough.....ahhhh!) Sounds like a novice smoker, doesn't it? but it isn't. No, it just happens to be a group of girls (two dozen or more) trying to squeeze into the Robinson Hall smoker any evening after dinner. Why? Well, for the past few weeks it seems as though full ash trays and burnt table tops have been the causes of the smokers' at Redstone and Coolidge being closed to all potential smokers (and bridge players, too.) Thus, because of these conditions, Robinson has extended an "Open Door" policy to its neighbors (the poor things!)

However, instead of the smoker being a place of enjoyment and relaxation, Robinson now resembles a bomb shelter with war orphans all huddled together in order to make room for one more. The smoke is so thick one must wear a gas mask in order to find her way about. The smoker itself is just a little smaller than a matchbox and one will notice that the walls have a tendency to bulge a little when there is too much smoke "hanging" around; (the window is never put to use)

Now what happens if Robinson's smoker gets closed, also? Well, rumors have been heard that a Quonset hut is on order so that girls may gather inside like "hep big indian pow-wow" and use nature-made ash trays—"the good earth".....ashes to ashes, dust to dust, if you smoke cigarettes, "empty ash trays" is a MUST!

Like Brahms?

Students who have an interest in music, whether performers or just listeners, now have a chance to get together for informal appreciation and discussion sessions.

A substantial group has already met twice with great success and is anxious to extend an invitation to all those who have not yet heard of its plans. Both ensemble and madrigal singing groups have been organized and now plans are underway to include the large body of musically minded who neither sing nor play an instrument.

The next meeting will be held on Sunday, March 12 at the Music Building, 70 Williams Street at 3:30 p.m. There will be an informal musical program given by students and refreshments will be served. All students on campus who are interested are invited to this informal get together.

Lytle In S. G. Under New Rule

Evidence of the change in constitution under which Student Government is operating was provided recently with the inauguration of Charles Lytle as Sophomore Representative on the Executive Council.

One of the three sophomores chosen in the February election, Eloise Liston, was unable to assume office. Under the old constitution, the position would have remained open until a completely new election could be held because of the absence of any replacement clause. The new constitution provides that in such a case, the candidate receiving the next highest number of votes automatically fills the post. The new constitution was voted overwhelming approval by the student body and is the provisional organ of Student Government until it receives the final approval of the University Council.

Sale Features Socks, Shortcake

Alpha Chi's Lorraine Ayers, '50 and Barbara Jones, '51 demonstrate their selling techniques at their novel sock sale, held last Saturday.

What started out as a Sock Sale at the Alpha Chi house Saturday afternoon turned into a coffee hour and card party by the time things got humming.

Of course, the socks were sold, all seventy pair, knit by the actives and pledges of Alpha Chi. The boys seemed to go for the girls' handiwork, and men's socks went like hotcakes. Girls also bought argyles and solids for their men friends, besides picking up a pair or two for themselves.

After the sock tables, the main attraction was the tea room. Here customers were served strawberry shortcake and coffee to their hearts' content, before drifting into a game of bridge, Spanish or otherwise (Canasta, that is).

Another attraction patronized by the sweet-tooth crowd, was the home-made fudge table. Alpha Chi alums presided over that booth until every square was sold.

General chairman of the affair was Harriet Gregory, with Lorraine Ayers on the Sock Sale end. Charlotte Smith, Lena Gale, and Cricket Hard were responsible for tea room supervision, helped by Ada Hyzer, Janet Putman, and Franny Landusky, the food committee. Joan Ganow and Bev Yutzler took care of clean-up.

Campus Clippings

PHI DELTA THETA

The Phi Delta Theta House is slowly settling down from one of its most successful Kake Walks. The fraternity managed for the first time in many years to place in every one of the competitive events of the big weekend.

Congratulations are due to Rod Smith and Dan Burke for placing third in the Walking, to Dave Banta and newly initiated John Jennings for a second place in the Ice Sculpturing, and to "Sweep" Waters, "Cecil" Krug, Andy "Showboat" Smith, and Dick "the Voice" Avery for their efforts in bringing in a first and second place in the skits.

It should also be mentioned that Willard Robertson did a fine job in his capacity of Kake Walk director.

Phi Deltas were all greatly pleased to see so many old alumni at the buffet supper, prepared by Dick DelHagen, at which time the new living room furniture was displayed for the first time. Much favorable comment was heard about both food and furniture.

Among the alumni who were up for the weekend were: Bob Freeman, Howie Siegrist, Bill Potter, Whit Switzer, Hal Mayforth, John Williamson, Frank Eklund, Dusty Miller and Bill Clossey.

DELTA DELTA DELTA

A Burlington girl, Elizabeth A. Kerin, was elected president of the UVM chapter of Delta Delta Delta sorority at house elections Monday, March 4.

She will be installed later in the month, as will other officers elected.

They were: Vice-president, Alma Warrell, E. Barnett; recording secretary, Janet Williams, Brandon, corresponding secretary, Jean True, Lyndon Ctr.; treasurer, Barbara Whitney; Pan Hellenic representatives, Barbara Preston, Burlington, and Rita Seu, Bristol, Conn.; scholarship chairman, Elizabeth Lawrence, Burlington; publicity, Elizabeth Cole, Wilmington; rushing, Marilyn Wheeler, Belows Falls; social rushing, Janet Kerin, Burlington, and social, Elizabeth Scribner, Lyndonville.

VIP Will Hold Box Social, Dance

Beginning with a coffee hour following their last regular meeting on Monday, March 6, the Vermont Independent Party has launched a new and extended social program for the rest of the year.

Because of the concert being given by Dr. Richard Stoebr on March 13, VIP will merely hold a business meeting at Southwick on that night, but on succeeding Mondays, refreshments and dancing are to be added to the agenda. Mr. and Mrs. Scott Mahoney plan to give free basic ballroom dancing instruction to all interested, while those who do not feel the need for lessons will also be able to dance. Students need not be members of VIP to attend either its meetings at 7 or the social hour at 8.

An old-fashioned box supper has also been planned as part of the new program. To be held at Southwick on April 22, this also will be free to the general student body. The only requirement will be for the girls to bring attractively wrapped box-suppers to be auctioned off to the highest bidder, thus providing both dinner and dinner partner to the venturesome male who offers the highest amount.

No Magnolia Trees At Mortar Board Southern Ball

A Southern Ball will be held as the annual Mortar Board Spring Dance at Colonel Southwick's plantation Friday, March 24.

The Catamounts will play "cotton cotton" music to please the belles and their beaux from 9 to 1 that evening.

Mortar Board regrets that magnolia trees won't be in bloom then, but assures everyone that there will be "some little ole thing like mint julep" for refreshment, served by Sophomore Aides.

The old plantation, spruced up and trimmed by Staff and Sandal, will be shining to greet its guests.

Freshman girls may have a 1:30 evening to attend Colonel Southwick's Ball, and admission cards may be obtained during the week beginning March 20, in the Waterman Building outside the bookstore. The price is $2.40 per couple.

2 Teams Debate

Two UVM debate teams, accompanied by Dr. Robert B. Huber, chairman of the Speech Department, left for an invitational debate tournament at Brooklyn College to defend their title Thursday.

Vermont teams were co-champions last year at the Brooklyn tournament, sharing the honor with Champlain and Navy.

Those making the trip are Margaret Fisher, Moodus, Conn., and David T. Washburn, Windsor, for the affirmative; and Elaine Katz, New York City, and Kevin E. Kearney, Newport, for the negative.

Ray Henry: Smoke's The Thing

By Joan Ediff

With this issue, the Cynic brings the first of a series of articles dealing with the part-time occupations of some of UVM's students who earn money to help meet their educational expenses.

A great many students, feeling the pinch of high tuition and living costs have found it necessary to supplement their incomes.

They have discovered many enterprising ways of doing this.

The Cynic would like to introduce these people to its readers and show in what ways they are using their ingenuity.

This week, we present Ray Henry, newly appointed Chesterfield representative, who is responsible for both the Letter-to-the-Editor award and the Telephone Quiz each Wednesday night, when a pack of Chesterfields is presented to the lucky people who answer his questions about UVM.

Ship Ahoy! Shore School

The UVM Sailing Club is sponsoring a Shore School for elementary sailing instruction, which began Thursday, March 2, at 7:30 p.m. in the gymnasium.

The next meetings will be on alternate Wednesdays at the same time and place.

Subjects include types of sailing rigs, boat nomenclature, knots, sailing, and safety. At alternate sessions there is discussion of racing tactics for those who will race for UVM. Various demonstration devices, slides and movies are also to be used.

Sessions are open to all men and women students, and to any interested townspeople. Membership in the Sailing Club is not required. By means of the school, the club hopes to arouse interest in sailing and in the Sailing Club.

Three International 110 Class boats will be available to the club for racing and sailing this spring, and it hopes to have a fleet of four dinghies by next Fall.

Various members of the club are leading the Shore School and the racing tactics conferences. The first meeting included an exhibit of a fully rigged sail boat, used in describing the parts.

WAA Will Sponsor Playday Saturday

The Women's Athletic Association at UVM is sponsoring a basketball and modern dance play day next Saturday. Participating will be Middlebury College, McGill University, and Vermont.

Six UVM coeds from the WAA basketball club traveled to Middlebury Saturday, March 4, to participate in an annual basketball derby there. UVM's sextet beat Russell Sage, 33-25, but lost to a superior Middlebury aggregation, 21-11.

Making the trip for Vermont were Betty Aseltine, '51, Kay Smith, '51, Astrid Nelson, '52, Ann Gray, '52, Janet Brickner, '52, Arloa Dean, '52, Roberta Bicknell, '50 and M.E. Parris, '50.

Miss Jeanne Euler of the Women's Physical Education Dept. and Miss Emily Ross, WAA basketball coach, accompanied the girls.

CATS HUMBLLED BY MIDD 52-47

11-YEAR JINX IS ENDED IN FINALE

The impossible happened at Middlebury last Saturday evening as Vermont's inconsistent Catamounts did the impossible by bowing to Middlebury's high-flying Panthers 52-47.

Ed Kotlarczyk gave his utmost in the fracas, as usual, by contributing 21 points to the cause of justice, but the "thin one" couldn't do it all by himself, as hard as he tried, and the Panthers didn't have to have their arms twisted to accept their first court triumph in 11 years over the Green and Gold. The Catamounts had previously won 17 games in a row over the Blue.

But the victory was not a gift. Big Dan Scott, who learned his basketball way down south in Bennington, gave the UVM contingent much dismay during the encounter as he grabbed the rebounds from both backboards while proving unstoppable from the floor. His 27 points was high for the evening, also.

The game started slowly with Vermont taking a lead at the quarter 7-6. Middlebury lead at half 26-25 on the strength of Scott's eight consecutive foul shots. The battle see-sawed back and forth throughout the final quarter until Midd pulled ahead to stay in the last few minutes.

Scott, in collecting his 27 points for the evening, made 13 of 15 charity heaves. Even though the Green and Gold outscored the Panthers from the floor, the foul shooting of the Blueboys turned the tide in their favor.

As a result of this loss, Vermont ended the season with a 3-3 record in State play and so shares second place honors with the Middmen.

Frosh Lose

In the preliminary the Middlebury Freshmen quintet also scored a mild upset by dumping the UVM Kittens 56-50. Red Brewster of the Green and Gold and Sheehan of Middlebury led their respective teams with 17 points each. John LaBelle played his usual bang-up floor game in a losing cause.

"TEARS ON MY PILLOW EACH MORNING"

Now that the basketball season is over we can all line up at "the Mill" and order one beer, for the specific purpose of hearty wailing in same. We have just witnessed one of the poorest seasons in over ten years at Ira Allen's school, and prospects for the future are mighty dim indeed. But worse yet is the thought that those of us who do the crying may as well drink the malt and cry no more, for we are powerless to act.

The one hope of the conscientious supporter of athletics at UVM lies in a man named William Carlson. He is quoted by the local press as saying he does not favor having losing teams. Hallelujah! I think it is safe to say in the same light, that the students at UVM not only do not favor having losing teams, but are downright sick of having losing teams. We have sat back on our haunches for two years and watched St. Michael's become "loaded," and they have not as yet been reprimanded by either the legislature or the "sanity code" boys.

TOURNEY BRIEFS

We saw some mighty fine basketball at the Northern A & B scuffle last week. It's surprising how some of those so-called Vermont "hicks" take to the game—with shoes on, yet!

And speaking of tournaments, best of luck to the Purple Knights in Baltimore. But, "wha'happen?" with St. Anselms the other night? Could be the same thing that happened at Middlebury the same night. Holy Cross went down to defeat the same night. Bad night all around.

Also, we understand that UVM turned down all sorts of tournament bids through its athletic director, Larry Gardner, which is a good idea this year since we wouldn't have the chance of a snowball in Collidge Hall of making good. Yet for the policy in general of accepting no post season bids, I'd like to gently but firmly clasp my roman nose with one hand and with the other give two tugs on the chain. Anyone care to join me?

COLLEGE ALL-STATE

The Burlington Daily News has selected a Collegiate All-State team that is just that, with a representative of each Vermont College on the first team. They are: Bovee, Norwich; Scott, Middlebury; Burzenski and Farley, St. Michael's; and Ed Kotlarczyk for Vermont.

Little Ed is a repeater for the fourth time, a feat which no other person is likely to equal until we again go back under wartime rules.

It appears that the only records at UVM not held by the "friendly Pole" are in Track, and we look for him to change that this spring.

NAT'L TOURNEYS

Talk of tournaments is topmost in the minds of many students now, even with the passing of the schoolboy battles and the refusal of a bid to New Britain, Conn., by Larry Gardner, UVM's Director of Athletics, for the second consecutive year.

Gardner has been quoted as saying it was "against the University's athletic policy to accept post-season playing offers." The University of Maine has also rejected a similar offer to compete in the NCAA Tourney, which opens on March 23.

Four New England teams will play early this month with the winner going to the Kansas City Tourney. Only two of these teams have been selected to date. Holy Cross, with twenty-six victories and one defeat, and Ohio State have been named to play.

In the National Invitation Tournament, San Francisco, the defending champs; Bradley, the top team in the AP poll; Duquesne; St. Johns; Lasalle; Syracuse; Western Kentucky; and Long Island University are the eight teams chosen to play. To fill the other four spots, Kentucky, Kansas State, City College of New York, Niagara, and North Carolina State are considered to be most likely to compete.

In this tournament, which begins March 11 at the Madison Square Garden, the top teams of the country will be fighting for top honors.

Since their loss to St. Anselm's this past weekend, the Knights of St. Mikes now have a record of seventeen won to five lost. They are now preparing for the National Catholic Tourney, 16-team program, at Baltimore. Invited to this event, and accepting, the Michaelmen will be the first Vermont team to take part in such a national post-season tournament.

SAE Wins Inter-frat Bowling Championship; Sigma Nu 2nd

New Interfraternity Bowling Champions are those Summit st. dandies, Sigma Alpha Epsilon. Led by "silent Red Truax" the boy who splits more duckpins than infinitives, the SAE aggregation dropped only 8 points while taking 32. The race was a close one throughout and was not decided until the final evening of matches, when Sigma Nu fumbled on the one yard line and lost a point to an irresistible Delta Psi five, thus eliminating themselves from possible victory. Kappa Sigma, last season's champion ended up a strong third when the firing ceased.

ATO sorely needed George Stanley back from last year, but did manage to get into fourth place ahead of the Phi Sigs. Sigma Phi, although sporting a 21 won and 15 lost record, gave plenty of trouble to the leaders and managed to keep ahead of Chi Sigma, Lambda Iota, Delta Psi, Phi Delta Theta, and TEP, who finished in that order.

Several individuals turned in top performances for their respective teams. Among these are Bishop of SAE, Stanton and Ayers of Sigma Nu, Rodney "which one are you" Beldon, who knocked them down along with McGarrey for Kappa Sigma, and Doug Tudhope of Sigma Phi.

Sylvester Nosed Out in Vic Constant Trophy Race

David Sylvester, outstanding University of Vermont skier, was edged out by the narrow margin of eight-tenths of a point as he placed second in the annual Vic Constant Trophy race at Mt. Mansfield last Sunday. His score was 375.8 as compared with 375 for the winner Rudy Nelson, of the Sepp Ruschp Ski School at Mansfield. Another UVM skier, Dave Dodge, finished third with 376.5 points.

In the final standings, UVM placed six skiers in the first eleven, and eight in the first twenty-four.

bob searles... coach of the year.

by Al Dom

One thing can be said about UVM's ski coach, Robert N. Searles, he certainly knows his ski business! Bob, as he is better known around the campus, has been coaching the Green and Gold skiers for the past two years.

Coach Searles' ski career goes back to Newport, Vt., his hometown, where he was a four-year ski letterman and a member of the great Newport State Championship teams of the late 30's. Some of his teammates included such outstanding skiers as "Bobbo" Sheehan, present ski coach of Middlebury, and Norm Richardson. Upon entering Dartmouth, he was elected captain of the Big Green's freshman ski team, and for three years was a varsity standout under the tutelage of Walter Prager. In his senior year Bob was elected to Casque and Gauntlet, the Senior Honorary Society at Hanover. He was also a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

In 1946, after completing his war years with a branch of the Air Force Intelligence, he became an instructor at the Snow Valley School in Manchester, Vt. Following this he was head ski coach at Norwich for 2 years, during which time the Cadets defeated the Vermont skiers twice; and for the past two years he has been coaching the Catamount skiers.

ski squad, Bob said, "It's a good team and shows much improvement over last season's club. We have a well balanced team, and the boys have been working well together." Upon questioning Bob on what he thought of UVM's performance at the Middlebury meet, (the Catamounts finished fourth in an eleven team field) he replied: "The boys gave a pretty good showing, as we were competing against the best ski team in the Northeastern states. It's like playing against Notre Dame in Football or St. Johns in basketball."

Presently, Bob is recovering from a broken leg which he sustained when he took a bad spill while skiing on Saturday. He was practicing for a down hill slalom event when the unfortunate accident occurred.

Ed Kotlarczyk has established a new scoring mark for UVM's future basketballers to aim at. His four-year total is 820. He made 221 this season.

Nikolaïdi Concert Rated "Brilliant"

by John Moore

The Community Concert on March 6 was a pleasant surprise. Elena Nikolaïdi gave an excellent concert to a medium-sized audience at the Auditorium and was warmly received. She has a full, rich contralto voice which she used with particularly striking effects in the Schubert and Richard Strauss lieder.

Although Mme. Nikolaïdi is dramatically shallow and her English pronunciation is poor, her voice has a fine lyric quality which she exploited to its fullest extent.

The high points of the evening were reached first in Schubert's "Ave Maria" and "Die Forelle," and later in the Ravel "Harbanera" and the Cimara "Fiocca la neve." In these her voice attained a clarity that was magnificent. The exotic "Habanera" was particularly memorable. In the evening's major work, Rossini's aria "Bell'raggio lusinghier," from Semiramide, Mme. Nikolaïdi made a noble effort, which seemed hampered by a slight cold.

On the whole, it was a brilliant and striking performance. Mme. Nikolaïdi's stage presence and warm presentation more than made up for her faults. There was proof in this concert that the Community Concert Association can present an artist who is worthy of the title on occasion.

Letter To Editor

We highly approve of the school's policy of not buying, or making concessions to, athletes. However, we feel that UVM has neither the great teams nor the prestige prerequisite to the turning down of tourney bids, the acceptance of which would help provide some much needed publicity. We daresay that the team, in this case the basketball team, would like to play in a tourney.

It is rather evident that an unknown school does not receive endowments of any size, and the one thing every one knows about UVM is that every department is asking for more money.

With these facts in mind, we strongly urge that future tourney bids be accepted whenever possible. In view of the demand for endowments for a new and complete gym, we feel that the Athletic Department is in no position to refuse invitations to tournaments in any sport. As for the breaking of precedents (misspelled by The Cynic), Eve broke one, too.

If the Debating Team can travel all the way to Kentucky, why can't the basketball team travel the much shorter distance to Connecticut?

Hopefully yours,

Lawrence H. Levin, '53
Reynolds J. Deacon, '53

SA Committee Positions Open

Student Association president Ed Streeter announced this week that students interested in working on one of the seven standing committees of Student Association may sign on lists provided on the Kake Walk bulletin board. These lists will be there until March 13.

The executive council of Student Association will meet every Monday afternoon at 4 in Room 210 in Waterman.

The meetings are open to anyone who wishes to attend.

Two regular meetings have been held by the new council. Minutes of these meetings are provided on the SA bulletin board after each meeting.

One important item for all student treasurers to notice is that the Finance Committee will soon be calling for the proposed budgets for next year. Watch the bulletin board for more information.

Elections for the rest of the council will be held April 14.

There will be positions for three juniors, two sophomores, two freshmen, an assistant secretary and an assistant treasurer.

Petitions for nomination will be available by March 20. Further information will be on the bulletin board.

Brotherhood Banquet This Thursday

The above two pictures, which appeared in a copy of the Cynic last year, are striking examples of negligence on the part of the students of this school in dealing with the property provided as an added comfort to them and paid for from their activity fee. The first picture was taken when the furniture was new, and the second was taken four months later.

The Lounge is in even worse condition now and will get steadily worse unless the students take better care of it. Student Government is planning a three day experiment this week to determine whether the students can be more careful in their use of the furniture. Possible shutting down of the Lounge is threatened.

Waters Named Cynic Editor; Ada Hyzer To Head Business

The new senior staff of the 1950-51 Vermont Cynic was announced Tuesday night at the annual Cynic banquet. Charles Carlton, out-going editor and master of ceremonies at the very special occasion, publicly announced that Ed Waters, of South Norwalk, Conn., is the newly elected Cynic editor-in-chief.

Another new staff chosen was Jennings, head of Public Relations; Carlton; Prof. Leon Dean, Editorial Advisor; Mr. L. L. Briggs, Business Advisor; Ada Hyzer, new Business Manager; and Ray Henry, Ex-business manager.

Although Ed had a little experience on some of the newspaper staffs at previous colleges attended, he really got his start when he came to UVM last year. After a year as managing editor on the Cynic staff, he has been elected as the new editor-in-chief.

Other top officers for the coming year are: Paul Barash, Managing Editor; Ann della-Chiesa, Campus Editor; Pat Williams, the business board. This group is in charge of the financial status of the Cynic and is therefore considered the financial "backbone" of the paper. The new business staff for the coming year will include: Ada Hyzer, Business Manager; Val Meyer and Joe McQueen, Co-Advertising Managers; Janet Putnam, Office Manager; Fanny Landusky, Office Secretary; and Sam Mace, Circulation Manager.

Student Gov't Will Close Up Lounge

3-Day Experiment To Determine: Can It Remain Fit For Humans?

by Joan Ediff

Conditions in the Student Lounge were the topic of active debate in the Student Government meeting of March 6.

The Lounge has been so abused and cluttered by the students using it that Student Government came to the conclusion that corrective measures would have to be taken. Accordingly, a resolution regarding Lounge care was passed, the substance of which is that if in the week following the distribution of this Cynic, great improvement is not made in the condition of the Student Lounge, the janitors will stop cleaning it. At the end of three days (at which point the Lounge becomes even less habitable for humans) it will be closed for repairs.

Discussion of the problem at this time was partially precipitated by the report that the honorary societies, which had intended to furnish the Lounge with draperies, refused to appropriate any money for this purpose, as they felt that it would be throwing good money after bad to invest in furnishings which would be ruined in a short time. Evidence that this would be so is indicated by the present mutilated condition of the stuffed chairs and the ash trays, whose appearance denies their tender age of only one year, four months.

Apparently having no respect even for new furnishings, UVM students went to town on the Lounge as soon as it was redecorated. The pictures accompanying this article (p.1) were

The Cynic Gets Analyzed And Learns Bitter Truth

by Walter Gates

Now that a new staff is taking over the operation of the Cynic, an appraisal of the achievements, ambitions and ideals of the Cynic under the old staff seems in order. Naturally the aspiration of any newspaper staff is to make their paper as good a one as possible. In many ways the Cynic has failed to match the standards set for it, but in other ways it has succeeded in spite of numerous obstacles.

The primary function of a campus newspaper is to report the news of the university and to provide any information which is interesting and of value to its students. It is only fair to report that this past year the results were not as good as they should have been. In the future the Cynic hopes to be able to provide more complete coverage of campus news. In regard to local, state, national and world news, it is felt that ample coverage is provided by the daily newspapers. Being a weekly paper the Cynic does not presume to cover all the news of the world, but is instead like a home-town newspaper reporting the background of the news rather than news flashes "hot off the wires."

In the manner in which the news is presented, the staff has tried to cover the news both objectively and subjectively. That is, it has reported the news as straight information in the manner of a daily paper, but also formulating a policy on the controversial issues on campus. However, an evaluation of the efforts made by the staff finds that it has failed to provide enough interest in certain activities. Perhaps the outstanding example is that of student government, where student interest seems totally lacking. It is the responsibility of a campus newspaper to arouse this interest.

All has not been dark, however. Several changes have been made in form and content which have improved the Cynic considerably. The switch to vari-type printing, which is admittedly imperfect, provides the staff with a shorter deadline, more pictures, and better advertising. The staff hopes to improve the technical difficulties while retaining the advantages already named.

Another innovation is the campus poll recently instituted by Phil Kaplan. The publicity campaign, the posters, boxes and questions are all part of this new feature of the Cynic. Closely related is the column, "The Cynic," where these opinions of the students are aired by an anonymous reporter.

On the social side of the Cynic Organization, there has been a picnic, a coffee hour, and a banquet which took place last Tuesday night. The purpose of these social gatherings is to promote friendly feelings and closer harmony among the members of the staff.

Inasmuch as it has already been stated that there are numerous faults with the Cynic, what might be done to improve it? The present staff has made valiant efforts, but it is simply inadequately numbered with experienced members. There are many people in the university who are capable; the Cynic needs them, and hopes to learn how to attract them to its staff. After all, a paper is only as good as its staff. Another difficulty is that unlike many schools there is no journalism course here to provide the staff with professional advice and with people who intend to make their careers in journalism. The cold fact is that the Cynic lacks any professional advice such as is provided to several of the clubs on campus. This is a severe handicap.

Therefore, when making an overall appraisal of the year's achievements by the retiring staff, it is necessary to take into consideration the many difficulties and handicaps which it has had to cope with. They have tried hard to make the Cynic a good paper, and have succeeded in some measure.

IRC Elections

At a recent meeting, the International Relations Club elected Bob Gilpin to lead the group for the coming year. Other officers elected were: Vice-president, Peggy Fisher; Secretary, Ruth Coburn, Treasurer, Sylvia Heininger. The new officers and council are making plans for a varied program to be of interest to everyone.

GOVERNMENT

Crimeless UVM

What is happening to the Student Court is a grave question affecting students and their rights here at UVM. The Court was initiated several years ago, and has meted out justice fairly and squarely when given the opportunity. The year 1949-50 is, however, a black period in its history, or else it is an exceptionally "crimeless" year. What is feared by members of the Court is that cases which by all rights should come to them, have been sidetracked and handled by faculty members or deans. They still remember the case last year in which several fraternity men were arrested; official word of it never reached the Court. Total number of cases tried this year: one.

taken just one year ago, when the furnishings were only four months old. At that time, Student Government, already concerned over the abuses, in conjunction with the Cynic, planned an object lesson. For three days the Lounge was not cleaned. The results? Everyone complained that the janitors were not doing their job—but no one tried any harder by throwing his trash in the baskets and his cigarette butts in the ash trays.

CITY NEWS

The Smelt Ain't Bitin'

by Dick Cloutier

It seems to be the general consensus of the Burlington Public that ice-fishing will never be the same again. Within the last six or seven years, the amount of fishing shanties to be seen on ice-covered Lake Champlain has steadily decreased up until this year, where they are now few and far between. No one has been definitely able to say why ice-fishing has become so poor.

The sport of ice-fishing is not particularly exciting, especially with the conditions as they are today. It takes a great lover of fishing to spend five to eight hours at a stretch on the cold wind-swept ice, dangling a line through a small hole without any prospect of catching anything.

However, these ice-fishing enthusiasts have devised many methods of escaping the cold. The majority of the fishermen have little huts known as fishing shanties, which have no floors. This allows the fisherman to cut holes in the ice and fish from within the structure. A small oil stove and some kind of beverage (?) helps to keep him warm. Thus protected from the wind, it isn't quite as unappealing as it might seem at first.

Smelt, perch and pike are the main catch in this area. Perch seem to have predominated in the catches of the past few weeks, whereas takes of smelt and pike have been negligible. At one time it was possible to take in around fifteen or eighteen pounds of fish at one time, but today three or four pounds are considered a very good catch.

There has been one theory after another advanced as to the cause of poor fishing. Among them is that the sodium chloride which is put on the roads to melt the snow and ice, has upon melting and running down into Lake Champlain, killed or driven off most of the fish. However, most of the sportsmen have no idea why the fishing is so bad, but they do all agree on one point, the fish just aren't there any more.

Fifty-two Have Used UVM Speech Clinic

by Kay Smith

Perhaps you have a slight speech irregularity and never realised that it can be overcome. A case of nervous tension may manifest itself in your speaking voice and come to be accepted by you as a natural, unchangeable characteristic of your voice. Or, you may exhibit severe articulatory or voice disorders and never know that expert speech therapy can be yours free, for the mere exertion of walking into Miss Eleanor Luse's office in the Waterman Building.

But, fifty-two UVM students knew about it and took advantage of this service during the 1948-49 year. The majority of these were referred to the Speech Clinic by faculty, but some came on their own initiative and others who had been in the clinic the

This was the distribution of speech disorders:

Articulation	13
Sound substitutions	3
Sound distortions	5
Foreign dialect	1
Cerebral Palsy	2
Cleft Palate	2
Voice disorders	30
Disorders of pitch	11
Disorders of quality	17
Disorders of intensity	2
Stuttering	6
Hearing Loss	3

Occasionally a student was included under two disorders. Two students were referred to an otolaryngologist, one for a laryngeal examination and the other for an otological examination. The latter case had been referred to the Clinic because of poor articulation. An audiometric test in the Clinic reveal-previous year returned voluntarily. Twenty-five per cent of the students came just once; some had been referred for consultation only. Of the rest, thirteen were enrolled for individual instruction, seventeen for group instruction, and nine for both.

The number of private half-hour lessons per pupil ranged from one to fifty. Group instruction included classes for voice problems, articulatory disorders, hearing loss, and stuttering.

ed a hearing loss. The otologist diagnosed a progressive type of deafness and prescribed treatment. Work at the Clinic included not only remedial work in voice and articulation but also lessons in lip reading. This case did not know he had a hearing loss, in fact, the Army had discharged him recently without discovering it. A third student was referred to the Vocational Rehabilitation Division of the Department of Education. This case had a hearing loss and through this Division secured a hearing aid.

The Clinic also offers consultation service. Sixteen persons took advantage of this service. They included parents of stutterers and of children with articulatory problems and hearing loss. Voice analyses included a voice analysis for a priest from St. Michael's

It should not be difficult for UVM students once they are aware of the clinics existence, to appreciate its worth and take advantage of its corrective instructions.

Should you be taking advantage of the therapeutic program? If you think you have any sort of speech disorder, drop in for a consultation with Miss Luse.

EDUCATION

ARBITRARY STANDARD?

An interesting fact was brought to the attention of this paper a short time ago in connection with the hiring and firing of teachers at UVM. According to our source, there are certain teachers who are automatically dropped from the payroll each year--whether they are competent or not--if they have not made an effort to get their Ph.D's. It struck us a little odd that a university, in theory a leader of thought, should have to subject its teaching staff to this quite arbitrary test of a man's teaching abilities.

This source further pointed out that once a teacher has taught at the University a certain period of time--something like four or five years--and once he has been elevated to a grade above instructor, his job is secure and nothing but a major catastrophe could shake him loose from the job.

To us these two facts helped to clarify the situation; namely, why certain men who are not gifted as teachers, are allowed to stay, and why others, who actually may have more to offer, must move on. The moral seems clear: you may not earn much, but keep your nose clean and you're hired.

THE NEW: The "Cynic" Speaks

Dear Cynic Readers,

How've you been? Remember me? I'm your pal who's trying to make your life and mine interesting. Haven't heard from any of you enthusiasts yet, but I'm not fretful. There's plenty of neat around campus for the cynic.

Looks like it's trying to act like spring out-of-doors, which brings to mind spring time events. An important phase of a U.V.M. student's college career either starts, continues, or ends around this time of year. This occasion is being selected for one of our class honoraries.

It seems to me that our honorary groups such as Boulder or Mortar Board are not honoraries in the usual sense of the word. The other groups too (Staff and Sandal, Gold Key, Sophomore Aides, Key and Serpent) follow closely to the pattern set by the senior clubs. In our present system, the usual pattern is for a person to find himself placed on a sophomore year honorary on the basis of popularity. Usually this popularity is based on leadership and service, but that's not amust. Once this claim for fame is made, that same person finds that he is heading many groups, and eventually, he climbs the ladder to a senior honorary. Many times, scholarship has not been considered. Honoraries are usually thought of as having a platform of leadership, scholarship, character, and service. It seems, that U.V.M. partially slips over the scholarship angle. I do not advocate another Phi Beta Kappa, but I think an 80% average, at least, should be one prerequisite. However, if the majority would like an honorary without a fairly high scholastic rating, how about having a service honorary to take care of the hard workers?

With this honorary question, I feel too that something should be mentioned about who's who at U.V.M. I wonder if we really have as few leaders as it seems, or are we just using the same people all the time? It seems unfair to those who do make a sophomore honorary to be continually called on all along the line. There are others who work hard and lead too, but miss recognition because they failed to make a sophomore honorary and get in on the ground floor.

Hope no hard feelings have been made. Best of luck to all of you at election time-

"VOICES OF-"

The snow is still falling, the flowers have not burst, and the first day of spring is March twenty-first....It's true that Spring has been trying to edge her way into Vermont's wintery scenery and at the rate things are going she's still going to have to work pretty hard in order to have her grand entrance on the twenty-first of this month.

Each year the little "lamb" tries to frisk lightly across the green mountains but is always chased back by the powerful roarings of the old March "lion." Skiers are still being presented with snow by Old Man Winter and ice-skaters still find the Lake and ponds suitable for figure 8's. Fishing shanties are still being used by ice fishers and broken legs are still obtainable on the small patches of ice and "slush."

"Nature's refrigerator" - the snow is still keeping Pepsis cold and dorms find it handy for cold glasses of milk or other stimulating beverages. One still trips over sleds and other children's playthings when walking down Main Street. Below zero weather still gives girls another chance to wear their ski suits to classes, and from what has been heard, the Burlington Transit Company has been making quite a bit of change on some cold brisk mornings.

Now with all these incidents still happening it doesn't look like Spring will arrive any too soon. Instead of Easter bonnets one may still have to wear con caps and raccoon coats if this sort of weather keeps up. Anti-freeze may still be in use and it would be wise not to throw out cold tonics. Who knows, we may find ourselves swimming in the Lake three weeks from now!

What Now After Year On Cynic?

by Sophie Muriel Sandow
Photos by Staff

With this issue of the Cynic the term of office of this year's Senior Staff draws to a close. As these students relinquish their duties to their successors, they do so with mixed feelings, and the hope that the Cynic will be as successful in the future as it has been in the past.

Victor C. Murdock '50, Schemectady, N. Y., Sports Editor:

"I first began writing for the Cynic in December 1947, and now that it is time to retire I can honestly say that it will be somewhat of a relief not to have to worry about meeting deadlines. However, it will be a job that I will miss, and I would still like to write sports stories from time to time. The experience of working on the paper has been most valuable."

Joan Ediff '50, Pittsfield, Mass Feature Editor:

"It is going to be very strange to no longer play an official role on the Cynic, but it certainly will feel good to have some free time! Somehow, though, I don't think I'll be able to stay completely away from it, and will probably end up behind a typewriter from sheer habit."

Robert D. Taisey '50, North Troy, Campus Editor:

"Although the Cynic has taken a lot of time and it will seem good to have this time now to devote to other things—namely, studying, my experiences with the Cynic for the past 3½ years has been to me some of the most valuable of my college work. My associations with the Cynic will provide for me many pleasant memories and I feel as though my college education has been richer as a result of my contact with this undergraduate organization."

THE OLD...

"Do You Want A New Gym?"

by Phil Kaplan

The Cynic Campus Poll began its experimental venture last week with the question of the week "do you want the new gym sooner?". As this type of polling was entirely new to UVM, the response to the question was not overwhelming. However, some fairly obvious facts were gathered from student opinion: the majority of voters want the new gym as soon as possible; the majority also want improved facilities in general. A few individuals suggested too, that we have a better coaching staff in preference to the new gym. However, don't you think that better facilities would be conducive to better coaching?

This question and problem is still an important one to us, and immediate action cannot be taken without a stronger response from the student body. Although the Campus Poll question for this week is on another topic, we would urge you to drop more of your suggestions and opinions on the "new gym" questions in the poll boxes. We, of the Cynic, are more than willing to fight for a new and better gym, which we will have in the near future, but we need your support. Come on, students, get behind us, and fight!!!

The Rains Come To The Vermont Campus

by Mimi Merrill

As we can all remember quite vividly, the night of March 8 was "a dark and stormy night with rain pouring from the heavens in raging torrents." Soon one who didn't know that miracles just didn't happen would swear that a river had suddenly sprung up between Converse and the ill-fated boys' dorm.

If the boys had happened to be peering out of their windows in the popular direction of Converse they could have seen a most amusing or pathetic sight, depending on whether they possess a normal or perverted sense of humor. It seems that there were two girls abroad in the vile weather, and when they came to aforementioned river, helplessness seemed to strike them. Finally, after much deliberation and false starts, they decided, "Oh, well, what the —!" and proceeded to take off their shoes and saturated socks and waded merrily across. Half way across, one of the pair of lovely co-eds suddenly disappeared from view and was soon seen splashing wildly in a huge puddle.

In his wanderings around the basement full of knee-deep water, one of the boys chanced to see an open window spewing water in on the floor. He sloshed over to the offending window, slammed it shut, and sloshed back to dry land again. Ouuu Hero! But too bad, all that work for nothing! The force of the river was too great and the window broke into a million pieces.

Next morning results of the rough night could be discerned more easily. The breakfast room was closed "due to flood conditions" and the pumpers spent all day pumping away knee-deep water.

MUSIC

Choir To Present Opera In May; "Down In Valley" Tryouts Held

Campuswide tryouts for the modern opera "Down in the Valley" by Kurt Weill, which will be presented in May, were held Thursday, March 17 at 4:30 p.m. in the Music B Building, 70 Williams Street.

A departure from the usual type opera presented by the University Choir, "Down in the Valley" was written by a contemporary American composer, who in a lighter vein, has to his credit the current Broadway hit "Lost in the Stars" as well as the musicals "Lady in the Dark" and "Knickerbocker Holiday." "Down in the Valley," an American folk opera, had its premiere at the University of Indiana in 1948. Since that time it has been produced with great success in both college and professional theatres all over the country. During the summer of 1948, Miss Janice Shively, voice instructor in the UVM Music Department, took part in its first radio and television broadcast at the University of Michigan and in 1949, Robert Goss, UVM '47 sang in the Lemonade Opera Company production in New York.

Results were not available at the time this issue went to press.

FRATERNAL

Delts First In IF Skiing Pi Phi's First & Only Girls

At the Underhill ski bowl last weekend seven fraternities and one sorority took part in the annual inter-fraternity ski meet. Despite icy conditions the entrants did surprisingly well and the final results proved to be very close.

The Giant Slalom was the only event staged this year, because poor conditions on the Tear Drop trail prevented the Downhill race from taking place. George MacDonald, skiing with near perfect form, led the 45 performers with a 25.9 effort. It was the Delta Psi team that walked off with the winning honors as they placed four men in fairly low times. Tom Cook took second place in the meet and led the Delts to their victory.

The team scores were: Delta Psi 90.6; ATO 88.7; SAE 88.5; Phi Delta Theta 88.3; Kappa Sigma 86.8; Sigma Nu 72.5; and Lambda Iota 70.2.

Dave Patch of SAE finished 3rd; Bob Ray, Phi Delta Theta, 4th; John Hurst, SAE, 5th; Leland McDonald, Kappa Sigma, and Doug Shaw, SAE, tied for 6th; George Waller, ATO, 7th; Pete Hunstman, Delta Psi, 8th, and Jay Underhill and Howard Hansdom both of Phi Delta Theta tied for the 9th place.

Pi Beta Phi, the only girls team to show up, won the sorority part of the meet by default. They competed with the men and compiled a total of 64.3 points.

Dave Hagar and Harold Stowe of the UVM Outing Club did a grand job of running the meet.

PETE REPEATS

Sturdy, dependable Pete Haslam, of the Junior class, received some long-deserved recognition of his abilities recently when he was elected to both the presidency of his fraternity Sigma Nu and also to that of the Interfraternity Council. More conscientious than brilliant Pete was one of the healthiest influences in the IFC last year; he represented a progressive way of thought in his dealings with the fraternity system and its ills and cures. Respected by his fraternity brothers, as loyal Sigma Nu's will attest, Pete has potentially the power of elevating the IFC to the position it logically should hold.

This is not Pete's first taste of glory; he nibbled at it as head of the Student Government elections committee. This year he was offered a nomination for the presidency of Student Government, which he declined in order to run a fraternity brother's unsuccessful campaign. Pete's first big issue: where and how the independents at UVM fit into the Wake Walk picture.

Brotherhood Banquet Set For This Thursday, March 23

Jewish, Catholic, Protestant Views To Be Presented At Annual Affair

The annual Brotherhood Banquet, sponsored by the Religious Life Committee of Student Association will be held Thursday, March 23 at 6:30 in Waterman Soda Fountain.

Three Faiths Represented

Speakers representing each religious group on campus, Protestant, Catholic, and Jewish, have been invited to talk at the dinner.

Dr. Jeremiah Durick, Chairman of the English Dep't. at St. Michael's College, who recently gave a lecture on Evelyn Waugh's "Catholics in the U.S.A." before the UVM Newman Club, will represent that faith at the Banquet.

Dr. Arthur A. Gladstone, Burlington physician and associate professor of Clinical Surgery at UVM Medical College, will speak for the Jewish people.

Representing the Protestant point of view will be Will Thomas, of Westford, a widely-discussed author of novels and other committee works.

Committee Pays Half

The Religious Life Committee will use the same system as last year in selling tickets for the banquet, paying half the price of the dinner for students wishing to go.

The cost of the meal is $1.50, and the price to students, 75¢.

LETTERS

Winner of this week's carton of Chesterfields is Miss Gillman whose letter appears below.

You are completely right, the Cynic has improved a hundred fold, and I can see this with each issue. Vari-type has done a lot for the paper—it adds immediate coverage plus many terrific photos. Then too, I like some of your new column ideas. Mainly, the feature stories on students who are earning money around campus. I think it is about time that some of the other people who are working hard were recognized. Also like your idea of the Campus Poll in conjunction with the "cynic" column. Glad to see that someone is taking all of our gripes to heart.

Phyllis Gillman.

AN APPEAL

In the last few months a considerable amount of pressure has been exerted on this department to give a true picture of the athletic situation at the University of Vermont. As this is my last column, they can not fire me now, I feel it an obligation to express some of the sorrowful practices that have transpired. I am sorry to disappoint those athletes who have personally approached me and asked for a TRUE picture, because only a few people actually know what has gone on and is taking place now. If I make any statements that can not be fully backed up with proof I would only serve to cloud up the picture and bring the whole administration on my back.

WHY?

Maybe the following questions, if answered in full, would give us a clarification of the situation. Does the Athletic Department at UVM report annually a detailed account of the money spent during each fiscal year? Who actually makes the decision as to how much money is to be spent and where it is to be used? Has there ever been any money set aside for a new gym and what has happened to various donations already given? Why doesn't the university try to get government assistance for the proposed structure? We still do not have a full time, salaried physician for our athletic teams. "Shorty Cote", a most indispensable asset, takes care of all equipment, is the trainer at all games, issues towels, and performs enough odd jobs to fill this page. "Fuzzy" Evans (give the guy a break) coaches three sports, a situation that does not even exist at Podunk Prep-----WHY? "We don't have the money!" is the usual reply.

RIDICULOUS!

With the above questions in mind it seems a rather ridiculous thing to say that we do not have the money. Middlebury, St. Mike's, Norwich and any number of schools the size of UVM, and smaller, are not plagued with such a disgusting setup. Are we any different from them? "Well, we are not as heavily endowed as the other schools", is another cry often heard. Does it take heavy endowment (UVM has a pretty good endowment) to run anormal, healthy athletic program with at least the bare essentials that are required? No!!! What it takes is the proper allocation of funds that are on hand. Are not the students charged enough and do we not make just a little money from basketball, football, and baseball games? What in the name of Ira Allen and Frank Taylor do we have for an athletic policy around this place any way?

PETTY BUT PREPOSTEROUS

Even when it comes to petty things there seems to be malignant mismanagement and disregard for the athletes and the students. When the hockey team volunteered to repair the rink and have it regraded the school remained passive. A request was made for nails to refit the boards but it was refused. Of course we had a mild (?) winter this year and the climate around here is so temperate that hockey is not practical. The boys only won two games this year, but in my estimation they won a victory every time they went on the rink. That victory was the determination to play despite the university. Not long ago the members of the Varsity Club wanted to borrow a few helmets to use in their initiation ceremonies. There were several useless unrepairable helmets in the gym, but the Athletic Department would not let them be taken. What were they saving them for, the freshmen gridders next fall? The Varsity Club had even promised to return the worn out equipment. I could go on and on but what good would it do?

RETIRING RECOMMENDATION

It is true that we have had some fairly good teams in the last few seasons, but with all the complaints we have heard from the athletes it is a wonder we have any teams at all. I have one recommendation to make before I sign off. Either back up the teams at Vermont or give up athletics altogether. Why be half-donkeyed about it? See you in the Chapel.

Ed Kotlarczyk, Al Niemann End College Cage Careers

As the 1950 basketball season is brought to a close, so ends the college basketball careers of six UVM athletes.

This year's pivot operator and captain, "Big Al" Niemann, started his hoop activities in high school in his native town, Queens Village, N. Y. This experience plus some outside ball has shaped Al into the sensational passer and play setter that has brought acclaim from the fans during his four years of varsity at UVM. Al helped make up that famous quintet of Killick, Jake, and Co. during his freshman year. Although not a high scorer, Al has racked up numerous assists from his post slot. This past season Al tossed in 118 points. Forty-four of these were from the foul line to lead the team in this department.

Eddie Kotlarczyk, Detroit, Michigan ace, has a long record of basketball behind him. Some people have perhaps wondered what the formula for a basketball player like "Ageless Ed" is. Here's the answer. Four years of high school ball plus playing for a championship service team during his four and a half year stretch in the armed forces plus some outside ball plus wonderful condition plus ability equals Ed Kotlarczyk, a terrific all-around player. "Yosh" like Niemann, started his Vermont career with the KJ Co. combination and captained the 47-48 quintet. Ed set the school scoring record for a four year total this season with 820 points. He finished this year with a 221 point total, 91 baskets and 39 foul shots for a 11.1 average. In his last two games, Middlebury and Norwich, Eddie pumped through 26 and 21 points respectively to bring to a close a spectacular court career.

Other '50 year men who maybe wearing the Green and Gold for the last time are Roy MacDonald, Ralph Kehoe, Pat Farma, and Gene York.

19 Game Slate; St. Mike's 1st Home Contest

The University of Vermont has announced a 19-game baseball schedule for the spring campaign. The slate includes a seven-game spring southern trip which opens April 3 at George Washington University, Washington, D.C., and a double header with the University of New Hampshire.

Baseball coach Larry Gardner, former major league infielder now in his 23rd year at Vermont, has listed southern trip games with George Washington, Navy, Fort Meade, Loyola of Baltimore, Hofstra, Upsala and Army.

Vermont's regular campaign begins on May 4 and closes May 30, with St. Michael's College forming the opposition in both instances.

Vermont, captained by .395 hitter Ray Vescovi of New London, Conn., last year won three of its five southern trip games and split even-Stephen an 18-game schedule.

The 1950 Vermont varsity baseball schedule:

April 3, at George Washington; April 4, at Navy; April 5, at Fort Meade; April 6, at Loyola (Baltimore); April 7, at Hofstra; April 8, at Upsala; April 10, at Army.

May 4, St. Michael's home; May 6, New Hampshire (two games), home; May 8, Dartmouth, home; May 10, at Norwich; May 13, Massachusetts, home; May 15, Norwich, home; May 19, at St. Lawrence; May 20, at Clarkson; May 22, at Middlebury; May 27, Middlebury, home; May 30, at St. Michael's.

UVM beat Dartmouth in a game of football in 1923, 6-0. This is the only time the Cats have beaten the Indians.

Archie Post reports that the Varsity schedule will run as follows: On April 22, Bowdoin, M.I.T., and Vermont will meet at M.I.T. The 29th means the Quadrangle Meet here with Colby, Bates, and Vermont. May 6, open. May 13, perhaps the Yankee Conference Meet at Rhode Island in Kingston. On the other hand, the Eastern is the same date at Springfield, Mass. May 17, Union at Schenectady. May 19 and 20th, The New England Intercollegiate Conference Association Meet at Bowdoin. May 27, Middlebury, Norwich, and Vermont at Middlebury. Note: Final exams start the 24th.

The Frosh will meet April 22nd with Burlington High School at home. On the 29th, Lyndon Institute away. May 6th, St. Johnsbury Academy at Burlington. May 13th, Champlain Varsity here. May 16th, Norwich Frosh also here. This adds up to the hardest and heaviest schedule in several years, says Post.

In the sprints, Haddigan and Putnam seem to be real prospects. Luther Reynolds will be a considerable help in the dashes. Reynolds was probably the fastest dash man B.H.S. ever had. Nearly always he could run the 100 in 10 seconds flat. He has not come back to track since service, however.

Big "Sam" Nostrand, wishing to do double duty in tennis and track, causes the question to be raised as to how much value he'll be to the track squad.

One lad who should prove of much value to the team in both the high and broad jumps, last year's transfer from West Virginia, is George Arata. He may also be able to work in one of the running events. Thus, with Barber, Bohlen and Arata in high jumps there should be much more strength in that department than in the last few years.

With Haddigan, Putnam, and Arata in the Broad jumps, that event shows more depth than for some time. Bobby Perkins, our Phi Beta Kappa, seems to be practically alone this year in the pole vault, although he should be receiving some backing from Stewart Millington.

The field events show more depth than usual. Ursprung, Hinkley, and McIntyre will put the shot. Throwing the discus will be Bill Long, Putnam, Remick, Hinkley, McIntyre, McBride, and Densmore. Traverse, Ursprung, Black and Hinkley throwing the hammer and javelin throwers McIntyre, MacDonald, Abele, Steinmetz and McBride fill out the list of field men.

Just as an afterthought, if Steinmetz works as hard on the low hurdles as he did at the last of the previous season, he should go a long way.

Thirty-year old Ed Kotlarczyk, inceptor of wheelchair basketball, was not only the University of Vermont basketball quintet's top scorer with 221 points but also its top feeder with 73 assists this season.

The UVM Women's ski team has made a name for itself in intercollegiate competition. Ranked third as a team at the Middlebury ISU meet, the team has placed in every meet it has attended. Watch next week's Cynic for the full story of these little publicized, but deserving of praise, skiers.

RE: Change of Policy
Non-Veteran tutoring

Because of the large increase in the number of non-veterans requesting tutoring through this bureau, Mortar Board has found it necessary to limit its financial aid to those who absolutely need it. As of March 1, only those students who have shown evidence of financial need (such as now working or receiving scholarship aid) will have half of their tutoring bills assumed by Mortar Board (through Student Government Funds).

Other students receiving tutoring through this bureau will be expected to assume full cost of their tutoring bills. Any student is welcome to use the bureau in obtaining tutors or applying to become a tutor..at the Student Personnel Office.

Veteran Tutoring

Veteran tutoring policy will remain as before; that is, veterans receiving tutoring through this bureau will have bills paid (up to 80¢ an hour) from the Mary Jean Simpson Fund.

Address any questions concerning tutoring to Jean Ritchie, 369 South Prospect St.

SAE Takes Basketball Title

SAE won the fraternity championship in basketball by defeating ATO by a 34 to 22 score and this game brought to a close a highly interesting year of intra-fraternity basketball. It was keen competition in both Leagues A and B, with the latter being particularly interesting. SAE which got off to a good start, fought off on rushing Kappa Sigs and Phi Sigs to take the league title. In league B, ATO dominated the play for the most part with the Sig Phi being their toughest opponents.

The fraternity championship, as mentioned above, found ATO versus SAE in a game which was close until the last quarter, when Salem, Bishop, Schofield and company knocked the game wide open and went on to win by a substantial margin and add valuable points toward the coveted Traynor Trophy.

The Final League standings are listed below.

League A	Won	Lost
ATO	7	1
Sig Phi	5	3
Delta Psi	4	4
Owls	3	5
Chi Sigs	0	8
League B	Won	Lost
SAE	8	2
Kappa Sigs	7	3
Phi Sigs	7	3
Sig Nu	5	4
Phi Deltas	4	5
TEP	0	10

one who has some athletic ability (he need not be an all American) and might be interested in seeing our university, get in touch with the Varsity Club. Those in charge of this project are John Hoskiewica, Edward Comolli "Buck" Piche, "Art" Pruneau, Charles Traverse, and Bill Johnson. Either see one of these students or write a letter to the Varsity Club, UVM Gym, enclosing the name and address of the person or persons whom you think may be interested. Let's see if we can make a concerted effort to make this project a big success.

SH'KSP'N SCENES SET FOR MAR. 29 AT SOUTHWICK

The play's the thing, they say, and so it will be on Wednesday, March 29, at Southwick when the curtain rises at 8:00 p.m. for the student directed-performed presentation of scenes from five Shakespearean plays.

These scenes take the place of a term paper for Professor Pope's Shakespeare class and stem from the fact that the Bard of Stratford-on-Avon's works can be better enjoyed seen than read.

The sleepwalking scene from "Macbeth" will be the first offering. Directed by Jean True, the cast includes David Wheeler as the Doctor; Laura Mindick as the Gentlewoman; and Carol Brody as Lady Macbeth.

From "Antony and Cleopatra," the performance will be the death scene. Charlie Carlton will direct the cast which is as follows: Cleopatra, Barbara Spaulding; Iras, Nancy Pearson; Guardsman, Paul Lucas; Clown, John Moore; Dolabella, Kent Matthews; Caesar, Harvey La-Terre.

The courtroom scene from the "Merchant of Venice" is directed by Bob Arthur with the following cast: Solanio, and Salarino, Frank Amedeo; Shylock, Tom Kent; Duke, Bob Sutherland; Antonio, Al Hurley; Bassanio, Larry Stoddard; Gratiano, Charles Niles; Nerissa, Marilyn Wheeler; Portia, Audrey Campbell.

Turning to comedy, Suzie Poolley presents "Merry Wives of Windsor." Heading the cast is Will McBride as Falstaff; Mrs. Paige, Betsy Craigie; Mrs. Ford, Audrey Kerner; Bardolf, Glenn Fay; Mrs. Quickly, Carolyn Nelbach; Mr. Ford, Dave Newhall, Mr. Paige, Ed Raffile.

The French scene from "Henry V" will be directed by Suzette Levin, with Bunny Cotnoir taking the part of Katherine, Esther Thomas as Alice, and Cedric Pierce as Henry.

Forming the production end are Rosemary Traynor, Ruth Coburn, and Joyce Rogerson on Costumes; Marge Fullam, Mary McGrath, Mary Ellen Murray, Tony Peloquin, and Ricky Levine on Staging.

Producer-Coordinator for the entire performance is Leonard Tomat.

The scenes are being presented for the first time this year at Southwick. Previously, they had been done at Fleming, but attendance became too crowded for thorough enjoyment, thus the change of setting.

The event, which is open to the public, is free of charge.

This is the end of Volume 67. Next week Volume 68 begins.

Annual Sugar Party Slated For March 25

Jump into your old clothes and come on out to the University's traditional Dean Hills' sugar party! It's going to be held at the Proctor Maple Research Farm in Underhill, half way up Mount Mansfield, on Saturday afternoon, March 25 from 2 to 5:30.

Sponsored by the Aggie Club in conjunction with the Home Ec Club, the purpose of the party is to raise money for the Dean Hills' Loan Fund. This fund was established in 1937 in honor of 50 years of service to the University by Dr. Joseph L. Hills who retired several years ago as Dean of the College of Agriculture.

Besides refreshments such as doughnuts, pickles, and coffee, there will be that delicious eatable known as sugar on snow, made from real snow and real maple sugar.

Bob Fitzsimmons, a graduate of UVM and at present an instructor in the dairy department, will be master-of-ceremonies. Acting President Lyman will be the afternoon's one speaker, and Dean Miller of the Agricultural College will present the Thomas trophy, awarded to a senior agricultural student for outstanding character and ability. The trophy is not given but is awarded as a reward for scholastic ability to commemorate John Thomas, a UVM student killed in an accident before the war.

Tickets will go on sale Monday and may be purchased from any member of the Aggie Club or Home Economics Club. They will be on sale in Waterman beginning March 21. The price is 75¢ and tickets may be purchased by advance sale only. All reservations should be in by Thursday, March 23.

JUST ARRIVED

HAYES&CARNEY

Next to Western Union

Those who don't have rides will meet in back of Morrill Hall between 1 and 1:30 p.m. where transportation will be provided. Mimeographed maps will be given to all those who are driving.

The party is one of the bigger social events of the year, and all those who go are promised a very good time.

Chairmen for this event are Dick Aplin and Thelma Rowe.

Committee chairmen are: Publicity, Horace Strong and Marilyn Ormsbee; Tickets, John Stephenson and Gertrude Bohannan; Program, Abe Pulling and Marjorie Leach; Work Detail, Henry Lyons; Snow, John Adams; Refreshments and Supplies, Janet Putnam; Transportation, Donald Plumb.

Bob Fitzsimmons will be Master of Ceremonies.

Tickets will be sold by Aggie and Home Ec students beginning Monday, March 13.

All reservations must be made by Thursday, March 23.

CORNELIA OTIS SKINNER HAILED 'THEATRE'S GREATEST ATTRACTION'

Cornelia Otis Skinner will present a program of monologues March 27 at 8:30 in the UVM chapel. Miss Skinner's ability to present solo dramatizations has won her the title of "the greatest single attraction in the American theatre".

Miss Skinner first won international fame with her characterizations, "The Wives of Henry VIII," "The Loves of Charles II" and "The Empress Eugenie". Not satisfied with solo characterizations, she wrote several plays which she successfully presented solo. They were, "Mansion on the Hudson" and "Edna, His Wife". The latter, a dramatization by Miss Skinner of Margaret Ayer Barnes' novel, had a season's run on Broadway and a West Coast tour. Since the close of its tour, Miss Skinner has divided her stage career between the one-woman theatre and the conventional theatre. She appeared on Broadway in "Theatre" "The Searching Wind", and a successful revival of "Lady Windermere's Fan".

Miss Skinner's popularity as an author is equal to that as an actress. Her clever and humorous style is known to the public because of "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay", "Soap Behind the Ears", and "Excuse It, Please", among others. The latter was written in collaboration with Emily Kimbrough.

Miss Skinner is an active officer of Actors Equity, and served as head of the women's division of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis for two years. As second vice-president of Actors Equity Miss Skinner has taken a part in the fight of that organization against racial segregation in theaters.

Some of Miss Skinner's opponents in Equity who have accused her of Communist sympathies only amuse Miss Skinner, who describes her left-wing background by saying: "I am listed in the Social Register. My husband is a member of a Conservative Men's Club and I have always voted the Republican ticket."
